"(A) which is provided, directly or indirectly, for services rendered by the person accepting such payment, gift, benefit, reward, favor, or gratuity; and

"(B) which is valued in excess of $250 at the prevailing market price.

"(2)(A) The term 'contractor' means a person—

"(i) that contracts to supply the Department of Defense with goods or services;

"(ii) that controls or is controlled by a person described in clause (i); or

"(iii) that is under common control with a person described in clause (i).

"(B) Such term does not include—

"(i) an affiliate or subsidiary of a person described in subparagraph (A) that is clearly not engaged in the performance of a Department of Defense contract; or

"(ii) a State or local government.

"(3) The term 'procurement function' includes, with respect to a contract, any function relating to—

"(A) the negotiation, award, administration, or approval of the contract;

"(B) the selection of a contractor;

"(C) the approval of changes in the contract;

"(D) quality assurance, operational and developmental testing, the approval of payment, or auditing under the contract; or

"(E) the management of the procurement program.

"(4) The term 'armed forces' does not include the Coast Guard.

"(5) The term 'major defense system' has the meaning given the term 'major system' in section 2302(5) of this title.

"(g) For the purposes of this section, a person who is a retired member or a former member of the armed forces shall be considered to have been separated from service in the Department of Defense upon the date of the person's discharge or release from active duty.

"§ 2397c. Defense contractors: requirements concerning former Department of Defense officials

"(a)(1) Each contract for the procurement of goods or services in excess of $100,000 entered into by the Department of Defense shall include a provision under which the contractor agrees not to provide compensation to a person if the acceptance of such compensation by such person would violate section 2397b(a)(1) of this title.

"(2) Such a contract shall also provide that if the contractor knowingly violates a contract provision required by paragraph (1) the contractor shall pay to the United States, as liquidated damages under the contract, an amount equal to the greater of—

"(A) $100,000; or

"(B) three times the amount of the compensation paid by the contractor to the person in violation of such contract provision.

"(b)(1)(A) Any contractor that was awarded one or more contracts by the Department of Defense during the preceding fiscal year in an aggregate amount of at least $10,000,000 that is subject during a calendar year to a contract provision described in subsection (a) shall submit to the Secretary of Defense, not later than April 1 of the next year, a written report covering the preceding calendar year. Each such report shall list the name of each person (together with other information adequate for the Government to identify the person) who—

"(i) is a former officer or employee of the Department of Defense or a former or retired member of the armed forces; and

"(ii) during the preceding calendar year was provided compensation by that contractor, if such compensation was provided within two years after such officer, employee, or member left service in the Department of Defense.

"(B) In the case of each person named in a report submitted under subparagraph (A), the report shall—

"(i) identify the agency in which the person was employed or served on active duty during the last two years of the person's service with the Department of Defense;

"(ii) state the person's job title and identify each major defense system, if any, on which the person performed any work with the Department of Defense during the last two years of the person's service with the Department;

"(iii) contain a complete description of any work that the person is performing on behalf of the contractor; and

"(iv) identify each major defense system on which the person has performed any work on behalf of the contractor.

"(2) A person who knowingly fails to file a report required by paragraph (1) shall be subject to an administrative penalty, not to exceed $10,000, imposed by the Secretary of Defense after an opportunity for an agency hearing on the record pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense. The determinations of the Secretary shall be included in such record. The determinations of the Secretary shall be subject to judicial review under chapter 7 of title 5.

"(3) The Secretary of Defense shall review each report under paragraph (1) for the purposes of (A) assessing the accuracy and completeness of the report, and (B) identifying possible violations of section 2397b(a)(1) of this title or of a contract provision required by subsection (a). The Secretary shall report any such possible violation to the Attorney General.

"(4) The Secretary shall make reports submitted under this subsection available to any Member of Congress upon request.

"(d) Subsection (g) of section 2397b of this title, and the definitions prescribed in subsection (f) of such section, apply to this section.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 141 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 2397a the following new items:

"2397b. Certain former Department of Defense procurement officials: limitations on employment by contractors.

"2397c. Defense contractors: requirements concerning former Department of Defense officials.".

(b) REPEAL.—Section 921 of the Defense Procurement Improvement Act of 1985 (title IX of Public Law 99-145; 10 U.S.C. 2397a note) is repealed.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATES.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2), this section and the amendments made by this section shall take effect 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2)(A) The amendments made by this section—

(i) do not preclude the continuation of employment that began before the effective date of this section or the acceptance of compensation for such employment; and

(ii) do not, except as provided in subparagraph (B), apply to a person whose service in the Department of Defense terminates before the effective date of this section.

(B) Subparagraph (A)(ii) does not preclude the application of the amendments made by this section to a person with respect to service in the Department of Defense by such person on or after the effective date of this section.

SEC. 932. PLAN FOR ENHANCEMENT OF PROFESSIONALISM OF ACQUISITION PERSONNEL.

(a) DEVELOPMENT OF PLAN.—The Secretary of Defense shall develop a plan for a personnel initiative designed to enhance the professionalism of, and career opportunities available to, acquisition personnel of the Department of Defense.

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR PLAN.—The plan required to be developed under subsection (a) shall—

(1) include standards for the examination, appointment, classification, training, and assignment of acquisition personnel; and

(2) assess the feasibility and desirability of—

(A) the designation of certain acquisition positions of the Department of Defense as professional positions; and

(B) the establishment of an alternative personnel system that would—

(i) include acquisition positions that are designated as professional positions; and

(ii) include quality of performance as a factor in promotions for persons in such positions.

(c) REPORT.—(1) The Secretary shall submit to Congress a report—

(A) describing the plan developed under subsection (a); and

(B) recommending any changes in existing law that would facilitate the enhancement of the professionalism of, and career opportunities available to, acquisition personnel of the Department of Defense.

(2) The report required by subparagraph (A) shall be submitted not later than April 15, 1987.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The report required by subsection (c) shall be submitted not later than the end of the one-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 933. EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS FOR ACQUISITION PERSONNEL.

Section 1622(b)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking out "attended" and inserting in lieu thereof "completed".

SEC. 934. PLAN FOR COORDINATION OF DEFENSE ACQUISITION EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS.

(a) COORDINATION PLAN.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report containing a plan for the coordination of educational programs managed by the Department of Defense for acquisition personnel of the Department.

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR PLAN.—The plan required by subsection (a) shall provide for—

(1) the education of acquisition personnel of the Department of Defense through programs offered by the Department or through educational courses offered by organizations other than the Department;

(2) the education of acquisition personnel of the Department in various acquisition specialties, including contracting, logistics, quality, program management, systems engineering, production, and manufacturing; and

(3) the elimination of duplication of functions and courses by schools of the Department that provide educational courses for acquisition personnel of the Department.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted not later than the end of the one-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

PART D—REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO DEFENSE CONTRACTORS

SEC. 941. CODIFICATION AND EXTENSION OF PROHIBITION ON PERSONS CONVICTED OF DEFENSE-CONTRACT RELATED FELONIES AND RELATED CRIMINAL PENALTY ON DEFENSE CONTRACTORS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) Chapter 141 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"§ 2408. Prohibition on persons convicted of defense-contract related felonies and related criminal penalty on defense contractors

"(a) PROHIBITION.—A person who is convicted of fraud or any other felony arising out of a contract with the Department of Defense shall be prohibited from working in a management or supervisory capacity on any defense contract, or serving on the board of directors of any defense contractor, for a period, as determined by the Secretary of Defense, of not less than one year from the date of the conviction.

"(b) CRIMINAL PENALTY.—A defense contractor shall be subject to a criminal penalty of not more than $500,000 if such contractor is convicted of knowingly—

"(1) employing a person under a prohibition under subsection (a); or

"(2) allowing such a person to serve on the board of directors of such contractor.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"2408. Prohibition on persons convicted of defense-contract related felonies and related criminal penalty on defense contractors.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 932 of the Defense Procurement Improvement Act of 1985 (title IX of Public Law 99-145; 99 Stat. 699) is repealed.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 2408 of title 10, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)(1)), shall apply with respect to employment or service on a board of directors after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 942. PROTECTION OF CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEES FROM REPRISAL FOR DISCLOSURE OF CERTAIN INFORMATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) Chapter 141 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding after section 2408 (as added by section 941) the following new section:

"§ 2409. Contractor employees: protection from reprisal for disclosure of certain information

"(a) PROHIBITION OF REPRISALS.—An employee of a defense contractor may not be discharged, demoted, or otherwise discriminated against as a reprisal for disclosing to a Member of Congress or an authorized official of the Department of Defense or the Department of Justice information relating to a substantial violation of law related to a defense contract (including the competition for or negotiation of a defense contract).

"(b) INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS.—A person who believes that the person has been subjected to a reprisal prohibited by subsection (a) may submit a complaint to the Inspector General of the Department of Defense. Unless the Inspector General determines that the complaint is frivolous, the Inspector General shall investigate the complaint and, upon completion of such investigation, submit a report of the findings of the investigation to the person, the contractor concerned, and the Secretary of Defense.

"(c) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section may be construed to authorize the discharge of, demotion of, or discrimination against an employee for a disclosure other than a disclosure protected by subsection (a) or to modify or derogate from a right or remedy otherwise available to the employee.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding after the item relating to section 2408 (as added by section 941) the following new item:

"2409. Contractor employees: protection from reprisal for disclosure of certain information.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 2409 of title 10, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)(1)), shall apply with respect to any reprisal action taken on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 943. REVISION OF WORK MEASUREMENT PROVISIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) Section 2406 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§ 2406. Availability of cost and pricing records

"(a) REQUIREMENT.—(1) The head of an agency shall require a contractor under a covered contract with that agency to make available in a timely manner to any authorized representative of the head of the agency records of the contractor's cost and pricing data described in subsection (b) with respect to work under the covered contract.

"(2) The head of the agency (or the representative of the head of the agency) shall be entitled to have access to records in the form and manner maintained by the contractor.

"(b) COVERED RECORDS.—Records covered by subsection (a) include (for a covered contract and end items under such a contract) the following:

"(1) Work measurement system data (and any revision to such data), including records of labor content expressed in standard hours of work content for—

(A) the contractor's proposal for the contract; and

(B) the contract as negotiated.

"(2) The costs described in subsection (c)—

"(A) as proposed by the contractor;

"(B) as negotiated by the contractor with the head of the agency; and

"(C) as incurred by the contractor.

"(3) Bills of material.

"(c) COVERED COSTS.—Costs referred to in subsection (b)(2) are—

"(1) labor costs;

"(2) material costs;

"(3) subcontract costs;

"(4) overhead costs;

"(5) general and administrative costs; and

"(6) fee or profit.

"(d) NATURE OF RECORDS TO BE MAINTAINED.—Nothing in this section shall require a contractor under a covered contract to—

"(1) collect or maintain additional data not otherwise collected or maintained by the contractor, or

"(2) maintain data in a form or manner different from that in which the contractor maintains such data.

"(e) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary of Defense shall prescribe regulations to carry out this section. Such regulations shall specify the period for which records shall be covered by this section, which shall not be less than three years after final payment under the contract to which the records pertain.

"(f) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) The term 'head of an agency' means the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department.

"(2) The term 'covered contract' means a manufacturing contract—

"(A) that is awarded under a major defense acquisition program (as such term is defined in 2432(a) of this title); and

"(B) that is subject to the provisions of section 2306a of this title.

"(3) The term 'work measurement system data' means—

"(A) data generated from time standard setting, time monitoring, and variance analysis; and

"(B) such data described in subparagraph (A) as included in planning, cost estimating, and productivity improvement.

"(4) The term 'authorized representative' means a representative of the head of an agency who is an employee of the United States or a member of the armed forces.".

(2) The item relating to such section in the table of sections at the beginning of chapter 141 of such title is amended to read as follows:

"2406. Availability of cost and pricing records.".

(b) APPLICABILITY OF SECTION.—Section 2406 of title 10, United States Code, as amended by subsection (a), shall apply with respect to—

(1) contracts entered into on or after the date of the enactment of this Act; and

(2) contracts entered into before such date that are not completed before such date.

PART E—MISCELLANEOUS

SEC. 951. CONTRACTING WITH FIRMS OWNED OR CONTROLLED BY GOVERNMENTS THAT SUPPORT TERRORISM.

(a) CONSIDERATION OF NATIONAL INTERESTS WITH RESPECT TO DEFENSE CONTRACTS.—(1) Chapter 137 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding after the item relating to section 2326 (as added by section 908) the following new section:

"§ 2327. Contracts: consideration of national security objectives

"(a) DISCLOSURE OF OWNERSHIP OR CONTROL BY A FOREIGN GOVERNMENT.—The head of an agency shall require a firm or a subsidiary of a firm that submits a bid or proposal in response to a solicitation issued by the Department of Defense to disclose in that bid or proposal any significant interest in such firm or subsidiary (or, in the case of a subsidiary, in the firm that owns the subsidiary) that is owned or controlled (whether directly or indirectly) by a foreign government or an agent or instrumentality of a foreign government, if such foreign government is the government of a country that the Secretary of State determines under section 6(j)(1)(A) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 U.S.C. 2405(j)(1)(A)) has repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism.

"(b) PROHIBITION ON ENTERING INTO CONTRACTS AGAINST THE INTERESTS OF THE UNITED STATES.—Except as provided in subsection (c), the head of an agency may not enter into a contract with a firm or a subsidiary of a firm if—

"(1) a foreign government owns or controls (whether directly or indirectly) a significant interest in such firm or subsidiary (or, in the case of a subsidiary, in the firm that owns the subsidiary); and

"(2) such foreign government is the government of a country that the Secretary of State determines under section 6(j)(1)(A) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 U.S.C. 2405(j)(1)(A)) has repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism.

"(c) WAIVER.—(1)(A) If the Secretary of Defense determines under paragraph (2) that entering into a contract with a firm or a subsidiary of a firm described in subsection (b) is not inconsistent with the national security objectives of the United States, the head of an agency may enter into a contract with such firm or subsidiary after the date on which such head of an agency submits to Congress a report on the contract.

"(B) A report under subparagraph (A) shall include the following:

"(i) The identity of the foreign government concerned.

"(ii) The nature of the contract.

"(iii) The extent of ownership or control of the firm or subsidiary concerned (or, if appropriate in the case of a subsidiary, of the firm that owns the subsidiary) by the foreign government concerned or the agency or instrumentality of such foreign government.

"(iv) The reasons for entering into the contract.

"(C) After the head of an agency submits a report to Congress under subparagraph (A) with respect to a firm or a subsidiary, such head of an agency is not required to submit a report before entering into any subsequent contract with such firm or subsidiary unless the information required to be included in such report under subparagraph (B) has materially changed since the submission of the previous report.

"(2) Upon the request of the head of an agency, the Secretary of Defense shall determine whether entering into a contract with a firm or subsidiary described in subsection (b) is inconsistent with the national security objectives of the United States. In making such a determination, the Secretary of Defense shall consider the following:

"(A) The relationship of the United States with the foreign government concerned.

"(B) The obligations of the United States under international agreements.

"(C) The extent of the ownership or control of the firm or subsidiary (or, if appropriate in the case of a subsidiary, of the firm that owns the subsidiary) by the foreign government or an agent or instrumentality of the foreign government.

"(D) Whether payments made, or information made available, to the firm or subsidiary under the contract could be used for purposes hostile to the interests of the United States.

"(d) APPLICABILITY.—This section does not apply to a contract for an amount less than $100,000.

"(2) This section does not apply to the Coast Guard or the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"(e) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary of Defense, after consultation with the Secretary of State, shall prescribe regulations to carry out this section. Such regulations shall include a definition of the term 'significant interest'.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding after the item relating to section 2326 (as added by section 908) the following new item:

"2327. Contracts: consideration of national security objectives.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 503 of the Military Retirement Reform Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-348; 100 Stat. 708) is repealed.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 2327 of title 10, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)(1)), shall apply to contracts entered into by the Secretary of Defense after the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 952. TRUTH-IN-NEGOTIATIONS ACT AMENDMENTS.

(a) STRENGTHENING OF PREVENTION OF UNEARNED AND EXCESSIVE CONTRACTOR PROFITS.—Chapter 137 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 2306 the following new section:

"§ 2306a. Cost or pricing data: truth in negotiations

"(a) REQUIRED COST OR PRICING DATA AND CERTIFICATION.—(1) The head of an agency shall require offerors, contractors, and subcontractors to make cost or pricing data available as follows:

"(A) An offeror for a prime contract under this chapter to be entered into using procedures other than sealed-bid procedures shall be required to submit cost or pricing data before the award of the contract if the price of the contract to the United States is expected to exceed $100,000.

"(B) The contractor for a contract under this chapter shall be required to submit cost or pricing data before the pricing of a change or modification to the contract if the price adjustment is expected to exceed $100,000 (or such lesser amount as may be prescribed by the head of the agency).

"(C) An offeror for a subcontract (at any tier) of a contract under this chapter shall be required to submit cost or pricing data before the award of the subcontract if—

"(i) the price of the subcontract is expected to exceed $100,000; and

"(ii) the prime contractor and each higher-tier subcontractor have been required to make available cost or pricing data under this section.

"(D) The subcontractor for a subcontract covered by subparagraph (C) shall be required to submit cost or pricing data before the pricing of a change or modification to the subcontract if the price adjustment is expected to exceed $100,000 (or such lesser amount as may be prescribed by the head of the agency).

"(2) A person required, as an offeror, contractor, or subcontractor, to submit cost or pricing data under paragraph (1) (or required by the head of the agency concerned to submit such data under subsection (c)) shall be required to certify that, to the best of the person's knowledge and belief, the cost or pricing data submitted are accurate, complete, and current.

"(3) Cost or pricing data required to be submitted under paragraph (1) (or under subsection (c)), and a certification required to be submitted under paragraph (2), shall be submitted—

"(A) in the case of a submission by a prime contractor (or an offeror for a prime contract), to the contracting officer for the contract (or to a designated representative of the contracting officer); or

"(B) in the case of a submission by a subcontractor (or an offeror for a subcontract), to the prime contractor.

"(4) Except as provided under subsection (b), this section applies to contracts entered into by the head of an agency on behalf of a foreign government.

"(5) The head of the agency may waive the requirement under this subsection for a contractor, subcontractor, or offeror to submit cost or pricing data. For purposes of paragraph (1)(C)(ii), a contractor or subcontractor granted such a waiver shall be considered as having been required to make available cost or pricing data under this section.

"(b) EXCEPTIONS.—This section need not be applied to a contract or subcontract—

"(1) for which the price agreed upon is based on—

"(A) adequate price competition;

"(B) established catalog or market prices of commercial items sold in substantial quantities to the general public; or

"(C) prices set by law or regulation; or

"(2) in an exceptional case when the head of the agency determines that the requirements of this section may be waived and states in writing his reasons for such determination.

"(c) AUTHORITY TO REQUIRE COST OR PRICING DATA.—When cost or pricing data are not required to be submitted by subsection (a), such data may nevertheless be required to be submitted by the head of the agency if the head of the agency determines that such data are necessary for the evaluation by the agency of the reasonableness of the price of the contract or subcontract.

"(d) PRICE REDUCTIONS FOR DEFECTIVE COST OR PRICING DATA.—(1)(A) A prime contract (or change or modification to a prime contract) under which a certificate under subsection (a)(2) is required shall contain a provision that the price of the contract to the United States, including profit or fee, shall be adjusted to exclude any significant amount by which it may be determined by the head of the agency that such price was increased because the contractor (or any subcontractor required to make available such a certificate) submitted defective cost or pricing data.

"(B) For the purposes of this section, defective cost or pricing data are cost or pricing data which, as of the date of agreement on the price of the contract (or another date agreed upon between the parties), were inaccurate, incomplete, or noncurrent. If for purposes of the preceding sentence the parties agree upon a date other than the date of agreement on the price of the contract, the date agreed upon by the parties shall be as close to the date of agreement on the price of the contract as is practicable.

"(2) In determining for purposes of a contract price adjustment under a contract provision required by paragraph (1) whether, and to what extent, a contract price was increased because the contractor (or a subcontractor) submitted defective cost or pricing data, it shall be a defense that the United States did not rely on the defective data submitted by the contractor or subcontractor.

"(3) It is not a defense to an adjustment of the price of a contract under a contract provision required by paragraph (1) that—

"(A) the price of the contract would not have been modified even if accurate, complete, and current cost or pricing data had been submitted by the contractor or subcontractor because the contractor or subcontractor—

"(i) was the sole source of the property or services procured; or

"(ii) otherwise was in a superior bargaining position with respect to the property or services procured;

"(B) the contracting officer should have known that the cost and pricing data in issue were defective even though the contractor or subcontractor took no affirmative action to bring the character of the data to the attention of the contracting officer;

"(C) the contract was based on an agreement between the contractor and the United States about the total cost of the contract and there was no agreement about the cost of each item procured under such contract; or

"(D) the prime contractor or subcontractor did not submit a certification of cost and pricing data relating to the contract as required under subsection (a)(2).

"(4)(A) A contractor shall be allowed to offset an amount against the amount of a contract price adjustment under a contract provision required by paragraph (1) if—

"(i) the contractor certifies to the contracting officer (or to a designated representative of the contracting officer) that, to the best of the contractor's knowledge and belief, the contractor is entitled to the offset; and

"(ii) the contractor proves that the cost or pricing data were available before the date of agreement on the price of the contract (or price of the modification) and that the data were not submitted as specified in subsection (a)(3) before such date.

"(B) A contractor shall not be allowed to offset an amount otherwise authorized to be offset under subparagraph (A) if—

(i) the certification under subsection (a)(2) with respect to the cost or pricing data involved was known to be false when signed; or

(ii) the United States proves that, had the cost or pricing data referred to in subparagraph (A)(ii) been submitted to the United States before the date of agreement on the price of the contract (or price of the modification), the submission of such cost or pricing data would not have resulted in an increase in that price in the amount to be offset.

"(e) INTEREST AND PENALTIES FOR CERTAIN OVERPAYMENTS.—(1) If the United States makes an overpayment to a contractor under a contract with the Department of Defense subject to this section and the overpayment was due to the submission by the contractor of defective cost or pricing data, the contractor shall be liable to the United States—

"(A) for interest on the amount of such overpayment, to be computed—

"(i) for the period beginning on the date the overpayment was made to the contractor and ending on the date the contractor repays the amount of such overpayment to the United States; and

"(ii) at the current rate prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury under section 6621 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954; and

"(B) if the submission of such defective data was a knowing submission, for an additional amount equal to the amount of the overpayment.

"(2) Except as provided under subsection (d), the liability of a contractor under this subsection shall not be affected by the contractor's refusal to submit a certification under subsection (a)(2) with respect to the cost or pricing data involved.

"(f) RIGHT OF UNITED STATES TO EXAMINE CONTRACTOR RECORDS.—(1) For the purpose of evaluating the accuracy, completeness, and currency of cost or pricing data required to be submitted by this section with respect to a contract or subcontract, the head of the agency, acting through any authorized representative of the head of the agency who is an employee of the United States or a member of the armed forces, shall have the right to examine all records of the contractor or subcontractor related to—

"(A) the proposal for the contract or subcontract;

"(B) the discussions conducted on the proposal;

"(C) pricing of the contract or subcontract; or

"(D) performance of the contract or subcontract.

"(2) The right of the head of an agency under paragraph (1) shall expire three years after final payment under the contract or subcontract.

"(3) In this subsection, the term 'records' includes books, documents, and other data.

"(g) COST OR PRICING DATA DEFINED.—In this section, the term 'cost or pricing data' means all information that is verifiable and that, as of the date of agreement on the price of a contract (or the price of a contract modification), a prudent buyer or seller would reasonably expect to affect price negotiations significantly. Such term does not include information that is judgmental, but does include the factual information from which a judgment was derived.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—(1) Subsection (f) of section 2306 of such title is amended to read as follows:

"(f) So-called 'truth-in-negotiations' provisions relating to cost or pricing data to be submitted by certain contractors and subcontractors are provided in section 2306a of this title.".

(2) Section 934(a) of the Defense Procurement Improvement Act of 1985 (title IX of Public Law 99-145; 99 Stat. 700) is repealed.

(c) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—(1) The heading of section 2306 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§ 2306. Kinds of contracts".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 137 of such title is amended by striking out the item relating to section 2306 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"2306. Kinds of contracts.
"2306a. Cost or pricing data: truth in negotiations.".

(d) EFFECTIVE DATES.—(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), section 2306a of title 10, United States Code (as added by subsection (a)), and the amendment and repeal made by subsection (b), shall apply with respect to contracts or modifications on contracts entered into after the end of the 120-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Subsection (e) of such section shall apply with respect to contracts or modifications on contracts entered into after November 7, 1985.

SEC. 953. RIGHTS IN TECHNICAL DATA.

(a) RIGHTS IN TECHNICAL DATA.—Subsection (a) of section 2320 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(a)(1) The Secretary of Defense shall prescribe regulations to define the legitimate interest of the United States and of a contractor or subcontractor in technical data pertaining to an item or process. Such regulations shall be included in regulations of the Department of Defense prescribed as part of the Federal Acquisition Regulation. Such regulations may not impair any right of the United States or of any contractor or subcontractor with respect to patents or copyrights or any other right in technical data otherwise established by law.

"(2) Such regulations shall include the following provisions:

"(A) In the case of an item or process that is developed by a contractor or subcontractor exclusively with Federal funds, the United States shall have the unlimited right to—

"(i) use technical data pertaining to the item or process; or

"(ii) release or disclose the technical data to persons outside the government or permit the use of the technical data by such persons.

"(B) Except as provided in subparagraphs (C) and (D), in the case of an item or process that is developed by a contractor or subcontractor exclusively at private expense, the contractor or subcontractor may restrict the right of the United States to release or disclose technical data pertaining to the item or process to persons outside the Government, or permit the use of the technical data by such persons.

"(C) Subparagraph (B) does not apply to technical data that—

"(i) constitutes a correction or change to data furnished by the United States;

"(ii) relates to form, fit, or function;

"(iii) is necessary for operation, maintenance, installation, or training (other than detailed manufacturing or process data); or

"(iv) is otherwise publicly available or has been released or disclosed by the contractor or subcontractor without restriction on further release or disclosure.

"(D) Notwithstanding subparagraph (B), the United States may release or disclose technical data to persons outside the Government, or permit the use of technical data by such persons, if—

"(i) such release, disclosure, or use—

"(I) is necessary for emergency repair and overhaul; or

"(II) is a release or disclosure of technical data (other than detailed manufacturing or process data) to, or use of such data by, a foreign government that is in the interest of the United States and is required for evaluational or informational purposes;

"(ii) such release, disclosure, or use is made subject to a prohibition that the person to whom the data is released or disclosed may not further release, disclose, or use such data; and

"(iii) the contractor or subcontractor asserting the restriction is notified of such release, disclosure, or use.

"(E) In the case of an item or process that is developed in part with Federal funds and in part at private expense, the respective rights of the United States and of the contractor or subcontractor in technical data pertaining to such item or process shall be agreed upon as early in the acquisition process as practicable (preferably during contract negotiations), based upon consideration of all of the following factors:

"(i) The statement of congressional policy and objectives in section 200 of title 35, the statement of purposes in section 2(b) of the Small Business Innovation Development Act of 1982 (15 U.S.C. 638 note), and the declaration of policy in section 2 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631).

"(ii) The interest of the United States in increasing competition and lowering costs by developing and locating alternative sources of supply and manufacture.

"(iii) The interest of the United States in encouraging contractors to develop at private expense items for use by the Government.

"(F) A contractor or subcontractor (or a prospective contractor or subcontractor) may not be required, as a condition of being responsive to a solicitation or as a condition for the award of a contract, to sell or otherwise relinquish to the United States any rights in technical data except—

"(i) rights in technical data described in subparagraph (C); or

"(ii) under the conditions described in subparagraph (D).

"(G) The Secretary of Defense may—

"(i) negotiate and enter into a contract with a contractor or subcontractor for the acquisition of rights in technical data pertaining to an item or process developed by such contractor or subcontractor exclusively at private expense if necessary to develop alternative sources of supply and manufacture; or

"(ii) agree to restrict rights of the United States in technical data pertaining to an item or process developed entirely or in part with Federal funds if the United States receives a royalty-free license to use, release, or disclose the data for purposes of the United States (including purposes of competitive procurement).

"(3) The Secretary of Defense shall define the terms 'developed' and 'private expense' in regulations prescribed under paragraph (1).

"(4) For purposes of this subsection, the term 'Federal Acquisition Regulation' means the single system of Government-wide procurement regulations as defined in section 4(4) of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act (41 U.S.C. 403(4)).".

(b) VALIDATION OF PROPRIETARY DATA RESTRICTIONS.—Subsections (a) and (b) of section 2321 of title 10, United States Code, are amended to read as follows:

"(a) A contract for supplies or services entered into by the Department of Defense which provides for the delivery of technical data shall provide that a contractor or subcontractor at any tier shall be prepared to furnish to the contracting officer a written justification for any restriction asserted by the contractor or subcontractor on the right of the United States to use such technical data.

"(b)(1) The Secretary of Defense shall ensure that there is a thorough review of the appropriateness of any restriction on the right of the United States to release or disclose technical data delivered under a contract to persons outside the Government, or to permit the use of such technical data by such persons. Such review shall be conducted before the end of the three-year period beginning on the date on which final payment is made on a contract under which technical data is required to be delivered, or the date on which the technical data is delivered under such contract, whichever is later.

"(2)(A) If the Secretary determines, at any time before the end of the three-year period beginning on the date on which final payment is made on a contract under which technical data is required to be delivered, or the date on which the technical data is delivered under such contract, whichever is later, that a challenge to a restriction is warranted, the Secretary shall provide written notice to the contractor or subcontractor asserting the restriction. Such a determination shall be based on a finding by the Secretary that reasonable grounds exist to question the current validity of the asserted restriction and that the continued adherence to the asserted restriction by the United States would make it impracticable to procure the item competitively at a later time. Such notice shall—

"(i) state the specific grounds for challenging the asserted restriction;

"(ii) require a response within 60 days justifying the current validity of the asserted restriction; and

"(iii) state that evidence of a validation by the Department of Defense of a restriction identical to the asserted restriction within the three-year period preceding the challenge shall serve as justification for the asserted restriction if—

"(I) the validation occurred after a review of the validated restriction under this subsection; and

"(II) the validated restriction was asserted by the same contractor or subcontractor (or any licensee of such contractor or subcontractor) to which such notice is being provided.

"(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), the United States may challenge a restriction on the release, disclosure, or use of technical data delivered under a contract at any time if such technical data—

"(i) is publicly available;

"(ii) has been furnished to the United States without restriction; or

"(iii) has been otherwise made available without restriction.".

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 1202 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1985 (10 U.S.C. 2301 note), is amended—

(1) by inserting "and" at the end of paragraph (4);

(2) by striking out "; and" at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting in lieu thereof a period; and

(3) by striking out paragraph (6).

(d) DEADLINE FOR REVISION OF REGULATIONS.—(1) Proposed regulations under section 2320(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code (as amended by subsection (a)), shall be published in the Federal Register for comment not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Proposed final regulations under such section shall be published in the Federal Register not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) shall apply to contracts for which solicitations are issued after the end of the 210-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 954. RECOVERY OF COSTS TO PROVIDE TECHNICAL DATA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) Chapter 137 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding after section 2327 (as added by section 951) the following new section:

"§ 2328. Release of technical data

"(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall, if required to release technical data under section 552 of title 5 (relating to the Freedom of Information Act), release technical data to a person requesting such a release if the person pays all reasonable costs attributable to search and duplication.

"(2) The Secretary of Defense shall prescribe regulations, pursuant to notice and receipt of public comment, specifying a uniform schedule of fees under this section.

"(b) DISPOSITION OF COSTS.—An amount received under this section—

"(1) shall be retained by the Department of Defense or the element of the Department of Defense receiving the amount; and

"(2) shall be merged with and available for the same purpose and the same time period as the appropriation from which the costs incurred in complying with requests for technical data were paid.

"(c) WAIVER.—The Secretary of Defense shall waive the payment of costs required by subsection (a) which are in an amount greater than the costs that would be required for such a release of information under section 552 of title 5 if—

"(1) the request is made by a citizen of the United States or a United States corporation, and such citizen or corporation certifies that the technical data requested is required to enable such citizen or corporation to submit an offer or determine whether it is capable of submitting an offer to provide the product to which the technical data relates to the United States or a contractor with the United States (except that the Secretary may require the citizen or corporation to pay a deposit in an amount equal to not more than the cost of complying with the request, to be refunded upon submission of an offer by the citizen or corporation);

"(2) the release of technical data is requested in order to comply with the terms of an international agreement; or

"(3) the Secretary determines, in accordance with section 552(a)(4)(A) of title 5, that such a waiver is in the interests of the United States.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding after the item relating to section 2327 (as added by section 971) the following new item:

"2328. Release of technical data.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect at the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 955. COMPARABLE BUDGETING FOR SIMILAR SYSTEMS.

(a) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED IN ANNUAL DEFENSE BUDGETS.—In preparing the defense budget for any fiscal year, the Secretary of Defense shall—

(1) specifically identify each common procurement weapon system included in the budget;

(2) take all feasible steps to minimize variations in procurement unit costs for any such system as shown in the budget requests of the different armed forces requesting procurement funds for the system; and

(3) identify and justify in the budget all such variations in procurement unit costs for common procurement weapon systems.

(b) ASSISTANT SECRETARY (COMPTROLLER).—The Secretary of Defense shall carry out this section through the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller).

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term "defense budget" means the budget of the Department of Defense included in the President's budget submitted to Congress under section 1105 of title 31 United States Code, for a fiscal year.

(2) The term "common procurement weapon system" means a weapon system for which two or more of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps request procurement funds in a defense budget.

SEC. 956. FUNDING OF PROCUREMENT TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS SERVING DISTRESSED AREAS.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—Section 2411 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§ 2411. Definitions

"In this chapter:

"(1) The term 'eligible entity' means any of the following:

"(A) A State.

"(B) A local government.

"(C) A private, nonprofit organization.

"(2) The term 'distressed area' means the area of a unit of local government (or such area excluding the area of any defined political jurisdiction within the area of such unit of local government) that—

"(A) has a per capita income of 80 percent or less of the State average; or

"(B) has an unemployment rate that is one percent greater than the national average for the most recent 24-month period for which statistics are available.

"(3) The term 'Secretary' means the Secretary of Defense acting through the Director of the Defense Logistics Agency.

"(4) The terms 'State' and 'local government' have the meaning given those terms in section 6302 of title 31.".

(b) SERVICE AREAS.—Section 2413(b) of such title is amended—

(1) by inserting "sponsor programs to" after "agree to";

(2) by inserting "under such programs" after "cost of furnishing such assistance";

(3) by striking out "an eligible entity that is a distressed entity" and inserting in lieu thereof "a program sponsored by such an entity that provides services solely in a distressed area"; and

(3) by inserting "with respect to such program" before the period.

SEC. 957. SUBCONTRACTOR INFORMATION TO BE PROVIDED TO PROCUREMENT OUTREACH CENTERS.

(a) CONTRACTORS TO FURNISH INFORMATION.—(1) Chapter 142 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by redesignating section 2416 as section 2417; and

(B) by inserting after section 2415 the following new section:

"§ 2416. Subcontractor information

"(a) The Secretary of Defense shall require that any defense contractor in any year shall provide to an eligible entity with which the Secretary has entered into a cooperative agreement under this chapter, on the request of such entity, the information specified in subsection (b).

"(b) Information to be provided under subsection (a) is a listing of the name of each appropriate employee of the contractor who has responsibilities with respect to entering into contracts on behalf of such contractor that constitute subcontracts of contracts being performed by such contractor, together with the business address and telephone number and area of responsibility of each such employee.

"(c) A defense contractor need not provide information under this section to a particular eligible entity more frequently than once a year.

"(d) In this section, the term 'defense contractor', for any year, means a person awarded a contract with the Department of Defense in that year for an amount in excess of $500,000.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by striking out the item relating to section 2416 and inserting in lieu thereof the following new items:

"2416. Subcontractor information.
"2417. Regulations.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 2416 of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), shall take effect on January 1, 1987.

PART F—MISCELLANEOUS REPORTS

SEC. 961. SELECTED ACQUISITION REPORTS.

(a) REVISION OF REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—Section 2432 of title 10, United States Code (as redesignated by section 101(a) of the Goldwater-Nichols Department of Defense Reorganization Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-433)), is amended—

(1) by adding at the end of subsection (a)(3) the following new sentence: "If for any fiscal year the funds appropriated, or the number of fully-configured end items to be purchased, differ from those programmed, the procurement unit cost shall be revised to reflect the appropriated amounts and quantities.";

(2) by striking out "$2,000,000" in subsection (a)(4) and inserting in lieu thereof "$40,000,000";

(3) by striking out "three-month" in subsection (b)(2)(B) and inserting in lieu thereof "six-month";

(4) by striking out paragraph (2) of subsection (c) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(2) Each Selected Acquisition Report for the first quarter of a fiscal year shall be designed to provide to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives the information such Committees need to perform their oversight functions. A change in the content of the Selected Acquisition Report for the first quarter of a fiscal year from the content as reported for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year may not be made until appropriate officials of the Department of Defense consult with such Committees regarding the proposed changes.";

(5) by inserting "that is produced at a rate of six units or more per year" in subsection (c)(3)(C) after "report" in the matter preceding clause (i); and

(6) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(h)(1) Total program reporting under this section shall apply to a major defense acquisition program when funds have been appropriated for such and the Secretary of Defense has decided to proceed to full-scale engineering development of such program. Reporting may be limited to the development program as provided in paragraph (2) before a decision is made by the Secretary of Defense to proceed to full-scale engineering development if the Secretary notifies the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives of the intention to submit a limited report under this subsection not less than 15 days before a report is due under this section.

"(2) A limited report under this subsection shall include the following:

"(A) The same information, in detail and summarized form, as is provided in reports submitted under subsections (c)(1) and (c)(3) of section 2431 of this title.

"(B) Reasons for any change in the development cost and schedule.

"(C) The major contracts under the development program and the reasons for any cost or schedule variances under those contracts since the last Selected Acquisition Report.

"(D) The completion status of the development program expressed—

"(i) as the percentage that the number of years for which funds have been appropriated for the development program is of the number of years for which it is planned that funds will be appropriated for the program; and

"(ii) as the percentage that the amount of funds that have been appropriated for the development program is of the total amount of funds which it is planned will be appropriated for the program.

"(E) Program highlights since the last Selected Acquisition Report.

"(F) Other information as the Secretary of Defense considers appropriate.

"(3) The submission requirements for a limited report under this subsection shall be the same as for quarterly Selected Acquisition Reports for total program reporting.".

(b) UNIT COST REPORTS.—Section 2433 of title 10, United States Code (as redesignated by section 101(a) of the Goldwater-Nichols Department of Defense Reorganization Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-433)), is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by inserting "(excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays)" after "days" both places such term appears in the second sentence; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(h) Reporting under this section shall not apply if a program has received a limited reporting waiver under section 2432(h) of this title.".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) shall take effect on January 1, 1987.

SEC. 962. REPORT ON EFFORTS TO INCREASE DEFENSE CONTRACT AWARDS TO INDIAN-OWNED BUSINESSES.

(a) REPORT.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the efforts by the Department of Defense during fiscal years 1986 and 1987 to increase awards of defense contracts to Indian-owned businesses in accordance with the memorandum of understanding between the Department of Defense and the Small Business Administration of September 29, 1983. Such report shall include, to the maximum extent practicable, any data regarding the number and value of prime contracts awarded by the Department of Defense during such fiscal years to such businesses.

(b) DEADLINE.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted no later than March 31, 1988.

(c) INDIAN-OWNED BUSINESS DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term "Indian-owned business" means a firm owned and controlled by American Indians, including a tribally owned for-profit entity.

SEC. 963. REPORT ON INCREASED GEOGRAPHIC DISTRIBUTION OF DEFENSE CONTRACTORS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the actions taken by the Department of Defense during fiscal years 1985 and 1986 to increase contract competition and the national defense industrial base by increasing the participation in defense contracts of contractors in all geographic areas of the United States.

(2) Such report shall be submitted not later than March 31, 1987.

(b) CONTENTS OF REPORTS.—The report required by subsection (a)(1)—

(1) shall include a description of the use of procurement technical assistance centers, procurement conferences sponsored or supported by the Department of Defense, and any other Department of Defense programs conducted for the purpose of expanding the base of defense contractors; and

(2) shall categorize, by State and other appropriate geographic region, the actions described in the report.

TITLE XI

ARMS CONTROL

SEC. 1101. (a) LIMITATION ON TESTING OF ANTI-SATELLITE WEAPONS.—The Secretary of Defense may not carry out a test of the Space Defense System (anti-satellite weapon) against an object in space until the President certifies to Congress that the Soviet Union has conducted, after the date of the enactment of this Act, a test against an object in space of a dedicated anti-satellite weapon.

(b) EXPIRATION OF MORATORIUM.—The prohibition in subsection (a) expires on October 1, 1987.

SEC. 1102. (a) REPORT BY THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE ON ICBM MODERNIZATION.—At the same time the Secretary of Defense submits to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives the report on the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) modernization program required by section 1231(c) of the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1984 (Public Law 98-94; Stat. 614), the Secretary shall submit to such Committees a statement containing the basis of the Secretary's recommendation to the President, and any decisions of the President, regarding the following matters:

(1) The configuration of a small intercontinental ballistic missile in terms of weight, number of warheads, and production schedule.

(2) The selected options for more survivable follow-on basing modes and basing locations for MX (Peacekeeper) missiles.

(3) The advisability of going forward with one or more selected basing modes to a full scale engineering development decision.

(b) LIMITATION ON DEPLOYMENT OF PEACEKEEPER (MX) MISSILE; DEVELOPMENT OF SMALL ICBM.—The limitations contained in sections 206 and 1231 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1984 (Public Law 98-94; 97 Stat. 614), on the deployment of the MX missile and the development of a small intercontinental ballistic missile shall cease to apply when full-scale engineering development of a small mobile intercontinental ballistic missile begins.

(c) LIMITATIONS ON FUNDING.—Of the amounts appropriated herein for fiscal year 1987 for the ICBM Modernization Program—

(1) $120,000,000 shall be available for research and development on follow-on basing options;

(2) $290,000,000 shall be available for research and development of the Peacekeeper (MX) missile; and

(3) $1,200,000,000 shall be available for research and development of a small mobile intercontinental ballistic missile and basing for such missile.

SEC. 1103. Of the amount appropriated by this Act for research, development, test, and evaluation for the Defense Agencies, not more than $3,213,000,000 is available for the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) program.

SEC. 1104. Of the amounts appropriated in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act for fiscal year 1987 for national security programs for the Department of Energy, $317,000,000 is available for programs, projects, and activities of the Department of Energy relating to the Strategic Defense Initiative.

SEC. 1105. (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS RELATING TO CONTINUED ADHERENCE TO SALT II NUMERICAL SUBLIMITS.—It is the sense of the Congress that it is in the national security interests of the United States to continue voluntary compliance with the central numerical sublimits of the SALT II Treaty as long as the Soviet Union complies with such sublimits.

(b) DEFINITION.—For purposes of this section, the central numerical sublimits of the SALT II Treaty include prohibitions on the deployment of the following:

(1) Launchers for more than 820 intercontinental ballistic missiles carrying multiple independently-targetable reentry vehicles.

(2) Launchers for an aggregate of more than 1,200 intercontinental ballistic missiles carrying multiple independently-targetable reentry vehicles and submarine-launched ballistic missiles carrying multiple independently-targetable reentry vehicles.

(3) An aggregate of more than 1,320 launchers described in paragraph (2) and heavy bombers equipped for air-launched cruise missiles capable of a range in excess of 600 kilometers.

SEC. 1106. (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS ON NUCLEAR TESTING.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States is committed in the Limited Test Ban Treaty of 1963 and in the Non-Proliferation Treaty of 1968 to seek to achieve the discontinuance of all test explosions of nuclear weapons for all time.

(2) A comprehensive test ban treaty would promote the security of the United States by constraining the United States-Soviet nuclear arms competition and by strengthening efforts to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

(3) The Threshold Test Ban Treaty was signed in 1974 and the Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaty was signed in 1976, and both have yet to be considered by the full Senate for its advice and consent to ratification.

(4) The entry into force of the Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaty and the Threshold Test Ban Treaty will ensure full implementation of significant new verification procedures and so make completion of a comprehensive test ban treaty more probable.

(5) A comprehensive test ban treaty must be adequately verifiable, and significant progress has been made in methods for detection of underground nuclear explosions by seismological and other means.

(6) At present, negotiations are not being pursued by the United States and the Soviet Union toward completion of a comprehensive test ban treaty.

(7) The past five administrations have supported the achievement of a comprehensive test ban treaty.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that, at the earliest possible date, the President should—

(1) request the advice and consent of the Senate to ratification (with a report containing any plans the President may have to negotiate supplemental verification procedures, or if the President believes it necessary, any understanding or reservation on the subject of verification which should be attached to the treaty) of the Threshold Test Ban and Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaties, signed in 1974 and 1976, respectively; and

(2) propose to the Soviet Union the immediate resumption of negotiations toward conclusion of a verifiable comprehensive test ban treaty.

In accordance with international law, the United States shall have no obligation to comply with any bilateral arms control agreement with the Soviet Union that the Soviet Union is violating.

SEC. 1107. (a) LIMITATION ON FISCAL YEAR 1987 FUNDS FOR THE BIGEYE BINARY CHEMICAL BOMB.—Before October 1, 1987, funds appropriated for fiscal year 1987 for procurement of the BIGEYE binary chemical bomb may not be obligated—

(1) for procurement (including procurement of components) of such bomb; or

(2) for assembly of such bomb.

(b) LIMITATION ON FINAL ASSEMBLY.—Before October 1, 1988, funds appropriated or otherwise made available to the Department of Defense may not be obligated or expended for the final assembly of complete BIGEYE binary chemical bombs.

(c) LIMITATION ON FISCAL YEAR 1986 FUNDS FOR PRODUCTION FACILITIES.—(1) Of the funds appropriated for fiscal year 1986 for production facilities for the BIGEYE binary chemical bomb, not more than $90,000,000 may be obligated or expended. None of such amount may be obligated or expended until the President certifies to Congress that—

(1) production of the BIGEYE binary chemical bomb is in the national security interests of the United States; and

(2) the design, planning, and environmental requirements for such facilities have been satisfied.

(d) GAO MONITORING AND REPORT.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall provide for the involvement of the Comptroller General in monitoring the operational testing of the BIGEYE bomb.

(2) After any such testing is completed, the Comptroller General shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on such testing. The report shall include an assessment of such testing and any comments the Comptroller General considers appropriate.

(e) REPORT ON LONG-RANGE STANDOFF CHEMICAL MUNITIONS.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the military requirements for long-range stand-off chemical weapons. The report shall address the military advantages and disadvantages of such weapons and the potential of such weapons to complement the currently planned binary chemical weapon systems.

(2) Such report shall be submitted not later than March 15, 1987.

SEC. 1108. Of the amount appropriated by this Act for research, development, test, and evaluation for the Air Force, not more than $200,000,000 is available for the Space Defense System. None of such amount may be used for the production verification of the Miniature Homing Vehicle.

This Act may be cited as the "Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987".;

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 4:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 4, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert:

(d) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects, or activities provided for in the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided as follows, to be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act:

An Act making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and for other purposes

TITLE I

FISCAL YEAR 1987 APPROPRIATIONS

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

For payment to the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, $444,500,000: Provided, That none of these funds shall be made available to the District of Columbia until the number of full-time uniformed officers in permanent positions in the Metropolitan Police Department is at least 3,880, excluding any such officer appointed after August 19, 1982, under qualification standards other than those in effect on such date.

FEDERAL PAYMENT FOR WATER AND SEWER SERVICES

For payment to the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, in lieu of reimbursement for charges for water and water services and sanitary sewer services furnished to facilities of the United States Government, $28,810,000, as authorized by the Act of May 18, 1954, as amended (D.C. Code, secs. 43-1552 and 43-1612).

FEDERAL CONTRIBUTION TO RETIREMENT FUNDS

For the Federal contribution to the Police Officers and Fire Fighters', Teachers', and Judges' Retirement Funds as authorized by the District of Columbia Retirement Reform Act, approved November 17, 1979 (93 Stat. 866; Public Law 96-122), $52,070,000.

TRANSITIONAL PAYMENT FOR SAINT ELIZABETHS HOSPITAL

For a Federal contribution to the District of Columbia, as authorized by the Saint Elizabeths Hospital and District of Columbia Mental Health Services Act, approved November 8, 1984 (98 Stat. 3369; Public Law 98-621), $35,000,000.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INITIATIVE

For the design and construction of a prison within the District of Columbia, $20,000,000, to become available October 1, 1987 together with funds previously appropriated under this head for the fiscal years ending September 30, 1986 and September 30, 1987: Provided, That the District of Columbia shall award a design and construction contract on or before October 15, 1986: Provided further, That the District of Columbia is directed to proceed with the design and construction of a prison facility within the District of Columbia without respect to the availability of Federal funds: Provided further, That a plan that includes the construction of not less than a 700 bed, medium security facility on the South part of Square E-1112 as recorded in Subdivision Book 140, Page 199 in the Office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia is hereby approved: Provided further, That this approval shall satisfy the provisions as set forth in the first proviso under the heading "Criminal Justice Initiative" in H.R. 3067 as enacted by reference in section 101(c) of Public Law 99-190, approved December 19, 1985: Provided further, That the $50,000,000 herein and heretofore made available for the prison project shall remain in the United States Treasury and shall be transferred to the District of Columbia government only to the extent that outstanding obligations are due and payable to entities other than agencies and organizations of the District of Columbia government, and payments to such agencies and organizations may be made only in reimbursement for amounts actually expended in furtherance of the design and construction of the prison.

DIVISION OF EXPENSES

The following amounts are appropriated for the District of Columbia for the current fiscal year out of the general fund of the District of Columbia, except as otherwise specifically provided.

GOVERNMENTAL DIRECTION AND SUPPORT

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 102. Except as otherwise provided in this Act, all vouchers covering expenditures of appropriations contained in this Act shall be audited before payment by the designated certifying official and the vouchers as approved shall be paid by checks issued by the designated disbursing official.

SEC. 103. Whenever in this Act an amount is specified within an appropriation for particular purposes or objects of expenditure, such amount, unless otherwise specified, shall be considered as the maximum amount which may be expended for said purpose or object rather than an amount set apart exclusively therefor, except for those funds and programs for the Metropolitan Police Department under the heading "Public Safety and Justice" which shall be considered as the amounts set apart exclusively for and shall be expended solely by that Department; and the appropriation under the heading "Repayment of General Fund Deficit" which shall be considered as the amount set apart exclusively for and shall be expended solely for that purpose.

SEC. 104. Appropriations in this Act shall be available, when authorized by the Mayor, for allowances for privately owned automobiles and motorcyles used for the performance of official duties at rates established by the Mayor: Provided, That such rates shall not exceed the maximum prevailing rates for such vehicles as prescribed in the Federal Property Management Regulations 101-7 (Federal Travel Regulations).

SEC. 105. Appropriations in this Act shall be available for expenses of travel and for the payment of dues of organizations concerned with the work of the District of Columbia government, when authorized by the Mayor: Provided, That the Council of the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia Courts may expend such funds without authorization by the Mayor.

SEC. 106. There are appropriated from the applicable funds of the District of Columbia such sums as may be necessary for making refunds and for the payment of judgments that have been entered against the District of Columbia government: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall be construed as modifying or affecting the provisions of section 11(c)(3) of title XII of the District of Columbia Income and Franchise Tax Act of 1947, approved March 31, 1956 (70 Stat. 78; Public Law 84-460; D.C. Code, sec. 47-1812.11(c)(3)).

SEC. 107. Appropriations in this Act shall be available for the payment of public assistance without reference to the requirement of section 544 of the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act of 1982, effective April 6, 1982 (D.C. Law 4-101; D.C. Code, sec. 3-205.44), and for the non-Federal share of funds necessary to qualify for Federal assistance under the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act of 1968, approved July 31, 1968 (82 Stat. 462; Public Law 90-445; 42 U.S.C. 3801 et seq.).

SEC. 108. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 109. Not to exceed 4½ per centum of the total of all funds appropriated by this Act for personal compensation may be used to pay the cost of overtime or temporary positions.

SEC. 110. Appropriations in this Act shall not be available, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, for the compensation of any person appointed to a permanent position in the District of Columbia government during any month in which the number of employees exceeds 33,549, the number of positions authorized by this Act.

SEC. 111. No funds appropriated in this Act for the District of Columbia government for the operation of educational institutions, the compensation of personnel, or for other educational purposes may be used to permit, encourage, facilitate, or further partisan political activities. Nothing herein is intended to prohibit the availability of school buildings for the use of any community or partisan political group during non-school hours.

SEC. 112. The annual budget for the District of Columbia government for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1988, shall be transmitted to the Congress by no later than April 15, 1987.

SEC. 113. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be made available to pay the salary of any employee of the District of Columbia government whose name, title, grade, salary, past work experience, and salary history are not available for inspection by the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations, the House Committee on the District of Columbia, the Subcommittee on Governmental Efficiency and the District of Columbia of the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs, and the Council of the District of Columbia, or their duly authorized representative.

SEC. 114. There are appropriated from the applicable funds of the District of Columbia such sums as may be necessary for making payments authorized by the District of Columbia Revenue Recovery Act of 1977, effective September 23, 1977 (D.C. Law 2-20; D.C. Code, sec. 47-421 et seq.).

SEC. 115. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be made available to pay the salary of any employee of the District of Columbia government whose name and salary are not available for public inspection.

SEC. 116. No part of this appropriation shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes or implementation of any policy including boycott designed to support or defeat legislation pending before Congress or any State legislature.

SEC. 117. None of the Federal funds provided in this Act shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term; or except for such medical procedures necessary for the victims of rape or incest, when such rape or incest has been reported promptly to a law enforcement agency or public health service. Nor are payments prohibited for drugs or devices to prevent implantation of the fertilized ovum, or for medical procedures necessary for the termination of an ectopic pregnancy.

SEC. 118. At the start of the fiscal year, the Mayor shall develop an annual plan, by quarter and by project, for capital outlay borrowings: Provided, That within a reasonable time after the close of each quarter, the Mayor shall report to the Council of the District of Columbia and the Congress the actual borrowing and spending progress compared with projections.

SEC. 119. The Mayor shall not borrow any funds for capital projects unless he has obtained prior approval from the Council of the District of Columbia by resolution, identifying the projects and amounts to be financed with such borrowings.

SEC. 120. The Mayor shall not expend any moneys borrowed for capital projects for the operating expenses of the District of Columbia government.

SEC. 121. None of the funds appropriated in this Act may be used for the implementation of a personnel lottery with respect to the hiring of fire fighters or police officers.

SEC. 122. None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be obligated or expended by reprogramming except pursuant to advance approval of the reprogramming granted according to the procedure set forth in the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference (House Report No. 96-443) which accompanied the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1980, approved October 30, 1979 (93 Stat. 713; Public Law 96-93), as modified in House Report No. 98-265, and in accordance with the Reprogramming Policy Act of 1980, effective September 16, 1980 (D.C. Law 3-100; D.C. Code, sec. 47-361 et seq.)

SEC. 123. None of the Federal funds provided in this Act shall be obligated or expended to provide a personal cook, chauffeur, or other personal servants to any officer or employee of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 124. None of the Federal funds provided in this Act shall be obligated or expended to procure passenger automobiles as defined in the Automobile Fuel Efficiency Act of 1980, approved October 10, 1980 (94 Stat. 1824; Public Law 96-425; 15 U.S.C. 2001(2)), with an Environmental Protection Agency estimated miles per gallon average of less than 22 miles per gallon: Provided, That this section shall not apply to security, emergency rescue, or armored vehicles.

SEC. 125. (a) Notwithstanding section 422(7) of the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act, approved December 24, 1973 (87 Stat. 790; Public Law 93-198; D.C. Code, sec. 1-242(7)), the City Administrator shall be paid, during any fiscal year, a salary at a rate established by the Mayor, not to exceed the rate established for level IV of the Executive Schedule under 5 U.S.C. 5315.

(b) For purposes of applying any provision of law limiting the availability of funds for payment of salary or pay in any fiscal year, the highest rate of pay established by the Mayor under subsection (a) for any position for any period during the last quarter of calendar year 1986 shall be deemed to be the rate of pay payable for that position for September 30, 1986.

(c) Notwithstanding section 4(a) of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Act of 1945, approved August 2, 1946 (60 Stat. 793; Public Law 79-592; D.C. Code, sec. 5-803(a)), the Board of Directors of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency shall be paid, during any fiscal year, a per diem compensation at a rate established by the Mayor.

SEC. 126. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the provisions of the District of Columbia Government Comprehensive Merit Personnel Act of 1978, effective March 3, 1979 (D.C. Law 2-139; D.C. Code, sec. 1-601.1 et seq.), enacted pursuant to section 422(3) of the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act, approved December 24, 1973 (87 Stat. 790; Public Law 93-198; D.C. Code, sec. 1-242(3)), shall apply with respect to the compensation of District of Columbia employees: Provided, That for pay purposes, employees of the District of Columbia government shall not be subject to the provisions of title 5 of the United States Code.

SEC. 127. None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be used to transport any output of the municipal waste system of the District of Columbia for disposal at any public or private landfill located in any State, excepting currently utilized landfills in Maryland and Virginia, until the appropriate State agency has issued the required permits.

SEC. 128. The Director of the Department of Administrative Services may pay rentals and repair, alter, and improve rented premises, without regard to the provisions of section 322 of the Economy Act of 1932 (Public Law 72-212; 40 U.S.C. 278a), upon a determination by the Director, that by reason of circumstances set forth in such determination, the payment of these rents and the execution of this work, without reference to the limitations of section 322, is advantageous to the District in terms of economy, efficiency and the District's best interest.

SEC. 129. (a) Section 131 of the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1986 (H.R. 3067 as enacted by reference in section 101(c) of Public Law 99-190), is amended—

(1) by inserting "or leased" after "owned" in subsection (a); and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end of subsection (b)(3) the following: ", and includes any tax imposed with respect to the use or rental of a motor vehicle and levied on, with respect to, or measured by the sales price or market value of the vehicle or the gross proceeds from the rental".

(b) The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to all taxable periods described in section 131(c) of such Act.

SEC. 130. No later than 30 days after the end of the first quarter of fiscal year 1987, the Mayor of the District of Columbia shall submit to the Council of the District of Columbia the new fiscal year 1987 revenue estimate as of the end of the first quarter of fiscal year 1987: Provided, That these estimates shall be used in the fiscal year 1988 annual budget request: Provided further, That the officially revised estimates at midyear shall be used for the midyear report.

SEC. 131. Section 466(b) of the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act, approved December 24, 1973 (87 Stat. 806; Public Law 93-198; D.C. Code, sec. 47-326), is amended by striking out "sold before October 1, 1986" and inserting in lieu thereof "sold before October 1, 1987".

SEC. 132. The District of Columbia shall construct three signs which contain the words, "Sakharov Plaza". These signs shall be placed immediately above existing signs on the corners of 16th and L and 16th and M Streets, Northwest. These should be similar to signs used by the city to designate the location of Metro stations. In addition, a sign shall be placed on city property directly adjacent to, or directly in front of, 1125 16th Street designating the actual location of Andrei Sakharov Plaza. Hereafter the proper address of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, District of Columbia, shall be No. 1 Andrei Sakharov Plaza.

SEC. 133. The Congress of the United States reaffirms the authority of the Council of the District of Columbia, as authorized by the Street and Alley Closing and Acquisition Procedures Act of 1982 (D.C. Code, sec. 7-421), to enact the Closing of a Portion of 8th Street, Northwest, and Public Alleys in Square 403 Act of 1984 (D.C. Law 5-148), and the Closing of a Portion of 8th Street, Northwest, and Public Alleys and Square 403 Emergency Act of 1984 (D.C. Act 5-206).

SEC. 134. (a) Section 906 of the Leadership in Educational Administration Development Act of 1984 (20 U.S.C. 4206) is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" after the semicolon at the end of paragraph (4);

(2) by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and

(3) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(6) the term 'State' includes the 50 States and the District of Columbia.".

(b) The amendments made by subsection (a) shall be effective as though they had been included in section 906 of the Leadership in Educational Administration Development Act of 1984 at the time of its enactment.

(e) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects or activities provided for in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided as follows, to be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act:

An Act making appropriations for energy and water development for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and for other purposes

TITLE I

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—CIVIL

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

CORPS OF ENGINEERS—CIVIL

The following appropriations shall be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Army and the supervision of the Chief of Engineers for authorized civil functions of the Department of the Army pertaining to rivers and harbors, flood control, beach erosion, and related purposes.

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For expenses necessary for the collection and study of basic information pertaining to river and harbor, flood control, shore protection, and related projects, restudy of authorized projects, miscellaneous investigations, and when authorized by laws, surveys and detailed studies and plans and specifications of projects prior to construction, $135,517,000, to remain available until expended, and in addition, $250,000, to remain available until expended, for the Bolsa Chica/Sunset Harbor, California, study; and in addition, $520,000 to remain available until expended, for the Red River Waterway, Shreveport, Louisiana, to Index, Arkansas, project for continuation of preconstruction planning: Provided, That not to exceed $18,000,000 shall be available for obligation for research and development activities.

CONSTRUCTION, GENERAL

For the prosecution of river and harbor, flood control, shore protection, and related projects authorized by laws; and detailed studies, and plans and specifications, of projects (including those for development with participation or under consideration for participation by States, local governments, or private groups) authorized or made eligible for selection by law (but such studies shall not constitute a commitment of the Government to construction), $1,065,950,000, of which $26,000,000 shall be derived from the Inland Waterway Trust Fund, to remain available until expended, and in addition, to remain available until expended, $2,300,000 for that increment of the project for beach erosion control, Sandy Hook to Barnegat Inlet, New Jersey, of which $1,300,000 shall be made available for the Sea Bright to Ocean Township reach and of which $1,000,000 for the Asbury Park to Manasquan reach; and in addition, $6,800,000 to remain available until expended for the construction of the Yatesville, Kentucky, construction project; and in addition, $1,600,000, to remain available until expended for construction of the Sturgeon Point Marina, New York, project authorized by section 107 of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1960, as amended; and in addition, $1,600,000 to remain available until expended, for construction of recreation facilities at New Melones Lake, California; and in addition, $1,200,000 to remain available until expended to be equally divided between the Crossett Harbor Public Access/Recreation Site and the Grand Marais Lake Public Access/Recreation Site at the Felsenthal National Wildlife Refuge, Arkansas (Ouachita and Black Rivers, Arkansas and Louisiana); and in addition, $1,100,000 to remain available until expended, for construction, at a standard project level of protection, for the Barbourville, Kentucky, project as authorized by section 202 of Public Law 96-367; and in addition, $3,600,000, to remain available until expended, for construction at a standard project flood level of protection, for the Harlan, Kentucky, project as authorized by section 202 of Public Law 96-367 (Levisa/Tug Forks of Big Sandy River and Upper Cumberland River, West Virginia, Virginia, and Kentucky); and in addition, $68,000,000, to remain available until expended, for construction of the Red River Waterway, Mississippi River to Shreveport, Louisiana, project, $38,000,000 for Locks and Dams 1 and 2, and $30,000,000 with which the Secretary of the Army is directed, as a minimum, to award continuing contracts in fiscal year 1987 for construction and completion of each of the following features of the Red River Waterway: Lock and Dam No. 3 Phase III (consisting of the main lock and dam and connecting channels), realignment and bank stabilization measures in Pools 3, 4, and 5, including but not limited to Saint Maurice, Kadesh, Socot, Powhattan, Ile Au Vaches, Campti, Smith Island, Carroll, and Wilkerson Point Realignments, and Cognac and Lumbra Revetments. The Secretary is further directed to initiate and complete both the Lock and Dam No. 3 Phase IIB (consisting of the initial excavation for the lock and dam, the north cofferdam, the reservation mound and disposal area) and Phase IIC (consisting of the remaining access roads) contracts in fiscal year 1987. None of these contracts are to be considered fully funded. Contracts are to be initiated, or initiated and completed, with funds herein provided: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Army, acting through the Chief of Engineers, shall provide funds for design and construction of a storage facility including necessary conveyances, to resolve a water quality problem associated with Dam Site 18 of the Papillion Creek and Tributaries Lakes, Nebraska. The funds are to be provided from available funds: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Army, acting through the Chief of Engineers, is authorized to construct flood control structures in accordance with the plan contained in the reevaluation report of the Chief of Engineers for Papillion Creek and Tributaries Lakes, Nebraska, dated March 1985 (revised October 1985). Features of such project authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1968 but eliminated by or otherwise not in accordance with the reevaluation report are not authorized after the date of enactment of this Act: Provided further, That section 123 of Public Law 99-190 is amended by striking out "at an estimated cost of $1,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "a cost of $2,300,000".

FLOOD CONTROL AND COASTAL EMERGENCIES

For expenses necessary for emergency flood control, hurricane, and shore protection activities, as authorized by section 5 of the Flood Control Act, approved August 18, 1941, as amended, $10,000,000, to remain available until expended.

FLOOD CONTROL, MISSISSIPPI RIVER AND TRIBUTARIES, ARKANSAS, ILLINOIS, KENTUCKY, LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI, MISSOURI, AND TENNESSEE

For expenses necessary for prosecuting work of flood control, and rescue work, repair, restoration, or maintenance of flood control projects threatened or destroyed by flood, as authorized by law (33 U.S.C. 702a, 702g-1), $310,797,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That not less than $250,000 shall be available for bank stabilization measures as determined by the Chief of Engineers to be advisable for the control of bank erosion of streams in the Yazoo Basin, including the foothill area, and where necessary such measures shall complement similar works planned and constructed by the Soil Conservation Service and be limited to the areas of responsibility mutually agreeable to the District Engineer and the State Conservationist. The Secretary of the Army, acting through the Chief of Engineers, is hereby directed to repair the Pumping Station and Gravity Outlets at the City of DeValls Bluff, Arkansas, authorized by the Flood Control Act of August 18, 1941, as amended by the Flood Control Act of July 24, 1946, at an estimated cost of $250,000.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, GENERAL

For expenses necessary for the preservation, operation, maintenance, and care of existing river and harbor, flood control, and related works, including such sums as may be necessary for the maintenance of harbor channels provided by a State, municipality or other public agency, outside of harbor lines, and serving essential needs of general commerce and navigation; administration of laws pertaining to preservation of navigable waters; surveys and charting of northern and northwestern lakes and connecting waters; clearing and straightening channels; and removal of obstructions to navigation, $1,389,846,000, to remain available until expended, of which $12,500,000 shall be for construction, operation, and maintenance of outdoor recreation facilities, to be derived from the special account established by the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 4601), and of which $7,400,000 shall be for construction of recreation facilities (including a recreation lake) at Sepulveda Dam, California: Provided, That not to exceed $8,000,000 shall be available for obligation for mobilization planning activities.

REVOLVING FUND

For construction of a dustpan dredge and for the Corps of Engineers Automation Plan, $12,000,000, to remain available until expended (33 U.S.C. 576).

GENERAL EXPENSES

For expenses necessary for general administration and related functions in the office of the Chief of Engineers and offices of the Division Engineers; activities of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, the Coastal Engineering Research Board, the Engineer Automation Support Activity, and the Water Resources Support Center, $115,000,000, to remain available until expended.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenses of attendance by military personnel at meetings in the manner authorized by section 4110 of title 5, United States Code, uniforms, and allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902), and for printing, either during a recess or session of Congress, of survey reports authorized by law, and such survey reports as may be printed during a recess of Congress shall be printed, with illustrations, as documents of the next succeeding session of Congress; not to exceed $2,000 for official reception and representation expenses; and during the current fiscal year the revolving fund, Corps of Engineers, shall be available for purchase (not to exceed 250 for replacement only) and hire of passenger motor vehicles.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, CORPS OF ENGINEERS

SEC. 101. None of the funds appropriated in this title, except as specifically contained herein, shall be used to alter, modify, dismantle, or otherwise change any project which is partially constructed but not funded for construction in this title.

SEC. 102. The Secretary of the Army, acting through the Chief of Engineers, is directed to continue with planning, design, engineering, construction and the operation and maintenance of the Des Moines Recreational River and Greenbelt project as described in Conference Report 99-236 using funds heretofore, herein and hereafter appropriated. Notwithstanding the language contained in the 1985 Supplemental Appropriations Act, Public Law 99-88, the Corps of Engineers shall continue their work on the General Design Memorandum, which shall be completed by October 1987 to serve as a master plan for the overall project. The design memorandum must address all enhancements contained in the list prepared by the Des Moines Recreational River and Greenbelt Advisory Committee. The project after construction will be operated and maintained at full Federal expense.

SEC. 103. Notwithstanding any conditions to the contrary in executed local cooperation agreements, where such agreements exist, initiation of construction of new Department of the Army water resource projects funded and authorized by Public Law 99-88 shall not be contingent upon enactment of legislation imposing a Federal port use charge or increasing the tax imposed by section 4042 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Upon fulfillment of all other conditions and subject to such other terms as might appear in a local cooperation agreement, where required, for such a project, the Secretary shall initiate and complete construction of the project. Once construction has been initiated, no work in connection with such project shall be considered a "new start" for budgetary or funding purposes.

SEC. 104. None of the funds provided in this act, or any other act, may be used by the Corps of Engineers to lease, contract or otherwise transfer to a non-government entity any parks or recreation resources, or the management or operation thereof, located at Greers Ferry Lake or Little Red River in the State of Arkansas, for which such arrangements did not exist on or before September 1, 1986, until the Corps has studied the economic, environmental and public use impact of leasing to private enterprise the parks and other recreation resources at lakes, reservoirs and reaches of river under its jurisdiction and such study has been reviewed by the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Senate, the Committee on Public Works and Transportation of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Environment and Public Works in the Senate.

SEC. 105. None of the funds made available by this Act or any other Act for any fiscal year may be used hereafter to study, to plan, to implement, to construct, or to issue any permit for the Northfield Mountain Water Supply Project, Massachusetts or the Millers and Tully Rivers Water Supply Project, Massachusetts: Provided, That this section shall not apply to environmental studies undertaken by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service: Provided further, That this shall not be construed as a precedent for any other Corps permit in any other state or region.

SEC. 106. Within available funds, the Secretary of the Army acting through the Chief of Engineers is authorized and directed to modify the Black Warrior and Tombigbee Rivers, Alabama, project, to provide a safe channel and general navigation facilities in the vicinity of Jackson, Alabama, at an estimated cost of $8,200,000. Necessary training works to provide a safe channel shall be constructed at full Federal expense as part of the Operation and Maintenance, General program. Development of general navigation facilities to provide a spur canal for a port facility at Jackson, at an estimated cost of $2,300,000, shall be part of the Construction, General program and shall be cost shared under terms and conditions acceptable to the Secretary of the Army as set forth in a binding agreement with a non-Federal sponsor desiring to participate in project construction.

TITLE II

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau as follows:

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For engineering and economic investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects and studies of water conservation and development plans and activities preliminary to the reconstruction, rehabilitation and betterment, financial adjustment, or extension of existing projects, to remain available until expended, $29,409,000: Provided, That of the total appropriated, the amount for program activities which can be financed by the reclamation fund shall be derived from that fund: Provided further, That all costs of an advance planning study of a proposed project shall be considered to be construction costs and to be reimbursable in accordance with the allocation of construction costs if the project is authorized for construction: Provided further, That funds contributed by non-Federal entities for purposes similar to this appropriation shall be available for expenditure for the purposes for which contributed as though specifically appropriated for said purposes, and such amounts shall remain available until expended.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For construction and rehabilitation of projects and parts thereof (including power transmission facilities for Bureau of Reclamation use) and for other related activities as authorized by law, to remain available until expended, $602,158,000, of which $110,929,000 shall be available for transfers to the Upper Colorado River Basin Fund authorized by section 5 of the Act of April 11, 1956 (43 U.S.C. 620d), and $145,596,000 shall be available for transfers to the Lower Colorado River Basin Development Fund authorized by section 403 of the Act of September 30, 1968 (43 U.S.C. 1543), and such amounts as may be necessary shall be considered as though advanced to the Colorado River Dam Fund for the Boulder Canyon Project as authorized by the Act of December 21, 1928, as amended: Provided, That of the total appropriated, the amount for program activities which can be financed by the reclamation fund shall be derived from that fund: Provided further, That transfers to the Upper Colorado River Basin Fund and Lower Colorado River Basin Development Fund may be increased or decreased by transfers within the overall appropriation to the heading: Provided further, That funds contributed by non-Federal entities for purposes similar to this appropriation shall be available for expenditure for the purposes for which contributed as though specifically appropriated for said purposes, and such funds shall remain available until expended: Provided further, That the final point of discharge for the interceptor drain for the San Luis Unit shall not be determined until development by the Secretary of the Interior and the State of California of a plan, which shall conform with the water quality standards of the State of California as approved by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, to minimize any detrimental effect of the San Luis drainage waters: Provided further, That no part of the funds herein approved shall be available for construction or operation of facilities to prevent waters of Lake Powell from entering any national monument: Provided further, That of the amount herein appropriated, such amounts as may be necessary shall be available to enable the Secretary of the Interior to continue work on rehabilitating the Velarde Community Ditch Project, New Mexico, in accordance with the Federal Reclamation Laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) for the purposes of diverting and conveying water to irrigated project lands. The cost of the rehabilitation will be non-reimbursable and constructed features will be turned over to the appropriate entity for operation and maintenance: Provided further, That of the amount herein appropriated, such amounts as may be required shall be available to continue improvement activities for the Lower Colorado Regional Complex: Provided further, That section 507 of Public Law 92-514 (86 Stat. 970) is amended by striking out "$79,500,000 (based upon January 1972 prices)" and inserting in lieu thereof "$333,865,000 (based upon July 1984 prices)": Provided further, That of the total herein appropriated in this account, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to obligate no more than $8,800,000 by August 1, 1987, for the San Joaquin Valley Drainage Program: Provided further, That Section 8 of the Act of June 3, 1960 (74 Stat. 156; Public Law 86-488), is amended by inserting "(a)" after "Sec. 8." and by inserting at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, none of the costs associated with, or resulting from, the following which have been or will be incurred shall be recovered by the Secretary, directly or indirectly, from power contractors of the Central Valley project:

"(1) the construction of such distribution systems and drains as are not constructed by local interests;

"(2) the construction of the San Luis interceptor drain; or

"(3) the construction of acquisition of any facilities by the United States or the Westlands Water District as partial or full alternatives to the San Luis interceptor drain.".

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

For operation and maintenance of reclamation projects or parts thereof and other facilities, as authorized by law; and for a soil and moisture conservation program on lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation, pursuant to law, to remain available until expended, $140,000,000; Provided, That of the total appropriated, the amount for program activities which can be financed by the reclamation fund shall be derived from that fund: Provided further, That of the total appropriated, such amounts as may be required for replacement work on the Boulder Canyon Project which would require readvances to the Colorado River Dam Fund shall be readvanced to the Colorado River Dam Fund pursuant to section 5 of the Boulder Canyon Project Adjustment Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618d), and such readvances since October 1, 1984, and in the future shall bear interest at the rate determined pursuant to section 104(a)(5) of Public Law 98-381: Provided further, That fund advanced by water users for operation and maintenance of reclamation projects or parts thereof shall be deposited to the credit of this appropriation and may be expended for the same objects and in the same manner as sums appropriated herein may be expended, and such advances shall remain available until expended: Provided further, That nonreimbursable funds will be available from revenues for performing examination of existing structures on participating projects of the Colorado River Storage Project.

LOAN PROGRAM

For loans to irrigation districts and other public agencies for construction of distribution systems on authorized Federal reclamation projects, and for loans and grants to non-Federal agencies for construction of projects, as authorized by the Acts of July 4, 1955, as amended (43 U.S.C. 421a-421d), and August 6, 1956, as amended (43 U.S.C. 422a-4221), including expenses necessary for carrying out the program, $37,480,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That of the total sums appropriated, the amount of program activities which can be financed by the reclamation fund shall be derived from that fund: Provided further, That during fiscal year year 1987 and within the resources and authority available, gross obligations for the principal amount of direct loans shall not exceed $43,806,000: Provided further, That any contract under the Act of July 4, 1955 (69 Stat. 244), as amended, not yet executed by the Secretary, which calls for the making of loans beyond the fiscal year in which the contract is entered into shall be made only on the same conditions as those prescribed in section 12 of the Act of August 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 1187, 1197).

GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of general administration and related functions in the office of the Commissioner, the Denver Engineering and Research Center, and offices in the six regions of the Bureau of Reclamation, $51,200,000, of which $2,000,000, shall remain available until expended, the total amount to be derived from the reclamation fund and to be nonreimbursable pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377): Provided, That no part of any other appropriation in this Act shall be available for activities or functions budgeted for the current fiscal year as general administration expenses.

EMERGENCY FUND

For an additional amount for the "Emergency fund", as authorized by the Act of June 26, 1948 (43 U.S.C. 502), as amended, to remain available until expended for the purposes specified in said Act, $1,000,000, to be derived from the reclamation fund.

WORKING CAPITAL FUND

For acquisition of the Bureau's computer aided design and drafting system, $6,400,000, to remain available until expended, as authorized in section 1472 of title 43, United States Code (99 Stat. 571), the total amount to be derived from the reclamation fund.

SPECIAL FUNDS

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the reclamation fund or the Colorado River development fund are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391) and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a), respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the head "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived.

Appropriations for the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed 12 passenger motor vehicles of which 10 shall be for replacement only; payment of claims for damages to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiations and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; for service as authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, in total not to exceed $500,000; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriations Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Acts of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461–467) and June 27, 1960 (16 U.S.C. 469): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for plan formulation and advance planning investigations, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

The costs of the Seedskadee Project may be reallocated in order to reflect revised project beneficial purposes.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 1341).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 201. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 202. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 203. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency, or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 1535 and 1536): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 204. Appropriations in this title shall be available for hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchases of reprints; payment for telephone services in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 205. Of the appropriations provided for the Central Utah Project, in this or any other Act, not more than 20 percent of the total in any one fiscal year may be expended by the Secretary for all administrative expenses: Provided, That the Inspector General of the Department of the Interior shall annually audit expenditures by the Bureau of Reclamation to determine compliance with this section: Provided further, That the Bureau of Reclamation's General Administrative Expenses appropriation shall be used to fund the audit: Provided further, That the Bureau of Reclamation shall not delay or stop construction of the project due to this limitation and shall apply all the remaining appropriations to completion of the project.

SEC. 206. The Central Utah Water Conservancy District shall pay principal and interest on those features of the Central Utah Project which develop 60,000 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water supply for which deferral was invoked in 1981, without the benefit of exceptions (1) and (2) of the last proviso of the first sentence of section 301(b) of the Water Supply Act of 1958, 43 U.S.C. 390(b)(2): Provided, That in the event that the Bonneville Unit is not substantially complete, as determined by the Secretary, at the end of fiscal year 1995, the Central Utah Water Conservancy District will be credited with $2,000,000 to be applied to its repayment obligation for the Bonneville Unit each year that the project is not substantially complete, as determined by the Secretary, but in no case beyond fiscal year 2000.

TITLE III

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

ENERGY SUPPLY, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For expenses of the Department of Energy activities including the purchase, construction and acquisition of plant and capital equipment and other expenses incidental thereto necessary for energy supply, research and development activities, and other activities in carrying out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95–91), including the acquisition or condemnation of any real property or any facility or for plant or facility acquisition, construction, or expansion; purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 18 for replacement only), $1,347,048,000, to remain available until expended; in addition $684,158,000 shall be derived by transfer from Uranium Supply and Enrichment Activities provided in prior years and shall be available until expended; and of which $84,100,000 which shall be available only for the Center for New Industrial Materials; the Center for Nuclear Imaging Research; the Energy Research Complex; Saint Christopher's Hospital for Children—Energy Demonstration Project; Center for Excellence in Education—Energy Utilization Performance Project; the Institute of Nuclear Medicine; the Advanced Science Center; the Center for Science and Engineering; and funds provided for byproducts utilization activities shall be available only for the following regional projects: Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services; Hawaii Department of Planning and Economic Development; Iowa State University; Oklahoma, Red-Ark Development Authority; Washington, Port of Pasco; State of Alaska.

URANIUM SUPPLY AND ENRICHMENT ACTIVITIES

For expenses of the Department of Energy in connection with operating expenses; the purchase, construction, and acquisition of plant and capital equipment and other expenses incidental thereto necessary for uranium supply and enrichment activities in carrying out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95–91), including the acquisition or condemnation of any real property or any facility or for plant or facility acquisition, construction, or expansion; purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 33 for replacement only); $1,210,400,000, to remain available until expended; Provided, That revenues received by the Department for the enrichment of uranimum and estimated to total $1,286,400,000 in fiscal year 1987, shall be retained and used for the specific purpose of offsetting costs incurred by the Department in providing uranium enrichment service activities as authorized by section 201 of Public Law 95–238, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3302(b) of section 484, of title 31, United States Code: Provided further, That the sum herein appropriated shall be reduced as uranium enrichment revenues are received during fiscal year 1987 so as to result in a final fiscal year 1987 appropriation estimated at not more than $0.

GENERAL SCIENCE AND RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

For expenses of the Department of Energy, activities including the purchase, construction and acquisition of plant and capital equipment and other expenses incidental thereto necessary for general science and research activities in carrying out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95–91), including the acquisition or condemnation of any real property or facility or for plant or facilities acquisition, construction, or expansion; purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 12 for replacement only); $708,400,000 to remain available until expended.

NUCLEAR WASTE DISPOSAL FUND

For nuclear waste disposal activities to carry out the purposes of Public Law 97–425, including the acquisition of real property or facility construction or expansion, $499,000,000, to remain available until expended, to be derived from the Nuclear Waste Fund. To the extent that balances in the fund are not sufficient to cover amounts available for obligation in the account, the Secretary shall exercise his authority pursuant to section 302(e)(5) to issue obligations to the Secretary of the Treasury: Provided, That of the funds available, $2,500,000 shall be provided to the State of Oregon for the purpose of researching, with respect to nuclear activities carried out at the Hanford Federal Reservation in Richland, Washington, the effects of such nuclear activities on the health of the people of Oregon and on the environment of Oregon.

ATOMIC ENERGY DEFENSE ACTIVITIES

For expenses of the Department of Energy activities including the purchase, construction and acquisition of plant and capital equipment and other expenses incidental thereto necessary for atomic energy defense activities in carrying out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91), including the acquisition or condemnation of any real property or any facility or for plant or facility acquisition, construction, or expansion; purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 344 of which 320 are for replacement only) including 36 policy-type vehicles; and purchase of five aircraft, three of which are for replacement only, $7,477,750,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That the Department is directed to provide the Committee on Appropriations within 120 days of enactment of this Act with a plan and schedule to discontinue disposal of contaminated liquids into the soil at the Hanford Reservation: Provided further, That (a) To provide for a security buffer zone for the United States Department of Energy's Savannah River Plant near Aiken, South Carolina, title, control, and custody to six thousand twenty-one acres, more or less, of United States Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, lands shown on a map entitled "Forest Service Property Transfer, Savannah River Plant, Aiken, South Carolina", dated June 1984, are transferred without cost or reimbursement to the United States Department of Energy. The map and legal description of the boundaries of these lands shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the Chief of the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, the Director of Real Property and Facilities Management, United States Department of Energy, and appropriate field offices of those agencies. (b) This joint resolution does not affect valid existing rights, or interests in existing land use authorizations, except that any right or authorization shall be administered by the Department of Energy after the enactment of this joint resolution. Reissuance of any authorization shall be in accordance with applicable law and the regulations of the Department of Energy, except that the change of administrative jurisdiction shall not in itself constitute a ground to deny the renewal or reissuance of any authorization: Provided further, That if the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1987, is enacted into law by December 31, 1986, the funds provided in this paragraph for the Strategic Defense Initiative shall be limited to the amount and in the manner provided for in that legislation.

DEPARTMENTAL ADMINISTRATION

For salaries and expenses of the Department of Energy necessary for Departmental Administration and other activities in carrying out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91), including the hire of passenger motor vehicles and official reception and representation expenses (not to exceed $17,500) $395,558,000, to remain available until expended, plus such additional amounts as necessary to cover increases in the estimated amount of cost of work for others notwithstanding the provisions of the Anti-Deficiency Act (31 U.S.C. 1511 et seq.): Provided, That such increases in cost of work are offset by revenue increases of the same or greater amount, to remain available until expended: Provided further, That moneys received by the Department for miscellaneous revenues estimated to total $251,947,000 in fiscal year 1987 may be retained and used for operating expenses within this account, and may remain available until expended, as authorized by section 201 of Public Law 95-238, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3302 of title 31, United States Code: Provided further, That the sum herein appropriated shall be reduced by the amount of miscellaneous revenues received during fiscal year 1987 so as to result in a final year 1987 appropriation estimated at not more than $143,611,000.

POWER MARKETING ADMINISTRATIONS

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, ALASKA POWER ADMINISTRATION

For necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of projects in Alaska and of marketing electric power and energy, $2,881,000, to remain available until expended.

BONNEVILLE POWER ADMINISTRATION FUND

Expenditures from the Bonneville Power Administration Fund, established pursuant to Public Law 93-454, are approved for Enloe Dam Fish Passage Facilities. Expenditures are also approved for official reception and representation expenses in an amount not to exceed $2,500.

During fiscal year 1987, and within the resources and authority available, gross obligations for the principle amount of direct loans shall not exceed $10,000,000.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, SOUTHEASTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION

For necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of power transmission facilities and of marketing electric power and energy pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s), as applied to the southeastern power area, $19,647,000, to remain available until expended.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION

For necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of power transmission facilities and of marketing electric power and energy, and for construction and acquisition of transmission lines, substations and appurtenant facilities, and for administrative expenses connected therewith, in carrying out the provisions of section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s), as applied to the southwestern power area, $25,337,000, to remain available until expended.

CONSTRUCTION, REHABILITATION, OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, WESTERN AREA POWER ADMINISTRATION

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For carrying out the functions authorized by title III, section 302(a)(1)(E) of the Act of August 4, 1977 (Public Law 95-91), and other related activities including conservation and renewable resources programs as authorized, including official reception and representation expenses in an amount not to exceed $1,500, the purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 4 for replacement only), $236,846,000, to remain available until expended, of which $214,835,000, shall be derived from the Department of the Interior Reclamation fund: Provided, That the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to transfer from the Colorado River Dam Fund to the Western Area Power Administration $3,463,000, to carry out the power marketing and transmission activities of the Boulder Canyon project as provided in section 104(a)(4) of the Hoover Power Plant Act of 1984.

FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to carry out the provisions of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91), including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, including the hire of passenger motor vehicles; official reception and representation expenses (not to exceed $1,500); $99,079,000, of which $3,000,000 shall remain available until expended and be available only for contractual activities: Provided, That hereafter and notwithstanding any other provision of law revenues from licensing fees, inspection services, and other services and collections, estimated at $78,754,000 in fiscal year 1987, may be retained and used for necessary expenses in this account, and may remain available until expended: Provided further, That the sum herein appropriated shall be reduced as revenues are received during fiscal year 1987, so as to result in a final fiscal year 1987 appropriation estimated at not more than $20,325,000.

GEOTHERMAL RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT FUND

For carrying out the Loan Guarantee and Interest Assistance Program as authorized by the Geothermal Energy Research, Development and Demonstration Act of 1974, as amended, $72,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That the indebtedness guaranteed or committed to be guaranteed through funds provided by this or any other appropriation Act shall not exceed the aggregate of $500,000,000.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

SEC. 301. Appropriations for the Department of Energy under this title for the current fiscal year shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles; hire, maintenance and operation of aircraft; purchase, repair and cleaning of uniforms; and reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services. From these appropriations, transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the United States Government for the performance of work for which this appropriation is made. None of the funds made available to the Department of Energy under this Act shall be used to implement or finance authorized price support or loan guarantee programs unless specific provision is made for such programs in an appropriation Act. The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, private, or foreign.

(TRANSFERS OF UNEXPENDED BALANCES)

SEC. 302. Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation made available for the current fiscal year for Department of Energy activities funded in this Act may be transferred between such appropriations, but no such appropriation, except as otherwise provided, shall be increased or decreased by more than 5 per centum by any such transfers, and any such proposed transfers shall be submitted promptly to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

SEC. 303. The unexpended balances of prior appropriations provided for activities covered in this Act may be transferred to appropriation accounts for such activities established pursuant to this title. Balances so transferred may be merged with funds in the applicable established accounts and thereafter may be accounted for as one fund for the same time period as originally enacted.

SEC. 304. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract pursuant to section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 305. None of the funds provided in this joint resolution or in any other law may be used to implement the following provisions of the uranium enrichment criteria submitted to Congress on July 24, 1986:

(i) Section 762.3, which specifies the permitted enrichment of source material of foreign origin for use in domestic utilization facilities;

(ii) the third sentence of section 762.11, to the extent that it provides limitations on free choice of transaction tails assays from 0.2% to 0.3% U-235 or imposition of an additional charge for selections in that range;

(iii) section 762.15, to the extent it might be construed to validate contract provisions permitting unrestricted delivery and enrichment of foreign-origin feed material after a final court decision requiring restriction of enrichment of foreign-origin source material for domestic use or permitting imposition of additional charges for customer selections of transaction tails assays within the range of 0.2% to 0.3% U-235;

(iv) any portion of the criteria or provision in any contract which permits or results in reduction of the amount of feed material otherwise required to be delivered to DOE by commercial customers as a result of use of source material or special nuclear material from the government stockpiles in providing toll enrichment services for commercial customers;

(v) section 762.6 hereafter, insofar as it may convey a determination of the level of unrecouped costs that must be returned to the Treasury by the enrichment program, which determination shall be made by the Congress in future legislation.

The funds provided in this joint resolution shall be used to operate the enrichment program, consistent with the spending limitations imposed by this section, on the basis that the uranium enrichment criteria submitted to Congress on July 24, 1986 (except section 762.3 thereof) are in force and effect as modified above: Provided, That notwithstanding the effectiveness of the criteria as described above until amended or superseded in accordance with the Atomic Energy Act, except as is otherwise specifically provided by law, foreign-origin uranium may be enriched for domestic use only until a final judgment or dismissal in the pending litigation that determines whether section 161(v) of the Atomic Energy Act requires restriction of enrichment of foreign-origin source material, in which case the criteria shall be amended to impose such restrictions, or such unrestricted enrichment may continue, whichever is consistent with the decision of this question in the pending litigation: Provided further, That in expending funds hereunder, the Department shall be required to offer each customer, free of additional charge and irrespective of percentage of requirements contracted for, a transaction tails assay from 0.2% to 0.3% U-235: Provided further, That no provision of this joint resolution or the July 24, 1986, criteria shall affect the merits of the legal position of any of the parties concerning the questions whether section 161(v) of the Atomic Energy Act requires restriction of enrichment of foreign-origin source material destined for use in domestic utilization facilities, and whether distribution may be made of source material or special nuclear material from the government stockpile for commercial customers, in the pending litigation in the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and in the United States District Court for the District of Colorado.

TITLE IV

INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

APPALACHIAN REGIONAL COMMISSION

For expenses necessary to carry out the programs authorized by the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, as amended, notwithstanding section 405 of said Act, except expenses authorized by section 105 of said Act, including services as authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, and hire of passenger motor vehicles, and for necessary expenses for the Federal Cochairman and the alternate on the Appalachian Regional Commission and for payment of the Federal share of the administrative expenses of the Commission, including services as authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, and hire of passenger motor vehicles, to remain available until expended, $105,000,000.

DELAWARE RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For expenses necessary to carry out the functions of the United States member of the Delaware River Basin Commission, as authorized by law (75 Stat. 716), $185,000.

CONTRIBUTION TO DELAWARE RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

For payment of the United States share of the current expenses of the Delaware River Basin Commission, as authorized by law (75 Stat. 706, 707), $200,000.

INTERSTATE COMMISSION ON THE POTOMAC RIVER BASIN

CONTRIBUTION TO INTERSTATE COMMISSION ON THE POTOMAC RIVER BASIN

To enable the Secretary of the Treasury to pay in advance to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin the Federal contribution toward the expenses of the Commission during the current fiscal year in the administration of its business in the conservancy district established pursuant to its business in the conservancy district established pursuant to the Act of July 11, 1940 (54 Stat. 748), as amended by the Act of September 25, 1970 (Public Law 91-407), $79,000.

NATIONAL COUNCIL ON PUBLIC WORKS IMPROVEMENT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For expenses necessary to carry out provisions of the Public Works Improvement Act of 1984, section 3121 of title 42, United States Code, $1,750,000.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Commission in carrying out the purposes of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974, as amended, and the Atomic Energy Act, as amended, including the employment of aliens; services authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code; publication and dissemination of atomic information; purchase, repair, and cleaning of uniforms, official representation expenses (not to exceed $8,000); reimbursements to the General Services Administration for security guard services; hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft, $401,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That from this appropriation, transfer of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of the work for which this appropriation is made, and in such cases the sums so transferred may be merged with the appropriation to which transferred: Provided further, That moneys received by the Commission for the cooperative nuclear safety research program and the material and information access authorization programs including criminal history checks under Section 149 of the Atomic Energy Act, as amended, may be retained and used for salaries and expenses associated with those programs, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3302 of title 31, United States Code, and shall remain available until expended.

SUSQUEHANNA RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For expenses necessary to carry out the functions of the United States member of the Susquehanna River Basin Commission as authorized by law (84 Stat. 1541), $179,000.

CONTRIBUTION TO SUSQUEHANNA RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

For payment of the United States share of the current expenses of the Susquehanna River Basin Commission, as authorized by law (84 Stat. 1530, 1531), $240,000.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY FUND

For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act of 1933, as amended (16 U.S.C. ch. 12A), including purchase, hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft, and purchase and hire of passenger motor vehicles, and for entering into contracts and making payments under section 11 of the National Trails System Act, as amended, $100,000,000 to remain available until expended: Provided, That this appropriation and other moneys available to the Tennessee Valley Authority may be used hereafter for payment of the allowances authorized by section 5948A of title 5, United States Code: Provided further, That the official of the Tennessee Valley Authority referred to as the "inspector general of the Tennessee Valley Authority" is authorized, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, to require by subpoena the production of all information, documents, reports, answers, records, accounts, papers, and other data and other documentary evidence necessary in the performance of the audit and investigation functions of that official, which subpoena, in the case of contumacy or refusal to obey, shall be enforceable by order of any appropriate United States district court: Provided further, That procedures other than subpoenas shall be used by the inspector general to obtain documents and evidence from Federal agencies.

TITLE V

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 501. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 502. None of the funds in this Act shall be used to pay the expenses of, or otherwise compensate, parties intervening in regulatory or adjudicatory proceedings funded in this Act.

SEC. 503. None of the programs, projects or activities as defined in the report accompanying this Act, may be eliminated or disproportionately reduced due to the application of "Savings and Slippage", "general reductions", or the provisions of Public Law 99-177.

SEC. 504. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 505. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be used to implement a program of retention contracts for senior employees of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

SEC. 506. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act or any other provision of law, none of the funds made available under this Act or any other law shall be used for the purposes of conducting any studies relating or leading to the possibility of changing from the currently required "at cost" to a "market rate" or any other noncost-based method for the pricing of hydroelectric power by the six Federal public power authorities, or other agencies or authorities of the Federal Government, except as may be specifically authorized by Act of Congress hereafter enacted.

SEC. 507. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be used to pay the salary of the Administrator of a Power Marketing Administration or the Board of Directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and none of the funds authorized to be expended by this or any previous Act from the Bonneville Power Administration Fund, established pursuant to Public Law 93-454, may be used to pay the salary of the Administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration, unless such Administrators or Directors award contracts for the procurement of extra high voltage (EHV) power equipment manufactured in the United States when such agencies determine that there are one or more manufacturers of domestic end product offering a product that meets the technical requirements of such agencies at a price not exceeding 130 per centum of the bid or offering price of the most competitive foreign bidder: Provided, That such agencies shall determine the incremental costs associated with implementing this section and defer or offset such incremental costs against otherwise existing repayment obligations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any procurement initiated prior to October 1, 1985, or to the acquisition of spare parts or accessory equipment necessary for the efficient operation and maintenance of existing equipment and available only from the manufacturer of the original equipment: Provided further, That this section shall not apply to procurement of domestic end product as defined in 48 C.F.R. sec. 25.101: Provided further, That this section shall not apply to EHV power equipment produced or manufactured in a country whose government has completed negotiations with the United States to extend the GATT Government Procurement Code, or a bilateral equivalent, to HEV power equipment, or which otherwise offers fair competitive opportunities in public procurements to United States manufacturers of such equipment.

SEC. 508. None of the funds in this Act may be used to construct or enter into an agreement to construct additional hydroelectric units at Denison Dam—Lake Texoma.

This Act may be cited as the "Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1987".

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 6:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 6, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment insert:

(f) such amounts as may be necessary for projects or activities provided for in the Foreign Assistance and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in the following Act; this subsection shall be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act:

AN ACT making appropriations for foreign assistance and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and for other purposes, namely:

TITLE I--MULTILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT

For payment to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the United States share of the paid-in share portion of the increase in capital stock, $55,805,000 for the General and Selective Capital Increase, to remain available until expended: Provided, That no such payment may be made while the United States Executive Director to the Bank is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, or while the alternate United States Executive Director to the Bank is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level V of the Executive Schedule under section 5316 of title 5, United States Code.

LIMITATION ON CALLABLE CAPITAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

The United States Governor of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development may subscribe without fiscal year limitation to the callable capital portion of the United States share of increases in capital stock in an amount not to exceed $688,261,667.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

For payment to the International Development Association by the Secretary of the Treasury, $622,623,251, for the United States contribution to the seventh replenishment, to remain available until expended: Provided, That no such payment may be made while the United States Executive Director to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, or while the alternate United States Executive Director to the Bank is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level V of the Executive Schedule under section 5316 of title 5, United States Code.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE SPECIAL FACILITY FOR SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA

For payment to the Special Facility for Sub-Saharan Africa by the Secretary of the Treasury, $64,805,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That funds made available under this heading shall be obligated to the Special Facility for Sub-Saharan Africa no later than March 1, 1987.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTER-AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

For payment to the Inter-American Development Bank by the Secretary of the Treasury for the United States share of the increase in the resources of the Fund for Special Operations, $17,263,000, to remain available until expended; and $16,417,000, for the United States share of the increase in paid-in capital stock to remain available until expended: Provided, That no such payment may be made while the United States Executive Director for the Bank is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, or while the alternate United States Executive Director for the Bank is compensated by the Bank at a rate in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level V of the Executive Schedule under section 5316 of title 5, United States Code.

TITLE II—BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

For expenses necessary to enable the President to carry out the provisions of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, and for other purposes, to remain available until September 30, 1987, unless otherwise specified herein, as follows:

AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Agriculture, rural development and nutrition, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 103, $639,613,000: Provided, That up to $5,000,000 shall be provided for new development projects of private entities and cooperatives utilizing surplus dairy products: Provided further, That not less than $6,000,000 shall be provided for the Vitamin A Deficiency Program: Provided further, That, notwithstanding any other provision of law, up to $10,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph may be available for agricultural activities in Poland which are managed by the Polish Catholic Church or other nongovernmental organizations.

Population, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 104(b), $234,625,000: Provided, That none of the funds made available in this Act nor any unobligated balances from prior appropriations may be made available to any organization or program which, as determined by the President of the United States, supports or participates in the management of a program of coercive abortion or involuntary sterilization: Provided further, That none of the funds made available under this heading may be used to pay for the performance of abortion as a method of family planning or to motivate or coerce any person to practice abortions; and that in order to reduce reliance on abortion in developing nations, funds shall be available only to voluntary family planning projects which offer, either directly or through referral to, or information about access to, a broad range of family planning methods and services: Provided further, That in awarding grants for natural family planning under section 104 of the Foreign Assistance Act no applicant shall be discriminated against because of such applicant's religious or conscientious commitment to offer only natural family planning; and, additionally, all such applicants shall comply with the requirements of the previous proviso: Provided further, That nothing in this subsection shall be construed to alter any existing statutory prohibitions against abortion under section 104 of the Foreign Assistance Act.

Health, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 104(c), $166,762,500.

Child Survival Fund: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 104(c)(2), $75,000,000, notwithstanding section 10 of P.L. 91-672 and section 15(a) of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956.

Education and human resources development, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 105, $155,000,000: Provided, That of this amount not less than $6,000,000 shall be made available only for the International Student Exchange Program.

Energy and selected development activities, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 106, $140,328,500: Provided, That not less than $5,000,000 shall be made available only for cooperative projects among the United States, Israel and developing countries: Provided further, That not less than $5,000,000 shall be made available only for the Central American Rural Electrification Support project.

Science and technology, Development Assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 106, $9,661,500.

Limitation on Development Assistance: None of the funds made available by this Act in order to carry out chapter 1 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be expended to provide an amount which would result in the percentage of funds expended for centrally funded, country, or regional programs for areas other than Sub-saharan Africa exceeding the percentage of total funds designated for centrally funded, country, or regional programs for areas other than Sub-saharan Africa in fiscal year 1986, as shown in the fiscal year 1987 congressional presentation materials.

Limitation on Development Assistance: None of the funds made available by this Act in order to carry out chapter 1 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be expended to provide an amount which would result in the percentage of funds expended for centrally funded, country, or regional programs for areas other than Central America exceeding the percentage of total funds designated for centrally funded, country, or regional programs for areas other than Central America in fiscal year 1986, as shown in the fiscal year 1987 congressional presentation materials.

Haiti, Development Assistance: Of the funds made available to carry out sections 103 through 106 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, not less than $37,000,000 shall be available to support a transition to democracy through activities emphasizing job creation, rural development, health care, sanitation, small scale irrigation projects, reforestation, land conservation, and literacy education projects: Provided, That funds made available pursuant to this paragraph for Haiti shall be used to provide assistance, to the maximum extent practicable, equitably among the various regions of Haiti.

Private and Voluntary Organizations: None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this Act for development assistance may be made available to any United States private and voluntary organization, except any cooperative development organization, which obtains less than 20 per centum of its total annual funding for international activities from sources other than the United States Government: Provided, That the requirements of the provisions of section 123(g) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 and the provisions on private and voluntary organizations in title II of the "Foreign Assistance and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1985" (as enacted in Public Law 98-473) shall be superseded by the provisions of this section.

Private sector revolving fund: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 108 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, not to exceed $15,553,000 to be derived by transfer from funds appropriated to carry out the provisions of chapter 1 of part I of such Act, to remain available until expended. During fiscal year 1987, obligations for assistance from amounts in the revolving fund account under section 108 shall not exceed $15,553,000.

Loan allocation, Development Assistance: In order to carry out the provisions of part I, the Administrator of the agency responsible for administering such part may furnish loan assistance pursuant to existing law and on such terms and conditions as he may determine: Provided, That to the maximum extent practicable, loans to private sector institutions, from funds made available to carry out the provisions of sections 103 through 106, shall be provided at or near the prevailing interest rate paid on Treasury obligations of similar maturity at the time of obligating such funds: Provided further, That amounts appropriated to carry out the provisions of chapter 1 of part I which are provided in the form of loans shall remain available until September 30, 1988.

American schools and hospitals abroad: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 214, $35,000,000.

International disaster assistance: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 491, $70,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That not less than $50,000,000 shall be available only for earthquake relief, reconstruction, and rehabilitation in El Salvador, notwithstanding section 10 of P.L. 91-672 and section 15(a) of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956.

Sahel development program: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 121, $70,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That no part of such appropriation may be available to make any contribution of the United States to the Sahel development program in excess of 10 percent of the total contributions to such program.

Payment to the Foreign Service Retirement and Disability Fund: For payment to the "Foreign Service Retirement and Disability Fund", as authorized by the Foreign Service Act of 1980, $45,492,000.

Operating expenses of the Agency for International Development: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 667, $340,600,000: Provided, That not more than $15,000,000 of this amount shall be for Foreign Affairs Administrative Support: Provided further, That the Agency for International Development may use amounts appropriated to carry out the provisions of chapter 1 of part I (with the exception of the "Child Survival Fund") and chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, for the overseas local support costs of its economic assistance programs and for the operating expenses of the Agency for International Development Office of Inspector General: Provided further, That except to the extent that the Administrator of the Agency for International Development determines otherwise, not less than 10 per centum of the aggregate of the funds made available for the fiscal year 1987 to carry out chapter 1 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 shall be made available only for activities of economically and socially disadvantaged enterprises (within the meaning of section 133(c)(5) of the International Development and Food Assistance Act of 1977), historically black colleges and universities, and private and voluntary organizations which are controlled by individuals who are black Americans, Hispanic Americans, or Native Americans, or who are economically and socially disadvantaged (within the meaning of section 133(c)(5) (B) and (C) of the International Development and Food Assistance Act of 1977). For purposes of this proviso, economically and socially disadvantaged individuals shall be deemed to include women.

Operating expenses of the Agency for International Development Office of Inspector General: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 667, $21,000,000, which sum shall be available only for the operating expenses of the Office of the Inspector General notwithstanding sections 451 or 614 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 or any other provision of law: Provided, That up to three percent of the amount made available under the paragraph "Operating expenses of the Agency for International Development" may be transferred to and merged and consolidated with amounts made available under this paragraph: Provided further, That the full-time equivalent staff years for the Office of the Inspector General for the fiscal year 1987 shall not be less than one hundred and ninety-three: Provided further, That except as may be required by an emergency evacuation affecting the United States diplomatic missions of which they are a component element, none of the funds in this Act, or any other Act, may be used to relocate the overseas Regional Offices of the Inspector General to another country.

Housing and other credit guaranty programs: During the fiscal year 1987, total commitments to guarantee loans shall not exceed $145,464,000 of contingent liability for loan principal: Provided, That the President shall enter into commitments to guarantee such loans in the full amount provided by this paragraph, subject only to the availability of qualified applicants for such guarantees: Provided further, That pursuant to section 223(e)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, borrowing authority provided therein may be exercised in such amounts as may be necessary to retain an adequate level of contingency reserves for the fiscal year 1987.

Economic support fund: For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of chapter 4 of part II, $3,550,000,000 including such funds as may be made available in fiscal year 1987 for Economic support funds for Central American countries through final enactment of section 205 of H.R. 5052: Provided, That of the funds appropriated under this paragraph, not less than $1,200,000,000 shall be available only for Israel, which sum shall be available on a grant basis as a cash transfer and shall be disbursed within 30 days of enactment of this Act or by October 31, 1986, whichever is later: Provided further, That not less than $815,000,000 shall be available only for Egypt, which sum shall be provided on a grant basis, of which not less than $115,000,000 shall be provided as a cash transfer in accordance with the provisions of section 202(b) of Public Law 99-83, and not less than $200,000,000 shall be provided as a Commodity Import Program: Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Agency for International Development is authorized to obligate such funds as it deems necessary in excess of $115,000,000 from the funds appropriated for assistance to Egypt for the fiscal year 1987 as direct cash transfer for Egypt: Provided further, That such obligations in excess of $115,000,000 shall only be made in support of the implementation of a comprehensive structural economic reform program by the Government of Egypt: Provided further, That all such cash transfers in excess of $115,000,000 shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate: Provided further, That such notifications for the provision of cash transfers in excess of $115,000,000 shall include detailed descriptions of the comprehensive structural economic reform program of the Government of Egypt: Provided further, That if the Agency for International Development obligates cash transfer assistance for Egypt exceeding $115,000,000, as permitted above, then such increased funding shall be derived through proportionate reductions in both the Commodity Import Program and project assistance: Provided further, That it is the sense of the Congress that the recommended levels of assistance for Egypt and Israel are based in great measure upon their continued participation in the Camp David Accords and upon the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty; and that Egypt and Israel are urged to continue their efforts to restore a full diplomatic relationship, including ambassadors, and achieve realization of the Camp David Accords: Provided further, That not less than $250,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph shall be available only for Pakistan: Provided further, That not less than $35,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph shall be available for a United States contribution to the International Fund for Northern Ireland and Ireland: Provided further, That not less than an additional sum of $200,000,000 shall be available only for the Philippines: Provided further, That not less than $15,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph shall be available for Cyprus: Provided further, That up to $15,000,000 shall be made available for Jordan in addition to funds otherwise made available by this paragraph and allocated to Jordan: Provided further, That any of the funds appropriated under this paragraph for El Salvador which are placed in the Central Reserve Bank of El Salvador shall be maintained in a separate account and not commingled with any other funds, except that such funds may be obligated and expended notwithstanding provisions of law which are inconsistent with the cash transfer nature of this assistance or which are referenced in the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference accompanying House Joint Resolution 648 (H. Rept. No. 98-1159): Provided further, That pursuant to section 660(d) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 up to $1,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph shall be made available to assist the Government of El Salvador's Special Investigative Unit for the purpose of bringing to justice those responsible for the murders of United States citizens in El Salvador: Provided further, That a report of the investigation shall be provided to the Congress: Provided further, That up to $20,000,000 of the funds appropriated under this paragraph may be made available to carry out the Administration of Justice program pursuant to section 534 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961: Provided further, That up to $20,000,000 of the funds made available by this paragraph may be provided to countries that are receiving "International Narcotics Control" assistance and that have made substantial progress in illicit drug control efforts: Provided further, That all funds made available pursuant to the previous proviso shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations and that such notifications shall contain an explanation of the progress in illicit drug control that has been made by the recipient country: Provided further, That all of the funds provided under this paragraph which are made available for disadvantaged persons in South Africa shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations: Provided further, That after February 1, 1987, any country which receives in excess of a total of $5,000,000 as cash transfer assistance shall maintain such funds in a separate account and shall not commingle such funds with any other funds, except that such funds may be obligated and expended notwithstanding provisions of law which are inconsistent with the cash transfer nature of this assistance or which are referenced in the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference accompanying House Joint Resolution 648 (H. Rept. No. 98-1159): Provided further, That all local currencies that may be generated with funds provided as a cash transfer in accordance with the previous proviso shall be deposited in a special account to be used in accordance with section 609 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961: Provided further, That not more than $5,000,000 of the funds made available under this paragraph may be available to finance tied aid credits, unless the President determines it is in the national interest to provide in excess of $5,000,000 and so notifies the Committees on Appropriations through the regular notification procedures: Provided further, That funds made available under this paragraph shall remain available until September 30, 1988.

During the fiscal year 1987 and within the resources and authority available, gross obligations for the principal amount of direct loans shall not exceed $900,000,000, including such resources and authority as are made available in Public Law 99-349 for fiscal year 1987: Provided, That, if the Chairman of the Export-Import Bank certifies that such budget authority will not be fully utilized during the fiscal year 1987, up to $100,000,000 of that amount may be available, subject to the regular notification procedures of the Appropriations Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives, as tied aid credits in accordance with the provisions of the Export-Import Bank Act Amendments of 1986: Provided further, That there is appropriated to the Export-Import Bank of the United States an amount equal to the grant amount of tied aid credits which are made available from time to time, but not to exceed $100,000,000, which shall be subject to the limitation on gross obligations for the principal amount of direct loans specified under this heading: Provided further, That during the fiscal year 1987, total commitments to guarantee loans shall not exceed $11,355,000,000 of contingent liability for loan principal: Provided further, That the direct loan and guaranty authority provided in this paragraph shall remain available until September 30, 1988.

LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

Not to exceed $18,371,500 (to be computed on an accrual basis) shall be available during fiscal year 1987 for administrative expenses, including hire of passenger motor vehicles and services as authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, and not to exceed $16,000 for official reception and representation expenses for members of the Board of Directors: Provided, That (1) fees or dues to international organizations of credit institutions engaged in financing foreign trade, (2) necessary expenses (including special services performed on a contract or a fee basis, but not including other personal services) in connection with the acquisition, operation, maintenance, improvement, or disposition of any real or personal property belonging to the Export-Import Bank or in which it has an interest, including expenses of collections of pledged collateral, or the investigation or appraisal of any property in respect to which an application for a loan has been made, and (3) expenses (other than internal expenses of the Export-Import Bank) incurred in connection with the issuance and servicing of guarantees, insurance, and reinsurance, shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses for the purposes of this heading.

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

TRADE AND DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of section 661, $20,000,000.

AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

TRADE CREDIT INSURANCE PROGRAM

During fiscal year 1987, total commitments to guarantee or insure loans for the "Trade Credit Insurance Program" shall not exceed $275,000,000 of contingent liability for loan principal.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 501. None of the funds appropriated in this Act (other than funds appropriated for "International organizations and programs") shall be used to finance the construction of any new flood control, reclamation, or other water or related land resource project or program which has not met the standards and criteria used in determining the feasibility of flood control, reclamation, and other water and related land resource programs and projects proposed for construction within the United States of America under the principles, standards and procedures established pursuant to the Water Resources Planning Act (42 U.S.C. 1962, et seq.) or Acts amendatory or supplementary thereto.

SEC. 502. Except for the appropriations entitled "International disaster assistance", and "United States emergency refugee and migration assistance fund" not more than 15 per centum of any appropriation item made available by this Act shall be obligated during the last month of availability.

SEC. 503. None of the funds appropriated in this Act nor any of the counterpart funds generated as a result of assistance hereunder or any prior Act shall be used to pay pensions, annuities, retirement pay, or adjusted service compensation for any person heretofore or hereafter serving in the armed forces of any recipient country.

SEC. 504. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act for carrying out the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, may be used for making payments on any contract for procurement to which the United States is a party entered into after the date of enactment of this Act which does not contain a provision authorizing the termination of such contract for the convenience of the United States.

SEC. 505. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act for carrying out the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, may be used to pay in whole or in part any assessments, arrearages, or dues of any member of the United Nations.

SEC. 506. None of the funds contained in title II of this Act may be used to carry out the provisions of section 209(d) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

SEC. 507. Of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act, not to exceed $110,000 shall be for official residence expenses of the Agency for International Development during the current fiscal year: Provided, That appropriate steps shall be taken to assure that, to the maximum extent possible, United States-owned foreign currencies are utilized in lieu of dollars.

SEC. 508. Of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act, not to exceed $10,000 shall be for entertainment expenses of the Agency for International Development during the current fiscal year.

SEC. 509. Of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act, not to exceed $100,000 shall be for representation allowances for the Agency for International Development during the current fiscal year: Provided, That appropriate steps shall be taken to assure that, to the maximum extent possible, United States-owned foreign currencies are utilized in lieu of dollars: Provided further, That of the total funds made available by this Act under the headings "Military assistance" and "Foreign military credit sales", not to exceed $2,500 shall be available for entertainment expenses and not to exceed $70,000 shall be available for representation allowances: Provided further, That of the funds made available by this Act under the heading "International military education and training", not to exceed $125,000 shall be available for entertainment allowances: Provided further, That of the funds made available by this Act for the Inter-American Foundation, not to exceed $2,500 shall be available for entertainment and representation allowances: Provided further, That of the funds made available by this Act for the Peace Corps, not to exceed a total of $4,000 shall be available for entertainment expenses: Provided further, That of the funds made available by this Act under the heading "Trade and Development Program", not to exceed $2,000 shall be available for representation and entertainment allowances.

SEC. 510. None of the funds appropriated or made available (other than funds for "International organizations and programs") pursuant to this Act, for carrying out the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, may be used to finance the export of nuclear equipment, fuel, or technology.

SEC. 511. Funds appropriated by this Act may not be obligated or expended to provide assistance to any country for the purpose of aiding the efforts of the government of such country to repress the legitimate rights of the population of such country contrary to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

SEC. 512. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated or expended to finance directly any assistance or reparations to Angola, Cambodia, Cuba, Iraq, Libya, the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, South Yemen, or Syria.

SEC. 513. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated or expended to finance directly any assistance to any country whose duly elected Head of Government is deposed by military coup or decree.

SEC. 514. None of the funds made available by this Act may be obligated under an appropriation account to which they were not appropriated without the written prior approval of the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of the Congress.

SEC. 515. Amounts certified pursuant to section 1311 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1955, as having been obligated against appropriations heretofore made under the authority of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 for the same general purpose as any of the paragraphs under the heading "Agency for International Development" are, if deobligated, hereby continued available for the same period as the respective appropriations in such paragraphs or until September 30, 1987 whichever is later, and for the same general purpose, and for countries within the same region as originally obligated: Provided, That the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of the Congress are notified fifteen days in advance of the deobligation and reobligation of such funds.

SEC. 516. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes within the United States not authorized before the date of enactment of this Act by the Congress.

SEC. 517. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation after the expiration of the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided in this Act: Provided, That funds appropriated for the purposes of chapter 1 of part I and chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, shall remain available until expended if such funds are initially obligated before the expiration of their respective periods of availability contained in this Act.

SEC. 518. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to furnish assistance to any country which is in default during a period in excess of one calendar year in payment to the United States of principal or interest on any loan made to such country by the United States pursuant to a program for which funds are appropriated under this Act.

SEC. 519. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act shall be available to any international financial institution whose United States governor or representative cannot upon request obtain the amounts and the names of borrowers for all loans of the international financial institution, including loans to employees of the institution, or the compensation and related benefits of employees of the institution.

SEC. 520. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act shall be available to any international financial institution whose United States governor or representative cannot upon request obtain any document developed by the management of the international financial institution.

SEC. 521. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act for direct assistance and none of the funds otherwise made available pursuant to this Act to the Export-Import Bank and the Overseas Private Investment Corporation shall be obligated or expended to finance any loan, any assistance or any other financial commitments for establishing or expanding production of any commodity for export by any country other than the United States, if the commodity is likely to be in surplus on world markets at the time the resulting productive capacity is expected to become operative and if the assistance will cause substantial injury to United States producers of the same, similar, or competing commodity: Provided, That such prohibition shall not apply to the Export-Import Bank if in the judgment of its Board of Directors the benefits to industry and employment in the United States are likely to outweigh the injury to United States producers of the same, similar, or competing commodity.

SEC. 522. The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States executive directors of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Investment Corporation, the African Development Bank, and the African Development Fund to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose any assistance by these institutions, using funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act, for the production of any commodity for export, if it is in surplus on world markets and if the assistance will cause substantial injury to United States producers of the same, similar, or competing commodity.

SEC. 523. None of the funds made available under this Act for "Agriculture, rural development and nutrition, Development Assistance", "Population, Development Assistance", "Child Survival Fund", "Health, Development Assistance", "Education and human resources development, Development Assistance", "Energy and selected development activities, Development Assistance", "Science and technology, Development Assistance", "International organizations and programs", "American schools and hospitals abroad", "Sahel development program", "Trade and development program", "International narcotics control", "Economic support fund", "Peacekeeping operations", "Operating expenses of the Agency for International Development", "Operating expenses of the Agency for International Development Office of Inspector General", "Anti-terrorism assistance", "Military assistance", "International military education and training", "Foreign military credit sales", "Inter-American Foundation", "African Development Foundation", "Peace Corps", or "Migration and refugee assistance", shall be available for obligation for activities, programs, projects, type of materiel assistance, countries, or other operation not justified or in excess of the amount justified to the Appropriations Committees for obligation under any of these specific headings for the current fiscal year unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress are previously notified fifteen days in advance.

SEC. 524. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 525. None of the funds appropriated under this Act may be used to lobby for abortion.

SEC. 526. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available under this Act may be available for any country during any three-month period beginning on or after October 1, 1986, immediately following a certification by the President to the Congress that the government of such country is failing to take adequate measures to prevent narcotic drugs or other controlled substances (as listed in the schedules in section 202 of the Comprehensive Drug Abuse and Prevention Control Act of 1971 (21 U.S.C. 812)) which are cultivated, produced, or processed illicitly, in whole or in part, in such country, or transported through such country from being sold illegally within the jurisdiction of such country to United States Government personnel or their dependents or from entering the United States unlawfully.

SEC. 527. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or this Act, none of the funds provided for "International organizations and programs" shall be available for the United States' proportionate share for any programs for the Palestine Liberation Organization, the Southwest African Peoples Organization, Libya, Iran, or, at the discretion of the President, communist countries listed in section 620(f) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended.

SEC. 528. (a) Not later than January 31 of each year, or at the time of the transmittal by the President to the Congress of the annual presentation materials on foreign assistance, whichever is earlier, the President shall transmit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate a full and complete report which assesses, with respect to each foreign country, the degree of support by the government of each such country during the preceding twelve-month period for the foreign policy of the United States. Such report shall include, with respect to each such country which is a member of the United Nations, information to be compiled and supplied by the Permanent Representative of the United States to the United Nations, consisting of a comparison of the overall voting practices in the principal bodies of the United Nations during the preceding twelve-month period of such country and the United States, with special note of the voting and speaking records of such country on issues of major importance to the United States in the General Assembly and the Security Council, and shall also include a report on actions with regard to the United States in important related documents such as the Non-Aligned Communique. A full compilation of the information supplied by the Permanent Representative of the United States to the United Nations for inclusion in such report shall be provided as an addendum to such report.

(b) None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated or expended to finance directly any assistance to a country which the President finds, based on the contents of the report required to be transmitted under subsection (a), is engaged in a consistent pattern of opposition to the foreign policy of the United States.

(c) The report required by subsection (a) of this section shall be in the identical format as the "Report to Congress on Voting Practices in the United Nations" which was submitted pursuant to Public Law 99-190 and Public Law 98-164 on June 6, 1986.

SEC. 529. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, Israel may utilize any loan which is or was made available under the Arms Export Control Act and for which repayment is or was forgiven before utilizing any other loan made available under the Arms Export Control Act.

SEC. 530. In reaffirmation of the 1975 memorandum of agreement between the United States and Israel, and in accordance with section 1302 of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-83), no employee of or individual acting on behalf of the United States Government shall recognize or negotiate with the Palestine Liberation Organization or representatives thereof, so long as the Palestine Liberation Organization does not recognize Israel's right to exist, does not accept Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338, and does not renounce the use of terrorism.

SEC. 531. The Congress finds that progress on the peace process in the Middle East is vitally important to United States security interests in the region. The Congress recognizes that, in fulfilling its obligations under the Treaty of Peace Between the Arab Republic of Egypt and the State of Israel, done at Washington on March 26, 1979, Israel incurred severe economic burdens. Furthermore, the Congress recognizes that an economically and militarily secure Israel serves the security interests of the United States, for a secure Israel is an Israel which has the incentive and confidence to continue pursuing the peace process. Therefore, the Congress declares that it is the policy and the intention of the United States that the funds provided in annual appropriations for the Economic support fund which are allocated to Israel shall not be less than the annual debt repayment (interest and principal) from Israel to the United States Government in recognition that such a principle serves United States interests in the region.

SEC. 532. None of the funds made available in this Act shall be restricted for obligation or disbursement solely as a result of the policies of any multilateral institution.

SEC. 533. Ceilings and earmarks contained in this Act shall not be applicable to funds or authorities appropriated or otherwise made available by any subsequent act unless such act specifically so directs.

SEC. 534. The Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of State are directed to submit to the Committees on Appropriations by February 1, 1987, a report on the domestic economic policies of those nations receiving economic assistance, either directly or indirectly from the United States including, where appropriate, an analysis of the foreign assistance programs conducted by these recipient nations.

SEC. 535. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act for "Economic support fund" or for "Foreign military credit sales" shall be obligated or expended for Lebanon except as provided through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

SEC. 536. Of the funds made available by this Act for Jamaica and Peru, not more than 50 per centum of the funds made available for each country shall be obligated unless the President determines and reports to the Congress that the Governments of these countries are sufficiently responsive to the United States Government concerns on drug control and that the added expenditures of the funds for that country are in the national interest of the United States: Provided, That this provision shall not be applicable to funds made available to carry out section 481 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961: Provided further, That assistance may be provided to Bolivia for fiscal year 1987, under chapter 2 (relating to grant military assistance), chapter 4 (relating to the economic support fund), and chapter 5 (relating to international military education and training) of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, and under chapter 2 of the Arms Export Control Act (relating to foreign military sales financing), only in accordance with the provisions of section 611 of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-83) as amended by section 2011 of H.R. 5484 as passed by the Senate on September 30, 1986.

SEC. 537. None of the funds available in this Act may be used to make available to El Salvador any helicopters or other aircraft, and licenses may not be issued under section 38 of the Arms Export Control Act for the export to El Salvador of any such aircraft, unless the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate are notified at least fifteen days in advance in accordance with the procedures applicable to notifications.

SEC. 538. Funds provided in this Act for Guatemala may not be provided to the Government of Guatemala for use in its rural resettlement program, except through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

SEC. 539. (a) The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States Executive Directors of the Multilateral Development Banks to—

(1) vigorously promote a commitment of these institutions to—

(A) add professionally trained staff with experience in ecology and related areas to undertake environmental review of projects, and strengthen existing staff exercising environmental responsibilities;

(B) develop and implement management plans to ensure systematic and thorough environmental review of all projects and activities affecting the ecology and natural resources of borrowing countries, including—

(i) creation of a line unit to carry out such reviews as part of the normal project cycle,

(ii) appointment of an environmental advisor to the Presidents of the Multilateral Development Banks,

(iii) institution of a regular program of monitoring all ongoing projects to ensure that contract conditions and general bank policies to protect the environment and indigenous peoples are fully complied with;

(C) create career and other institutional incentives for all professionally trained bank staff to incorporate environmental and natural resources concerns into project planning and country programming activities;

(2) vigorously promote changes in these institutions in their preparation of projects and country programs that will prompt staff and encourage borrower countries to—

(A) actively and regularly involve environmental and health ministers, or comparable representatives, at the national, regional and local level, in the preparation of environmentally sensitive projects and in bank-supported country program planning and strategy sessions;

(B) actively and regularly seek the participation of non-governmental indigenous peoples and conservation organizations in the host countries at all stages of project planning and strategy sessions;

(C) fully inform local communities and appropriate non-governmental organizations with interests in local development projects of all project planning sufficiently in advance of project appraisal to allow informed participation of local communities and non-governmental organizations that may be adversely affected by them;

(3) establish a regular integrated multidisciplinary planning process to conduct land use capability analyses in reviewing potential loans. Such plans shall include, but not be limited to, a review of ongoing or other potential resource utilization efforts in and adjacent to the project area;

(4) vigorously promote a commitment of these institutions to develop and implement plans for the rehabilitation and management of the ecological resources of borrower nations on a sustained basis. Special attention shall be paid to soil conservation, wildlife, wetlands, estuaries, croplands, grasslands, forests, and fisheries, including—

(A) long-term programs of research designed to manage ecosystems properly;

(B) provision of adequate extension workers, park rangers, social forestry experts, and other appropriate personnel; and

(C) improved programs of training in environmental science and land-use planning;

(5) vigorously promote a commitment of these institutions to increase the proportion of their programs supporting environmentally beneficial projects and project components, such as technical assistance for environmental ministries and institutions, resource rehabilitation projects and project components, protection of indigenous peoples, and appropriate light capital technology projects. Other examples of such projects include small scale mixed farming and multiple cropping, agroforestry, programs to promote kitchen gardens, watershed management and rehabilitation, high yield wood lots, integrated pest management systems, dune stabilization programs, programs to improve energy efficiency, energy efficient technologies such as small scale hydro projects, rural solar energy systems, and rural and mobile telecommunications systems, and improved efficiency and management of irrigation systems.

(6) place an increased emphasis on upgrading the efficient use of energy and other resources by borrower nations. Such efforts shall include, but not be limited to—

(A) significantly increasing the proportion of energy project lending for energy efficiency improvements, and decentralized small scale facilities such as solar, wind, or biomass generating facilities; and

(B) conducting an analyses of the comparative costs of any new energy generating facilities with the cost of increasing the energy efficiency in the project service area;

(7) seek a commitment of these institutions to fund projects to protect and preserve crucial wetland systems and to avoid expenditures for projects designed to convert major wetland systems. Development proposals which may affect these areas should be the subject of detailed impact assessments so as to avoid detrimental impacts to fisheries, wildlife and other important resources;

(8) vigorously promote the establishment within the Economic Development Institute of the World Bank of a component which provides training in environmental and natural resource planning and program development;

(9) regularly raise, at meetings of the Boards of Directors of these institutions, the issue of their progress in improving their environmental performance, with specific focus on the measures set forth above; and

(10) require at least a four week project review period between the time when staff recommendations are presented to the board and board action on any projects.

(b) The Secretaries of Treasury and State, and the Administrator of the Agency for International Development, shall ensure and coordinate a thorough evaluation within the U.S. Government of the potential environmental problems, and the adequacy of measures to address these problems, associated with all proposed loans for projects involving large impoundments of rivers in tropical countries; penetration roads into relatively undeveloped areas; and agricultural and rural development programs. The potential environmental problems to be addressed in such evaluations shall include those relating to deterioration of water quality; siltation; spread of waterborne diseases; forced resettlement; deforestation; threats to the land, health and culture of indigenous peoples; wetlands disruption; topsoil management, water logging and salinization in irrigation projects; and pesticide misuse and resistance.

(c) The Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of State shall regularly undertake and continue diplomatic and other initiatives, in addition to those mentioned in subsection (a)(5), to discuss measures to improve the environmental performance of the Multilateral Development Banks with the representatives to these institutions, and with ministries from which they receive their instructions, of borrower and donor nations. In particular, joint efforts shall be undertaken with borrowers and donors to ensure cooperative implementation of the reforms described above.

(d) The Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of State shall propose formally that the Boards of Governors of each Multilateral Development Bank hold a special meeting within the next twelve months, focused specifically on environmental performance and better implementation of multilateral development policies designed to protect the environment and indigenous peoples.

(e) The Secretary of the Treasury shall prepare and submit to the Committees on Appropriations by January 15, 1987, and annually thereafter, a report documenting the progress the Multilateral Development Banks have made in implementing the environmental reform measures described in paragraphs one through eight of subsection (a).

(f) In the report of the Secretary of the Treasury required by subsection (e), regarding the implementation of staffing measures suggested in subsection (a)(1)(A), the Secretary of the Treasury shall specifically discuss the progress of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development in upgrading and adding environmentally trained professionals to each of its six regional offices to review projects for their prospective ecological impacts.

(g) The Administrator of the Agency for International Development in conjunction with the Secretaries of Treasury and State shall—

(1) instruct overseas missions of the Agency for International Development and embassies of the United States to analyze the impacts of Multilateral Development Bank projects proposed to be undertaken in the host country well in advance of a project's approval by the relevant institution. Such reviews shall address the economic viability of the project; adverse impacts on the environment, natural resources, and indigenous peoples; and recommendations as to measures, including alternatives, that could eliminate or mitigate adverse impacts. If not classified under the national security system of classification, such information shall be made available to the public;

(2) in preparation of reviews required by subsection (g)(1), compile a list of categories of projects likely to have adverse impacts on the environment, natural resources, or indigenous peoples. The list shall be developed in consultation with interested members of the public and made available to the Committee on Appropriations by December 31, 1986 and semiannually thereafter; and

(3) study the feasibility of creating a cooperative "early warning system" for projects of concern with other interested donors.

(h) If a review required by subsection (g)(1) identifies adverse impacts to the environment, natural resources, or indigenous peoples, the Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States Executive Director of the Multilateral Development Bank to seek changes to the project necessary to eliminate or mitigate those impacts.

(i) The Administrator of the Agency for International Development shall appoint a Committee on Health and the Environment to examine opportunities for assisting countries in the proper use of agricultural and industrial chemicals and processes and alternatives such as integrated pest management. The committee shall be broadly representative of industry, agriculture, labor, health and environmental interests and shall report its preliminary findings to Congress before hearings on the fiscal year 1988 budget.

SEC. 540. None of the funds made available to carry out part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be used to pay for the performance of abortions as a method of family planning or to motivate or coerce any person to practice abortions. None of the funds made available to carry out part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be used to pay for the performance of involuntary sterilization as a method of family planning or to coerce or provide any financial incentive to any person to undergo sterilizations. None of the funds made available to carry out part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be used to pay for any biomedical research which relates in whole or in part, to methods of, or the performance of, abortions or involuntary sterilization as a means of family planning. None of the funds made available to carry out part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, may be obligated or expended for any country or organization if the President certifies that the use of these funds by any such country or organization would violate any of the above provisions related to abortions and involuntary sterilizations. The Congress reaffirms its commitments to Population, Development Assistance and to the need for informed voluntary family planning.

SEC. 541. Not less than $30,000,000 of the aggregate amount of funds appropriated by this Act to carry out the provisions of chapter 1 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 and chapter 4 of part II of that Act, shall be available for the provision of food, medicine, or other humanitarian assistance to the Afghan people, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

SEC. 542. None of the funds provided in this Act shall be available for the Sudan if the President determines that the Sudan is acting in a manner that would endanger the stability of the region, or the Camp David peace process.

SEC. 543. The President shall make available to the Cambodian non-Communist resistance forces not less than $1,500,000 nor more than $5,000,000 of the funds appropriated by this Act for "Military assistance" and for the "Economic support fund", notwithstanding any other provision of law: Provided, That funds appropriated by this Act for this purpose shall be obligated in accordance with the provisions of section 906 of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-83).

SEC. 544. None of the funds appropriated or made available pursuant to this Act shall be available to a private voluntary organization which fails to provide upon timely request any document, file, or record necessary to the auditing requirements of the Agency for International Development.

SEC. 545. Of the amounts made available by this Act for military assistance and financing for El Salvador under chapters 2 and 5 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 and under the Arms Export Control Act, $5,000,000 may not be expended until the President reports, following the conclusion of the Appeals process in the case of Captain Avila, to the Committees on Appropriations that the Government of El Salvador has (1) substantially concluded all investigative action with respect to those responsible for the January, 1981 deaths of the two United States land reform consultants Michael Hammer and Mark Pearlman and the Salvadoran Land Reform Institute Director Jose Rodolfo Viera, and (2) pursued all legal avenues to bring to trial and obtain a verdict of those who ordered and carried out the January, 1981 murders.

SEC. 546. It is the sense of the Congress that all countries receiving United States foreign assistance under the "Economic support fund", "Foreign Military Credit Sales", "Military Assistance" program, "International military education and training", Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 (Public Law 480), development assistance programs, or trade promotion programs should fully cooperate with the international refugee assistance organizations, the United States, and other governments in facilitating lasting solutions to refugee situations. Further, where resettlement to other countries is the appropriate solution, such resettlement should be expedited in cooperation with the country of asylum without respect to race, sex, religion, or national origin.

SEC. 547. (a) The Congress finds that—

(1) the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) reports that four million children die annually because they have not been immunized against the six major childhood diseases: polio, measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and tuberculosis;

(2) at present less than 20 percent of children in the developing world are fully immunized against these diseases;

(3) each year more than five million additional children are permanently disabled and suffer diminished capacities to contribute to the economic, social and political development of their countries because they have not been immunized;

(4) ten million additional childhood deaths from immunizable and potentially immunizable diseases could be averted annually by the development of techniques in biotechnology for new and cost-effective vaccines;

(5) the World Health Assembly, the Executive Board of the United Nations Children's Fund, and the United Nations General Assembly are calling upon the nations of the world to commit the resources necessary to meet the challenge of universal access to childhood immunization by 1990;

(6) the United States, through the Centers for Disease Control and the Agency for International Development, joined in a global effort by providing political and technical leadership that made possible the eradication of smallpox during the 1970's;

(7) the development of national immunization systems that can both be sustained and also serve as a model for a wide range of primary health care actions is a desired outcome of our foreign assistance policy;

(8) the United States Centers for Disease Control headquartered in Atlanta is uniquely qualified to provide technical assistance for a worldwide immunization and eradication effort and is universally respected;

(9) at the 1984 Bellagio Conference it was determined that the goal of universal childhood immunization by 1990 is indeed achievable;

(10) the Congress, through authorizations and appropriations for international health research and primary health care activities and the establishment of the Child Survival Fund, has played a vital role in providing for the well-being of the world's children;

(11) the Congress has expressed its expectation that the Agency for International Development will set as a goal the immunization by 1990 of at least 80 percent of all the children in those countries in which the Agency has a program; and

(12) the United States private sector and public at large have responded generously to appeals for support for national immunization campaigns in developing countries.

(b)(1) The Congress calls upon the President to direct the Agency for International Development, working through the Centers for Disease Control and other appropriate Federal agencies, to work in a global effort to provide enhanced support toward achieving the goal of universal access to childhood immunization by 1990 by—

(A) assisting in the delivery, distribution, and use of vaccines, including—

(i) the building of locally sustainable systems and technical capacities in developing countries to reach, by the appropriate age, not less than 80 per centum of their annually projected target population with the full schedule of required immunizations, and

(ii) the development of a sufficient network of indigenous professionals and institutions with responsibility for developing, monitoring, and assessing immunization programs and continually adapting strategies to reach the goal of preventing immunizable diseases; and

(B) performing, supporting, and encouraging research and development activities, both in the public and private sector, that will be targeted at developing new vaccines and at modifying and improving existing vaccines to make them more appropriate for use in developing countries.

(2) In support of this global effort, the President should appeal to the people of the United States and the United States private sector to support public and private efforts to provide the resources necessary to achieve universal access to childhood immunization by 1990.

SEC. 548. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be made available for any costs associated with the Government of Ethiopia's forced resettlement or villagization programs.

SEC. 549. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be obligated or expended for Sudan or Liberia except as provided through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

SEC. 550. For the purpose of this Act, "program, project, and activity" shall be defined at the Appropriations Act account level and shall include all Appropriations and Authorizations Acts earmarks, ceilings, and limitations with the exception that for the following accounts: Economic support fund; Military Assistance; and Foreign military credit sales, "program, project, and activity" shall also be considered to include country, regional, and central program level funding within each such account; for the functional development assistance accounts of the Agency for International Development "program, project, and activity" shall also be considered to include central program level funding, either as (1) justified to the Congress, or (2) allocated by the Executive Branch in accordance with a report, to be provided to the Committees on Appropriations within thirty days of enactment of a Foreign Assistance and Related Programs Appropriations Act or of enactment of a continuing resolution containing funding for these programs for the balance of the fiscal year 1987, as required by Section 653(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, whichever is the more recent action.

SEC. 551. Of the funds made available by this Act and appropriated for the "Child Survival Fund" and "Health, Development Assistance", up to an additional $4,150,000 may be used to reimburse the U.S. Public Health Service or the Centers for Disease Control for the full cost of up to an additional thirty Public Health Service employees specifically for the purpose of carrying out immunization activities of the Child Survival Fund.

SEC. 552. Earmarks, limitations, and ceilings on programs, projects, and activities for fiscal year 1987 shall be treated as follows: (1) earmarks, limitations, and ceilings shall be as designated in this Act; (2) earmarks, limitations, and ceilings, in other legislation which pertain to foreign assistance programs funded by this Act, shall be reduced proportionately by a percentage equal to the percentage decrease in funds available in each account for countries other than Israel, Egypt, and Pakistan from fiscal year 1986 post sequestration funding levels to fiscal year 1987 appropriation levels; and (3) nothing in this section shall preclude the application of sequestration action in fiscal year 1987, if it occurs, from applying to all earmarks, limitations, and ceilings in this Act and in applying to earmarks, limitations, and ceilings in corresponding authorizations legislation.

SEC. 553. If any funds appropriated by this Act for "Economic support fund", "Military assistance", "International military education and training", or "Foreign military credit sales" are not used for assistance for the country for which those funds were allocated because that country has not taken adequate steps to halt illicit drug production or trafficking (including any funds withheld pursuant to section 481(h) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 or section 611 or 612 of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985), those funds shall be used for additional assistance for those countries which have met their illicit drug eradication targets or have otherwise taken significant steps to halt illicit drug production or trafficking, as follows:

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), those funds shall be transferred to the "International Narcotics Control" account in order to provide additional narcotics control assistance to those countries. Such transfers may be made without regard to the 20-percent increase limitation contained in section 610(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. Such transfers shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

(2) Any of those funds—

(A) which the President determines (and reports to the Congress) should not be used for additional narcotics control assistance for those countries because the additional assistance could not be used effectively in halting illicit drug production or trafficking,

(B) whose transfer pursuant to paragraph (1) is not approved by the Appropriations Committees, or shall be reprogrammed within the account for which they were appropriated (subject to regular reprogramming procedures of the Committees on Appropriations) in order to provide additional economic or military assistance (as the case may be) to those countries.

(C) which are appropriated for "Foreign military credit sales",

SEC. 554. The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States Executive Director of the Inter-American Development Bank to work with the representatives, and with the ministries from which they receive their instructions, of other donor nations to the Inter-American Development Bank, to develop a coordinated economic development program for the assistance activities of the Bank for Haiti. Such program should be developed in cooperation with the Department of State and the Agency for International Development to ensure that the bilateral economic assistance programs of the United States for Haiti are effectively coordinated with the activities of the Inter-American Development Bank.

SEC. 555. (a) Section 49 of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286gg) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) For purposes of this section, the term 'multilateral development banks' means the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the Inter-American Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and the Asian Development Bank.".

(b) Section 49(a)(1) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286gg(a)(1)) is amended—

(1) by inserting before "the Fund" the first place it appears the following: "each of the multilateral development banks (in this section referred to as the 'banks') and of";

(2) by inserting "each of the banks and of" before "the Fund" the second place it appears;

(3) by inserting "banks and of the" before "Fund" the third place it appears; and

(4) by striking "Fund" the fourth place it appears.

(c) Section 49(a)(3) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286gg(a)(3)) is amended—

(1) by inserting "each of the banks and of" before "the Fund" the first place it appears; and

(2) by striking "Fund" the second place it appears and inserting "their".

(d) Section 49(b)(1) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286gg(b)(1)) is amended—

(1) by inserting "each of the banks and of" before "the Fund" the first place it appears;

(2) by inserting "the banks and by" before "the Fund" the second place it appears; and

(3) by inserting "the banks and" before "the Fund" the third place it appears.

(e) Section 49(c) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286gg(c)) is amended by inserting "bank and" before "Fund" each place it appears.

(f) Sections 49(c) (1) and (2) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (22 U.S.C. 286 gg(c)) is amended by inserting after the word "for" the first time it appears "loans or".

SEC. 556. Section 901(d) of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 is hereby repealed.

SEC. 557. (a) It is the sense of Congress that pursuant to Section 701 of the International Institutions Act of 1977, the United States Government should oppose all loans to Chile from multilateral development institutions, except for those for basic human needs, until—

(1) the Government of Chile has ended its practice and pattern of gross abuse of internationally recognized human rights;

(2) significant steps have been taken by the Government of Chile to restore democracy, including—

(A) the implementation of political reforms which are essential to the development of democracy, such as the legalization of political parties, the enactment of election laws, the establishment of freedom of speech and the press, and the fair and prompt administration of justice; and

(B) a precise and reasonable timetable has been established for the transition to democracy.

(b) None of the funds made available by this Act for the "Economic support fund" or for Title III shall be obligated or expended for Chile.

SEC. 558. None of the funds appropriated by this or any other Act to carry out chapter 1 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 shall be available for any testing or breeding feasibility study, variety improvement or introduction, consultancy, publication, conference, or training in connection with the growth or production in a foreign country of an agricultural commodity for export which would compete with a similar commodity grown or produced in the United States: Provided, That this section shall not prohibit:

(1) activities designed to increase food security in developing countries where such activities will not have a significant impact in the export of agricultural commodities of the United States; or

(2) research activities intended primarily to benefit American producers.

SEC. 559. None of the funds provided in this Act to the Agency for International Development, other than funds made available to carry out Caribbean Basin Initiative programs under the Tariff Schedules of the United States, 19 U.S.C. 1202, Schedule 8, Part I, Subpart B, Item 807.00, shall be obligated or expended—

(1) to procure directly feasibility studies or prefeasibility studies for, or project profiles of potential investment in, the manufacture, for export to the United States or to third country markets in direct competition with United States exports, of import-sensitive articles as defined by section 503(c)(1)(A) and (E) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 2463(c)(1)(A) and (E)); or

(2) to assist directly in the establishment of facilities specifically designed for the manufacture, for export to the United States or to third country markets in direct competition with United States exports, of import-sensitive articles as defined in section 503(c)(1)(A) and (E) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 2463(c)(1)(A) and (E)).

SEC. 560. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated to finance indirectly any assistance or reparations to Angola, Cambodia, Cuba, Iraq, Libya, the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, South Yemen, or Syria unless the President of the United States certifies that the withholding of these funds is contrary to the national interest of the United States.

This Act may be cited as the "Foreign Assistance and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1987".

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 7:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 7, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert the following:

(g) Such amounts as may be necessary are hereby appropriated for programs, projects, or activities provided for in H.R. 5313, the Department of Housing and Urban Development-Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conference report and joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference (House Report 99-977) as filed in the House of Representatives on October 7, 1986, as if enacted into law: Provided, That, notwithstanding any other provision of this joint resolution, including section 102, in addition to the funds otherwise made available in this subsection, the following amounts are made available: (1) an additional $36,000,000, to remain available until September 30, 1988, is hereby appropriated for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "Research and development"; and (2) an additional $2,398,000,000, to remain available until expended, is hereby appropriated for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "Space flight, control and data communications", including (a) $2,100,000,000 for orbiter production only, which amount shall not become available for obligation until August 1, 1987, and (b) $265,000,000 for space shuttle operations, which amount, together with $266,000,000 otherwise made available for this account by this subsection (or by enactment into law of the above named Act) shall not become available for obligation until January 15, 1987.

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 8:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 8, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert:

(h) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects or activities provided for in the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided as follows, to be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act.

An Act making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and for other purposes.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

For expenses necessary for protection, use, improvement, development, disposal, cadastral surveying, classification, and performance of other functions, including maintenance of facilities, as authorized by law, in the management of lands and their resources under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management, including the general administration of the Bureau of Land Management, $483,610,000, of which $83,000,000 for firefighting and repayment to other appropriations from which funds were transferred under the authority of section 102 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986, as contained in Public Law 99-190, and $5,000,000 for insect and disease control projects, including grasshoppers, shall remain available until expended: Provided, That regulations pertaining to mining operations on public lands conducted under the Mining Law of 1872 (30 U.S.C. 22, et seq.) and sections 302, 303, and 603 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1732, 1733, and 1782) shall be modified to include a requirement for the posting of reclamation bonds by operators for all operations which involve significant surface disturbance, (a) at the discretion of the authorized officer for operators who have a record of compliance with pertinent regulations concerning mining on public lands, and (b) on a mandatory basis only for operators with a history of noncompliance with the aforesaid regulations: Provided further, That surety bonds, third party surety bonds, or irrevocable letters of credit shall qualify as bond instruments: Provided further, That evidence of an equivalent bond posted with a State agency shall be accepted in lieu of a separate bond: Provided further, That the amount of such bonds shall be sufficient to cover the costs of reclamation as estimated by the Bureau of Land Management.

CONSTRUCTION AND ACCESS

For acquisition of lands and interests therein, and construction of buildings, recreation facilities, roads, trails, and appurtenant facilities, $2,800,000, to remain available until expended.

PAYMENTS IN LIEU OF TAXES

For expenses necessary to implement the Act of October 20, 1976 (31 U.S.C. 6901-07), $105,000,000, of which not to exceed $400,000 shall be available for administrative expenses.

LAND ACQUISITION

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of sections 205, 206, and 318(d) of Public Law 94-579 including administrative expenses and acquisition of lands or waters, or interest therein, $6,220,000, to be derived from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, to remain available until expended.

Of the funds appropriated under this head in Public Law 98-396 to carry out the provisions of Public Law 93-531, as amended, $3,200,000 are rescinded.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA GRANT LANDS

For expenses necessary for management, protection, and development of resources and for construction, operation, and maintenance of access roads, reforestation, and other improvements on the revested Oregon and California Railroad grant lands, on other Federal lands in the Oregon and California land-grant counties of Oregon, and on adjacent rights-of-way; and acquisition of lands or interests therein including existing connecting roads on or adjacent to such grant lands; $54,524,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That the amount appropriated herein for road construction shall be transferred to the Federal Highway Administration, Department of Transportation: Provided further, That 25 per centum of the aggregate of all receipts during the current fiscal year from the revested Oregon and California Railroad grant lands is hereby made a charge against the Oregon and California land grant fund and shall be transferred to the General Fund in the Treasury in accordance with the provisions of the second paragraph of subsection (b) of title II of the Act of August 28, 1937 (50 Stat. 876).

RANGE IMPROVEMENTS

For rehabilitation, protection, and acquisition of lands and interests therein, and improvement of Federal rangelands pursuant to section 401 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1701), notwithstanding any other Act, sums equal to 50 per centum of all moneys received during the prior fiscal year under sections 3 and 15 of the Taylor Grazing Act (43 U.S.C. 315, et seq.), but not less than $9,253,000 (43 U.S.C. 1901), and the amount designated for range improvements from grazing fees and mineral leasing receipts from Bankhead-Jones lands transferred to the Department of the Interior pursuant to law, to remain available until expended: Provided, That not to exceed $600,000 shall be available for administrative expenses.

SERVICE CHARGES, DEPOSITS, AND FORFEITURES

For administrative expenses and other costs related to processing application documents and other authorizations for use and disposal of public lands and resources, for monitoring construction, operation, and termination of facilities in conjunction with use authorizations, and for rehabilitation of damaged property, such amounts as may be collected under sections 209(b), 304(a), 304(b), 305(a), and 504(g) of the Act approved October 21, 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1701), and sections 101 and 203 of Public Law 93-153, to be immediately available until expended.

MISCELLANEOUS TRUST FUNDS

In addition to amounts authorized to be expended under existing law, there is hereby appropriated such amounts as may be contributed under section 307 of the Act of October 21, 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1701), and such amounts as may be advanced for administrative costs, surveys, appraisals, and costs of making conveyances of omitted lands under section 211(b) of that Act, to remain available until expended.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the Bureau of Land Management shall be available for purchase, erection, and dismantlement of temporary structures, and alteration and maintenance of necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities to which the United States has title; up to $10,000 for payments, at the discretion of the Secretary, for information or evidence concerning violations of laws administered by the Bureau of Land Management; miscellaneous and emergency expenses of enforcement activities authorized or approved by the Secretary and to be accounted for solely on his certificate, not to exceed $10,000: Provided, That appropriations herein made for Bureau of Land Management expenditures in connection with the revested Oregon and California Railroad and reconveyed Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands (other than expenditures made under the appropriation "Oregon and California grant lands") shall be reimbursed to the General Fund of the Treasury from the 25 per centum referred to in subsection (c), title II, of the Act approved August 28, 1937 (50 Stat. 876), of the special fund designated the "Oregon and California land grant fund" and section 4 of the Act approved May 24, 1939 (53 Stat. 754), of the special fund designated the "Coos Bay Wagon Road grant fund": Provided further, That appropriations herein made may be expended for surveys of Federal lands of the United States and on a reimbursable basis for surveys of Federal lands of the United States and for protection of lands for the State of Alaska: Provided further, That an appeal of any reductions in grazing allotments on public rangelands must be taken within thirty days after receipt of a final grazing allotment decision. Reductions of up to 10 per centum in grazing allotments shall become effective when so designated by the Secretary of the Interior. Upon appeal any proposed reduction in excess of 10 per centum shall be suspended pending final action on the appeal, which shall be completed within two years after the appeal is filed: Provided further, That appropriations herein made shall be available for paying costs incidental to the utilization of services contributed by individuals who serve without compensation as volunteers in aid of work of the Bureau.

UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

For expenses necessary for scientific and economic studies, conservation, management, investigations, protection, and utilization of sport fishery and wildlife resources, except whales, seals, and sea lions, and for the performance of other authorized functions related to such resources; for the general administration of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service; and for maintenance of the herd of long-horned cattle on the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge; and not less than $1,000,000 for high priority projects within the scope of the approved budget which shall be carried out by Youth Conservation Corps as if authorized by the Act of August 13, 1970, as amended by Public Law 93-408, $314,692,000 of which $4,300,000, to carry out the purposes of 16 U.S.C. 1535, shall remain available until expended; and of which $6,411,000 shall be for operation and maintenance of fishery mitigation facilities constructed by the Corps of Engineers under the Lower Snake River Compensation Plan, authorized by the Water Resources Development Act of 1976 (90 Stat. 2921), to compensate for loss of fishery resources from water development projects on the Lower Snake River, and shall remain available until expended.

CONSTRUCTION AND ANADROMOUS FISH

For construction and acquisition of buildings and other facilities required in the conservation, management, investigations, protection, and utilization of sport fishery and wildlife resources, and the acquisition of lands and interests therein; $26,513,000, to remain available until expended, of which $2,000,000 shall be available for expenses to carry out the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act (16 U.S.C. 757a-757g).

MIGRATORY BIRD CONSERVATION ACCOUNT

For an advance to the migratory bird conservation account, as authorized by the Act of October 4, 1971, as amended (16 U.S.C. 715k-3, 5), $7,000,000, to remain available until expended.

LAND ACQUISITION

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 460l-4-11), including administrative expenses, and for acquisition of land or waters, or interest therein, in accordance with statutory authority applicable to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, $42,425,000, to be derived from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, to remain available until expended: Provided, That $3,000,000 for Bayou Sauvage NWR shall be available subject to authorization.

NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE FUND

For expenses necessary to implement the Act of October 17, 1978 (16 U.S.C. 715s), $5,645,000.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations and funds available to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service shall be available for purchase of not to exceed 72 passenger motor vehicles for replacement only (including 72 for police-type use); purchase of 1 new aircraft for replacement only; not to exceed $300,000 for payment, at the discretion of the Secretary, for information, rewards, or evidence concerning violations of laws administered by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, and miscellaneous and emergency expenses of enforcement activities, authorized or approved by the Secretary and to be accounted for solely on his certificate; repair of damage to public roads within and adjacent to reservation areas caused by operations of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service; options for the purchase of land at not to exceed $1 for each option; facilities incident to such public recreational uses on conservation areas as are consistent with their primary purpose; construction of permanent improvements for use as a forensics laboratory, and structures appurtenant thereto, on a site leased by the Service; and the maintenance and improvement of aquaria, buildings, and other facilities under the jurisdiction of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and to which the United States has title, and which are utilized pursuant to law in connection with management and investigation of fish and wildlife resources.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For expenses necessary for the management, operation, and maintenance of areas and facilities administered by the National Park Service (including special road maintenance service to trucking permittees on a reimbursable basis), and for the general administration of the National Park Service, including not to exceed $408,000 for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission and not less than $1,000,000 for high priority projects within the scope of the approved budget which shall be carried out by Youth Conservation Corps as if authorized by the Act of August 13, 1970, as amended by Public Law 93-408, $649,613,000, without regard to the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended (16 U.S.C. 451) and $15,158,000 to be derived from unappropriated balances in the National Park Service "Planning, development and operation of recreation facilities" account: Provided, That the Park Service shall not enter into future concessionaire contracts, including renewals, that do not include a termination for cause clause that provides for possible extinguishment of possessory interests excluding depreciated book value of concessionaire investments without compensation: Provided further, That none of these funds may be used to compensate a quantity of staff greater than existed as of May 1, 1986, in the Office of Legislative and Congressional Affairs of the National Park Service or to compensate individual staff members assigned subsequent to May 1, 1986, at grade levels greater than the staff replaced: Provided further, That $85,000 shall be available to assist the town of Harpers Ferry, West Virginia, for police force use: Provided further, That to advance the mission of the National Park Service, for a period of time not to extend beyond fiscal year 1987, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to charge park entrance fees for all units of the National Park System, except as provided herein, of an amount not to exceed $3 for a single visit permit as defined in 36 CFR 71.7(b)(2) and of an amount not to exceed $5 for a single visit permit as defined in 36 CFR 71.7(b)(1): Provided further, That the cost of a Golden Eagle Passport as defined in 36 CFR 71.5 is increased to a reasonable fee but not to exceed $25 until September 30, 1987: Provided further, That for units of the National Park System where entrance fees are charged the Secretary shall establish an annual admission permit for each individual park unit for a reasonable fee but not to exceed $15, and that purchase of such annual admission permit for a unit of the National Park System shall relieve the requirement for payment of single visit permits as defined in 36 CFR 71.7(b): Provided further, That all funds derived from National Park Service entrance fees during fiscal year 1987 and all funds collected during fiscal year 1987 under subsections (a), (b), and (c) of section 4 of the Land and Water

Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 460l-6a), shall be transferred to the General Fund of the Treasury of the United States: Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, no admission fee may be charged at any unit of the National Park System which provides significant outdoor recreation opportunities in an urban environment and to which access is publicly available at multiple locations, nor shall an admission fee be charged at any unit of the National Park System which has a current, specific statutory exemption: Provided further, That where entrance fees are established on a per person basis, children 12 and under shall be exempt from the fees: Provided further, That if permanent statutory language is enacted during fiscal year 1987 establishing National Park System entrance fees, the provisions of that language shall supercede the fee provisions contained in this Act: Provided further, That of the funds provided under this head, $15,000,000 shall be distributed to units of the National Park System, to be available for resource protection, research, interpretation, and maintenance activities related to resource protection, to be distributed in the following manner: 50 percent shall be provided to all units of the System based on each unit's proportion of park operating expenses, and 50 percent shall be provided to units with entrance fees based on each collecting unit's proportion of total entrance fee collections: Provided further, That the following may be cited as the "Steamtown National Historic Site Act of 1986":

SECTION 1. DESIGNATION AS NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE.

The property known as Steamtown, consisting of the land, historic roundhouse, switchyard, and associated buildings, track and equipment, and located on approximately 40 acres in Scranton, Pennsylvania, is hereby designated as the Steamtown National Historic Site (hereafter in this Act referred to as "the Site"). The Site is generally depicted on the map entitled "Steamtown National Historic Site", numbered STTO-80,000 and dated September 1986. A copy of the map shall be on file and available for inspection in the offices of the National Park Service in Washington, D.C., and in appropriate regional and local offices.

SEC. 2. MANAGEMENT OF SITE.

(a) PREPARATION OF MANAGEMENT PLAN.—The Secretary shall prepare a comprehensive management plan for the Site, which shall include all of the elements required for general management plans under section 12 of the Act entitled "An Act to improve the administration of the National Park System by the Secretary of the Interior, and to clarify the authorities applicable to the system, and for other purposes" approved August 18, 1970 (U.S.C. 1a-7), and shall be submitted to the Congress no later than September 30, 1987.

(b) ADMINISTRATION OF SITE.—(1) The Secretary shall administer the Site through cooperative agreements and grant agreements, as appropriate, with the owner or owners of the property. The Secretary may provide financial and technical assistance in planning interpretation, maintenance, preservation, and appropriate public use of the Site and associated rolling stock in order to further public understanding and appreciation of the development of steam locomotives in the region.

(2) The Secretary of the Interior may acquire the Site, and all or part of the associated rolling stock, by donation or with donated funds and may begin to take such actions as are called for in the management plan. Upon acquisition pursuant to this paragraph, the Site and any acquired associated rolling stock shall thereafter be administered by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of law generally applicable to units of the National Park System, including the Act entitled "An Act to establish a National Park Service, and for other purposes", approved August 25, 1916 (16 U.S.C. 1 et seq.), and the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the preservation of historic American sites, buildings, objects and antiquities of national significance, and for other purposes" approved August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461 et seq.).

SEC. 3. ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

The Secretary is authorized to establish a Steamtown Advisory Committee and appoint up to ten members, who shall serve at no cost to the United States.

SEC. 4. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There is authorized to be appropriated $20,000,000 for the administration of the Steamtown National Historic Site and for assistance to the owner thereof pursuant to the agreements referred to in section 2(b).

SEC. 5. APPROPRIATIONS.

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act, $8,000,000, to remain available until expended.

NATIONAL RECREATION AND PRESERVATION

For expenses necessary to carry out recreation programs, natural programs, cultural programs, environmental compliance and review, and grant administration, not otherwise provided for, $10,628,000.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION FUND

For expenses necessary in carrying out the provisions of the Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 915), as amended (16 U.S.C. 470), $24,250,000 to be derived from the Historic Preservation Fund, established by section 108 of that Act, as amended, to remain available for obligation until September 30, 1988: Provided, That the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands is a State eligible for Historic Preservation Fund matching grant assistance as authorized under 16 U.S.C. 470w(2): Provided further, That pursuant to section 105(1) of the Compact of Free Association, Public Law 99-239, the Federated States of Micronesia and the Republic of the Marshall Islands shall also be considered States for purposes of this appropriation.

ABANDONED MINE RECLAMATION FUND

For necessary expenses to carry out the provisions of title IV of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, Public Law 95-87, including the purchase of not more than 21 passenger motor vehicles, of which 15 shall be for replacement only, to remain available until expended, $203,720,000, to be derived from receipts of the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund: Provided, That pursuant to Public Law 97-365, the Department of the Interior is authorized to utilize up to 20 per centum from the recovery of the delinquent debt owed to the United States Government to pay for contracts to collect these debts: Provided further, That of the funds made available to the States to contract for reclamation projects authorized in section 406(a) of Public Law 95-87, administrative expenses may not exceed 15 per centum: Provided further, That none of these funds shall be used for a reclamation grant to any State if the State has not agreed to participate in a nationwide data system established by the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement through which all permit applications are reviewed and approvals withheld if the applicants (or those who control the applicants) applying for or receiving such permits have outstanding State or Federal air or water quality violations in accordance with section 510(c) of the Act of August 3, 1977 (30 U.S.C. 1260(c)), or failure to abate cessation orders, outstanding civil penalties associated with such failure to abate cessation orders, or uncontested past due Abandoned Mine Land fees: Provided further, That notwithstanding any legislative or judicial requirement, the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement may delay the finalization of the proposed rulemaking amending Parts 773 and 778 of the Code of Federal Regulations as published in the Federal Register on April 5, 1985 (50 FR 13724) until March 31, 1987: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior may deny fifty percent of an Abandoned Mine Reclamation fund grant, available to a State pursuant to title IV of Public Law 95-87, in accordance with the procedures set forth in section 521(b) of the Act, when the Secretary determines that a State is systematically failing to administer adequately the enforcement provisions of the approved State regulatory program. Funds will be denied until such time as the State and the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement have agreed upon an explicit plan of action for correcting the enforcement deficiency. A State may enter into such agreement without admission of culpability. If a State enters into such agreement, the Secretary shall take no action pursuant to section 521(b) of the Act as long as the State is complying with the terms of the agreement: Provided further, That expenditure of moneys as authorized in section 402(g)(3) of Public Law 95-87 shall be on a priority basis with the first priority being protection of public health, safety, general welfare, and property from extreme danger of adverse effects of coal mining practices, as stated in section 403 of Public Law 95-87.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

For operation of Indian programs by direct expenditure, contracts, cooperative agreements, and grants including expenses necessary to provide education and welfare services for Indians, either directly or in cooperation with States and other organizations, including payment of care, tuition, assistance, and other expenses of Indians in boarding homes, institutions, or schools; grants and other assistance to needy Indians; maintenance of law and order; management, development, improvement, and protection of resources and appurtenant facilities under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, including payment of irrigation assessments and charges; acquisition of water rights; advances for Indian industrial and business enterprises; operation of Indian arts and crafts shops and museums; development of Indian arts and crafts, as authorized by law; for the general administration of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, including such expenses in field offices, $911,182,000, of which not to exceed $55,668,000 for higher education scholarships and assistance to public schools under the Act of April 16, 1934 (48 Stat. 596), as amended (25 U.S.C. 452 et seq.), shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 1988, and $25,000,000 for firefighting and repayment to other appropriations from which funds were transferred under the authority of section 102 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986, as contained in Public Law 99-190 shall remain available until expended, and the funds made available to tribes and tribal organizations through contracts authorized by the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act of 1975 (88 Stat. 2203; 25 U.S.C. 450 et seq.) shall remain available until September 30, 1988: Provided, That this carryover authority does not extend to programs directly operated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs unless the tribe(s) and the Bureau of Indian Affairs enter into a cooperative agreement for consolidated services; and for expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of section 19(a) of Public Law 93-531 (25 U.S.C. 640d-18(a)), $2,431,000, to remain available until expended: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated to the Bureau of Indian Affairs shall be expended as matching funds for programs funded under section 103(b)(2) of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act: Provided further, That notwithstanding any provision of the American Indian, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian Culture and Art Development Act, the amounts appropriated for fiscal year 1987 for the Bureau of Indian Affairs for the Institute of American Indian Arts shall be available for use under part A of that Act and—

(1) that Act shall be implemented in a reasonable period of time and shall be fully implemented by no later than October 1, 1987,

(2) until the earlier of—

(A) October 1, 1987, or

(B) the appointment and confirmation of a majority of the members of the Board of Trustees of the Institute of American Indian and Alaska Native Culture and Arts Development under section 1505(a)(1)(A) of that Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall have the authority conferred upon such members under that Act, and

(3) until the earlier of—

(A) October 1, 1987, or

(B) the appointment of a President of such Institute under section 1508 of that Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall have the authority conferred upon the President of such Institute under this Act: Provided further, That no part of any appropriations to the Bureau of Indian Affairs shall be available to provide general assistance payments for Alaska Natives in the State of Alaska unless and until otherwise specifically provided for by Congress: Provided further, That none of the funds contained in this Act shall be available for any payment to any school to which such school would otherwise be entitled pursuant to section 1128(b) of Public Law 95-561, as amended: Provided further, That the amounts available for assistance to public schools under the Act of April 16, 1934 (48 Stat. 596), as amended (25 U.S.C. 452 et seq.) shall be distributed on the same basis as such funds were distributed in fiscal year 1986: Provided further, That before initiating any action to close the Phoenix Indian School but no later than February 1, 1987, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress a report (1) on the school as required under section 1121(g)(3) of Public Law 95-561, as amended, including any warranted recommendations for the establishment of special programs at existing schools or the establishment of a new school or schools to be operated either by the Bureau of Indian Affairs or by a public school district to meet the needs of students from Arizona who are attending or might otherwise have attended the Phoenix Indian School; (2) on the Secretary's recommendation for the disposition of the property (including real property, supplies, and equipment) used for the school which recommendations may include the donation (with any restrictions on use and subject to a reverter for specified reasons the Secretary deems necessary or desirable) of some or all of the property to the State of Arizona, one or more local or tribal governments, or another Federal agency or the sale or exchange of some or all of the property at fair market value and a recommendation for the use of any cash received for a sale or to equalize values in an exchange; and (3) documentation of the Secretary's efforts to consult with the affected tribes and to offer assistance to the tribes in planning for future educational requirements for those currently eligible to attend the Phoenix Indian School, including those students from the Phoenix area attending school in California: Provided further, That the Secretary shall take no action to close the school or dispose of the property of the Phoenix Indian School until action by the Congress affirming or modifying the recommendations of the Secretary.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted: Provided further, That all funds used pursuant to this section must be replenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer of any no year appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior; for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction; for emergency actions related to potential or actual earthquakes, floods or volcanoes; for emergency reclamation projects under section 410 of Public Law 95-87; and shall transfer, from any no year funds available to the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, such funds as may be necessary to permit assumption of regulatory authority in the event a primacy State is not carrying out the regulatory provisions of the Surface Mining Act: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft, or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof: Provided further, That all funds used pursuant to this section must be replenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible.

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by sections 1535 and 1536 of title 31, U.S.C.: Provided, That reimbursements for costs and supplies, materials, equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed $300,000; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members: Provided, That no funds available to the Department of the Interior are available for any expenses of the Great Hall of Commerce.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902 and D.C. Code 4-204).

SEC. 106. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for obligation in connection with contracts issued by the General Services Administration for services or rentals for periods not in excess of twelve months beginning at any time during the fiscal year.

SEC. 107. No funds provided in this title may be expended by the Department of the Interior for the preparation for, or conduct of, pre-leasing and leasing activities (including but not limited to: calls for information, tract selection, notices of sale, receipt of bids and award of leases) of lands described in, and under the same terms and conditions set forth in section 107 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986, as contained in Public Law 99-190.

SEC. 108. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated or expended to finance changing the name of the mountain located 63 degrees, 04 minutes, 15 seconds west, presently named and referred to as Mount McKinley.

SEC. 109. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, appropriations in this title shall be available to provide insurance on official motor vehicles, aircraft, and boats operated by the Department of the Interior in Canada and Mexico.

SEC. 110. No funds provided in this title may be used to detail any employee to an organization unless such detail is in accordance with Office of Personnel Management regulations.

SEC. 111. (a) The Secretary of the Interior may consider and accept, as part of the Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas leasing program for 1987 to 1992, any recommendation included in any proposal submitted to him with respect to lease sales on the California Outer Continental Shelf by the cochairmen of the Congressional panel established pursuant to Public Law 99-190 or by the Governor of California on May 7, 1986. The major components of those proposals shall be examined in the final environmental impact statement for the program. Consideration or acceptance of any such recommendation shall not require the preparation of a revised or supplemental draft environmental impact statement.

(b) The Secretary shall submit a copy of the draft proposed final leasing program for offshore California to the cochairmen of the negotiating group referred to in subsection (a) who shall have a period of 30 days in which to review such program and provide their comments and the comments of the negotiating group on it to the Secretary prior to its submission to the President and the Congress. When submitting the proposed final leasing program to the President and the Congress in accordance with section 18(d) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1344(d)), such submission shall indicate in detail why any specific portion of the proposals referred to in subsection (a) of this section was not accepted.

(c) Prior to the approval of the Final Program, referenced in subsection (a), the Secretary may conduct prelease activities for proposed California OCS Lease Sales 95, 91, and 119 and may make changes in those sales on the basis of comments submitted by the Congressional negotiating group or others, except that the Secretary may not issue a: (1) call for information and nominations for Sale 95 prior to March 1, 1987, and no draft environmental impact statement shall be published for Sale 91 sooner than 90 days after the Secretary's submission of the draft of the proposed Final Five Year Program to the members of the Congressional panel, and (2) final notice of lease sale for Lease Sale 91 prior to January 1, 1989.

(d) The members of Congress designated under Sec. 111 of Public Law 99-190 (99 Stat. 1243) are hereby authorized to continue as the Congressional negotiating group and to negotiate with the Department of the Interior, to provide the Secretary of the Interior with the appropriate range of advice, including proposals, and to review and comment on proposals by the Department of the Interior with respect to future oil and gas leasing and protection of lands on the California Outer Continental Shelf.

SEC. 112. Notwithstanding any other law, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey without reimbursement to the State of Montana no later than December 31, 1986, all of the right, including all water rights, title, and interest of the United States in and to the fish hatchery property located south of Miles City, Montana, and known as the Miles City National Fish Hatchery, consisting of 168.22 acres, more or less, of land, together with any improvements and related personal property thereon.

SEC. 113. The Secretary of the Interior is directed to designate the Laurel Highlands National Recreational Trail, as designated by the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to section 4 of the National Trails System Act, as part of the Potomac Heritage Trail, as requested by the State of Pennsylvania in its April 1984 application, subject to the provisions of paragraph (11) of section 5(a) of the National Trails System Act, as amended.

SEC. 114. (a) In order to provide for needed facilities for visitors to Fort Sumter National Monument, including a tour boat dock and associated facilities, and an interpretive and museum facility in cooperation with the State of South Carolina and the city of Charleston, the Secretary of the Interior (in this section referred to as the "Secretary"), is authorized to acquire by purchase with donated or appropriated funds, donation, or exchange, not to exceed 8.91 acres of lands, including submerged lands, and interests in lands, within the area generally depicted on the map entitled "Dockside II, Proposed Site, Tourboat Facility", which map shall be on file and available for public inspection in the office of the National Park Service. When acquired, lands, including submerged lands and interests in lands, depicted on such map shall be administered by the Secretary as a part of Fort Sumter National Monument, subject to the laws and regulations applicable to such monument, and subject to the provisions of this section.

(b)(1) With respect to the lands, including submerged lands, and interests in lands acquired pursuant to section (a), the Secretary is authorized—

(A) to convey, notwithstanding the provisions of section 5 of Public Law 90-400 (82 Stat. 356) and subject to the provisions of subsection (2), a leasehold interest in not to exceed one and a half acres to the State of South Carolina or the city of Charleston or either of them for development by either of them or their agents or lessees of a marine museum and associated administrative facilities;

(B) to grant covenants or easements for ingress and egress to the State of South Carolina, the city of Charleston, and to other parties as the Secretary may deem necessary to facilitate public use; and

(C) to enter into cooperative agreements with the State of South Carolina, the city of Charleston, and other parties as the Secretary may deem necessary, pursuant to which construction, maintenance, and use of buildings, utilities, parking facilities, and other improvements may be shared among the parties to the agreement.

(2) Any conveyance made pursuant to subsection (b)(1)(A) and any renewal thereof may be for a period of up to 50 years, and may include the option to purchase the property in fee by the lessee within the first 10 years, upon payment by the lessee of the cost of the property to the United States plus interest based on the average yield of United States Treasury notes with maturities of one year. The Secretary may convey title to the property in fee in the event such option to purchase is exercised, subject to the condition that the property is used for a public marine museum and associated administrative facilities. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any leasehold interest conveyed pursuant to subsection (b)(1)(A) shall be conveyed without monetary consideration. The proceeds from any conveyance of property in fee pursuant to subsection (b)(1)(A) shall be deposited in the Land and Water Conservation Fund in the Treasury of the United States.

(c) Section 117 of Public Law 96-199 (94 Stat. 71) is hereby repealed.

(d)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, sums heretofore appropriated but not, on the date of enactment of this joint resolution, obligated for construction of a tourboat facility at the Broad Street site, and for the acquisition and construction of the Fleet landing site for Fort Sumter National Monument, which was authorized by section 117 of Public Law 96-199 (94 Stat. 71) are hereby made available for obligation for the acquisition of the lands including submerged lands, and interests in lands identified in section (a) and for construction of necessary facilities thereon, and to the extent that sums heretofore appropriated for land acquisition of the Fleet landing site are not sufficient to cover the cost of acquisition of the properties identified in section (a), sums heretofore appropriated for construction of facilities at the Broad Street site and the Fleet landing site may be obligated for the purposes of acquisition as authorized in section (a).

(2) In addition to the sums made available under subsection (d)(1), there is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section.

(e) The Secretary of the Interior shall transfer administrative jurisdiction over the Federal property, consisting of approximately 1 acre, known as the Broad Street site, to the Secretary of the Department in which the Coast Guard is operating, who shall transfer to the Secretary of the Interior, subject to such reservations, terms, and conditions as may be necessary for Coast Guard purposes, administrative jurisdiction over the Federal property, consisting of approximately 1 acre located near Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's Island for purposes of a maintenance workshop, storage, and seasonal housing in connection with the administration and protection of the Fort Sumter National Monument.

SEC. 115. (1) The primary term of any geothermal lease in effect as of July 27, 1984, issued pursuant to the Geothermal Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-581, 84 Stat. 1566, 30 U.S.C. 1001-1025) is hereby extended to December 31, 1988, if the Secretary of the Interior finds that—

(a) a bona fide sale of the geothermal resource, from a well capable of production, for delivery to or utilization by a facility or facilities, has not been completed (1) due to administrative delays by government entities, beyond the control of the lessee, or (2) such sale would be uneconomic;

(b) substantial investment in the development of or for the benefit of the lease has been made; and

(c) the lease would otherwise expire prior to December 31, 1988.

(2)(a) The Secretary of the Interior (hereinafter in this section referred to as "the Secretary" shall publish for public comment in the Federal Register within 120 days after the date of enactment of this section a proposed list of significant thermal features within the following units of the National Park System:

Lassen Volcanic National Park;
Yellowstone National Park;
Bering Land Bridge National Preserve;
Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve; Yukon-Charley Rivers National Preserve;
Katmai National Park;
Aniakchak National Monument and Preserve;
Wrangell-St. Elias National Park and Preserve;
Glacier Bay National Park and Preserve;
Denali National Park and Preserve;
Lake Clark National Park and Preserve;
Hot Springs National Park;
Sequoia National Park;
Hawaii Volcanoes National Park;
Lake Mead National Recreation Area;
Big Bend National Park;
Olympic National Park;
Grand Teton National Park;
John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Memorial Parkway;
Haleakala National Park; and Crater Lake National Park.

The Secretary shall include with such list the basis for his determination with respect to each thermal feature on the list. Based on public comment on such list, the Secretary is authorized to make additions to or deletions from the list. Not later than the 60th day from the date on which the proposed list was published in the Federal Register, the Secretary shall transmit the list to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs of the House of Representatives together with copies of all public comments which he has received and indicating any additions to or deletions from the list with a statement of the reasons therefor and the basis for inclusion of each thermal feature on the list. The Secretary shall consider the following criteria in determining the significance of thermal features:

(1) size, extent, and uniqueness;

(2) scientific and geologic significance;

(3) the extent to which such features remain in a natural, undisturbed condition; and

(4) significance of thermal features to the authorized purposes for which the National Park System unit was created.

The Secretary shall not issue any geothermal lease pursuant to the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-581, 84 Stat. 1566), as amended, until such time as the Secretary has transmitted the list to the Committees of Congress as provided in this section.

(b) The Secretary shall maintain a monitoring program for those significant thermal features listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section.

(c) Upon receipt of an application for a geothermal lease the Secretary shall determine on the basis of scientific evidence if exploration, development, or utilization of the lands subject to the geothermal lease application is reasonably likely to result in a significant adverse effect on a significant thermal feature listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section. Such determination shall be subject to notice and public comment. If the Secretary determines on the basis of scientific evidence that the exploration, development, or utilization of the land subject to the geothermal lease application is reasonably likely to result in a significant adverse effect on a significant thermal feature listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section, the Secretary shall not issue such geothermal lease. In addition, the Secretary shall withdraw from leasing under the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970, as amended, those lands, or portion thereof, subject to the application for geothermal lease, the exploration, development, or utilization of which is reasonably likely to result, based on the Secretary's determination, in a significant adverse effect on a significant thermal feature listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section.

(d) With respect to all geothermal leases issued after the date of enactment of this section the Secretary shall include stipulations in leases necessary to protect significant thermal features listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section where a determination is made based on scientific evidence that the exploration, development, or utilization of the lands subject to the lease is reasonably likely to adversely affect such significant features. Such stipulations shall include, but are not limited to:

(1) requiring the lessee to reinject geothermal fluids into the rock formations from which they originate;

(2) requiring the lessee to report annually to the Secretary on its activities;

(3) requiring the lessee to continuously monitor geothermal production and injection wells; and

(4) requiring the lessee to suspend activity, temporarily or permanently, on the lease if the Secretary determines that ongoing exploration, development, or utilization activities are having a significant adverse effect on significant thermal features listed pursuant to subsection (a) of this section until such time as the significant adverse effect is eliminated.

(e) The Secretary of Agriculture shall consider the effects on significant thermal features of those units of the National Park System identified in subsection (a) of this section in determining whether to consent to leasing under the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970, as amended, on national forest or other lands administered by the Department of Agriculture available for leasing under the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970, as amended, including public, withdrawn, and acquired lands.

(f) Nothing contained in this section shall affect the ban on leasing under the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970, as amended, with respect to the Island Park Known Geothermal Resources Area, as provided for in Public Law 98-473 (98 Stat. 1837) and Public Law 99-190 (99 Stat. 1267).

(g) Except as provided herein, nothing contained in this section shall affect or modify the authorities or responsibilities of the Secretary under the Geothermal Steam Act of 1970, as amended, or any other provision of law.

(h) The provisions of this section shall remain in effect until Congress determines otherwise.

SEC. 116. (a) Section 1102(a) of the National Parks and Recreation Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-625) is amended by inserting the following after the second sentence: "In addition, the Secretary may acquire by any of the foregoing methods not to exceed ten acres outside the boundaries of the national river for an administrative headquarters site, and funds appropriated for land acquisition shall be available for the acquisition of the administrative headquarters site.".

(b) Section 1112 of Public Law 95-625 is amended by striking "$500,000" and inserting "$3,000,000".

SEC. 117. (1) The Women in Military Service for America Memorial Foundation is authorized to establish a memorial on Federal land in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor women who have served in the Armed Forces of the United States. Such memorial shall be established in accordance with the provisions of H.R. 4378, as approved by the Senate on September 10, 1986 (S. Rpt. 99-421).

(2) The organization or organizations approved by the Secretary shall establish the memorial with non-Federal funds.

SEC. 118. (1) The Black Revolutionary War Patriots Foundation is authorized to establish a memorial on Federal land in the District of Columbia and its environs to honor the estimated five thousand courageous slaves and free black persons who served as soldiers and sailors or provided civilian assistance during the American Revolution and to honor the countless black men, women, and children who ran away from slavery or filed petitions with courts and legislatures seeking their freedom. Such memorial shall be established in accordance with the provisions of H.R. 4378, as approved by the House of Representatives on September 29, 1986.

(2) The Black Revolutionary War Patriots Foundation shall establish the memorial with non-Federal funds.

SEC. 119. The Secretary of the Interior shall designate the visitor center to be associated with the headquarters of the Illinois and Michigan Canal National Heritage Corridor as the "George M. O'Brien Visitor Center" in recognition of the leadership and contributions of Representative George M. O'Brien with respect to the creation and establishment of this national heritage corridor.

SEC. 120. Notwithstanding any other provisions of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, Public Law 88-578, as amended, or other law, Land and Water Conservation Fund assisted land in Berkeley, Illinois, assisted under project No. 17-00180, may be exchanged for existing public lands if Land and Water Conservation Fund conversion criteria regarding equal fair market value and reasonably equivalent use and location are met.

SEC. 121. None of the funds provided by this Act shall be expended by the Secretary of the Interior to promulgate final regulations concerning paleontological research on Federal lands until the Secretary has received the National Academy of Sciences' report concerning the permitting and post-permitting regulations concerning paleontological research and until the Secretary has, within 30 days, submitted a report to the appropriate committees of the Congress comparing the National Academy of Sciences' report with the proposed regulations of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 122. Subsection (b) of the first section of the Act of August 9, 1955, as amended (25 U.S.C. 415(b)) is further amended—

(1) by striking "or" immediately before "(2)"; and

(2) by inserting immediately before the period at the end thereof the following: ", or (3) if the term does not exceed seventy-five years (including options to renew), and the lease is executed under tribal regulations approved by the Secretary under this clause (3)".

SEC. 123. Section 515(b)(10)(B)(ii) of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 is amended by inserting after "qualified registered engineer" the following: "or a qualified registered professional land surveyor in any State which authorizes land surveyors to prepare and certify such maps or plans".

SEC. 124. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds appropriated by this Act shall be available for the implementation, by the Secretary of the Interior or the Attorney General or any other officer acting on behalf of the United States, of the "Agreement to Settle Pending Litigation Between the United States and the Owners of Certain Oil Shale Mining Claims in Colorado", dated August 4, 1986, or for the patenting of any other oil shale placer claims located prior to passage of the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act, for a period of 180 days from the date of enactment of this provision, in order to provide a period for Congressional review of this agreement: Provided, That the provisions of this section affecting the aforesaid settlement agreement shall be effective only if the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and the United States District Court for the District of Colorado approve a stay in the cases affected by such settlement agreement for 180 days and the parties to such agreement agree to continue to be bound by such agreement for the 180-day period: Provided further, That the Attorney General of the United States and the Secretary of the Interior are directed to immediately and in good faith seek concurrence of all parties to the agreement to continue such agreement for 180 days and to request such courts to issue stays for such period.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

FOREST SERVICE

FOREST RESEARCH

For necessary expenses of forest research as authorized by law, $128,882,000, of which $6,000,000 shall remain available until expended for competitive research grants, as authorized by section 5 of Public Law 95-307.

STATE AND PRIVATE FORESTRY

For necessary expenses of cooperating with, and providing technical and financial assistance to States, Territories, possessions, and others; and for forest pest management activities, $58,946,000, to remain available until expended, to carry out activities authorized in Public Law 95-313: Provided, That a grant of $2,800,000 shall be made to the State of Minnesota for the purposes authorized by section 6 of Public Law 95-495.

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

For necessary expenses of the Forest Service, not otherwise provided for, for management, protection, improvement, and utilization of the National Forest System, and for repayment of advances made in the preceding fiscal year pursuant to 16 U.S.C. 556d for forest fire protection and emergency rehabilitation of National Forest System lands, and including administrative expenses associated with the management of funds provided under the heads "Forest Research", "State and Private Forestry", "National Forest System", "Construction", and "Land Acquisition", $1,158,294,000, of which $263,323,000 for reforestation and timber stand improvement, cooperative law enforcement, firefighting, and maintenance of forest development roads and trails shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 1988.

The Forest Service is to continue to complete as expeditiously as possible development of land and resource management plans to meet the requirements of the National Forest Management Act of 1976 (NFMA). Notwithstanding the date in section 6(c) of the NFMA (16 U.S.C. 1600), the Forest Service may continue the management of units of the National Forest System under existing land and resource management plans pending the completion of plans developed in accordance with the Act. Nothing shall limit judicial review of particular activities on management units of the National Forest System: Provided, however, That there shall be no challenges to any existing plan on the sole basis that the plan in its entirety is outdated: Provided further, That any and all particular activities to be carried out under existing plans may nevertheless be challenged.

CONSTRUCTION

For necessary expenses of the Forest Service, not otherwise provided for, for construction, $261,436,000, to remain available until expended, of which $25,632,000 is for construction and acquisition of buildings and other facilities; and $236,104,000 is for construction of forest roads and trails by the Forest Service as authorized by 16 U.S.C. 532-538 and 23 U.S.C. 101 and 205: Provided, That funds becoming available in fiscal year 1987 under the Act of March 4, 1913 (16 U.S.C. 501), shall be transferred to the General Fund of the Treasury of the United States: Provided further, That the Forest Service shall achieve a 5 per centum reduction in the average cost per timber road mile as compared to the adjusted fiscal year 1985 average cost by a combination of the following two actions: (1) the application of road construction standards used to construct or reconstruct Forest Service timber roads, purchaser credit roads, or purchaser elect roads, and (2) reducing the direct personnel cost of designing and constructing timber roads to these standards: Provided further, That the Forest Service shall take administrative cost saving actions, including reductions in indirect personnel, overhead charges, and productivity improvements, in fiscal year 1987 in a manner so as to achieve a 5 per centum reduction in the average cost per timber road mile as compared to the adjusted fiscal year 1985 average cost: Provided further, That such actions shall be taken so as to achieve these 5 per centum reductions in each Forest Service region.

Pursuant to section (b)(2), the Act of December 23, 1980, Public Law 96-581 (94 Stat. 3372), not to exceed $300,000 from the sale of 18.13 acres to the Flagstaff Medical Regional Center, Flagstaff, Arizona, are hereby appropriated and made available, until expended, to the Forest Service for the specific purpose of contract administration and overruns resulting from the construction of administrative improvements at the Mt. Elden Work Center, Flagstaff, Arizona: Provided, That the Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that outlays associated with such action shall not cause the total outlays during fiscal year 1987 from Forest Service land acquisition and construction activities and construction activities in region 3 (including Arizona and New Mexico) to exceed the total that otherwise would have occurred as a result of enactment of this or previous appropriations Acts.

There is authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund (other than the Mass Transit Account), $9,915,000 to be transferred to the Forest Service for road construction to serve the Mount St. Helens National Volcanic Monument, Washington: Provided, That the funds authorized by this section shall be available for obligation in the same manner and to the same extent as if such funds were apportioned under chapter 1 of title 23, United States Code, except the Federal share of the cost of this project shall be 100 per centum, and such funds shall remain available until expended: Provided further, That the foregoing shall not alter the amount of funds or contract authority that would otherwise be available for road construction to serve any State other than the State of Washington.

LAND ACQUISITION

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 460l-4-11), including administrative expenses, and for acquisition of land or waters, or interest therein, in accordance with statutory authority applicable to the Forest Service, $49,236,000, to be derived from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, and $3,000,000 for acquisition of land and interests therein in the Columbia River Gorge, Oregon and Washington, as depicted on a map entitled "Columbia Gorge Acquisitions—1986" on file with the Forest Service, pursuant to the Department of Agriculture Organic Act of 1956 (7 U.S.C. 428(a)), to remain available until expended.

ACQUISITION OF LANDS FOR NATIONAL FORESTS

SPECIAL ACTS

For acquisition of land within the exterior boundaries of the Cache and Uinta National Forests, Utah; the Toiyabe National Forest, Nevada; and the Angeles, San Bernardino, and Cleveland National Forests, California, as authorized by law, $966,000, to be derived from forest receipts.

ACQUISITION OF LANDS TO COMPLETE LAND EXCHANGES

For acquisition of lands, to be derived from funds deposited by State, county, or municipal governments, public school districts, or other public school authorities pursuant to the Act of December 4, 1967, as amended (16 U.S.C. 484a), to remain available until expended.

RANGE BETTERMENT FUND

For necessary expenses of range rehabilitation, protection, and improvement, 50 per centum of all moneys received during the prior fiscal year, as fees for grazing domestic livestock on lands in National Forests in the sixteen Western States, pursuant to section 401(b)(1) of Public Law 94-579, as amended, to remain available until expended.

MISCELLANEOUS TRUST FUNDS

For expenses authorized by 16 U.S.C. 1643(b), $90,000 to remain available until expended, to be derived from the fund established pursuant to the above Act.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS, FOREST SERVICE

Appropriations to the Forest Service for the current fiscal year shall be available for: (a) purchase of not to exceed 245 passenger motor vehicles of which eight will be used primarily for law enforcement purposes and of which 235 shall be for replacement only, of which acquisition of 148 passenger motor vehicles shall be from excess sources, and hire of such vehicles; operation and maintenance of aircraft, the purchase of not to exceed two for replacement only, and acquisition of 58 aircraft from excess sources; notwithstanding other provisions of law, existing aircraft being replaced may be sold, with proceeds derived or trade-in value used to offset the purchase price for the replacement aircraft; (b) services pursuant to the second sentence of section 706(a) of the Organic Act of 1944 (7 U.S.C. 2225), and not to exceed $100,000 for employment under 5 U.S.C. 3109; (c) uniform allowances for each uniformed employee of the Forest Service, not in excess of $400 annually; (d) purchase, erection, and alteration of buildings and other public improvements (7 U.S.C. 2250); (e) acquisition of land, waters, and interests therein, pursuant to the Act of August 3, 1956 (7 U.S.C. 428a); (f) for expenses pursuant to the Volunteers in the National Forest Act of 1972 (16 U.S.C. 558a, 558d, 558a note); and (g) for debt collection contracts in accordance with 31 U.S.C. 3718(c).

None of the funds made available under this Act shall be obligated or expended to change the boundaries of any region, to abolish any region, to move or close any regional office for research, State and private forestry, or National Forest System administration of the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, without the consent of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry in the United States Senate and the Committee on Agriculture in the United States House of Representatives.

Any appropriations or funds available to the Forest Service may be advanced to the National Forest System appropriation for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction.

Appropriations and funds available to the Forest Service shall be available to comply with the requirements of section 313(a) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended (33 U.S.C. 1323(a)).

The appropriation structure for the Forest Service may not be altered without advance approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any appropriations or funds available to the Forest Service may be used to reimburse employees for the cost of State licenses and certification fees pursuant to their Forest Service position and that are necessary to comply with State laws, regulations, and requirements.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Agriculture is hereafter authorized to use from any receipts from the sale of timber a sum equal to the cost of construction of roads under the purchaser election program as described and authorized in section 14(i) of the National Forest Management Act of 1976.

Funds appropriated to the Forest Service shall be available for assistance to or through the Agency for International Development and the Office of International Cooperation and Development in connection with forest and rangeland research, and technical information and assistance in foreign countries.

Funds previously appropriated for timber salvage sales may be recovered from receipts deposited for use by the applicable national forest and credited to the Forest Service Permanent Appropriations to be expended for timber salvage sales from any national forest: Provided, That no less than $26,000,000 shall be made available to the Forest Service for obligation in fiscal year 1987 from the Timber Salvage Sales Fund appropriation.

None of the funds made available to the Forest Service under this Act shall be subject to transfer under the provisions of section 702(b) of the Department of Agriculture Organic Act of 1944 (7 U.S.C. 2257) or 7 U.S.C. 147b unless the proposed transfer is approved in advance by the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations in compliance with the reprograming procedures contained in House Report 99-714.

No funds appropriated to the Forest Service shall be transferred to the Working Capital Fund of the Department of Agriculture without the approval of the Chief of the Forest Service.

Funds available to the Forest Service shall be available to conduct a program of not less than $1,000,000 for high priority projects within the scope of the approved budget which shall be carried out by Youth Conservation Corps as if authorized by the Act of August 13, 1970, as amended by Public Law 93-408.

The Forest Service is authorized and directed to negotiate, within 90 days after the enactment of this Act, settlement of claims against the United States resulting from a forest fire in the Black Hills National Forest: Provided, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to pay the amount of the settlement from the Claims, Judgments, and Relief Act Fund (Public Law 95-26).

In order to provide for more comprehensive and effective management, the exterior boundary of the Gifford Pinchot National Forest in the State of Washington is hereby modified as generally depicted on a map entitled "Boundary Modification, Gifford Pinchot National Forest", dated August 1986. Such map and legal description of the boundary modification of said National Forest shall be on file and available for public inspection in the Office of the Chief, Forest Service, Department of Agriculture and in appropriate field offices of that agency. This boundary modification shall not affect valid existing rights or interests in existing land use authorizations.

No more than $500,000 made available to the Forest Service for obligation in fiscal year 1987 shall be expended to support Washington office staff in the development of the RPA: Provided, That this shall not reduce funds available for the development of forest plans pursuant to the National Forest Management Act of 1976.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

CLEAN COAL TECHNOLOGY

The Secretary of Energy pursuant to the Federal Nonnuclear Energy Research and Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-577), shall—

(1) no later than thirty days after the date of the enactment of this Act, publish in the Federal Register a notice soliciting statements of interest in, and informational proposals for, projects meeting the cost-sharing criteria contained under this head in Public Law 99-190 and employing emerging clean coal technologies which are capable of retrofitting, repowering, or modernizing existing facilities, which statements and informational proposals are to be submitted to the Secretary within sixty days after the publication of such notice; and

(2) no later than March 6, 1987, submit to Congress a summary report of statements of interest and informational proposals received and no later than one hundred and twenty days after the receipt of such statements and proposals submit to Congress a report that analyzes the information contained in such statements of interest and informational proposals and assesses the potential usefulness and commercial viability of each emerging clean coal technology for which a statement of interest or informational proposal has been received.

Notwithstanding guidance provided by the Department in the February 17, 1986 Clean Coal Technology Program Opportunity Notice, funds expended by a private sector participant during the period of Congressional review or approval of the projects selected by the Department for agreements may be eligible for cost-sharing, as appropriate, commencing immediately after a full and comprehensive report on the project in question is submitted to the Congress for a 30-day review pursuant to the Administrative Provisions of the Department of Energy in this Act: Provided, That such cost-sharing may only be reimbursed after the Congress has approved the project or the 30-day review period has elapsed and the agreement executed by the Department: Provided further, That in no case shall funds expended by the private sector during the review period be eligible for cost-sharing reimbursement of any project disapproved by the Congress.

FOSSIL ENERGY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For necessary expenses in carrying out fossil energy research and development activities, under the authority of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91), including the acquisition of interest, including defeasible and equitable interests in any real property or any facility or for plant or facility acquisition or expansion, $295,866,000, to remain available until expended, of which $221,000 is for the functions of the Office of the Federal Inspector for the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System established pursuant to the authority of Public Law 94-586 (90 Stat. 2908-2909), $411,000 to be derived by transfer from unobligated balances in the "Permitting and enforcement" account of the Federal Inspector for the Alaska Gas Pipeline, and $2,074,000 to be derived by transfer from unobligated balances in the "Fossil energy construction" account, and in addition, $437,000 to be derived by transfer from amounts derived from fees for guarantees of obligations collected pursuant to section 19 of the Federal Nonnuclear Energy Research and Development Act of 1974, as amended (42 U.S.C. 5919), and deposited in the "Energy security reserve" established by Public Law 96-126: Provided, That no part of the sum herein made available shall be used for the field testing of nuclear explosives in the recovery of oil and gas.

Of the funds herein provided, $26,500,000 is for implementation of the June 1984 multiyear, cost-shared magnetohydrodynamics program targeted on proof-of-concept testing: Provided further, That 20 per centum private sector cash or in-kind contributions shall be required for obligations in fiscal year 1987, and for each subsequent fiscal year's obligations private sector contributions shall increase by 5 per centum over the life of the proof-of-concept plan: Provided further, That existing facilities, equipment, and supplies, or previously expended research or development funds are not cost-sharing for the purposes of this appropriation, except as amortized, depreciated, or expensed in normal business practice: Provided further, That cost-sharing shall not be required for the costs of constructing or operating government-owned facilities or for the costs of Government organizations, National Laboratories, or universities and such costs shall not be used in calculating the required percentage for private sector contributions: Provided further, That private sector contribution percentages need not be met on each contract but must be met in total for each fiscal year.

NAVAL PETROLEUM AND OIL SHALE RESERVES

For necessary expenses in carrying out naval petroleum and oil shale reserves activities, including the purchase of not to exceed 1 passenger motor vehicle, for replacement only, $122,177,000, to remain available until expended.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

For necessary expenses in carrying out energy conservation activities, $280,129,000, to remain available until expended, of which $10,000,000 shall be available for a grant for an energy demonstration and research facility at Tufts University when authorized by an Act of Congress: Provided, That award of such grant may be made only upon approval of an appropriate technical review panel convened by the Department of Energy for the specific purpose of reviewing such grant application and subject to conditions, if any, contained in legislation authorizing such project, and of which $112,450,000 for the Weatherization Assistance Program authorized by Part A of the Energy Conservation in Existing Buildings Act of 1976 (42 U.S.C. 6861 et seq.) and the Institutional Conservation Program authorized by Part G of title III of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (42 U.S.C. 6371 et seq.) shall be available effective March 1, 1987, only in such sums (up to a total of $112,450,000) as are equal to the difference between $200,000,000 and the excess amount for fiscal year 1987 disbursed by the Secretary of Energy for use in energy conservation programs under the provisions of section 3003(d) of subtitle A of title III of the conference agreement on H.R. 5300, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986, or equivalent legislation enacted into law by March 1, 1987: Provided further, That if no such legislation is enacted into law by March 1, 1987, effective such date, such sums ($112,450,000) shall be immediately available to be derived from amounts held administratively in escrow by the Secretary of Energy pending restitution for actual or alleged petroleum product violations under the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973 or the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970 (and the regulations issued thereunder): Provided further, That $2,000,000 of the amount provided under this heading shall be available for continuing a research and development initiative with the National Laboratories for new technologies up to proof-of-concept testing to increase significantly the energy efficiency of processes that produce steel: Provided further, That obligation of funds for these activities shall be contingent on an agreement to provide cash or in-kind contributions to the initiative or to other collaborative research and development activities related to the purpose of the initiative equal to 30 percent of the amount of Federal Government obligations: Provided further, That existing facilities, equipment, and supplies, or previously expended research or development funds are not acceptable as contributions for the purposes of this appropriation, except as amortized, depreciated, or expensed in normal business practice: Provided further, That the total Federal expenditure under this proviso shall be repaid up to one and one-half times from the proceeds of the commercial sale, lease, manufacture, or use of technologies developed under this proviso, at a rate of one-fourth of all net proceeds.

ECONOMIC REGULATION

For necessary expenses in carrying out the activities of the Economic Regulatory Administration and the Office of Hearings and Appeals, $23,400,000.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS

For necessary expenses in carrying out emergency preparedness activities, $6,044,000.

STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of sections 151 through 166 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975 (Public Law 94-163), $147,433,000, to remain available until expended.

ENERGY INFORMATION ADMINISTRATION

For necessary expenses in carrying out the activities of the Energy Information Administration, $60,301,000.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Appropriations under this Act for the current fiscal year shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; purchase, repair, and cleaning of uniforms; and reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services.

From appropriations under this Act, transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of work for which the appropriation is made.

None of the funds made available to the Department of Energy under this Act shall be used to implement or finance authorized price support or loan guarantee programs unless specific provision is made for such programs in an appropriations Act.

The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, private, or foreign: Provided, That revenues and other moneys received by or for the account of the Department of Energy or otherwise generated by sale of products in connection with projects of the Department appropriated under this Act may be retained by the Secretary of Energy, to be available until expended, and used only for plant construction, operation, costs, and payments to cost-sharing entities as provided in appropriate cost-sharing contracts or agreements: Provided further, That the remainder of revenues after the making of such payments shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts: Provided further, That any contract, agreement, or provision thereof entered into by the Secretary pursuant to this authority shall not be executed prior to the expiration of 30 calendar days (not including any day in which either House of Congress is not in session because of adjournment of more than three calendar days to a day certain) from the receipt by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate of a full and comprehensive report on such project, including the facts and circumstances relied upon in support of the proposed project.

The Secretary of Energy may transfer to the Emergency Preparedness appropriation such funds as are necessary to meet any unforeseen emergency needs from any funds available to the Department of Energy from this Act.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICES

For expenses necessary to carry out the Act of August 5, 1954 (68 Stat. 674), the Indian Self-Determination Act, the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, and titles III and XXI and section 338G of the Public Health Service Act with respect to the Indian Health Service, including hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft; purchase of reprints; purchase and erection of portable buildings; payments for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; $841,809,000: Provided, That funds made available to tribes and tribal organizations through grants and contracts authorized by the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act of 1975 (88 Stat. 2203; 25 U.S.C. 450), shall remain available until September 30, 1988; and $10,000,000 shall remain available until expended, for the establishment of an Indian Catastrophic Health Emergency Fund (hereinafter referred to as the "Fund"). Hereafter, the Fund is to cover the Indian Health Service portion of the medical expenses of catastrophic illness falling within the responsibility of the Service and shall be administered by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, acting through the central office of the Indian Health Service. No part of the Fund or its administration shall be subject to contract or grant under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (Public Law 93-638). There shall be deposited into the Fund all amounts recovered under the authority of the Federal Medical Care Recovery Act (42 U.S.C. 2651 et seq.), which shall become available for obligation upon receipt and which shall remain available for obligation until expended. The Fund shall not be used to pay for health services provided to eligible Indians to the extent that alternate Federal, State, local, or private insurance resources for payment: (1) are available and accessible to the beneficiary; or (2) would be available and accessible if the beneficiary were to apply for them; or (3) would be available and accessible to other citizens similarly situated under Federal, State, or local law or regulation or private insurance program notwithstanding Indian Health Service eligibility or residency on or off a Federal Indian reservation. Funds provided in this Act may be used for one-year contracts and grants which are to be performed in two fiscal years, so long as the total obligation is recorded in the year for which the funds are appropriated: Provided further, That the amounts collected by the Secretary of Health and Human Services under the authority of title IV of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act shall be available until September 30, 1988, for the purpose of achieving compliance with the applicable conditions and requirements of titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act (exclusive of planning, design, construction of new facilities, or major renovation of existing Indian Health Service facilities): Provided further, That funding contained herein, and in any earlier appropriations Acts for scholarship programs under section 103 of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act and section 338G of the Public Health Service Act with respect to the Indian Health Service shall remain available for expenditure until September 30, 1988.

INDIAN HEALTH FACILITIES

For construction, major repair, improvement, and equipment of health and related auxiliary facilities, including quarters for personnel; preparation of plans, specifications, and drawings; acquisition of sites, purchase and erection of portable buildings, purchases of trailers; and for provision of domestic and community sanitation facilities for Indians, as authorized by section 7 of the Act of August 5, 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2004a), the Indian Self-Determination Act and the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, $65,555,000, to remain available until expended.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS, INDIAN HEALTH SERVICE

Appropriations in this Act to the Indian Health Service, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates not to exceed the per diem equivalent to the rate for GS-18, and for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902), and for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities: Provided, That none of the funds appropriated under this Act to the Indian Health Service shall be available for the initial lease of permanent structures without advance provision therefor in appropriations Acts: Provided further, That non-Indian patients may be extended health care at all Indian Health Service facilities, if such care can be extended without impairing the ability of the Indian Health Service to fulfill its responsibility to provide health care to Indians served by such facilities and subject to such reasonable charges as the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall prescribe, the proceeds of which, together with funds recovered under the Federal Medical Care Recovery Act (42 U.S.C. 2651-53), shall be deposited in the fund established by sections 401 and 402 of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act: Provided further, That funds appropriated to the Indian Health Service in this Act, except those used for administrative and program direction purposes, shall not be subject to limitations directed at curtailing Federal travel and transportation: Provided further, That with the exception of service units which currently have a billing policy, the Indian Health Service shall not initiate any further action to bill Indians in order to collect from third-party payers nor to charge those Indians who may have the economic means to pay unless and until such time as Congress has agreed upon a specific policy to do so and has directed the Indian Health Service to implement such a policy: Provided further, That the Secretary of Health and Human Services may authorize special retention pay under paragraph (4) of 37 U.S.C. 302(a) to any regular or reserve officer for the period during which the officer is obligated under section 338B of the Public Health Service Act and assigned and providing direct health services or serving the officer's obligation as a specialist: Provided further, That hereafter the Indian Health Service may seek subrogation of claims including but not limited to auto accident claims, including no-fault claims, personal injury, disease, or disability claims, and worker's compensation claims, the proceeds of which shall be credited to the funds established by sections 401 and 402 of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act: Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provision of law or regulation, for purposes of acquiring sites for new hospital facilities in Anchorage, Alaska, and in Kotzebue, Alaska, the Secretary of Health and Human Services may exchange any or all interests in any land administered by the Secretary in Alaska for any or all interests in any land of the State of Alaska, any political subdivision of the State, or any corporation, including the University of Alaska and may receive money if necessary to equalize the exchange: Provided further, That any such receipts shall be credited to the Indian Health facilities appropriation and be used to offset the cost of construction of these two facilities.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

OFFICE OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

INDIAN EDUCATION

For necessary expenses to carry out, to the extent not otherwise provided, the Indian Education Act, $64,036,000 of which $47,200,000 shall be for part A and $14,568,000 shall be for parts B and C: Provided, That the amounts available pursuant to section 423 of the Act shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 1988: Provided further, That funds appropriated for fiscal year 1987 under this or any other Act to carry out part A of title IV of Public Law 92-318 (Indian Education Act) shall be distributed under the same proof of eligibility requirements as applied in fiscal year 1986.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive Order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 302. No part of any appropriation under this Act shall be available to the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture for use for any sale hereafter made of unprocessed timber from Federal lands west of the 100th meridian in the contiguous 48 States which will be exported from the United States, or which will be used as a substitute for timber from private lands which is exported by the purchaser: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to specific quantities of grades and species of timber which said Secretaries determine are surplus to domestic lumber and plywood manufacturing needs.

SEC. 303. No part of any appropriation under this Act shall be available to the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture for the leasing of oil and natural gas by noncompetitive bidding on publicly owned lands within the boundaries of the Shawnee National Forest, Illinois: Provided, That nothing herein is intended to inhibit or otherwise affect the sale, lease, or right to access to minerals owned by private individuals.

SEC. 304. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for any activity or the publication or distribution of literature that in any way tends to promote public support or opposition to any legislative proposal on which congressional action is not complete.

SEC. 305. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 306. None of the funds provided in this Act to any department or agency shall be obligated or expended to provide a personal cook, chauffeur, or other personal servants to any officer or employee of such department or agency.

SEC. 307. Except for lands described by sections 105 and 106 of Public Law 96-560, section 103 of Public Law 96-550, section 5(d)(1) of Public Law 96-312, and except for land in the State of Alaska, and lands in the national forest system released to management for any use the Secretary of Agriculture deems appropriate through the land management planning process by any statement or other Act of Congress designating components of the National Wilderness Preservation System now in effect or hereinafter enacted, and except to carry out the obligations and responsibilities of the Secretary of the Interior under section 17(k)(1)(A) and (B) of the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920 (30 U.S.C. 226), none of the funds provided in this Act shall be obligated for any aspect of the processing or issuance of permits or leases pertaining to exploration for or development of coal, oil, gas, oil shale, phosphate, potassium, sulphur, gilsonite, or geothermal resources on Federal lands within any component of the National Wilderness Preservation System or within any Forest Service RARE II areas recommended for wilderness designation or allocated to further planning in Executive Communication 1504, Ninety-sixth Congress (House Document numbered 96-119); or within any lands designated by Congress as wilderness study areas or within Bureau of Land Management wilderness study areas: Provided, That nothing in this section shall prohibit the expenditure of funds for any aspect of the processing or issuance of permits pertaining to exploration for or development of the mineral resources described in this section, within any component of the National Wilderness Preservation System now in effect or hereinafter enacted, any Forest Service RARE II areas recommended for wilderness designation or allocated to further planning, within any lands designated by Congress as wilderness study areas, or Bureau of Land Management wilderness study areas, under valid existing rights, or leases validly issued in accordance with all applicable Federal, State, and local laws or valid mineral rights in existence prior to October 1, 1982: Provided further, That funds provided in this Act may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture in any area of National Forest lands or the Secretary of the Interior to issue under their existing authority in any area of National Forest or public lands withdrawn pursuant to this Act such permits as may be necessary to conduct prospecting, seismic surveys, and core sampling conducted by helicopter or other means not requiring construction of roads or improvement of existing roads or ways, for the purpose of gathering information about and inventorying energy, mineral, and other resource values of such area, if such activity is carried out in a manner compatible with the preservation of the wilderness environment: Provided further, That seismic activities involving the use of explosives shall not be permitted in designated wilderness areas: Provided further, That funds provided in this Act may be used by the Secretary of the Interior to augment recurring surveys of the mineral values of wilderness areas pursuant to section 4(d)(2) of the Wilderness Act and acquire information on other national forest and public land areas withdrawn pursuant to this Act, by conducting in conjunction with the Secretary of Energy, the National Laboratories, or other Federal agencies, as appropriate, such mineral inventories of areas withdrawn pursuant to this Act as he deems appropriate. These inventories shall be conducted in a manner compatible with the preservation of the wilderness environment through the use of methods including core sampling conducted by helicopter; geophysical techniques such as induced polarization, synthetic aperture radar, magnetic and gravity surveys; geochemical techniques including stream sediment reconnaissance and x-ray diffraction analysis; land satellites; or any other methods he deems appropriate. The Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to conduct inventories or segments of inventories, such as data analysis activities, by contract with private entities deemed by him to be qualified to engage in such activities whenever he has determined that such contracts would decrease Federal expenditures and would produce comparable or superior results: Provided further, That in carrying out any such inventory or surveys, where National Forest System lands are involved, the Secretary of the Interior shall consult with the Secretary of Agriculture concerning any activities affecting surface resources: Provided further, That funds provided in this Act may be used by the Secretary of the Interior to issue oil and gas leases for the subsurface of any lands designated by Congress as wilderness study areas, that are immediately adjacent to producing oil and gas fields or areas that are prospectively valuable. Such leases shall allow no surface occupancy and may be entered only by directional drilling from outside the wilderness study area or other nonsurface disturbing methods.

SEC. 308. None of the funds provided in this Act shall be used to evaluate, consider, process, or award oil, gas, or geothermal leases on Federal lands in the Mount Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest, State of Washington, within the hydrographic boundaries of the Cedar River municipal watershed upstream of river mile 21.6, the Green River municipal watershed upstream of river mile 61.0, the North Fork of the Tolt River proposed municipal watershed upstream of river mile 11.7, and the South Fork Tolt River municipal watershed upstream of river mile 8.4.

SEC. 309. No assessments may be levied against any program, budget activity, subactivity, or project funded by this Act unless such assessments and the basis therefor are presented to the Committees on Appropriations and are approved by such committees.

SEC. 310. Employment funded by this Act shall not be subject to any personnel ceiling or other personnel restriction for permanent or other than permanent employment except as provided by law.

SEC. 311. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Energy, and the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution are authorized to enter into contracts with State and local governmental entities, including local fire districts, for procurement of services in the presuppression, detection, and suppression of fires on any units within their jurisdiction.

SEC. 312. None of the funds provided by this Act to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service may be obligated or expended to plan for, conduct, or supervise deer hunting on the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

SEC. 313. None of the funds made available to the Department of the Interior or the Forest Service during fiscal year 1987 by this or any other Act may be used to implement the proposed jurisdictional interchange program until enactment of legislation which authorizes the jurisdictional interchange.

SEC. 314. Not to exceed $500,000 appropriated or made available under this or any other Act may be used by the executive branch for soliciting proposals, preparing or reviewing studies or drafting proposals designed to aid in or achieve the transfer out of Federal ownership, management or control in whole or in part the facilities and functions of Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 1 (Elk Hills), located in Kern County, California, established by Executive order of the President, dated September 2, 1912, and Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 3 (Teapot Dome), located in Wyoming, established by Executive order of the President, dated April 30, 1915: Provided, That a report on any such studies shall be submitted to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate no later than June 30, 1987.

SEC. 315. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, funds appropriated by this or any other Act shall be available to the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands on the same basis as such funds were available during fiscal year 1986 until alternative funding is available under the terms of the Compact of Free Association Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-239).

SEC. 316. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any lease for those Federal lands within the Gallatin and Flathead National Forests which were affected by case CV-82-42-BU of the United States District Court for the District of Montana, Butte Division, for which the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture has directed or assented to the suspension of operations and production pursuant to section 39 of the Act of February 25, 1920 (30 U.S.C. 184) shall be excepted from the limits on aggregate acreage set out in that Act: Provided, That any person, association or corporation receiving relief under this section shall bring its aggregate acreage into compliance with the provisions of the Act of February 25, 1920 (30 U.S.C. 184) within six months from the date the suspension of operation and production ends.

SEC. 317. No funds appropriated by this Act shall be available for the implementation or enforcement of any rule or regulation of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, requiring the use of steel shot in connection with the hunting of waterfowl in any State of the United States unless the appropriate State regulatory authority approves such implementation.

SEC. 318. Section 221 of the Biomass Energy and Alcohol Fuels Act of 1980 (Public Law 96-294; 42 U.S.C. 8821) is amended by striking out "June 30, 1986" and inserting in lieu thereof "June 30, 1987".

SEC. 319. Section 12(b)(7)(iv) of the Act of January 2, 1976 (Public Law 94-204), as amended, is amended by striking the word "ten" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "seven".

SEC. 320. To assure that National Forest and Bureau of Land Management timber included in sales defaulted by the purchaser, or returned under the Federal Timber Contract Payment Modification Act (Public Law 98-478), is available for resale in a timely manner, such sales shall be subject only to one level of administrative appeal. This limitation shall not abridge the right of judicial review. Actions on such administrative appeals should be completed within 90 days of receipt of the notice of appeal. Sales that are reoffered shall be modified, including minor additions or deletions, as appropriate, to reduce adverse environmental impacts, pursuant to current land management plans and guidelines, and such modifications in themselves should not be construed to require the preparation of new or supplemental environmental assessments. This section shall not apply to any decision on the determination of damages due to the Government for defaulted or canceled contracts.

This Act may be cited as the "Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987".

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 9:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 9, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert the following:

(i) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects, or activities provided for in H.R. 5233, the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conference report and joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference (House Report 99-960) as filed in the House of Representatives on October 2, 1986, as if enacted into law: Provided, That funds made available under such Act, and the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986 (Public Law 99-178; 99 Stat. 1103), under the paragraph of each Act entitled "STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OPERATIONS" that are authorized under section 6 of the Wagner-Peyser Act (29 U.S.C. 49e) may be used to carry out the targeted jobs tax credit program under section 51 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 10:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 10, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment insert the following:

(k) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects or activities provided for in the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided as follows, to be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriation Act:

An Act making appropriations for military construction for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and for other purposes.

TITLE I—MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

That the following sums are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, for military construction functions administered by the Department of Defense, and for other purposes, namely:

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, ARMY

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

For acquisition, construction, installation, and equipment of temporary or permanent public works, military installations, facilities, and real property for the Army as currently authorized by law, and for construction and operation of facilities in support of the functions of the Commander-in-Chief, $1,260,110,000, to remain available until September 30, 1991: Provided, That of this amount, not to exceed $131,000,000 shall be available for study, planning, design, architect and engineer services, as authorized by law, unless the Secretary of Defense determines that additional obligations are necessary for such purposes and notifies the Committees on Appropriations of both Houses of Congress of his determination and the reasons therefor: Provided further, That of the amount available for study, planning, design, architect and engineer services, $1,000,000 shall be available for the design of facilities at Fort Benning, Georgia necessary due to the establishment of the United States Army School of the Americas at Fort Benning: Provided further, That of the funds available for obligation for "Military Construction, Army" under Public Law 99-173, $36,400,000 is hereby rescinded. In addition, for construction at Fort Drum, New York, there is appropriated in advance to be available for obligation in fiscal year 1988, $221,000,000, to remain available until September 30, 1992, and to be available for obligation in fiscal year 1989, $214,000,000, to remain available until September 30, 1993.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, NAVY

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

For acquisition, construction, installation, and equipment of temporary or permanent public works, naval installations, facilities, and real property for the Navy as currently authorized by law, including personnel in the Naval Facilities Engineering Command and other personal services necessary for the purposes of this appropriation, 1,376,715,000, to remain available until September 30, 1991: Provided, That of this amount, not to exceed $143,770,000 shall be available for study, planning, design, architect and engineer services, as authorized by law, unless the Secretary of Defense determines that additional obligations are necessary for such purposes and notifies the Committees on Appropriations of both Houses of Congress of his determination and the reasons therefor: Provided further, That of the funds available for obligation for "Military Construction, Navy" under Public Law 99-173, $25,800,000 is hereby rescinded.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, AIR FORCE

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

For acquisition, construction, installation, and equipment of temporary or permanent public works, military installations, facilities, and real property for the Air Force as currently authorized by law, 1,242,530,000, to remain available until September 30, 1991: Provided, That of this amount, not to exceed $117,260,000 shall be available for study, planning, design, architect and engineer services, as authorized by law, unless the Secretary of Defense determines that additional obligations are necessary for such purposes and notifies the Committees on Appropriations of both Houses of Congress of his determination and the reasons therefor: Provided further, That of the funds available for obligation for "Military Construction, Air Force" under Public Law 99-173, $24,700,000 is hereby rescinded.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, DEFENSE AGENCIES

For acquisition, construction, installation, and equipment of temporary or permanent public works, installations, facilities, and real property for activities and agencies of the Department of Defense (other than the military departments), as currently authorized by law, $534,170,000, to remain available until September 30, 1991: Provided, That such amounts of this appropriation as may be determined by the Secretary of Defense may be transferred to such appropriations of the Department of Defense available for military construction as he may designate, to be merged with and to be available for the some purposes, and for the same time period, as the appropriation or fund to which transferred: Provided further, That of the amount appropriated, not to exceed $83,000,000, shall be available for study, planning, design, architect and engineer services, as authorized by law, unless the Secretary of Defense determines that additional obligations are necessary for such purposes and notifies the Committees, on Appropriations of both Houses of Congress of his determination and the reasons therefor.

NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION INFRASTRUCTURE

For the United States share of the cost of North Atlantic Treaty Organization Infrastructure programs for the acquisition of personal property, for the acquisition and construction of military facilities and installations (including international military headquarters) and for related expenses for the collective defense of the North Atlantic Treaty Area as authorized in military construction Acts and section 2806 of title 10, United States Code, $232,000,000, to remain available until expended.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

For construction, acquisition, expansion, rehabilitation, and conversion of facilities for the training and administration of the Army National Guard, and contributions therefor, as authorized by chapter 133 of title 10, United States Code, and military construction authorization Acts, $140,879,000, to remain available until September 30, 1991.

HOMEOWNERS ASSISTANCE FUND, DEFENSE

For use in the Homeowners Assistance Fund established pursuant to section 1013(d) of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-754, as amended), $2,000,000.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. None of the funds appropriated in this title shall be expended for payments under a cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contract for work, where cost estimates exceed $25,000, to be performed within the United States, except Alaska, without the specific approval in writing of the Secretary of Defense setting forth the reasons therefor.

SEC. 102. Funds herein appropriated to the Department of Defense for construction shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles.

SEC. 103. Funds appropriated to the Department of Defense for construction may be used for advances to the Federal Highway Administration, Department of Transportation, for the construction of access roads as authorized by section 210 of title 23, United States Code, when projects authorized therein are certified as important to the national defense by the Secretary of Defense.

SEC. 104. None of the funds appropriated in this title may be used to begin construction of new bases inside the continental United States for which specific appropriations have not been made.

SEC. 105. No part of the funds provided in this title shall be used for purchase of land or land easements in excess of 100 per centum of the value as determined by the Corps of Engineers of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, except; (a) where there is a determination of value by a Federal court, or (b) purchases negotiated by the Attorney General or his designee, or (c) where the estimated value is less than $25,000, or (d) as otherwise determined by the Secretary of Defense to be in the public interest.

SEC. 106. None of the funds appropriated in this title shall be used to (1) acquire land, (2) provide for site preparation, or (3) install utilities for any family housing, except housing for which funds have been made available in annual military construction appropriation Acts.

SEC. 107. None of the funds appropriated in this title for minor construction may be used to transfer or relocate any activity from one base or installation to another, without prior notification to the Committee on Appropriations.

SEC. 108. No part of the funds appropriated in this title may be used for the procurement of steel for any construction project or activity for which American steel producers, fabricators, and manufacturers have been denied the opportunity to compete for such steel procurement.

SEC. 109. No part of the funds appropriated in this title for dredging in the Indian Ocean may be used for the performance of the work by foreign contractors: Provided, That the low responsive and responsible bid of a United States contractor does not exceed the lowest responsive and responsible bid of a foreign contractor by greater than 20 per centum.

SEC. 110. None of the funds available to the Department of Defense for military construction or family housing during the current fiscal year may be used to pay real property taxes in any foreign nation.

SEC. 111. No part of the funds appropriated in this title may be used to pay the compensation of an officer of the Government of the United States or to reimburse a contractor for the employment of a person for work in the continental United States by any such person if such person is an alien who has not been lawfully admitted to the United States.

SEC. 112. The expenditure of any appropriation under this title for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 113. None of the funds appropriated by this title may be obligated and expended in any way for the express purpose of sale, lease, or rental of any portion of land currently identified as Fort DeRussy, Honolulu, Hawaii.

SEC. 114. None of the funds in this title may be used to initiate a new installation overseas without prior notification to the Committees an Appropriations.

SEC. 115. None of the funds appropriated in this title may be obligated for architect and engineer contracts estimated by the Government to exceed $500,000 for projects to be accomplished in Japan or in any NATO member country, unless such contracts are awarded to United States firms or United States firms in joint venture with host nation firms.

SEC. 116. None of the funds appropriated in this title for military construction in the United States territories and possessions in the Pacific and on Kwajalein Island may be used to award any contract estimated by the Government to exceed $1,000,000 to a foreign contractor: Provided, That this section shall not be applicable to contract awards for which the lowest responsive and responsible bid of a United States contractor exceeds the lowest responsive and responsible bid of a foreign contractor by greater than 20 per centum.

SEC. 117. The Secretary of Defense is to inform the Committees on Appropriations and Committees and Armed Services of the plans and scope of any proposed military exercise involving United States personnel 30 days prior to its occurring, if amounts expended for construction, either temporary or permanent, are anticipated to exceed $100,000.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

SEC. 118. Unexpended balances in the Military Family Housing Management Account established pursuant to section 2831 of title 10, United States Code, as well as any additional amounts which would otherwise be transferred to the Military Family Housing Management Account during fiscal year 1987, shall be transferred to the appropriations for Family Housing provided in this title, as determined by the Secretary of Defense, based on the sources from which the funds were derived, and shall be available for the same purposes, and for the same time period, as the appropriation to which they have been transferred.

SEC. 119. Not more than 20 per centum of the appropriations in this title which are limited for obligation during the current fiscal year shall be obligated during the last two months of the fiscal year.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

SEC. 120. Funds appropriated to the Department of Defense for construction in prior years are hereby made available for construction authorized for each such military department by the authorizations enacted into law during the second session of the Ninety-ninth Congress.

SEC. 121. For Transfer by the Secretary of Defense to and from appropriations and funds not merged pursuant to subsection 1552(a)(1) of title 31 of the United States Code and available for obligation or expenditure during fiscal year 1987 or thereafter, for military construction or expenses of family housing for the military departments and Defense agencies, in order to maintain the budgeted level operations for such appropriations and thereby eliminate substantial gains and losses to such appropriations caused by fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates that vary substantially from those used in preparing budget submissions, an appropriation, to remain available until expended: Provided, That funds transferred from this appropriation shall be merged with and be available for the same purpose, and for the same time period, as the appropriation or fund to which transferred, and funds transferred to this appropriation shall be merged with, and available for the purpose of this appropriation until expended: Provided further, That transfers may be made from time to time from this appropriation to the extent the Secretary of Defense determines it may be necessary to do so to reflect downward fluctuations in the currency exchange rates from those used in preparing the budget submissions for such appropriations, but transfers shall be made from such appropriations to this appropriation to reflect upward fluctuations in currency exchange rates to prevent substantial net gains in such appropriations: Provided further, That authorizations or limitations now or hereafter contained within appropriations or other provisions of law limiting the amounts that may be obligated or expended for military construction and family housing expenses are hereby increased to the extent necessary to reflect downward fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates from those used in preparing the applicable budget submission: Provided further, That for the purposes of the appropriation "Foreign Currency Fluctuations, Construction, Defense" the foreign currency rates used in preparing budget submissions shall be the foreign currency exchange rates as adjusted or modified, as reflected in applicable Committee reports on the Acts making appropriations for military construction for the Department of Defense; Provided further, That the Secretary of Defense shall provide an annual report to the Congress on all transfers made to or made from this appropriation: Provided further, That contracts or other obligations entered into payable in foreign currencies may be recorded as obligations based on the currency exchange rates used in preparing budget submissions and adjustments to reflect fluctuations in such rates may be recorded as disbursements are made: Provided further, That no later than the end of the second fiscal year following the fiscal year for which appropriations for Family Housing Opertion and Maintenance have been made available to the Department of Defense, and no later than the end of the sixth fiscal year following the fiscal year for which the appropriations for Military Construction and Family Housing Construction have been made available to the Department of Defense, unobligated balances of such appropriations may be transferred into the appropriation "Foreign Currency Fluctuations, Construction, Defense": Provided further, That, at the discretion of the Secretary of Defense, any savings generated in the military construction and family housing programs may be transferred to this appropriation.

SEC. 122. The Secretary of the Navy shall enter into negotiations with shipyards located on Sampson Street, San Diego, California, and on Fort George Island, Jacksonville, Florida, to determine what liability (if any) the United States has for damages suffered by such a shipyard resulting from facility improvements made by such shipyard during 1982 in good faith reliance on representations and assurances provided to officials of such shipyard by representatives of the Department of the Navy in 1981 and 1982 with respect to furture work of the Department of the Navy at such shipyard.

SEC. 123. For Military Construction for the strategic homeporting initiative, no more than $799,000,000 shall be appropriated or obligated through fiscal year 1991.

SEC. 124. Of the total amount of budget authority provided for fiscal year 1987 by this Act that would otherwise be available for consulting services, management and professional services, and special studies and analyses, 10 percentum of the amount intended for such purposes in the President's budget for 1987, as amended, for any agency, department or entity subject to apportionment by the Executive shall be placed in reserve and not made available for obligation or expenditure: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any agency, department or entity whose budget request for 1987 for the purposes stated above did not amount to $5,000,000.

SEC. 125. (a) None of the funds appropriated in this Act may be available for any country if the President determines that the government of such country is failing to take adequate measures to prevent narcotic drugs or other controlled substances cultivated or produced or processed illicitly, in whole or in part, in such country, or transported through such country, from being sold illegally within the jurisdiction of such country of United States personnel or their dependents, or from being smuggled into the United States. Such prohibition shall continue in force until the President determines and reports to the Congress in writing that—

(1) the government of such country has prepared and committed itself to a plan presented to the Secretary of State that would eliminate the cause or basis for the application of such country of the prohibition contained in the first sentence; and

(2) the government of such country has taken appropriate law enforcement measures to implement the plan presented to the Secretary of State.

(b) The provisions of subsection (a) shall not apply in the case of any country with respect to which the President determines that the application of the provisions of such subsection would be inconsistent with the national security interests of the United States.

SEC. 126. Section 4, chapter III of Public Law 99-349, dated July 2, 1986, is amended to read as follows: Of the amounts available to the Department of Defense, not to exceed $5,000,000 shall be available for such claims arising from property losses caused by the explosion of Army munitions near Checotah, Oklahoma on August 4, 1985, and claims determined by the Department to be bona fide shall be paid from the funds made available by this section without a determination of legal liability based on an act or omission of an agent or employee of the Federal Government.

SEC. 127. The Secretary of Defense is to provide the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and the House of Representatives with a report by February 15, 1987, containing details of the specific actions proposed to be taken by the Department of Defense during fiscal year 1987 to encourage other member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Japan to assume a greater share of the common defense burden of such nations and the United States.

This title may be cited as the "Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987".

TITLE II—CENTRAL AMERICA

PURPOSES

SEC. 201. The purposes of this title are to promote economic and political development, peace, stability and democracy in Central America, to encourage a negotiated resolution of the conflict in the region, and toward these ends, to enable the President to provide additional economic assistance for the Central American democracies as well as assistance for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance, subject to the terms and conditions of title.

POLICY TOWARD CENTRAL AMERICA

SEC. 202. (a) It is the policy of the United States that—

(1) the building of democracy, the restoration of peace, economic development, the improvement of living conditions, and the application of equal justice under law in Central America are important to the interests of the United States and the community of American States;

(2) the interrelated issues of social and human progress, economic growth, political reform, and regional security must be effectively dealt with to assure a democratic and economically and politically secure Central America; and

(3) the September 1983 Contadora Document of Objectives, which sets forth a framework for negotiating a peaceful settlement to the conflict and turmoil in the region, is to be encouraged and supported.

(b) The United States strongly supports as essential to the objectives set forth in subsection (a)—

(1) a long-term commitment of economic assistance to the Central American democracies in amounts recommended by the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America;

(2) national reconciliation in Nicaragua and the creation of a framework for negotiating a peaceful, democratic settlement to the Nicaraguan conflict; and

(3) efforts to reach a comprehensive and verifiable final agreement based on the Contadora Document of Objectives, including efforts to encourage the Government of Nicaragua to pursue a dialogue with the representatives of all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition for the purpose of achieving a democratic political settlement of the conflict, including free and fair elections

POLICY TOWARD THE GOVERNMENT OF NICARAGUA

SEC. 203. (a) United States policy toward the Government of Nicaragua shall be based upon that government's responsiveness to continuing concerns affecting the national security of the United States and Nicaragua's neighbors about—

(1) Nicaragua's close military and security ties to Cuba and the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies including the presence in Nicaragua of military and security personnel from those countries and allies;

(2) Nicaragua's buildup of military forces in numbers disproportionate to those of its neighbors and equipped with sophisticated weapons systems and facilities designed to accommodate even more advanced equipment;

(3) Nicaragua's unlawful support for armed subversion and terrorism directed against the democratically elected governments of other countries;

(4) Nicaragua's internal repression and lack of opportunity for the exercise of civil and political rights which would allow the people of Nicaragua to have a meaninful voice in determining the policies of their government through participation in regularly scheduled free and fair elections and the establishment of democratic institutions; and

(5) Nicaragua's refusal to negotiate in good faith for a peaceful resolution of the conflict in Central America based upon the comprehensive implementation of the September 1983 Contadora Document of Objectives and, in particular, its refusal to engage in a serious national dialogue with all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition.

(b) The United States will address the concerns described in subsection (a) through economic, political, and diplomatic measures (including efforts to secure the cooperation of other democratic nations in such measures), as well as through support for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance. In order to assure every opportunity for a peaceful resolution of the conflict in Central America, the United States will—

(1) engage in bilateral discussions with the Government of Nicaragua with a view toward facilitating progress in achieving a peaceful resolution of the conflict, if the Government of Nicargua simultaneously engages in a serious dialogue with representatives of all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition; and

(2) limit the types and amounts of assistance provided to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance and take other positive action in response to steps taken by the Government of Nicaragua toward meeting the concerns described in subsection (a).

(c) The duration of bilateral discussions with the Government of Nicaragua and the implementation of additional measures under subsection (b) shall be determined, after consultation with the Congress, by reference to Nicaragua's actions in response to the concerns described in subsection (a). Particular regard will be paid to whether—

(1) freedom of speech, assembly, religion, and political activity are being respected in Nicaragua and progress is being made toward the holding of regularly scheduled free and fair elections;

(2) there has been a halt to the flow of arms and the introduction of foreign military personnel into Nicaragua, and a withdrawal of all foreign military personnel has begun;

(3) a cease-fire with the Nicaraguan democratic resistance is being respected; and

(4) Nicaragua is refraining from acts of aggression, including support for insurgency and terrorism in other countries.

(d) The actions by the United States under this title in response to the concerns described in subsection (a) are consistent with the right of the United States to defend itself and to assist its allies in accordance with international law and treaties in force. Such actions are directed, not to determine the form or composition of any government of Nicaragua, but to achieve a comprehensive and verifiable agreement among Central American countries, based upon the 1983 Contadora Document of Objectives, including internal reconciliation within Nicaragua based upon democratic principles, without the use of force by the United States.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, no member of the United States Armed Forces or employee of any department, agency, or other component of the United States Government may enter Nicaragua to provide military advice, training, or logistical support to paramilitary groups operating inside that country. Nothing in this title shall be construed as authorizing any member or unit of the Armed Forces of the United States to engage in combat against the Government of Nicaragua.

POLICY TOWARD THE NICARAGUAN DEMOCRATIC RESISTANCE

SEC. 204. (a) It is the policy of the United States to assist all groups within the Nicaraguan democratic resistance which—

(1) are committed to work together for democratic national reconciliation in Nicaragua based on the document issued by the six Nicaraguan opposition parties on February 7, 1986, entitled "Proposal to the Nicaraguan Government for a Solution to the Crisis in Our Country"; and

(2) respect international standards of conduct and refrain from violations of human rights or from other criminal acts.

(b) No assistance under this title may be provided to any group that retains in its ranks any individual who has been found to engage in—

(1) gross violations of internationally recognized human rights (as defined in section 502B(d)(1) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961); or

(2) drug smuggling or significant misuse of public or private funds.

(c)(1) It is recognized that the Nicaraguan democratic resistance has been broadening its representative base, through the forging of cooperative relationships between the United Nicaraguan Opposition (UNO) and other democratic resistance elements, and has been increasing the responsiveness of military forces to civilian leadership.

(2) The President shall use the authority provided by this title to further the developments described in paragraph (1) and to encourage the Nicaraguan democratic resistance to take additional steps to strengthen its unity, pursue a defined and coordinated program for representative democracy in Nicaragua, and otherwise increase its appeal to the Nicaraguan people.

(d) In furtherance of the policy set out in this section, not less than $10,000,000 of the funds transferred by section 6(a) shall be available only for assistance to resistance forces otherwise eligible and not currently included within UNO, of which amount $5,000,000 shall be available only for the Southern Opposition Bloc (BOS) and $5,000,000 shall be available only for the Indian resistance force known as Misurasata.

SEC. 205. (a) There are hereby transferred to the President for assistance to the Central American democracies (Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras) in accordance with the provisions of chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961; $300,000,000 of unobligated funds from the accounts specified in subsection (b). Amounts transferred under this section shall be administered in accordance with the terms and conditions of chapter 6 of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, funds made available by this section—

(1) shall be in addition to amounts previously appropriated for the fiscal year 1986 and allocated for assistance to Central American countries, and

(2) shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 1987, except that no less than $100,000,000 shall be obligated on or before September 30, 1986.

(b) Amounts made available by this section shall be transferred from such accounts as the President may designate for which appropriations were made by title II of the Foreign Assistance and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1986, title IV of the Agriculture, Rural Development and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986, (as contained in Public Law 99-190), and title II of the Urgent Supplemental Appropriations Act 1985 (Public Law 99-10).

(c)(1) The Secretary of State, the Administrator of the Agency for International Development, and the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, shall—

(A) develop a plan for fully funding the assistance to the Central American democracies (Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras) proposed in the January 1984 report of the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America; and

(B) provide a report describing this plan to the President and the Congress no later than March 1, 1987.

(2) The report required by paragraph (1) shall include an analysis and recommendations, prepared in consultation with the Secretary of Agriculture, on how more effective use can be made of agricultural commodities from the United States in alleviating hunger in Central America and contributing to the economic development of the Central American democracies.

(d)(1) There are hereby transferred to the President out of funds appropriated by the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1985 (Public Law 99-88), under the heading "Assistance For Implementation of a Contadora Agreement" such sums as the President may require but not more than $2,000,000, to facilitate the participation of Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras in regional meetings and negotiations to promote peace, stability, and security in Central America.

(2) Funds transferred under paragraph (1) shall remain available for the same period of time as such funds would have been available under the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1985 (Public Law 99-88), but for the enactment of this title.

(e) The Congress reaffirms its support for the establishment of a Central American Development Organization, authorized by section 464 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as an effective forum for dialogue on, and the continuous review and advancement of, Central America's political, economic, and social development, including the strengthening of democratic pluralism and respect for internationally recognized human rights. Toward this end, not less than $750,000 of the funds transferred by this section should be used to establish the Central American Development Organization and its administrative apparatus so as to ensure that Central American development objectives are encouraged.

ASSISTANCE FOR THE NICARAGUAN DEMOCRATIC RESISTANCE

SEC. 206. (a)(1) The Congress hereby approves the provision of assistance for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance in accordance with the provisions of this title.

(2) There are hereby tansferred to the President for the purposes of this section $100,000,000 of unobligated funds from such accounts for which appropriations were made by the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1986 (as contained in Public Law 99-190), as the President shall designate.

(b) Notwithstanding the Impoundment Control Act of 1974, not more than 40 percent of the funds transferred under subsection (a) may be available for obligation or expenditure in accordance with this title upon the date of its enactment; not more than an additional 20 percent of such funds may be so available no earlier than October 15, 1986, and 15 days after the transmittal to the Congress of the determination required by section 11(c); and not more than the remaining 40 percent may be so available no earlier than February 15, 1987, and 15 days after the transmittal to the Congress of the determination required by section 11(e).

(c) Funds transferred under subsection (a) shall remain available for the same periods of time, but not to exceed September 30, 1987, as such funds would have been available under the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1986 (as contained in Public Law 99-190), but for the enactment of this title.

COORDINATION OF AND ACCOUNTABILITY FOR ASSISTANCE TO THE NICARAGUAN DEMOCRATIC RESISTANCE

SEC. 207. (a) The Secretary of State (or his designee) shall be responsible for policy guidance, coordination, and supervision of United States Government activities under this title.

(b) Any agency to which funds transferred under section 6(a) are allocated shall establish standards, procedures and controls necessary to assure that such funds are fully accounted for and are used exclusively for the purposes authorized by this title. Such standards, procedures and controls shall be developed in consultation with the Comptroller General and the appropriate committees of the Congress, and shall include such safeguards as segregation of accounts, monitoring of deliveries, and requirements for the keeping of complete records available for audit by authorized representatives of the United States Government.

FUNDS FOR HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE

SEC. 208. (a) Of the amounts transferred under section 6(a), $30,000,000 shall be available only for the provision of humanitarian assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance.

(b) Of the $30,000,000 made available only for purposes of subsection (a), $3,000,000 shall be available only for strengthening programs and activities of the Nicaraguan democratic resistance for the observance and advancement of human rights.

APPLICATION OF EXISTING LAWS

SEC. 209. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this title, funds transferred under section 6(a) shall be available for the purposes described in section 105(a) of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986, and all the requirements, terms, and conditions of such section and sections 101 and 102 of such Act, section 502 of the National Security Act of 1947, and section 106 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1985 (Public Law 99-88), shall be deemed to have been met for such use of such funds.

(b) The use of funds made available under this title is subject to all applicable provisions of law and established procedures relating to the oversight by the Congress of operations of departments and agencies.

(c) Nothing in this title shall be construed as permitting the President to furnish additional assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance from funds other than the funds transferred under section 6(a) or otherwise specifically authorized by the Congress for assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance.

(d) No limitation or restriction contained in section 10 of Public Law 91-672, section 8109 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1986, section 502 of the National Security Act of 1947, or any other provision of law shall apply to the transfer or use of funds transferred to the President under this title.

USE OF FUNDS AFTER A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT

SEC. 210. If the President determines and so reports to the Congress that a peaceful settlement of the conflict in Central America has been reached, then—

(1) the unobligated balance, if any, of funds transferred under section 6(a) shall be available for the purposes of relief, rehabilitation, and reconstruction in Central American countries in accordance with the authorities contained in Chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (relating to economic support fund assistance);

(2) the President shall terminate any economic embargo of Nicaragua then in effect; and

(3) the President shall take such further actions as appropriate to carry out the policy described in section 2(a)(1) of this title with respect to all Central American countries, including Nicaragua.

INCENTIVES FOR A NEGOTIATED SETTLEMENT

SEC. 211. (a) Assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance under this title shall be provided in a manner designed to encourage the Government of Nicaragua to respond favorably to the many opportunities available for achieving a negotiated settlement of the conflict in Central America. These opportunities include the following proposals:

(1) Six opposition Nicaraguan political parties on February 7, 1986, called for an immediate cease-fire, an effective general amnesty, abolition of the state of emergency agreement on a new electoral process and general elections, effective fulfillment of international commitments for democratization, and observance of implementation of these actions and commitments by appropriate international groups and organizations;

(2) President Reagan on February 10, 1986, offered simultaneous talks between the Government of Nicaragua and the United States Government;

(3) President Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador on March 5, 1986, offered an additional dialog between the Government of El Salvador and the insurgents in El Salvador if the Government of Nicaragua would simultaneously engage in a dialog with all elements of the Nicaragua democratic opposition; and

(4) The United Nicaraguan Opposition on May 29, 1986, reiterated its support for the six-party proposal described in paragraph (1) as a means to achieve national reconciliation and democratization.

(b)(1) In furtherance of the objectives set forth in subsection (a), and except as provided in subsection (e), assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance under this title shall be limited to the following:

(A) humanitarian assistance (as defined in section 722(g)(5) of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985);

(B) logistics advice and assistance;

(C) support for democractic political and diplomatic activities;

(D) training, services, equipment and supplies for radio communications, collection, and utilization of intelligence, logistics, and small-unit skills, tactics and operations; and

(E) equipment and supplies necessary for defense against air attacks.

(2) The assistance described in paragraph (1) shall be limited, by type and value, to the matters specified in the classified annex to the communication from the President to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate dated June 24, 1986.

(3) No weapons or ammunition shall be delivered under this title to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance prior to September 1, 1986.

(c) On and after October 15, 1986, an additional $20,000,000 of the funds transferred under section 6(a) may be made available for obligation and expenditure for assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance 15 days after the President determines and reports to the Congress that—

(1) the Central American countries have not concluded a comprehensive and effective agreement based on the Contradora Document of Objectives;

(2) the Government of Nicaragua is not engaged in a serious dialog with representatives of all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition, accompanied by a cease-fire and an effective end to the existing constraints on freedom of speech, assembly, religion, and political activity, leading to regularly scheduled free and fair elections and the establishment of democratic institutions; and

(3) there is no reasonable prospect of achieving such agreement, dialog, cease-fire, and end to constraints described in paragraphs (1) and (2) through further diplomatic measures, multilateral or bilateral, without additional assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance.

(d)(1) Nothwithstanding any other provision of this title, on or after October 15, 1986, funds transferred under section 6(a) may be obligated or expended only if the President determines and reports to the Congress that the Nicaraguan democratic resistance groups receiving assistance under this title have agreed to and are beginning to implement—

(A) confederation and reform measures to broaden their leadership base;

(B) the coordination of their efforts;

(C) the elimination of human rights abuses;

(D) the pursuit of a defined and coordinated program for achieving representative democracy in Nicaragua; and

(E) the subordination of military forces to civilian leadership; and

(F) the application of rigorous standards, procedures and controls to assure that funds transferred under section 6(a) are fully accounted for and are used exclusively for the purposes authorized by this title.

(2) In making his determination under paragraph (1), the President shall take into account the effectiveness and legitimacy of the political leadership of those Nicaraguan democratic resistance groups receiving assistance under this title, including the ability of that political leadership—

(A) to reflect the views and objectives of the internal and external Nicaraguan democratic opposition;

(B) to function as the spokesman for the Nicaraguan democratic opposition with Central Americans, international organizations, and the United States Government;

(C) to represent the Nicaraguan democratic opposition in dealing with the Government of Nicaragua;

(D) to provide command and control for the military forces of all resistance groups receiving assistance under this title and to establish the goals for their military operations;

(E) to determine the distribution of and maintain accountability for assistance provided under this title; and

(F) to provide the legal mechanisms necessary for the enforcement of standards of conduct applicable to all members of the resistance groups receiving assistance under the title.

(e) On and after February 15, 1987, the restrictions in subsection (b) shall cease to apply and the remaining funds transferred under section 6(a) may be made available for obligation and expenditure for assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance 15 days after the President determines and reports to the Congress that—

(1) the Central American countries have not concluded a comprehensive and effective agreement based on the Contadora Document of Objectives;

(2) the Government of Nicaragua is not engaged in a serious dialog with representatives of all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition, accompanied by a cease-fire and an effective end to the existing constraints on freedom of speech, assembly, religion, and political activity leading to regularly scheduled free and fair elections and the establishment of democratic institutions; and

(3) there is no reasonable prospect of achieving such agreement, dialog, cease-fire, and end to constraints described in paragraphs (1) and (2) through further diplomatic measures, multilateral or bilateral, without additional assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance, unless the Congress has enacted a joint resolution under section 12 disapproving the provision of additional assistance (other than assistance described in subsection (b)(1) within the limits of funds previously made available).

(f)(1) Notwithstanding subsection (e), no assistance (other than the assistance described in subparagraphs (A) through (C) of subsection (b)(1) shall be provided at any time to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance under this title if—

(A) the President determines that—

(i) the Central American countries have concluded a comprehensive and effective agreement based on the Contadora Document of Objectives; or

(ii) the Government of Nicaragua is engaging in a serious dialog with representatives of all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition, accompanied by a cease-fire and an effective end to the existing constraints on freedom of speech, assembly, religion, and political activity leading to regularly scheduled free and fair elections and the establishment of democratic institutions; or

(B) the Congress enacts a joint resolution under section 12 disapproving the provision of additional assistance (other than assistance described in subparagraphs (A) through (C) of subsection (b)(1)).

(2) The prohibition contained in paragraph (1) shall not apply—

(A) with respect to assistance described in subparagraph (D) of subsection (b)(1) if the Government of Nicaragua fails to observe an applicable cease-fire; or

(B) with respect to assistance described in subparagraph (E) of subsection (b)(1) if the Government of Nicaragua acquires additional equipment or materiel to carry out air attacks.

CONGRESSIONAL PRIORITY PROCEDURES

SEC. 212. (a)(1) A joint resolution described in subsection (e) of section 11 shall be one without a preamble, the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: "That the Congress disapproves the provision of additional assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance pursuant to title of the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987, except as provided in section 11(b) thereof within the limits of funds previously made available.".

(2) A joint resolution described in subsection (f)(1)(B) of section 11 shall be one without a preamble, the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: "That the Congress disapproves the provision of additional assistance to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance pursuant to title of the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987, except as provided in subparagraph (A) through (C) of section 11(b)(1) and paragraph (2) of section 11(f) thereof.".

(b) A joint resolution described in subsection (a)(1) or (a)(2) shall be considered in the House of Representatives and in the Senate in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (3) through (7) of section 8066(c) of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1985 (as contained in Public Law 98-473), except that—

(1) references in such paragraphs to a joint resolution shall be deemed to be references to the respective joint resolution set forth in subsection (a)(1) or subsection (a)(2);

(2) references in such paragraphs to Committee on Appropriations shall be deemed to be references to the appropriate committee or committees of the respective House of Congress; and

(3) references in such paragraphs to the eighth day and to fifteen calendar days shall be deemed to be references to the fifth day and to five calendar days, respectively.

(c) The provisions of this section are enacted—

(1) as exercises of the rulemaking powers of the House of Representatives and Senate, and as such they are deemed a part of the Rules of the House and the Rules of the Senate, respectively, but applicable only with respect to the procedure to be followed in the House and the Senate in the case of joint resolutions under section 11, and they supersede other rules only to the extent that they are inconsistent with such rules; and

(2) with full recognition of the constitutional right of the House and the Senate to change their rules at any time, in the same manner, and to the same extent as in the case of any other rule of the House or Senate, and of the right of the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives to report a resolution for the consideration of any measure.

COMMISSION ON CENTRAL AMERICAN NEGOTIATIONS

SEC. 213. (a)(1) There is established the Commission on Central American Negotiations (hereafter in this section referred to as the "Commission"), which shall be composed of five members appointed as follows:

(A) One individual appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives;

(B) One individual appointed by the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives;

(C) One individual appointed by the Majority Leader of the Senate;

(D) One individual appointed by the Minority Leader of the Senate; and

(E) One individual who shall serve as Chairman of the Commission, selected by majority vote of the other members of the Commission.

(2) No officer or employee of the United States may be appointed as a member of the Commission.

(3) The appointments referred to in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) of paragraph (1) shall be made within 5 calendar days following enactment of this title, and the selection of a chairman referred to in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (1) shall be made within 10 days following enactment of this title.

(b) The purpose of the Commission is to monitor and report on the efforts of the Nicaraguan democratic resistance to coordinate and reform and on the status of any negotiations on the peace, stability, and security of Central America, including negotiations conducted between or among—

(1) the Government of Nicaragua and all elements of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition, including the Nicaraguan democratic resistance;

(2) the governments of Central American countries;

(3) the Government of the United States and the Government of Nicaragua;

(4) the governments of the Contadora and Support Group countries and the governments of the Central American countries; and

(5) the Government of El Salvador and the insurgents in El Salvador.

(c)(1) The Commission may appoint and fix the pay of not more than seven staff personnel, but at such rates not in excess of the rate for GS-18 of the General Schedule under section 5332 of title 5, United States Code.

(2)(A) Each member of the Commission shall be entitled to receive the daily equivalent of the annual rate of basic pay in effect for grade GS-18 of the General Schedule under section 5332 of title 5, United States Code, for each day during which such member is engaged in the performance of duties as a member of the Commission.

(B) While away from his home or regular place of business in the performance of duties for the Commission, a member or staff personnel of the Commission shall be allowed travel expenses, including a per diem in lieu of subsistence, not to exceed the expenses allowed persons employed intermittently in Government service under section 5703 of title 5, United States Code.

(3) For purposes of pay and other employment benefits, rights, and privileges and for all other purposes, any employee of the Commission shall be considered to be a congressional employee as defined in section 2107 of title 5, United States Code.

(d)(1) A majority of the members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum.

(2) All decisions of the Commission shall be by majority vote.

(e) The Commission may make such reports in connection with its duties as it deems necessary to the Speaker of the House of Representative and the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, except that—

(1) not later than 5 days after receipt by the Congress or a report by the President under section 14 the Commission shall prepare and transmit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate a report addressing all the matters which are required to be included in reports of the President by paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of section 14; and

(2) not later than September 30, 1986, the Commission shall prepare and transmit to the Congress a report on whether the Nicaraguan democratic resistance groups receiving assistance under this title have agreed to and are beginning to implement measures described in subparagraphs (A) through (F) of section 11(d)(1) and an evaluation of the factors described in section 11(d)(2).

(f)(1) Salaries and expenses of the Commission, but not more than $400,000, shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate out of the Account for Miscellaneous Items, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) Funds made available to the Commission by paragraph (1) shall be disbursed on vouchers approved by the Chairman, except that no voucher shall be required for the disbursement of the salary of an individual appointed under subsection (c).

(3) For purposes of section 502(b) of the Mutual Security Act of 1954, the Commission shall be deemed to be a standing committee of the Congress and shall be entitled to use of funds in accordance with such section.

(g) The Commission shall terminate not later than 90 days after transmittal of the reports required by subsection (e).

PRESIDENTIAL REPORTING REQUIREMENT

SEC. 214. The President shall prepare and transmit to the Congress with each determination required by section 11 a report on actions taken to achieve a resolution of the conflict in Central America in a manner that meets the concerns described in section 3(a). Each such report shall include—

(1) a detailed statement of the status of negotiations toward a negotiated settlement of the conflict in Central America, including the willingness of the Nicaraguan democratic resistance and the Government of Nicaragua to negotiate a settlement;

(2) a detailed accounting of the disbursements made to provide assistance with the funds transferred under section 6(a) and a detailed statement of how the accountability standards, procedures and controls established under section 7(b) and 11(d)(1)(F) are being implemented so as to assure that all such funds are fully accounted for and are being used exclusively for the purposes authorized by this title;

(3) a discussion of alleged human rights violations by the Nicaraguan democratic resistance and the Government of Nicaragua, including a statement of the steps taken by the Nicaraguan democratic resistance to remove from their ranks any individuals who have engaged in human rights abuses; and

(4) an evaluation of the progress made by the Nicaraguan democratic resistance in broadening its political base and defining a unified and coordinated program for achieving representative democracy in Nicaragua.

REQUESTS FOR ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE

SEC. 215. The provisions of subsections (s) and (t) of section 722 of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 shall apply—

(1) with respect to any request described in section 722(p) of such Act submitted by the President to the Congress on or after the date of enactment of this title, and

(2) with respect to any request by the President for additional economic assistance for the Central American democracies to carry out recommendations contained in the report required by section 5(c)(1)(B) (in which case references to a joint resolution in subsections (s) and (t) of section 722 of such Act shall be deemed to be references to a joint resolution without a preamble, the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: "That the Congress approves the additional economic assistance for the Central American democracies that the President requested pursuant to title of the Military Construction Appropriation Act, 1987."), except that, for purposes of consideration in a House of Congress of a joint resolution under subsection (s) or (t) of such section, amendments to such a joint resolution may be in order but only if such amendments are germane.

LIMITATION ON PARTICIPATION OF UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT PERSONNEL IN DELIVERY OF ASSISTANCE

SEC. 216. (a) United States Government personnel may not provide any training or other service, or otherwise participate directly or indirectly in the provision of any assistance, to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance pursuant to this title within those land areas of Honduras and Costa Rica which are within 20 miles of the border with Nicaragua.

(b) As used in this section, the term "United States Government personnel" means—

(1) any member of the United States Armed Forces who is on active duty or is performing inactive duty training; and

(2) any employee of any department, agency, or other component of the executive branch of the United States Government;

but does not include any officer or employee of the United States General Accounting Office of any employee of the Inspector General of the Department of State and the Foreign Service who is carrying out inspections, investigations, or audits with respect to assistance for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance pursuant to this title.

TITLE III—EMERGENCY RESERVE FOR AFRICAN FAMINE RELIEF

SEC. 301. Title II of Public Law 99-10 is amended, under the heading "Emergency Reserve for African Famine Relief", by striking out "$225,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$525,000,000".

SEC. 302. Of the funds appropriated under title II of Public Law 99-10, as amended by this Act, $300,000,000 shall remain available for obligation until September 30, 1987, notwithstanding any other provision of law or this Act.

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 11:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 11, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert the following:

(l) Such amounts as may be necessary are hereby appropriated for programs, projects, or activities provided for in H.R. 5205, the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conference report and joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference (House Report 99-976) as filed in the House of Representative on October 7, 1986, as if enacted into law, except that such conference agreement shall be considered as including the following language in lieu of section 331 of H.R. 5205 as passed by the House of Representatives on July 30, 1986:

"SEC. 331. AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER WORK FORCE REQUIREMENTS.—The Federal Aviation Administration shall satisfy the following criteria by September 30, 1987:

(a) total air traffic controller work force level of 15,000;

(b) with respect to the air traffic controller work force, of those individuals eligible to be Full Performance Level controllers, 70 percent shall have achieved Full Peformance Level status;

(c) with respect to staffing at particular air traffic control facilities, of those individuals eligible to be Full Performance Level controllers, at least 60 percent at all centers and level 3 and above terminals shall have achieved Full Performance Level status."

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 12:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 12, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter stricken and inserted by said amendment, insert the following:

(m) Such amounts as may be necessary for programs, projects or activities provided for in the Treasury, Postal Service and General Government Appropriations Act, 1987, at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided as follows, to be effective as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act:

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

THIS ACT

SECTION 501. Where appropriations in this Act are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amount set forth therefor in the budget estimates submitted for the appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards of the Selective Service System; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Veterans' Administration; to travel of the Office of Personnel Management in carrying out its observation responsibilities of the Voting Rights Act; or to payments to interagency motor pools where separately set forth in the budget schedules.

SEC. 502. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available to pay the salary of any person filling a position, other than a temporary position, formerly held by an employee who has left to enter the Armed Forces of the United States and has satisfactorily completed his period of active military or naval service and has within ninety days after his release from such service or from hospitalization continuing after discharge for a period of not more than one year made application for restoration to his former position and has been certified by the Office of Personnel Management as still qualified to perform the duties of his former position and has not been restored thereto.

SEC. 503. No part of any appropriation made available in this Act shall be used for the purchase or sale of real estate or for the purpose of establishing new offices inside or outside the District of Columbia: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to programs which have been approved by the Congress and appropriations made therefor.

SEC. 504. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 505. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 506. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for the procurement of, or for the payment of, the salary of any person engaged in the procurement of any hand or measuring tool(s) not produced in the United States or its possessions except to the extent that the Administrator of General Services or his designee shall determine that a satisfactory quality and sufficient quantity of hand or measuring tools produced in the United States or its possessions cannot be procured as and when needed from sources in the United States and its possessions, or except in accordance with procedures prescribed by section 6-104.4(b) of Armed Services Procurement Regulation dated January 1, 1969, as such regulation existed on June 15, 1970: Provided, That a factor of 75 per centum in lieu of 50 per centum shall be used for evaluating foreign source end products against a domestic source end product. This section shall be applicable to all solicitations for bids opened after its enactment.

SEC. 507. None of the funds made available to the General Services Administration pursuant to section 210(f) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 shall be obligated or expended after the date of enactment of this Act for the procurement by contract of any service which, before such date, was performed by individuals in their capacity as employees of the General Services Administration in any position of guards, elevator operators, messengers, and custodians, except that such funds may be obligated or expended for the procurement by contract of the covered services with sheltered workshops employing the severely handicapped under Public Law 92-28.

SEC. 508. No funds appropriated in this Act shall be available for administrative expenses in connection with implementing or enforcing any provisions of the rule TD ATF-66 issued June 13, 1980, by the Department of the Treasury, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms on labeling and advertising of wine, distilled spirits and malt beverages, except if the expenditure of such funds is necessary to comply with a final order of the Federal court system.

SEC. 509. (a) The General Services Administration shall not sell, lease, transfer, or otherwise dispose of any portion of the approximately twenty-six acres of Fort DeRussy, Hawaii, lying southwest of Kalia Road, which includes the Hale Koa Hotel, the Armed Forces Recreation Center, and beachfront area.

(b) However, notwithstanding any other provision of law, including any limitation on appropriations in this or any other Act which, but for this provision, limit the obligation or expenditure of funds for the sale, lease, rental, or excessing of Fort DeRussy, Honolulu, Hawaii, the Secretary of the Army (hereinafter referred to as the "Secretary") is directed to sell and convey to the State of Hawaii or the city and county of Honolulu through the General Services Administration, at the fair market value as determined by, and upon such terms and conditions as are acceptable to the Administrator of General Services, the remaining approximately forty-five acres of Fort DeRussy lying northeast of Kalia Road, which comprises the three United States Army Reserves Centers and miscellaneous facilities. The exact acreages and legal descriptions shall be determined by the Secretary.

(c) The Secretary is authorized to acquire land and design and construct such facilities as are necessary to replace those on the land to be sold pursuant to subsection (b). The Secretary is also authorized to relocate activities currently located at Fort DeRussy to such replacement facilities.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the General Services Administration is authorized to make funds available for the acquisition of land and replace facilities authorized to be acquired or constructed pursuant to subsection (c) and to pay associated relocation costs, and funds are hereby made available for this purpose.

(e) The proceeds of the sale authorized in subsection (b) shall be covered by the Administrator of General Services into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

(f) A conveyance under subsection (b) shall provide that all of the land conveyed shall remain the property of the State of Hawaii, or the City and County of Honolulu, Hawaii, as the case may be.

SEC. 510. None of the funds appropriated in this Act may be used for administrative expenses to close the Information Resources Management Office of the General Services Administration located in Sacramento, California.

SEC. 511. None of the funds made available by this Act for the Department of the Treasury may be used for the purpose of eliminating any existing requirement for sureties on customs bonds.

SEC. 512. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be available for any activity or for paying the salary of any government employee where funding an activity or paying a salary to a government employee would result in a decision, determination, rule, regulation, or policy that would prohibit the enforcement of section 307 of the 1930 Tariff Act.

SEC. 513. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be available for the purpose of transferring control over the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center located at Glynco, Georgia, out of the Treasury Department.

SEC. 514. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes within the United States not heretofore authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 515. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for the payment of the salary of any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service, who—

(1) prohibits or prevents, or attempts or threatens to prohibit or prevent, any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service from having any direct oral or written communication or contact with any member or committee of Congress in connection with any matter pertaining to the employment of such officer or employee or pertaining to the United States Postal Service in any way, irrespective of whether such communication or contact is at the initiative of such officer or employee or in response to the request or inquiry of such member or committee; or

(2) removes, suspends from duty without pay, demotes, reduces in rank, seniority, status, pay, or performance of efficiency rating, denies promotion to, relocates, reassigns, transfers, disciplines, or discriminates in regard to any employment right, entitlement, or benefit, or any term or condition of employment of, any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service, or attempts or threatens to commit any of the foregoing actions with respect to such officer or employee, by reason of any communication or contact of such officer or employee with any member or committee of Congress as described in paragraph (1) of this subsection.

SEC. 516. Except for vehicles provided to the President, Vice President and their families, or to the United States Secret Service, none of the funds provided in this Act to any Department or Agency shall be obligated or expended to procure passenger automobiles as defined in 15 U.S.C. 2001 with an EPA estimated miles per gallon average of less than twenty-two miles per gallon. The requirements of this section may be waived by the Administrator of the General Services Administration for special purpose or special mission automobiles.

SEC. 517. No funds appropriated by this Act shall be available to pay for an abortion, or the administrative expenses in connection with any health plan under the Federal employees health benefit program which provides any benefits or coverages for abortions.

SEC. 518. The provision of section 517 shall not apply where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term.

SEC. 519. Effective September 30, 1987, none of the funds made available by this Act or any other Act with respect to fiscal year 1987 and any other fiscal year may be used to store, to maintain or to protect more than 128,000,000 troy ounces of silver deposited in the National Defense Stockpile. The Administrator of General Services, or any Federal officer assuming the Administrator's responsibilities with respect to management of the stockpile, shall use all proceeds generated from the disposal of silver to purchase, no later than October 1, 1988, stockpile materials to meet National Defense Stockpile goals and specifications in effect on October 1, 1984.

SEC. 520. No later than October 1, 1988, the Administrator of General Services, or any Federal officer assuming the Administrator's responsibilities with respect to management of the stockpile, shall use all funds authorized and appropriated before January 1, 1985 from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund to evaluate, test, relocate, upgrade or purchase stockpile materials to meet National Defense Stockpile goals and specifications in effect on October 1, 1984.

SEC. 521. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for the procurement of, or for the payment of, the salary of any person engaged in the procurement of stainless steel flatware not produced in the United States or its possessions, except to the extent that the Administrator of General Services or his designee shall determine that a satisfactory quality and sufficient quantity of stainless steel flatware produced in the United States or its possessions, cannot be procured as and when needed from sources in the United States or its possessions or except in accordance with procedures provided by section 6-104.4(b) of Armed Services Procurement Regulations, dated January 1, 1969. This section shall be applicable to all solicitations for bids issued after its enactment.

SEC. 522. None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be obligated or expended in any way for the purpose of the sale, lease, rental, excessing, surplusing or disposal of any portion of land on which the Phoenix Indian School is located at Phoenix, Arizona without the specific approval of Congress.

SEC. 523. None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be obligated or expended in any way for the purpose of the sale, excessing, surplusing or disposal of lands in the vicinity of Bull Shoals Lake, Arkansas administered by the Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army without the specific approval of Congress.

SEC. 524. The Administrator of the General Services Administration, under section 210(h) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, shall acquire, by means of a lease of up to 30 years duration, space for the U.S. Courts in Tacoma, Washington, at the site of Union Station, Tacoma, Washington.

SEC. 525. The United States Courthouse located at 223 Park Avenue Southwest in Aiken, South Carolina, shall be known and designated as the "Charles E. Simons, Jr., Federal Courthouse". Any reference in any law, regulation, document, record, map, or other paper of the United States to such courthouse is deemed to be a reference to the "Charles E. Simons, Jr., Federal Courthouse".

SEC. 526. The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall include in the area designated as the Wichita Metropolitan Statistical Area the County of Harvey, Kansas.

SEC. 527. (a) The Director of the Office of Personnel Management (hereafter in this section referred to as the "Director") shall pay out of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund, an annuity of $1,500 per month to Gladys Pyle of Huron, South Dakota, who served as a United States Senator from November, 1938, to January, 1939, and is not otherwise eligible to receive an annuity on the basis of her services as a Senator.

(b) The annuity provided under subsection (a)—

(1) shall commence on the first day of the month in which this joint resolution is enacted; and

(2) shall terminate on the date of the death of the said Gladys Pyle.

(c)(1) The Director shall administer the provisions of this section.

(2) Sections 8340, 8346, 8348(a), and 8348(f) of title 5, United States Code, shall apply with respect to the annuity provided under the subsection (a).

SEC. 528. In the administration of the provisions of section 603 of this Act, during fiscal year 1987, Erna Avari Patrick of Columbia, South Carolina shall be considered to have satisfied the requirement of clause (3) of such section.

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

DEPARTMENTS, AGENCIES, AND CORPORATIONS

SECTION 601. Unless otherwise specifically provided, the maximum amount allowable during the current fiscal year in accordance with section 16 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (60 Stat. 810), for the purchase of any passenger motor vehicle (exclusive of buses and ambulances), is hereby fixed at $6,600 except station wagons for which the maximum shall be $7,600: Provided, That these limits may be exceeded by not to exceed $2,700 for police-type vehicles, and by not to exceed $4,000 for special heavy-duty vehicles: Provided further, That the limits set forth in this section shall not apply to electric or hybrid vehicles purchased for demonstration under the provisions of the Electric and Hybrid Vehicle Research, Development, and Demonstration Act of 1976.

SEC. 602. Appropriations of the executive departments and independent establishments for the current fiscal year available for expenses of travel or for the expenses of the activity concerned, are hereby made available for quarters allowances and cost-of-living allowances, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 5922-5924.

SEC. 603. Unless otherwise specified during the current fiscal year no part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act shall be used to pay the compensation of any officer or employee of the Government of the United States (including any agency the majority of the stock of which is owned by the Government of the United States) whose post of duty is in the continental United States unless such person (1) is a citizen of the United States, (2) is a person in the service of the United States on the date of enactment of this Act, who, being eligible for citizenship, has filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States prior to such date and is actually residing in the United States, (3) is a person who owes allegiance to the United States, (4) is an alien from Cuba, Poland, South Vietnam, or the Baltic countries lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, or (5) South Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian refugees paroled in the United States after January 1, 1975: Provided, That for the purpose of this section, an affidavit signed by any such person shall be considered prima facie evidence that the requirements of this section with respect to his status have been complied with: Provided further, That any person making a false affidavit shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined no more than $4,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both: Provided further, That the above penal clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for any other provisions of existing law: Provided further, That any payment made to any officer or employee contrary to the provisions of this section shall be recoverable in action by the Federal Government. This section shall not apply to citizens of Ireland, Israel, the Republic of the Philippines or to nationals of those countries allied with the United States in the current defense effort, or to temporary employment of translators, or to temporary employment in the field service (not to exceed sixty days) as a result of emergencies.

SEC. 604. Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses, including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for payment to the General Services Administration for charges for space and services and those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 749), the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972 (86 Stat. 216), or other applicable law.

SEC. 605. Funds made available by this or any other Act for administrative expenses in the current fiscal year of the corporations and agencies subject to chapter 91 of title 31, United States Code, shall be available, in addition to objects for which such funds are otherwise available, for rent in the District of Columbia; services in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 3109; and the objects specified under this head, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to the expenditure of such funds unless otherwise specified in the Act by which they are made available: Provided, That in the event any functions budgeted as administrative expenses are subsequently transferred to or paid from other funds, the limitations on administrative expenses shall be correspondingly reduced.

SEC. 606. No part of any appropriation for the current fiscal year contained in this or any other Act shall be paid to any person for the filling of any position for which he or she has been nominated after the Senate has voted not to approve the nomination of said person.

SEC. 607. Pursuant to section 1415 of the Act of July 15, 1952 (66 Stat. 662), foreign credits (including currencies) owed to or owned by the United States may be used by Federal agencies for any purpose for which appropriations are made for the current fiscal year (including the carrying out of Acts requiring or authorizing the use of such credits), only when reimbursement therefor is made to the Treasury from applicable appropriations of the agency concerned: Provided, That such credits received as exchanged allowances or proceeds of sales of personal property may be used in whole or part payment for acquisition of similar items, to the extent and in the manner authorized by law, without reimbursement to the Treasury.

SEC. 608. No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act, shall be available for interagency financing of boards, commissions, councils, committees, or similar groups (whether or not they are interagency entities) which do not have a prior and specific statutory approval to receive financial support from more than one agency or instrumentality.

SEC. 609. Funds made available by this or any other Act to (1) the General Services Administration, including the fund created by the Public Building Amendments of 1972 (86 Stat. 216), and (2) the "Postal Service Fund" (39 U.S.C. 2003), shall be available for employment of guards for all buildings and areas owned or occupied by the United States or the Postal Service and under the charge and control of the General Services Administration or the Postal Service, and such guards shall have, with respect to such property, the powers of special policemen provided by the first section of the Act of June 1, 1948 (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318), but shall not be restricted to certain Federal property as otherwise required by the proviso contained in said section and, as to property owned or occupied by the Postal Service, the Postmaster General may take the same actions as the Administrator of General Services may take under the provisions of sections 2 and 3 of the Act of June 1, 1948, (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318a, 318b), attaching thereto penal consequences under the authority and within the limits provided in section 4 of the Act of June 1, 1948 (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318c): Provided, That when the Administrator of General Services delegates responsibility to protect property under his charge and control to the head of another Federal agency, that agency may employ guards to protect the property who shall have the same powers of special policemen in same manner as the foregoing.

SEC. 610. None of the funds available under this or any other Act shall be available for administrative expenses in connection with the designation for construction, arranging for financing, or execution of contracts or agreements for financing or construction of any additional purchase contract projects pursuant to section 5 of the Public Building Amendments of 1972 (Public Law 92-313) during the period beginning October 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1987.

SEC. 611. None of the funds made available pursuant to the provisions of this Act shall be used to implement, administer, or enforce any regulation which has been disapproved pursuant to a resolution of disapproval duly adopted in accordance with the applicable law of the United States.

SEC. 612. No part of any appropriation contained in, or funds made available by this or any other Act, shall be available for any agency to pay to the Administrator of the General Services Administration a higher rate per square foot for rental of space and services (established pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended) than the rate per square foot established for the space and services by the General Services Administration for the current fiscal year and for which appropriations were granted.

SEC. 613. (a)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, and except as otherwise provided in this section, no part of any of the funds appropriated for the fiscal years ending September 30, 1987, or September 30, 1988, by this Act or any other Act, may be used to pay any prevailing rate employee described in section 5342(a)(2)(A) of title 5, United States Code, or any employee covered by section 5348 of that title—

(1) during the period from the date of expiration of the limitation imposed by section 613 of H.R. 3036, incorporated by reference in section 101(h) of Public Law 99-190, until the first day of the first applicable pay period that begins not less than ninety days after that date, in an amount that exceeds the rate payable for the applicable grade and step of the applicable wage schedule in accordance with such section 613; and

(2) during the period consisting of the remainder, if any, of fiscal year 1987 and that portion of fiscal year 1988 that precedes the normal effective date of the applicable wage survey adjustment that is to be effective in fiscal year 1988, in an amount that exceeds, as a result of a wage survey adjustment, the rate payable under paragraph (1) of this subsection by more than the overall average percentage adjustment in the General Schedule during fiscal year 1987.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 9(b) of Public Law 92-392 or section 704(b) of Public Law 95-454, the provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall apply (in such manner as the Office of Personnel Management shall prescribe) to any prevailing rate employee to whom such section 9(b) applies, except that the provisions of subsection (a) may not apply to any increase in a wage schedule or rate that is required by the terms of a contract entered into before the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no prevailing rate employee described in subparagraph (B) or (C) of section 5342(a)(2) of title 5, United States Code, may be paid during the periods for which subsection (a) of this section is in effect at a rate that exceeds the rates that would be payable under subsection (a) were subsection (a) applicable to such employee.

(d) For the purpose of this section, the rates payable to an employee who is covered by this section and who is paid from a schedule that was not in existence on September 30, 1986, shall be determined under regulations prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, rates of premium pay for employees subject to this section may not be changed from the rates in effect on September 30, 1986, except to the extent determined by the Office of Personnel Management to be consistent with the purpose of this section.

(f) The provisions of this section shall apply with respect to pay for services performed by any affected employee on or after October 1, 1986.

(g) For the purpose of administering any provision of law, rule, or regulation that provides premium pay, retirement, life insurance, or any other employee benefit, that requires any deduction or contribution, or that imposes any requirement or limitation, on the basis of a rate of salary or basic pay, the rate of salary or basic pay payable after the application of this section shall be treated as the rate of salary or basic pay.

(h) Nothing in this section may be construed to permit or require the payment to any employee covered by this section at a rate in excess of the rate that would be payable were this section not in effect.

(i) The Office of Personnel Management may provide for exceptions to the limitations imposed by this section if the Office determines that such exceptions are necessary to ensure the recruitment or retention of qualified employees.

SEC. 614. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to plan, implement, or administer (1) any reduction in the number of regions, districts or entry processing locations of the United States Customs Service; or (2) any consolidation or centralization of duty assessment or appraisement functions of any offices in the United States Customs Service.

SEC. 615. During the period in which the head of any department or agency, or any other officer or civilian employee of the Government appointed by the President of the United States, holds office, no funds may be obligated or expended in excess of $5,000 to renovate, remodel, furnish, or redecorate the office of such department head, agency head, officer, or employee, or to purchase furniture or make improvements for any such office, unless such renovation, remodeling, furnishing, or redecoration is expressly approved by the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

SEC. 616. (a) If any individual or entity which provides or proposes to provide child care services for Federal employees applies to the officer or agency of the United States charged with the allotment of space in the Federal buildings in the community or district in which such individual or entity provides or proposes to provide such service, such officer or agency may allot space in such a building to such individual or entity if—

(1) such space is available;

(2) such officer or agency determines that such space will be used to provide child care services to a group of individuals of whom at least 50 percent are Federal employees; and

(3) such officer or agency determines that such individual or entity will give priority for available child care services in such space to Federal employees.

(b)(1) If an officer or agency allots space to an individual or entity under subsection (a), such space may be provided to such individual or entity without charge for rent or services.

(2) If there is an agreement for the payment of costs associated with the provision of space allotted under subsection (a) or services provided in connection with such space, nothing in title 31, United States Code, or any other provision of law, shall be construed to prohibit or restrict payment by reimbursement to the miscellaneous receipts or other appropriate account of the Treasury.

(3) For the purpose of this section, the term "services" includes the providing of lighting, heating, cooling, electricity, office furniture, office machines and equipment, telephone service (including installation of lines and equipment and other expenses associated with telephone service), and security systems (including installation and other expenses associated with security systems).

SEC. 617. Funds appropriated in this or any other Act may be used to pay travel to the United States for the immediate family of employees serving abroad in cases of death or life threatening illness of said employee.

SEC. 618. (a) ELIGIBILITY TO PARTICIPATE IN 1986.—(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, and any regulations prescribed thereunder, any application by the Federal Employee Education and Assistance Fund (a nonprofit corporation incorporated in the District of Columbia) for admission to the Combined Federal Campaign, whether in a particular community or otherwise, shall be considered without regard to any eligibility requirements, to the extent that such requirements relate to any period before the date on which such Fund became incorporated.

(2) The eligibility of the Fund to be admitted to the Combined Federal Campaign in a particular community shall also be determined without regard to any criteria relating to having a "direct and substantial presence" in the community involved.

(3) This subsection shall be effective only with respect to the Combined Federal Campaign as conducted during calendar year 1986.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—For the purpose of this section, the term "Combined Federal Campaign" and the term "community" each has the meaning given such term by section 950.101 of title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations (as in effect on the date of the enactment of this Act).

SEC. 619. None of the funds appropriated by this Act or any other Act shall be used for preparing, promulgating or implementing any regulations dealing with organization participation in the 1986 and 1987 Combined Federal Campaign other than repromulgating and implementing the 1984 and 1985 Combined Federal Campaign regulations, unless such regulations provide that any charitable organization which participated in any prior campaign shall be allowed to participate in 1986 and 1987 campaign: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated by this Act or any other Act shall be used for preparing, promulgating or implementing new regulations dealing with the Combined Federal Campaign ("CFC") which require or allow the Office of Personnel Management to directly or indirectly determine the eligibility of any agency to participate in the CFC (other than the local service of those agencies which perform a substantial preponderance of their services in the United States) if that agency is a member of a qualified federated group.

SEC. 620. None of the funds appropriated or made available by this Act shall be used to implement or enforce the rule proposed on May 7, 1986 (51 Federal Register 16988-16991), or any other regulation issued pursuant to statute requiring competitive bidding for electricity, gas, or steam utility services acquired by the Federal Government.

SEC. 621. None of the funds appropriated by this or any other Act may be used prior to July 15, 1987, to repeal, amend, or modify any policy, procedure, or practice contained in subpart 19.5 of title 48 of the Code of Federal Regulations (as such subpart was in effect on July 31, 1986) except if such subpart requires modification to implement the amendments made by section 911 (relating to small business set-asides) of H.R. 4438 (99th Congress, 2d Session), or the amendments made by any successor provision to such section, if such bill is enacted into law.

SEC. 622. Section 202 of title 3, United States Code, is amended by inserting a new clause (3) to read "(3) the Treasury Building and grounds;" and by renumbering previously existing clauses (3) through (8) as clauses (4) through (9). The word "immediately" in prior clause (6) (renumbered clause (7)) is stricken and the word "immediate" is inserted in its place.

SEC. 623. The Rural Electrification Act of 1936 is amended by inserting after section 310 (7 U.S.C. 940) the following new section:

"SEC. 311. PRIVATIZATION PROGRAM.—The Administrator shall establish a privatization demonstration program which shall permit borrowers to prepay loans made by the Federal Financing Bank and guaranteed under section 306 of this Act by paying the outstanding principal balance due on the loans. No sums in addition to the payment of the outstanding principal balance due on the Federal Financing Bank loans may be charged as the result of such prepayment against the borrower, the fund, or the Rural Electrification Administration. Federal Financing Bank loans shall be refinanced using the existing section 306 loan guarantee, with private capital, in an amount not to exceed the outstanding principal amount prepaid: Provided, That such guarantee of private capital shall be 90% of the principal amount of the loan or any portion thereof plus accrued interest outstanding at any time during the maturity period of the loan and shall be fully transferable and assignable. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, borrowers may prepay Federal Financing Bank loans under this section, except that such borrowers shall be required to prepay all of their outstanding loans made or guaranteed under this Act within one year of prepayment of the first loan. A direct or insured loan prepaid under this section shall be prepaid by the borrower at the lesser of the outstanding principal balance due on the loan or the loan's present value discounted from the face value at maturity at the rate set by the Administrator. A Rural Telephone Bank loan shall be prepaid by paying the outstanding principal balance on the loan. No guarantee or other financial assistance shall be available to the borrowers to refinance outstanding loans prepaid hereunder. In the case of an electric borrower prepaying under this section or otherwise prepaying a loan at less than the outstanding principal balance due on the loan, after the date of prepayment, no loans, loan guarantees or other financial assistance shall be provided pursuant to this Act to the borrower or its successors or for the purpose of financing the construction or operation of generating plants or bulk transmission lines for the purpose of furnishing electric energy in the area served on a retail or wholesale basis by such borrower. In the case of a telephone borrower prepaying under this section, or otherwise prepaying a loan at less than the outstanding principal balance due on the loan, after the date of prepayment, no loans, loan guarantees or other financial assistance shall be provided pursuant to this Act to the borrower or its successors or for the purpose of furnishing or improving telephone service in the area served by such borrower. In determining the service area of electric borrowers, the Administrator shall make allowances and adjustments to avoid adversely affecting the eligibility of other borrowers for financial assistance under this Act where such borrowers are currently providing electric supply services for retail loads in the same area and which are reasonably expected to continue providing electric supply services for retail loads in such areas. In the event that the borrower prepaying under this section shall be using a majority of its generating capacity to directly serve its retail consumers, other borrowers which are purchasing power from such borrower as of September 30, 1986, shall continue to remain eligible for financing under this Act for needs in their service area. Nothing in this section shall prohibit a borrower which has prepaid pursuant to this section from participating in generation and transmission projects with borrowers which have not prepaid, so long as the borrower which has prepaid utilizes private capital financing without financial assistance under this Act: Provided further, That nothing in this section shall prohibit short-term power purchases by borrowers which have prepaid under this section from borrowers which have not prepaid. The Administrator shall issue regulations to implement this section within 60 days."

TITLE VII—TRANSFER OF ANNUAL LEAVE AND SICK LEAVE

SECTION 701. (a) IN GENERAL.—(1) Notwithstanding any provision of chapter 63 of title 5, United States Code, and with the approval of the director of the Fort Lauderdale district of the Internal Revenue Service, an employee of the Internal Revenue Service whose official station is the Fort Lauderdale district may transfer accumulated annual leave accrued under section 6303 of title 5, United States Code, and accumulated sick leave accrued under section 6307 of such title to the account of either Shannon Chiles or Joe Chiles, Jr., employees of the Internal Revenue Service in the Fort Lauderdale district.

(2) For purposes of chapter 63 of title 5, United States Code, annual leave and sick leave transferred under paragraph (1) shall be treated as the annual leave and sick leave accrued by the individual to whose account the leave is transferred, except that such annual leave accumulates without regard to the limitation imposed by section 6304(a) of title 5, United States Code.

(3) The transfer of annual leave or sick leave under paragraph (1) by an employee reduces the account of such employee by the amount of the leave so transferred.

(b) AUTHORITY TO RESTORE TRANSFERRED LEAVE.—With the approval of the director of the Fort Lauderdale district, Shannon Chiles or Joe Chiles, Jr., may, by transfer, restore unused leave to an employee from whom leave was received, except that the amount of leave so restored by each of them may not exceed the amount of leave received by them, respectively, from such employee.

(c) EXPIRATION OF AUTHORITY.—The authority to transfer leave under subsection (a)(1) and the authority to restore unused leave under subsection (b) shall terminate 180 days after the disease of Shannon Chiles no longer exists.

(d) TEMPORARY AUTHORITY TO TRANSFER LEAVE.—(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, under regulations prescribed by the President, the unused accrued leave of one officer or employee of the Federal Government may be transferred for use by another officer or employee of the Federal Government in not more than three cases of personal emergencies defined for the purposes of this paragraph in such regulations.

(2) The authority prescribed in paragraph (1) shall terminate upon the issuance of a report to Congress which contains the findings of the President on voluntary leave policy.

TITLE VIII—PAPERWORK REDUCTION REAUTHORIZATION

SHORT TITLE

SECTION 801. This title may be cited as the "Paperwork Reduction Reauthorization Act of 1986".

PART A—AMENDMENTS TO THE PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT OF 1980

PURPOSE

SEC. 811. (a) Section 3501(3) of title 44, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(3) to maximize the usefulness of information collected, maintained, and disseminated by the Federal Government;".

(b) Section 3501(5) of such title is amended to read as follows:

"(5) to ensure that automatic data processing, telecommunications, and other information technologies are acquired and used by the Federal Government in a manner which improves service delivery and program management, increases productivity, improves the quality of decisionmaking, reduces waste and fraud, and wherever practicable and appropriate, reduces the information processing burden for the Federal Government and for persons who provide information to and for the Federal Government; and".

"(b) There shall be at the head of the Office an Administrator who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Director shall delegate to the Administrator the authority to administer all functions under this chapter, except that any such delegation shall not relieve the Director of responsibility for the administration of such functions. The Administrator shall serve as principal adviser to the Director on Federal information policy and shall report directly to the Director.".

(b) The amendment made by this section, insofar as it relates to appointment of the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, shall take effect on the earlier of—

(1) January 20, 1989; or

(2) the date on which a vacancy in that Office first occurs after the date of enactment of this Act.

AUTHORITY AND FUNCTIONS OF DIRECTOR

SEC. 814. (a) Section 3504(a) of title 44, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(a) The Director shall develop and implement Federal information policies, principles, standards, and guidelines and shall provide direction and oversee the review and approval of information collection requests, the reduction of the paperwork burden, Federal statistical activities, records management activities, privacy and security of records, agency sharing and dissemination of information, and acquisition and use of automatic data processing, telecommunications, and other information technology for managing information resources. The authority of the Director under this section shall be exercised consistent with applicable law.".

(b) Section 3504(d) of such title is amended to read as follows:

"(d) The statistical policy and coordination functions of the Director shall include—

"(1) developing and periodically reviewing and, as necessary, revising long-range plans for the improved coordination and performance of the statistical activities and programs of the Federal Government;

"(2) reviewing budget proposals of agencies to assure that the proposals are consistent with such long-range plans;

"(3) coordinating, through the review of budget proposals and as otherwise provided in this chapter, the functions of the Federal Government with respect to gathering, interpreting, and disseminating statistics and statistical information;

"(4) developing and implementing Government-wide policies, principles, standards, and guidelines concerning statistical collection procedures and methods, statistical data classification, statistical information presentation and dissemination, and such statistical data sources as may be required for the administration of Federal programs;

"(5) evaluating statistical program performance and agency compliance with Government-wide policies, principles, standards, and guidelines;

"(6) integrating the functions described in paragraphs (1) through (5) of this subsection with the other information resources management functions specified in this chapter; and

"(7) appointing a chief statistician who is a trained and experienced professional statistician to carry out the functions described in paragraphs (1) through (6) of this subsection.".

(c) Section 3504(g) of such title is amended by striking out "and telecommunications" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "(including telecommunications)".

ASSIGNMENT OF TASKS AND DEADLINES

SEC. 815. Section 3505 of title 44, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" at the end of paragraph (2)(E);

(2) by striking out paragraph (3)(E) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(E) develop and annually revise, in consultation with the Administrator of General Services, a 5-year plan for meeting the automatic data processing equipment (including telecommunications) and other information technology needs of the Federal Government in accordance with the requirements of sections 110 and 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 757, 759) and the purposes of this chapter; and";

(3) by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (3)(F) and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon; and

(4) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following new paragraphs:

"(4) upon the enactment of the Paperwork Reduction Reauthorization Act of 1986—

"(A) set a goal to reduce, by September 30, 1987, the burden of Federal collections of information existing on September 30, 1986, by at least 5 percent; and

"(B) for the fiscal year beginning on October 1, 1987, and each of the next two fiscal years, set a goal to reduce the burden of Federal collections of information existing at the end of the immediately preceding fiscal year by at least 5 percent;

"(5) maintain a comprehensive set of information resources management policies; and

"(6) within one year after the date of enactment of the Paperwork Reduction Reauthorization Act of 1986—

"(A) issue, in consultation with the Administrator of General Services, principles, standards, and guidelines to implement the policies described in paragraph (5);

"(B) report to the Congress on the feasibility and means of enhancing public access, including access by electronic media, to information relating to information collection requests required by this chapter to be made available to the public; and

"(C) identify further initiatives to reduce the burden of Federal collections of information associated with the administration of Federal grant programs.".

FEDERAL AGENCY RESPONSIBILITIES

SEC. 816. Section 3506(c) of title 44, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking out paragraph (1) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(1) systematically inventory its major information systems and periodically review its information resources management activities;";

(2) by striking out "and" at the end of paragraph (4);

(3) by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon and "and"; and

(4) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraphs:

"(6) implement applicable Government-wide and agency information policies, principles, standards, and guidelines with respect to information collection, paperwork reduction, statistical activities, records management activities, privacy and security of records, sharing and dissemination of information, acquisition and use of information technology, and other information resource management functions;

"(7) periodically evaluate and, as needed, improve, the accuracy, completeness, and reliability of data and records contained within Federal information systems; and

"(8) develop and annually revise a 5-year plan, in accordance with appropriate guidance provided by the Director, for meeting the agency's information technology needs.".

PUBLIC INFORMATION COLLECTION ACTIVITIES

SEC. 817. (a) Section 3507(a)(2)(B) of title 44, United States Code, is amended by inserting before the semicolon the following: "and setting forth a title for the information collection request, a brief description of the need for the information and its proposed use, a description of the likely respondents and proposed frequency of response to the information collection request, and an estimate of the burden that will result from the information collection request".

(b) Section 3507(b) of such title is amended by inserting ", including an explanation thereof," after "decisions" in the first sentence.

(c) Section 3507 of such title is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(h) Any written communication to the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs or to any employee thereof from any person not employed by the Federal Government or from an agency concerning a proposed information collection request, and any written communication from the Administrator or employee of the Office to such person or agency concerning such proposal, shall be made available to the public. This subsection shall not require the disclosure of any information which is protected at all times by procedures established for information which has been specifically authorized under criteria established by an Executive order or an Act of Congress to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy.".

FEDERAL INFORMATION LOCATOR SYSTEM

SEC. 818. Section 3511(a) of title 44, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(a) There is established in the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs a Federal Information Locator System (hereafter in this section referred to as the 'system') which shall be composed of a directory of information resources, a data element dictionary, and an information referral service. The system shall serve as the authoritative register of all information collection requests, and shall be designed so as to assist agencies and the public in locating existing Government information derived from information collection requests.".

RESPONSIVENESS TO CONGRESS

SEC. 819. Subsection (a) of section 3514 of title 44, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" after the semicolon in paragraph (7);

(2) by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (8)(C) and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon; and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (8) the following new paragraph:

"(9)(A) a summary of accomplishments in the improvement of, and planned initiatives to improve, Federal information resources management within agencies;

"(B) a detailed statement with respect to each agency of new initiatives to acquire information technology to improve such management; and

"(C) an analysis of the extent to which the policies, principles, standards, and guidelines issued and maintained pursuant to paragraphs (5) and (6) of section 3505 of this title promote or deter such new initiatives; and

"(10) with respect to the statistical policy and coordination functions described in section 3504(d) of this title—

"(A) a description of the specific actions taken, or planned to be taken, to carry out each such function;

"(B) a description of the status of each major statistical program, including information on—

"(i) any improvements in each such program;

"(ii) any program which has been reduced or eliminated; and

"(iii) the budget for each such program for the previous fiscal year and the fiscal year in progress and the budget proposed for each such program for the next fiscal year; and

"(C) a description and summary of the long-range plans currently in effect for the major Federal statistical activities and programs.".

AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 820. Section 3520 of title 44, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§ 3520. Authorization of appropriations

"(a) Subject to subsection (b), there are authorized to be appropriated to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and for no other purpose, $5,500,000 for each of the fiscal years 1987, 1988, and 1989.

"(b) No funds may be appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) unless such funds are appropriated in an appropriation Act (or continuing resolution) which separately and expressly states the amount appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) of this section. No funds are authorized to be appropriated to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, or to any other officer or administrative unit of the Office of Management and Budget, to carry out the provisions of this chapter, or to carry out any function under this chapter, for any fiscal year pursuant to any provision of law other than subsection (a) of this section.

"(c) Funds appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) may not be used to carry out any function or activity which is not specifically authorized or required by this chapter, but funds so appropriated may be used for necessary expenses of a function or activity which is so authorized or required, such as hire of passenger motor vehicles and services authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code. For the purposes of this subsection, the review of a rule or regulation is specifically authorized or required by this chapter only to the extent that such review is for the sole purpose of reviewing an information collection request contained in, or derived from, such rule or regulation.".

PART B—AMENDMENTS TO THE BROOKS ACT

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY FUND

SEC. 821. (a)(1) Section 110 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 757) is amended to read as follows:

"INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY FUND

"SEC. 110. (a)(1) There is established on the books of the Treasury and Information Technology Fund (hereinafter referred to as the 'Fund'), which shall be available without fiscal year limitation. There are authorized to be appropriated to the Fund such sums as may be required. For purposes of subsection (b), the Fund shall consist of—

"(A) the capital and assets of the Federal telecommunications fund established under this section (as in effect on December 31, 1986), which are in such fund on January 1, 1987;

"(B) the capital and assets which are in the automatic data processing fund established under section 111 of this Act (as in effect on December 31, 1986) which are in such fund on January 1, 1987; and

"(C) the supplies and equipment transferred to the Administrator under sections 111 and 205(f) of this Act, subject to any liabilities assumed with respect to such supplies and equipment.

"(2) The Administrator shall determine the cost and capital requirements of the Fund for each fiscal year and shall submit plans concerning such requirements and such other information as may be requested for the review and approval of the Director of the Office of Management and Budget. Any change to the cost and capital requirements of the Fund for a fiscal year shall be made in the same manner as provided by this section for the initial fiscal year determination. If approved by the Director, the Administrator shall establish rates to be charged agencies provided, or to be provided, information technology resources through the Fund consistent with such approvals. Such cost and capital requirements may include funds—

"(A) needed for the purchase (if the Administrator has determined that purchase is the least costly alternative of information processing and transmission equipment, software, systems, and operating facilities necessary for the provision of such services;

"(B) resulting from operations of the Fund, including the net proceeds of disposal of excess or surplus personal property and receipts from carriers and others for loss or damage to property; and

"(C) which are appropriated, authorized to be transferred, or otherwise made available to the Fund.

"(b) The Fund shall—

"(1) assume all of the liabilities, obligations, and commitments of the funds described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subsection (a)(1); and

"(2) be available for expenses, including personal services and other costs, and for procurement (by lease, purchase, transfer, or otherwise) for efficiently providing information technology resources to Federal agencies and for the efficient management, coordination, operation, and utilization of such resources.

"(c)(1) In the operation of the Fund, the Administrator is authorized to enter into multiyear contracts for the provision of information technology hardware, software, or services for periods not in excess of five years, if—

"(A) funds are available and adequate for payment of the costs of such contract for the first fiscal year and any costs of cancellation or termination;

"(B) such contract is awarded on a fully competitive basis; and

"(C) the Administrator determines that—

"(i) the need for the information technology hardware, software, or services being provided will continue over the period of the contract;

"(ii) the use of the multiyear contract will yield substantial cost savings when compared with other methods of providing the necessary resources; and

"(iii) such a method of contracting will not exclude small business participation.

"(2) Any cancellation costs incurred with respect to a contract entered into under this subsection shall be paid from currently available funds in the Fund.

"(3) This subsection shall not be construed to limit the authority of the Administrator to procure equipment and services under section 201 of this Act.

"(d) Following the close of each fiscal year, the uncommitted balance of any funds remaining in the Fund, after making provision for anticipated operating needs as determined by the Office of Management and Budget, shall be transferred to the general fund of the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

"(e) A report on the operation of the Fund shall be made annually by the Administrator to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget. Such report shall identify any proposed increases to the capital of the Fund and shall include a report on information processing equipment inventory, utilization, and acquisition.

"(f) For purposes of this section, the term 'information technology resources' includes any service or equipment which had been acquired or provided under this section or section 111 of this Act, including other information processing and transmission equipment, software, systems, operating facilities, supplies, and services related thereto, and maintenance and repair thereof.".

(2) The table of contents of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 is amended by striking out the item pertaining to section 110 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 110. Information Technology Fund.".

(b)(1) Section 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 759) is amended—

(A) by striking out subsections (c) and (d); and

(B) by redesignating subsections (e), (f), (g), (h), and (i) as subsections (c), (d), (e), (f), and (g), respectively.

(2) Section 3504(g) of title 44, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by striking out "section 111(f)" in paragraph (1) and inserting in lieu thereof "section 111(d)"; and

(B) by striking out "section 111(g)" in paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof "section 111(e)".

(3) Section 3(b) of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3503 note) is amended by striking out "section 111" and inserting in lieu thereof "sections 110 and 111".

APPLICATION OF ACT

SEC. 822. (a) Section 111(a) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 759(a)) is amended—

(1) by inserting "(1)" after "SEC. 111. (a)"; and

(2) by adding at the end thereof the following:

"(2)(A) For purposes of this section, the term 'automatic data processing equipment' means any equipment or interconnected system or subsystems of equipment that is used in the automatic acquisition, storage, manipulation, management, movement, control, display, switching interchange, transmission, or reception, of data or information—

"(i) by a Federal agency, or

"(ii) under a contract with a Federal agency which—

"(I) requires the use of such equipment, or

"(II) requires the performance of a service or the furnishing of a product which is performed or produced making significant use of such equipment.

"(B) Such term includes—

"(i) computers;

"(ii) ancillary equipment;

"(iii) software, firmware, and similar procedures;

"(iv) services, including support services; and

"(v) related resources as defined by regulations issued by the Administrator for General Services.

"(3) This section does not apply to—

"(A) automatic data processing equipment acquired by a Federal contractor which is incidental to the performance of a Federal contract;

"(B) radar, sonar, radio, or television equipment;

"(C) the procurement by the Department of Defense of automatic data processing equipment or services if the function, operation, or use of which—

"(i) involves intelligence activities;

"(ii) involves cryptologic activities related to national security;

"(iii) involves the command and control of military forces;

"(iv) involves equipment which is an integral part of a weapon or weapons system; or

"(v) is critical to the direct fulfillment of military or intelligence missions, provided that this exclusion shall not include automatic data processing equipment used for routine administrative and business applications such as payroll, finance, logistics, and personnel management; or

"(D) the procurement of automatic data processing equipment or services by the Central Intelligence Agency.".

(b) Section 111(b) of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(3) If the Administrator finds that a senior official of an agency designated pursuant to section 3506(b) of title 44, United States Code, is sufficiently independent of program responsibility and has sufficient experience, resources, and ability to carry out fairly and effectively procurements under this section, the Administrator may delegate to such official the authority to lease, purchase, or maintain automatic data processing equipment pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subsection, except that any such delegation shall not relieve the Administrator of the responsibilities assigned to the Administrator under this section. A delegation by the Administrator under this subsection shall not preclude the Administrator from reviewing individual procurement requests if the Administrator determines that circumstances warrant such a review. The Administrator shall retain authority to revoke such delegations, both in general and with regard to any specific matter. In acting for the Administrator, any official to whom approval authority has been delegated under this subsection shall comply fully with the rules and regulations promulgated by the Administrator.".

REVIEW OF DELEGATION DETERMINATIONS

SEC. 823. Section 111(e) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 759(e)) (as redesignated by section 821(b)(1) of this Act) is amended—

(1) by striking out "specifically affecting them or the automatic data processing equipment or components used by them" and inserting in lieu thereof "whether or not the automatic data processing equipment will be provided by the Administrator or whether or not the authority to lease, purchase, or maintain the equipment will be delegated"; and

(2) by striking out the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "If the Administrator denies an agency procurement request such denial shall be subject to review and decision by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, unless the President otherwise directs. Such review and decision shall be made only on the basis of a written appeal, and such written appeal, together with any written communications to the Administrator or any officer or employee of the Office of Management and Budget concerning such denial shall be made available to the public.".

BOARD OF CONTRACT APPEALS PROCEEDINGS

SEC. 824. Section 111(f) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 759(f)) (as redesignated by section 821(b)(1) of this Act) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of paragraph (1) thereof, by striking out "in connection with any procurement conducted under the authority of this section" and inserting in lieu thereof "in connection with any procurement which is subject to this section";

(2) in such sentence, by striking out "conducted under delegations" and inserting in lieu thereof "subject to delegation"; and

(3) by inserting before the last sentence of such paragraph the following new sentences: "The authority of the board to conduct such review shall include the authority to determine whether any procurement is subject to this section and the authority to review regulations to determine their consistency with applicable statutes.

A proceeding, decision, or order of the board pursuant to this subsection shall not be subject to interlocutory appeal or review."; and

(4) in paragraph (5) thereof, by adding at the end of subparagraph (A) the following: "The board may consider any decision, determination, opinion, or statement made by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget or any officer of any other Federal agency regarding applicability of this section to a particular procurement, and may request the advice of the Director or such officer with regard to such applicability, but shall not be bound by any such decision, determination, opinion, or statement when determining whether a procurement is subject to this section.".

CONFORMING AMENDMENT

(a) SCHOOL LUNCHES.—Section 22(d) of the National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1769b(d)) (as added by section 1408(a) of the Education Amendments of 1978 (92 Stat. 2368)) is amended by striking out "and for" and all that follows through "reduced-price lunch".

(b) SCHOOL BREAKFASTS.—Section 20(d) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1789) is amended by striking out "and for" and all that follows through "reduced-price breakfast".

SEC. 329. RESTORATION OF CERTAIN KINDERGARTENS TO THE SPECIAL MILK PROGRAM.

Effective July 1, 1987, section 3(a) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1772(a)) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence—

(A) by inserting "(1)" after the subsection designation;

(B) by redesignating clauses (1) and (2) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively; and

(C) in subparagraph (A) (as so redesignated), by inserting "except as provided in paragraph (2)," after "and under,";

(2) by designating the second through eighth sentences as paragraphs (3) through (9), respectively; and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (1) (as so designated) the following new paragraph:

"(2) The limitation imposed under paragraph (1)(A) for participation of nonprofit schools in the special milk program shall not apply to split-session kindergarten programs conducted in schools in which children do not have access to the meal service program operating in schools the children attend as authorized under this Act or the National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751 et seq.).".

SEC. 330. IMPROVEMENT OF BREAKFAST PROGRAM MEAL PATTERN.

(a) ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE.—Effective July 1, 1987, section 4(b) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1773(b)) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraphs:

"(3) The Secretary shall increase by 3 cents the annually adjusted payment for each breakfast served under this Act and section 17 of the National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1766). These funds shall be used to assist States, to the extent feasible, in improving the nutritional quality of the breakfasts.

"(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, whenever stocks of agricultural commodities are acquired by the Secretary or the Commodity Credit Corporation and are not likely to be sold by the Secretary or the Commodity Credit Corporation or otherwise used in programs of commodity sale or distribution, the Secretary shall make such commodities available to school food authorities and eligible institutions serving breakfasts under this Act in a quantity equal in value to not less than 3 cents for each breakfast served under this Act and section 17 of the National School Lunch Act.

"(5) Expenditures of funds from State and local sources for the maintenance of the breakfast program shall not be diminished as a result of funds or commodities received under paragraph (3) or (4).".

(b) NUTRITION REQUIREMENTS.—(1) The Secretary of Agriculture shall review and revise the nutrition requirements for meals served under the breakfast program authorized under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1771 et seq.) and section 17 of the National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1766) to improve the nutritional quality of the meals, taking into consideration both the findings of the National Evaluation of School Nutrition Programs and the need to provide increased flexibility in meal planning to local food authorities.

(2) Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this title, the Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate regulations to implement the revisions.

SEC. 331. EXTENSION OF OFFER VERSUS SERVE PROVISION TO THE SCHOOL BREAKFAST PROGRAM.

(a) PLAN.—Paragraph (1) of section 17(f) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1786(f)(1)) is amended to read as follows:

"(1)(A) Each State agency shall submit annually to the Secretary, by a date specified by the Secretary, a plan of operation and administration for a fiscal year.

"(B) To be eligible to receive funds under this section for a fiscal year, a State agency must receive the approval of the Secretary for the plan submitted for the fiscal year.

"(C) The plan shall include—

"(i) a description of the food delivery system of the State agency and the method of enabling participants to receive supplemental foods under the program, to be administered in accordance with standards developed by the Secretary;

"(ii) a description of the financial management system of the State agency;

"(iii) a plan to coordinate operations under the program with special counseling services, such as the expanded food and nutrition education program, immunization programs, prenatal care, well-child care, family planning, alcohol and drug abuse counseling, child abuse counseling, and with the aid to families with dependent children, food stamp, and maternal and child health care programs;

"(iv) a plan to provide program benefits under this section to, and to meet the special nutrition education needs of, eligible migrants and Indians;

"(v) a plan to expend funds to carry out the program during the relevant fiscal year;

"(vi) a plan to provide program benefits under this section to unserved and underserved areas in the State, if sufficient funds are available to carry out this clause;

"(vii) a plan to provide program benefits under this section to eligible persons most in need of the benefits and to enroll eligible women in the early months of pregnancy, to the maximum extent practicable; and

"(viii) such other information as the Secretary may require.

"(D) The Secretary may permit a State agency to submit only those parts of a plan that differ from plans submitted for previous fiscal years.

"(E) The Secretary may not approve any plan that permits a person to participate simultaneously in both the program authorized under this section and the commodity supplemental food program authorized under sections 4 and 5 of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 (7 U.S.C. 612c note).".

(b) APPLICATION.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall apply to a plan submitted by a State agency under section 17(f)(1) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1987, and each fiscal year thereafter.

SEC. 345. PUBLIC COMMENT.

Paragraph (2) of section 17(f) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1786(f)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 122:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 122, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

In lieu of the matter proposed by said amendment, insert the following:

TITLE V—AVIATION SAFETY

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 501. This title may be cited as the "Aviation Safety Commission Act of 1986".

COMMISSION ESTABLISHED

SEC. 502. (a) There is established a commission to be known as the Aviation Safety Commission (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission").

(b)(1) The Commission shall be composed of seven members appointed by the President no later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Appointees to the Commission shall possess extensive experience and expertise at the highest executive levels of public or corporate management.

(3) No member of the Commission shall, at the time of such member's appointment, be an employee or officer of the Federal Government, nor shall any member have been an employee of the Federal Government for at least 3 years before such member's appointment to the Commission.

(4)(A) At least four members of the Commission, including the Chairman, shall not have performed any service or have been involved in any way in any business concern in air commerce or any aviation-related industry for at least 3 years before their appointment to the Commission.

(B) For the purposes of this paragraph, the term "air commerce" has the meaning given to such term in section 101(4) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 App. U.S.C. 1301(4)).

(c) The President shall appoint one of the members to serve as Chairman of the Commission.

(d) Any vacancy in the Commission shall not affect its powers, but shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made.

(e) Four members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum, but a lesser number may hold hearings.

(f)(1) The Commission shall hold its first meeting within 30 days after the appointment of all members.

(2) The Commission shall meet at the call of the Chairman or a majority of the members.

(g) Members of the Commission shall serve until the expiration of the Commission.

(h) The Commission shall cease to exist 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION

SEC. 503. The Commission shall make a complete study of the organization and functions of the Federal Aviation Administration (hereinafter referred to as the "Administration") and the means by which the Administration may most efficiently and effectively perform the responsibilities assigned to it by law and increase aviation safety.

(a)(1) In conducting such study, the Commission shall consider whether—

(A) the dual responsibilities of the Administration of promoting commercial aviation and ensuring aviation safety are in conflict, and whether such conflict impedes the effective maintenance and enhancement of aviation safety;

(B) the Administration should be reorganized as an independent Federal agency with the promotion, maintenance, and enhancement of aviation safety as the sole responsibility of such agency;

(C) the promotion of commercial aviation should be assigned as a responsibility to another agency of the Federal Government;

(D) airline deregulation has an adverse effect on the margin of aviation safety, including a review of whether the practice of airline self-compliance with respect to aviation maintenance standards is an outmoded approach in an environment designed to maximize cost-savings;

(E) it is feasible to make mandatory certain or all of the safety recommendations issued by the National Transportation Safety Board; and

(F) the Administration has adequately used its resources to ensure aviation safety.

(2) The study conducted under this subsection shall include findings and recommendations, including any recommendations for legislative action, regarding—

(A) the most appropriate and effective organizational approach to ensuring aviation safety; and

(B) measures to improve the enforcement of Federal regulations relating to aviation safety.

(3) In conducting such study, the Commission shall consult with the National Transportation Safety Board and a broad spectrum of representatives of the aviation industry, including—

(A) air traffic controllers;

(B) representatives of the commercial aviation industry;

(C) representatives of airways facilities technicians;

(D) independent experts on aviation safety;

(E) former Administrators of the Administration; and

(F) representatives of civil aviation.

(4) Within 9 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commission shall submit a report on the study conducted pursuant to this subsection to the President and to each House of Congress. Such report shall contain a detailed statement of the findings and conclusions of the Commission, together with recommendations for legislative and administrative actions.

(b) The Commission shall also make a complete investigation of management and employee relationships within the Administration, particularly the air traffic control system, and recommend actions for improvements.

(1) In conducting such investigation, the Commission shall:

(A) consider the findings and recommendations of the March 17, 1982, report of the "Task Force for the Study of Management-Employee Relationships in the FAA" (Jones Report) and document the progress made in implementing the recommendations of that report;

(B) assess the safety impact of rehiring former air traffic controllers who were dismissed as a result of the 1981 air traffic controller strike;

(C) assess the adequacy of the Administration's air traffic controller staffing standards, especially as they relate to the number of "full performance level" controllers, and review the Administration's experience in meeting those standards in each year since 1981; and

(D) formulate cost-effective recommendations to improve aviation safety based on the findings and conclusions of its investigation.

(2) Within 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commission shall submit a report on the investigation conducted pursuant to this subsection to the President and to each House of Congress. Such report shall contain a detailed statement of the findings and conclusions of the Commission, together with recommendations for legislative and administrative actions.

POWERS AND ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

SEC. 504. (a) The Commission may, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, hold such hearings, sit and act at such times and places, take such testimony, receive such evidence, and publish such reports as the Commission considers appropriate.

(b)(1) Subject to such rules as may be adopted by the Commission, the Chairman, without regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, governing appointments in the competitive service, and without regard to the provisions of chapter 51 of such title relating to classification or chapter 53 of such title relating to General Schedule pay rates, may—

(A) appoint and fix the compensation of such staff personnel as the Chairman considers necessary, including an executive director who may be compensated at a rate not in excess of that provided for level V of the Executive Schedule in title 5, United States Code; and

(B) procure the services of experts and consultants in accordance with section 3109 of title 5, United States Code.

(2) Any person appointed as executive director pursuant to paragraph (1)(A) of this subsection shall meet the same qualifications required of members pursuant to section 502(b) of this Act.

(c) Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the executive branch of the Federal Government, including independent agencies, shall furnish to the Commission, upon request made by the Chairman, such information as the Commission considers necessary to carry out its functions.

(d) Upon request of the Commission, the head of any Federal agency may detail, on a reimbursable basis, any of the personnel of such agency to the Commission to assist the Commission in carrying out its duties.

(e) The Administrator of General Services shall provide to the Commission on a reimbursable basis such administrative support services as the Commission may request.

(f) The Commission may use the United States mail in the same manner and under the same conditions as departments and agencies of the United States.

(g) Any member or agent of the Commission may, if so authorized by the Commission, take any action which the Commission may take under this section.

COMPENSATION OF MEMBERS

SEC. 505. Members of the Commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be reimbursed for travel or transportation expenses under subchapter I of chapter 57 of title 5, United States Code, while away from their homes or regular places of business and engaged in the actual performance of duties of the Commission.

AUTHORIZATION

SEC. 506. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary in fiscal years 1987 and 1988 to carry out the provisions of this Act.

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 507. There is hereby appropriated for fiscal year 1987, $2,000,000 to carry out the provisions of this Act, to remain available until expended.

And the Senate agree to the same.

The committee of conference report in disagreement amendments numbered 19, 23, 59, 60, 117, and 124.

For the entire resolution and Senate amendments:

JAMIE L. WHITTEN,

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 738) making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1987, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report.

AGRICULTURE, RURAL DEVELOPMENT, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 1: Section 101(a) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for in the Agriculture, Rural Development, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5177 as passed by the House of Representatives on July 24, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5177 as reported to the Senate on September 11, 1986, with certain additional provisions and exceptions provided for in the joint resolution.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Agriculture, Rural Development, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-686 and Senate Report 99-438 should be complied with unless specifically addressed in this joint resolution and statement of the managers to the contrary. Report language included by the House which is not changed by the report of the Senate, and Senate report language which is not changed by the conference is approved by the committee of conference. The statement of the managers, while repeating some report language for emphasis, does not intend to negate the language referred to above unless expressly provided herein. The Agriculture, Rural Development, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—AGRICULTURAL PROGRAMS

PRODUCTION, PROCESSING AND MARKETING

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The conference agreement appropriates $1,623,000 for the Office of the Secretary instead of $1,648,000 as proposed by the House and $1,598,000 as proposed by the Senate.

ADVISORY COMMITTEES

The conference agreement appropriates $1,308,000 for advisory committees as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,358,000 as proposed by the House.

DEPARTMENTAL ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement earmarks $17,616,000 for Personnel, Finance and Management, Operations, Information Resources Management, Advocacy and Enterprise, and Administrative Law Judges and Judicial Officer as proposed by the Senate instead of $17,569,000 as proposed by the House. This increases funds earmarked for the Office of Administrative Law Judges by $47,000 over the House amount.

The conference agreement appropriates $21,227,000 for Departmental Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $21,180,000 as proposed by the House.

OFFICE OF GOVERNMENTAL AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The conference agreement appropriates $7,293,000 for public affairs activities as proposed by the House instead of $7,365,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement appropriates $465,000 for legislative liaison as proposed by the House instead of $471,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement appropriates $440,000 for intergovernmental affairs as proposed by the House instead of $444,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

The conference agreement provides $17,131,000 for the Office of the General Counsel instead of $16,832,000 as proposed by the House and $17,430,000 as proposed by the Senate.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS SERVICE

The conference agreement provides for changing the name from the Statistical Reporting Service to the National Agricultural Statistics Service as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained a provision, which has been in every appropriations bill since 1941, that prohibits publishing estimates of apple production for other than the commercial crop. The Senate amendment deleted the House language. The conference agreement retains the House language but makes it permanent law.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

The conference agreement appropriates $499,664,000 for the Agricultural Research Service instead of $498,748,000 as proposed by the House and $498,175,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes the following increases above the budget request for human nutrition research programs:

Tufts University	$1,000,000
Children's Nutrition Research Center	1,000,000
North Dakota Center	250,000

Beltsville Center	250,000
Western Research Center	500,000

The conferees are aware that the facilities at the Human Nutrition Research Centers could be of use in supporting programs for graduate students in nutrition and health sciences. Therefore, the conferees will expect the Department to allow conference rooms and other facilities to be used for programs for graduate students so long as such use is compatible with ARS objectives and does not interfere with the Centers' ongoing research program.

The conference agreement restores the following increases above the budget request which were proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate:

Dioxin contamination in the Great Lakes	$190,000
Fish hatchery at Tishomingo, Oklahoma	100,000
Wheat research in Michigan	69,000
Agricultural Research and Development Consortium (Illinois)	2,000,000

The conference agreement deletes a Senate increase of $1,870,000 proposed for agricultural research.

The conference agreement also includes the following increases above the budget request for research as proposed by the Senate:

Dairy forage research at Madison, WI	$142,000
Forage seed research at Corvallis, OR	300,000
Appalachian fruit research at Kearneysville, WV	138,000
Appalachian soil and water research at Beckley, WV	89,000
Fruit research at Wenatchee, WA	97,000
Sheep research at Dubois, ID	150,000

The conference agreement deletes language proposed by the House providing for coordination of and program leadership for higher education and transfers this responsibility to the Cooperative State Research Service as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement continues language which was previously included in the fiscal year 1986 bill to allow the Department to purchase a one-year option on land at Florence, South Carolina.

The conference agreement includes modified Senate language to allow ARS funds to be used to transfer equipment and germplasm to equip the Small Grains Facility at Aberdeen, Idaho.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conference agreement appropriates $37,400,000 for buildings and facilities of the Agricultural Research Service instead of $35,500,000 as proposed by the House and $12,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides for the following facilities:

	House	Senate	Conference
Construction of the Plant and Animal Science Research Center at University of Illinois	$27,000,000		$27,000,000
Construction of veterinary medicine facility at Tuskegee University	5,400,000	$5,400,000	5,400,000
Planning for the U.S. Salinity Laboratory at Riverside, California	1,000,000	1,000,000	1,000,000
Planning for agricultural sciences and industry facility at Pennsylvania State University	1,800,000	1,800,000	1,800,000
Construction of veterinary training facilities at Blacksburg, Va.	300,000	300,000	300,000
Construction of Wheat Marketing and Demonstration Laboratory at Portland, Oregon		900,000	900,000
Planning for the George D. Aiken Center for Microbiology and Agricultural Science in Vermont		900,000	900,000
Feasibility studies on the Plant Science Research Center and an Educational Satelite Video Communications Center in Kansas		100,000	100,000
Construction of a High Containment Poultry Research Facility at Athens, Georgia		2,500,000
Total	35,500,000	12,900,000	37,400,000

The conferees will expect the Department to conduct an in-depth study of the need for a high containment research facility for studying poultry diseases and report its recommendations to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees not later than January 31, 1987, with respect to either supplemental funding requirements or reprogramming proposals.

The conference agreement also deletes Senate language providing that buildings and facilities funds shall be available for transfer of all necessary personnel, equipment, and accessions to fully staff and equip the Small Grains Facility at Aberdeen, Idaho.

COOPERATIVE STATE RESEARCH SERVICE

The conference agreement earmarks $28,037,000 for special research grants instead of $26,778,000 as proposed by the House and $26,957,000 as proposed by the Senate. The following table reflects the conference agreement for special research grants:

	House bill	Senate bill	Conference agreement

Total, Special Research Grants	26,778	26,957	28,037

The conference agreement earmarks $40,651,000 for competitive research grants instead of $32,804,000 as proposed by the House and $41,651,000 as proposed by the Senate. The following table reflects the conference agreement for competitive research grants:

Competitive Research Grants

[In thousands of dollars]

	House Bill	Senate bill	Conference Agreement
Competitive research grants:
Plant Science	4,279	13,126	12,126
Soybean research	(493)		(493)

Biotechnology	19,016	19,016	19,016
Total, Competitive research grants	32,084	41,651	40,651

The conference agreement earmarks $20,368,000 for funding activities under the Critical Agricultural Materials Act instead of $1,143,000 as proposed by the House and $14,668,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement expands the research authority to other types of research in addition to critical agricultural materials. Included in the agreement is $668,000 for research on guayule and $10,000,000 for construction of facilities to further the implementation of research at the Polymer Institute at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The conference agreement also includes funds to establish the National Center for Physical Acoustics to conduct and transfer scientific research into usable technology for government and commercial application. Participation in the research either directly or by contract will involve the Department of Defense, National Science Foundation, National Institutes of Health, Department of Agriculture and University and State entities. This major national research center which will be located on the University of Mississippi campus, or land acquired adjacent thereto, which is convenient to Sardis Reservoir, will involve $9,700,000 in construction and support funds.

For higher education strengthening grants the conference agreement earmarks

$4,754,000 as proposed by the House instead of $4,988,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $2,852,000 for graduate training and $1,902,000 for grants to the 1890 institutions, the same amount as the post-Gramm-Rudman-Hollings level provided for fiscal year 1986.

The conference agreement earmarks $3,000,000 for the aquaculture centers instead of $2,000,000 as proposed by the House and $4,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The centers shall be established as follows: in the Western region, to be administered by the University of Washington; in the Northeastern region, to be administered by Southeastern Massachusetts University; in the Southern, to be administered by Mississippi State University; and a center for tropical and subtropical aquaculture species, to be jointly administered by the University of Hawaii and the Oceanic Institute.

The conferees will expect the Department to review the need for additional aquaculture centers and submit its report to the appropriate committees of Congress regarding any need to increase the number of authorized centers above the current level of four.

The conferees recommend an appropriation of $2,000,000 for start-up construction costs for Food-Human Nutrition Center at Washington State University as proposed by the Senate. The Center will provide invaluable research in the areas of animal and plant biotechnology, food quality, food marketing, and food processing. It will also house the Western Wheat Quality Laboratory presently located in Pullman. The State of Washington is committed to provide matching funds for this project. The conferees also included bill language to allow these construction funds to remain available until expended as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement adds bill language assigning the Cooperative State Research Service responsibility for "coordination and program leadership for higher education work" as proposed by the Senate. This authority was previously assigned to the Agricultural Research Service.

In all, the conference agreement appropriates $300,573,000 for the Cooperative State Research Service instead of $269,092,000 as proposed by the House and $295,877,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Extension Service

The conference agreement restores House language transferring $38,627,000 from the food stamp program to the expanded food nutriton and education program (EFNEP). The Senate proposed to delete the transfer from the food stamp program. The conference agreement provides for a total of $57,635,000 for the expanded food and nutrition education program.

The conference agreement also earmarks $3,329,000 for the urban gardening program as proposed by the House instead of $2,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

For the farm safety program the agreement earmarks $970,000 as proposed by the House instead of $500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $1,427,000 for the farm financial management and counseling assistance program and $1,850,000 for grants under section 1440 of the Food Security Act of 1985 for programs in North Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, and Vermont as proposed by the Senate. The House bill proposed a total of $1,427,000 for this program.

The conference agreement earmarks $47,000 for integrated reproductive management, the same as the amount proposed by the House. The Senate amendment proposed to delete funds for this program.

The conference agreement earmarks $2,378,000 for funding programs under the Renewable Resources Extension Act as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no funding for programs under the Act.

The agreement restores $1,500,000 for grants under section 1440 to aid financially stressed or dislocated farmers as proposed by the House. The $1,500,000 will be used for three grants in the amount of $500,000 each for establishing or continuing programs in Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri.

The conference agreement appropriates $6,025,000 for Federal administration as proposed by the House instead of $5,540,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $500,000 for Extension Service funding of the Appropriate Technology Transfer for Rural Areas (ATTRA) program at Agri-Center International in Memphis, Tennessee. The conferees will expect ATTRA to consult with other organizations and institutions with expertise in low-input agriculture in implementing this program.

The conference agreement provides a total of $332,172,000 for the Extension Service instead of $327,944,000 as proposed by the House and $328,341,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service

Salaries and Expenses

The conference agreement appropriates $300,967,000 for the salaries and expenses of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service instead of $296,229,000 as proposed by the House and $302,407,000 as proposed by the Senate.

For the golden nematode program the agreement includes $957,000 as proposed by the House instead of $897,000 as proposed by the Senate.

For agricultural quarantine inspection the agreement includes $52,209,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $54,209,000 as proposed by the House.

For animal compliance and enforcement the agreement includes $13,307,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $13,807,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes $1,500,000 for the pseudorabies program as proposed by the House. The Senate amendment proposed to delete funding for this program.

For the animal damage control program the conference agreement includes $21,377,000 instead of $21,227,000 as proposed by the House and $21,465,000 as proposed by the Senate. Within this total funding, the conference agreement includes $240,000 to resume the animal damage control program in Hawaii for the control of rat damage to sugarcane and macadamia nuts. The conferees will also expect the Department to significantly expand its efforts in connection with the control of blackbirds and starlings which are a very serious problem in many parts of the country including the development of environmentally acceptable toxicants or other population-managing devices, and the continuance of the pilot project in the flyway. The agreement includes $300,000 for the grackle program now underway in the Rio Grande Valley. The conferees are also aware of conditioned taste aversion research that is now underway and support the expansion of such work. The conferees expect that the guarding dog program in Oregon be expanded to include Washington and that a new program be initiated in Idaho that would include Wyoming. The conferees also expect APHIS to take advantage of existing and on-going research efforts and to use available funds for the procurement of dogs and travel expenses, where needed, and to maintain the existing funding mechanism with the Extension Service.

The conference agreement includes a total of $5,000,000 for the plant disease and pest control contingency fund and a total of $5,000,000 for the animal disease and pest control contingency fund. These funds are to be earmarked for citrus canker and avian influenza, respectively, and shall be available to carry out those programs as needed. The conferees have included these two programs in the contingency accounts because of the uncertainty over the actual funding requirements. Should these funds not be needed for these two programs, they would be available to meet other contingency needs of the agency.

The conferees are concerned with the northward migration from South America of the Africanized bee. The Africanized bee is an aggressive variety that dominates local species and poses a serious threat to the lives and health of animals and humans and the well-being of American agriculture. The conferees direct the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service within available funds to conduct a study of the situation and report to the appropriate committees of Congress with recommendations on ways to halt the migration of the Africanized bee. The report should be submitted not later than June 1, 1987.

Agricultural Marketing Service

The conference agreement includes $100,000 for fiscal year 1987 for the marketing program being conducted by the Horticultural Producers Federation which has 14 co-ops in five states.

Funds for Strengthening Markets, Income, and Supply (Section 32)

The conference agreement provides $7,147,000 for funds for strengthening markets, income, and supply as proposed by the Senate instead of $6,773,000 as proposed by the House.

Office of Transportation

The conference agreement appropriates $2,340,000 for the Office of Transportation as proposed by the House instead of $1,233,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees reject the proposal to terminate the Office of Transportation so as to ensure that the Nation's transportation system will adequately serve the agricultural and rural areas of the United States.

The conferees concur in the Senate report language calling on the Department to conduct a study on construction and maintenance of roads in rural areas.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

Salaries and Expenses

The conference agreement provides for a transfer from Commodity Credit Corporation funds of $491,856,000 for salaries and expenses of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service instead of $449,403,000 as proposed by the House and $521,138,000 as proposed by the Senate. The additional funding provided in the conference agreement over the House amount is to carry out increased activities related to the Food Security Act of 1985. The agreement also adds appropriate citations to the bill language to allow for the administrative expenses of the Colorado River Basin Salinity Control program.

The conferees are concerned that regulations implementing Title XII of the Food Security Act of 1985 will have a negative impact upon the Hawaiian sugarcane industry. Under the June 23, 1986, regulations proposed by the Department, up to 67,000 acres, or one-third of the State's cane acreage, may be classified as highly erodible. If implemented without modification, these regulations could cause a major portion of the Hawaiian sugarcane industry to have to cease the growing of cane. As is discussed under the Agricultural Research Service account of Senate report 99-438, similar impacts are apparent in other traditional crops, such as cotton, due to the lack of available conservation tillage systems.

The Department's attention is directed to page 459 of the conference report to accompany P.L. 99-198 which provides that "It is not the intent of the conferees to cause undue hardship on producers to comply with these provisions" and that "standards of reasonable judgment" should be applied to avoid such an outcome.

In Hawaii, cane has been grown on croplands which have a demonstrated capacity to retain moisture with increased productivity and improved topsoil conditions during a century of cultivation. The conferees agree that the case of the Hawaiian sugarcane industry certainly justifies the application of "standards of reasonable judgment" which will allow crops produced on this land to remain eligible for commodity programs. Furthermore, recognition must be given to the fact that sugarcane is a giant perennial grass which serves as an excellent cover crop. Cane grown on this land should continue to be eligible for commodity programs.

The conferees direct USDA to: (1) coordinate agency resources and accelerate research efforts to develop conservation tillage systems for highly erodible land, to allow the continued production of traditional crops, and (2) report to the approriated committees of Congress by January 15, 1987, the status of this coordinated research effort, and a general overview of the impact of this new provision by major crop and by geographic region.

Federal Crop Insurance Corporation

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION FUND

The conferees appropriate $135,743,000 as proposed by the House instead of $200,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Commodity Credit Corporation

REIMBURSEMENT FOR NET REALIZED LOSSES

The conference agreement appropriates a total of $16,808,806,000 for reimbursement for net realized losses of the Commodity Credit Corporation as proposed by the House instead of a current, indefinite appropration as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement also includes $3,000,000,000 to be available upon receipt of an official budget request, since these additional funds would be required should the Department provide for an advance deficiency payment on 1987 crops. Such advance deficiency payments are now discretionary under the 1985 Farm Bill and should the Department decide to make such payments, the amount requested in the President's budget for reimbursement for net realized losses would be inadequate. The conferees will also expect the Department to defer all payment of interest to the U.S. Treasury until the end of the fiscal year since early payment of interest could create cash flow problems for the Corporation.

The conference agreement restores limitations on certain programs funded by the CCC, as proposed by the House, and increases the limitation for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation from $100,000,000 up to $375,000,000 and the Conservation Reserve Program from $550,000,000 up to $700,000,000. The Senate amendment proposed deletion of all of the caps.

The conferees will also expect the Department to submit legislation to the appropriate committees of Congress to propose the raising of the $25 billion cap on the Commodity Credit Corporation. At $25 billion the Commodity Credit Corporation no longer can function as a true revolving fund and has required numerous supplemental appropriations in recent years to restore capital impairment.

General Sales Manager

The conference agreement provides $6,027,000 for the Office of the General Sales Manager instead of $5,827,000 as proposed by the House and $6,089,000 as proposed by the Senate. The $200,000 increase above the House amount is to allow the Office of the General Sales Manager to embark upon expanded export efforts.

TITLE II—RURAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

Rural Development Assistance

Farmers Home Adminstration

RURAL HOUSING INSURANCE FUND

The conference agreement deletes the earmarking by the House of $14,355,000 for direct low-income loans as proposed by the Senate, and increases the total allocations by $11,335,000. As a result of this action, $2,033,093,000 will be available for loans from the Rural Housing Insurance Fund, of which $2,032,519,000 will be for subsidized interest loans to low-income borrowers.

For additional units financed under section 515 of the Housing Act of 1949, the conference agreement provides not to exceed $28,413,000. For additional units financed under sections 514 and 516 of the Housing Act of 1949, the conference agreement provides $5,082,000. The House bill proposed $33,495,000 for section 515 units, of which $4,785,000 was for sections 514 and 516 units. The Senate amendment proposed $22,222,500 for additional units, including $5,082,000 for additional units financed under sections 514 and 516.

The conferees will expect that first priority shall be given to renewals.

For reimbursement to the Rural Housing Insurance Fund for interest subsidies and losses sustained in prior years, the conference agreement appropriates $2,296,283,000 as proposed by the House instead of $2,714,566,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement also makes several technical corrections to the bill language as proposed by the Senate.

SELF-HELP HOUSING LAND DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement provides $500,000 in loans from the Self-Help Housing Land Development Fund instead of $1,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no provision for this program.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT INSURANCE FUND

The conference agreement includes the following loan levels for the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund:

[In millions of dollars]

	House	Senate	Conference
Farm ownership loans:
Insured	190.0	325.0	75.0
Guaranteed	325.0	325.0	325.0
Soil and water loans:
Insured	12.0	10.0	11.0
Guaranteed	5.0	1.0	3.0
Operating loans:
Insured	1,298.0	1,500.0	1,425.0
Guaranteed	2,170.0	2,175.0	2,170.0
Indian tribe land acquisition loans	3.8	2.0	2.0
Disaster loans	700.0	700.0	700.0
Soil Conservation loans:
Watershed and flood prevention	13.4	2.5	7.9
RC&D	1.9	.5	1.2
	4,719.1	4,716.0	4,720.1

For restoration of interest subsidies and losses sustained in prior years by the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund the conference agreement appropriates $1,723,403,000 as proposed by the House instead of $2,440,203,000 as proposed by the Senate.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT INSURANCE FUND

The conferees urge that within the available funds of the Rural Development Insurance Fund, Community Facilities Loan Program, up to $3,000,000 be provided to the Choctaw Electric Cooperative for a loan to develop and make improvements for an industrial development park.

For reimbursement to the Rural Development Insurance Fund for interest subsidies and losses sustained in prior years the conference agreement appropriates $656,645,000 as proposed by the House instead of $736,619,000 as proposed by the Senate.

VERY LOW-INCOME HOUSING REPAIR GRANTS

For grants to the very low-income elderly for essential repairs to dwellings the conference agreement appropriates $12,500,000 instead of $11,891,000 as proposed by the House and $13,891,000 as proposed by the Senate.

MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING

For mutual and self-help housing grants the conference agreement appropriates $8,000,000 instead of $7,610,000 as proposed by the House and $8,610,00 as proposed by the Senate.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For salaries and expenses of the Farmers Home Administration the conference agreement appropriates $386,867,000 instead of $381,867,000 as proposed by the House and $393,474,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement earmarks $2,047,000 for the circuit rider program instead of $1,997,000 as proposed by the House and $2,100,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes a general increase of $50,000 over the post-Gramm-Rudman-Hollings level of $1,997,000 as proposed by the House.

Rural Electrification Administration

REIMBURSEMENT TO THE RURAL ELECTRIFICATION AND TELEPHONE REVOLVING FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $20,000,000 to reimburse the Rural Electrification and Telephone Revolving Fund for interest subsidies and losses sustained in prior years instead of $100,000,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate proposed to delete the appropriation for interest subsidies and losses.

CONSERVATION

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

CONSERVATION OPERATIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $367,043,000 for conservation operations instead of $361,520,000 as proposed by the House and $372,566,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are concerned about the Department's ability to comply with extensive soil and water conservation provisions in the Food Security Act of 1985. Accordingly, the conference agreement provides a general increase to the fiscal year 1986 amount of $18,703,000. Included within the amount provided for conservation operations is a total of $4,870,000 for snow survey and water forecasting, and a $2,000,000 increase above the fiscal year 1986 level for soil surveys.

The conferees agree to the necessity to explore new technologies for soil and water erosion detection. One such program is the pilot computer mapping project in Dane County, Wisconsin, which is designed to demonstrate the use and efficiency of land information systems. The conferees, however, are concerned over the potential high cost of such programs at a time when budget constraints dictate necessary caution in proceeding with any new programs. Accordingly, the conferees agree to provide $250,000 to initiate a three-year pilot project in Dane County, Wisconsin.

The conference agreement earmarks $4,408,000 for operation and establishment of plant materials centers as proposed by the Senate instead of $3,972,000 as proposed by the House. This increase is to establish a center at Booneville, Arkansas.

The conference agreement restores and amends the House language providing no less than $293,400,000 for personnel compensation and benefits.

The conferees agree that the Soil Conservation Service should not consolidate its four national technical centers into a single national technical center at this time.

RIVER BASIN SURVEYS AND INVESTIGATIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $11,819,000 for river basin surveys and investigations instead of $14,166,000 as proposed by the House and $9,472,000 as proposed by the Senate.

WATERSHED AND FLOOD PREVENTION OPERATIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $165,885,000 for watershed and flood prevention operations instead of $174,885,000 as proposed by the House and $156,885,000 as proposed by the Senate. To the ongoing joint Corps of Engineers and Soil Conservation Service demonstration project, the conferees agree to include Sherman Creek in Tallahatchie County.

The conference agreement provides $7,949,000 for insured conservation loans from the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund of the Farmers Home Administration instead of $13,398,000 as proposed by the House and $2,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

RESOURCE CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement provides $1,207,000 for insured loans from the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund of the Farmers Home Administration instead of $1,914,000 as proposed by the House and $500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are pleased with the progress that has been made with an entity of the State of Oklahoma under contract to maximize the agricultural and natural resources potential of South Central and Southeast Oklahoma, as stated in the House report, including work in Hughes County.

AGRICULTURAL STABILIZATION AND CONSERVATION SERVICE

AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The conference agreement appropriates $176,935,000 for the agricultural conservation program as proposed by the Senate instead of $180,739,000 as proposed by the House.

WATER BANK PROGRAM

The conference agreement appropriates $8,371,000 for the water bank program as proposed by the Senate instead of $5,000,000 as proposed by the House.

TITLE III—DOMESTIC FOOD PROGRAMS

FOOD AND NUTRITION SERVICE

CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAMS

The conference agreement restores House language providing that $775,281,000 for child nutrition programs shall be available only to the extent an official budget request is transmitted to Congress.

SPECIAL MILK PROGRAM

The conferees agree to allow funds for the special milk program to remain available through September 30, 1988.

FEEDING PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS AND CHILDREN

(WIC)

The conference agreement appropriates $1,663,497,000 for the feeding program for women, infants and children (WIC) instead of $1,671,500,000 as proposed by the House and $1,655,494,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees direct the Department of Agriculture to issue a new proposed regulation for the allocation of WIC funds to the State agencies, superceding the proposed regulation issued on September 9, 1986. The new regulation should be promulgated after arriving at a consensus with the State WIC directors and other interested parties. The conference agreement prohibits the Department from issuing a final or interim-final regulation before May 1, 1987, and directs that a final regulation should be issued as soon after May 1 as possible, and in no case later than July 1, 1987, with an implementation schedule to coincide with the beginning of the fiscal year. This timetable will allow States to plan for and properly implement any new formula.

The conferees agree that continued study of long-term benefits from the WIC program is necessary. Therefore, the conferees expect the Department to do a further evaluation to test whether WIC benefits in pregnancy have an effect on the growth and development of preschool children.

FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

On October 1, 1986, the Department issued proposed regulations pertaining to the employment and training requirements for employable Food Stamp recipients. The Food Security Act of 1985 imposes a deadline of April 1, 1987, for implementation of these regulations. The conferees urge the Department to issue the final rule as soon as possible in order to allow states to develop their plans.

FOOD PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement appropriates $82,578,000 for food program administration as proposed by the House instead of $83,563,000 as proposed by the Senate.

HUMAN NUTRITION INFORMATION SERVICE

The conference agreement appropriates $6,876,000 for the Human Nutrition Information Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $8,976,000 as proposed by the House.

TITLE IV—INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS

PUBLIC LAW 480

For titles I, II and III of Public Law 480 the conference agreement includes the following amounts:

[In thousands of dollars]

	House	Senate	Conference
Titles I and III:
Program level	(831,600)	(837,854)	(834,727)
Appropriation	451,600	457,854	454,727
Title II:
Program level	(731,118)	(525,570)	(628,344)
Appropriation	731,118	525,570	628,344
Total:
Program level	(1,562,718)	(1,363,424)	(1,463,071)
Appropriation	1,182,718	983,424	1,083,071

In meeting the minimum and sub-minimum tonnage requirements for title II, the quality of the commodity mix must be maintained. Processed and fortified foods, including, but not limited to, vegetable oil, bulgur wheat, and blends of corn, soy, and milk are necessary to meet nutritional and humanitarian needs. For instance, children cannot digest raw wheat, but they can eat bulgar or fortified cereals. These value-added products not only meet the humanitarian purposes of the Food for Peace program, but also are important to American processing industries.

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION AND DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement appropriates $5,035,000 for the Office of International Cooperation and Development instead of $3,513,000 as proposed by the House and $5,131,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $1,427,000 for agricultural scholarships for foreign students from middle-income countries as proposed by the Senate.

SCIENTIFIC ACTIVITIES OVERSEAS

FOREIGN CURRENCY PROGRAM

The conference agreement restores subtitles proposed by the House for the scientific activities overseas program.

TITLE V—RELATED AGENCIES

FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement appropriates $411,803,000 for salaries and expenses of the Food and Drug Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $410,540,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $34,197,000 above the fiscal year 1986 level. Included within the total is $14,390,000 for FDA's responsibilities related to Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) and $5,250,000 for orphan product work, of which not less than $3,500,000 shall be available only for orphan product grants and contracts. Also included within the amount is $1,000,000 to replenish FDA's contingency fund. The conferees agree to the budget request for the program management functions. The remainder of the unspecified increase should be divided among the human drugs and biologics, food safety, and devices and radiological products programs proportional to the budget request of each program.

The conferees agree that it is premature at this time to include language in the appropriations bill that would provide that if user fee legislation is enacted, such fees may be credited to the appropriations available to FDA. By deleting the Senate provision, the conferees do not wish to infer a position for or against user fees. The conferees further agree that should such user fee legislation be enacted, it should incorporate language crediting fees collected to FDA's salaries and expense account.

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

The conference agreement appropriates $29,761,000 for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission instead of $29,161,000 as proposed by the House and $30,418,000 as proposed by the Senate. The agreement includes 15 additional staff years for increased enforcement and other activities.

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 607. The conference agreement deletes limitation on the amount that can be charged to the Working Capital Fund for personnel compensation and benefits as proposed by the Senate.

T4SEC. 608. The conference agreement provides that $5,000,000 for grasshoppers and Mormon cricket control and $2,852,000 for higher education training grants shall remain available until expended. These two accounts were added by the Senate, but the conference reduced the funds for higher education training grants from $3,000,000 to $2,852,000.

SEC. 626. The conference agreement amends the floor on Farmers Home Administration staff years to 12,675 instead of 12,700 as proposedby the House and 12,400 as proposed by the Senate.

SEC. 630. Deletes section 630 of the House bill and inserts new section as proposed by the Senate which allows the continuation of current procedures of section 9 of the Small Business Act, as amended.

SEC.T1 631. INSERTS NEW SECTION AS PROPOSED BY THE SENATE WHICH PROHIBITS THE RELEASE OF INFORMATION ACQUIRED IN CONNECTION WITH THE ADMINISTRATION OF MARKETING ORDERS, OTHER THAN AGGREGATE DATA.

SEC. 632. Inserts new section proposed by the Senate which prohibits the use of private debt collection agencies by the Farmers Home Administration. The conference agreement modifies the provision to add, "Unless otherwise provided in this Act,".

SEC. 633. The conference agreement inserts and amends Senate language related to disaster payments to producers of program and non-program crops. The conference agreement also provides for a direct appropriation of $10,000,000 each to the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for emergency conservation work in connection with restoration work associated with natural disasters. The conference agreement also requires the Farmers Home Administration, under such rules and regulations as the Secretary may determine, to provide disaster loan assistance and refinancing to farmers and ranchers suffering a major loss from natural disasters. To provide the necessary financing for the payment provision, the conferees have directed the Secretary to transfer $400,000,000 in disaster loans from the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund. Should the $400,000,000 made available for payments be insufficient to carry out the program a request for a supplemental appropriation should be submitted to the Congress or additional funds transferred from the disaster loan account.

SEC. 634. Inserts a new section as proposed by the House which places a moratorium until June 30, 1987, on the prepayment of section 515 loans. The provision as agreed to limits the moratorium until June 30, 1987, unless such loan was made at least 20 years prior to the date of prepayment or, for loans made before December 21, 1979, the Secretary makes a determination that a supply of adequate, comparable housing is available in the community, or that prepayment of such loans will not result in a substantial increase in rents to tenants in residence upon date of prepayment or displacement of such tenants.

SEC. 635. Amends a new section proposed by the House which provides that surplus agricultural commodities may be used to support participants in the Tenth International Pan American Games to be held in Indianapolis, Indiana. The Senate amendment deleted the House language, and the conference agreement restores the transfer authority and deletes the cap on the transfer.

SEC. 636. Inserts a new section as proposed by the House that amends the Food Security Act of 1985 regarding the definition of "separate person".

SEC. 637. Inserts a new section to modify sign-up requirements under the burley tobacco program.

SEC. 638. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Food Stamp Act regarding the dependent care deduction.

SEC. 639. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Food Security Act of 1985 with respect to Valencia peanuts produced in New Mexico.

SEC. 640. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Community Economic Development Act of 1981 to allow the transfer of loans made from the Rural Development Loan Fund to a non-profit corporation.

SEC. 641. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Food Security Act of 1985 regarding the nonprofit national rural development and finance corporation by extending the authorization and requiring $20,000,000 in loans from the Rural Development Insurance Fund.

SEC. 642. The conference agreement amends a new section as proposed by the Senate to require that $500,000 of surplus commodities be used to fund the development of the external combustion engine, the cost to be offset by selling $500,000 in loans from the Rural Development Insurance Fund.

SEC. 643. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Food Security Act of 1985 regarding the use of alfalfa, and other multi-year grasess and legumes in rotation in the Conservation Reserve Program.

SEC. 644. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Agricultural Act of 1949 to modify cross compliance requirements for producers of extra long staple cotton.

SEC. 645. Inserts a new section as proposed by the Senate that amends the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act of 1949, as amended, with regard to local administrative areas for ASCS county committees.

SEC. 646. Adds and amends Senate amendment No. 111. The conference agreement includes Sense of the Congress provisions specifying countries which would most likely benefit from this amendment, and deletes other references to specific nations. The conference agreement also ensures that the provisions of this amendment do not significantly alter existing programs or existing law.

It is the Sense of the House conferees that, recognizing the need to move basic commodities which are surplus to domestic needs into world trade so as to maintain volume is just as important as price, and further recognizing that if American products are offered for sale at competitive prices and sold to the highest bidder then such commodities will move through regular trade channels and the purchaser will help to have it brought into his country. The Secretary of Agriculture, as authorized by the Charter of the Commodity Credit Corporation is directed to offer commodities from the Commodity Credit Corporation inventory for sale for export to the highest bidder in such amounts and quantities as may in his judgment not upset normal markets, but at a total level necessary to regain our fair share of world markets. The Secretary shall announce, at the start of each year, minimum export levels for each basic commodity. Should adequate quantities in inventory of any basic commodity, such as soybeans, be insufficient to meet stated export needs, the Secretary shall acquire such basic commodities as are needed on the domestic market. Lot sizes and delivery dates shall be at the discretion of the Secretary to allow for orderly sales and will hopefully move the amount of commodities listed in the Melcher amendment. It being expensive to the farmer, and to the Government to produce more than the domestic and foreign market can absorb, the Secretary of Agriculture, on a trial basis, shall issue such regulations as will enable producers of any basic agricultural commodity to produce the amount needed for domestic consumption, to maintain the pipeline, and to retain by competitive sales our normal share of the world market and the Secretary of Agriculture shall use his authority under existing law to provide for nonrecourse loans on basic agricultural commodities as such levels as will reflect a fair return to the farm producer above the cost of production, and to issue such regulations as will carry out this provision and as will provide for payment by the purchaser, rather than by appropriation, for basic commodities sold for domestic use.

COMMERCE, JUSTICE, STATE, JUDICIARY AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 2: Section 101(b) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects, or activities provided for in the Department of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987 (H.R. 5161). The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects, or activities at a rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5161 as passed the House of Representatives on July 17, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects, or activities at a rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5161 as reported to the Senate on September 3, 1986 with certain modifications.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-669 and Senate Report 99-425 shall be complied with unless specifically addressed to the contrary in this joint resolution and accompanying statement of the managers. The Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987 put in place by this joint resolution incorporates the following agreements of the managers.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $36,300,000 instead of $36,450,000 as proposed by the Senate and $35,000,000 as proposed by the House.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $90,780,000 as proposed by the House instead of $90,375,000 as proposed by the Senate.

ECONOMIC AND STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $30,000,000 instead of $30,500,000 as proposed by the House and the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $250,000 for the Center for Utilization of Federal Technology (CUFT) as authorized by Section 11 of the Stevenson-Wydler Technology Act.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

Appropriates $180,443,000 instead of $190,000,000 as proposed by the House and $140,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees intend that the funds be available for the following purposes:

Public works grants	$122,443,000
Planning assistance	24,000,000
Districts	(16,000,000)
Indians	(3,000,000)
States	(2,000,000)
Urban	(3,000,000)
Technical assistance	7,000,000
University centers	(5,000,000)
Research and evaluation	1,000,000
Economic adjustment grants	26,000,000
Sudden and severe projects	(13,000,000)
Revolving loan fund projects	(13,000,000)
Total	180,443,000

The conferees have included new language to direct the obligation of $250,000 for the Center for International Trade Development at Oklahoma State University. In addition, new language has been included to direct the release of funds previously appropriated in Public Law 99-190 for a project in Lexington County, South Carolina. New language has been included to ensure that funds are made available for projects in South Gate, California, and Jasper, Oklahoma, as intended in Public Law 99-190.

The conferees have included House language from Amendment No. 27 regarding the use of EDA funds authorized in Public Law 99-190 in New York, and House language from Amendment No. 28 regarding the authority of the SEDA-COG Joint Rail Authority in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, to sell any portion of real property that was acquired in part with proceeds of an EDA grant.

Consistent with the action of the Congress in approving the Fiscal Year 1984 Supplemental Appropriations Act and the fiscal year 1986 appropriation for the Economic Development Administration, the managers direct that $4,000,000 of the funds recommended for public works grants be made available for a grant to the Institute for Technology Development in Mississippi.

The managers direct that any proposed graduations from the EDA university certer program should be reviewed and approved by the House and Senate Appropriations Committees pursuant to established reprogramming procedures prior to implementation.

The conferees are aware that 11 projects totalling $7,581,000 were eligible for public works grants constraints. These are high priority projects which meet EDA funding criteria, and the conferees intend that they be funded in the first quarter of fiscal year 1987.

Pursuant to House Report No. 99-669, the conferees direct EDA to provide funds for the establishment of a University Center at Michigan State University.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $25,000,000 instead of $26,000,000 as proposed by the House and $22,700,000 as proposed by the Senate.

REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

(Rescission)

Rescinds $1,576,000 for Regional Development Programs as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE ADMINISTRATION

OPERATIONS AND ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $197,500,000 instead of $188,600,000 as proposed by the House and $196,500,000 as proposed by the Senate

The conferees have included new language to provide for a grant for support costs for a new materials center at Iowa State University at Ames, Iowa.

The conferees agreement includes new language regarding participation in international exhibitions. It has come to the conferees' attention that the Department, through the U.S. Trade Center in Mexico City, is sponsoring Expo-Maquila '86 in December 1986. This Expo is designed to attract U.S. assembly plants to relocate in Mexico to save on labor and benefits costs. The conferees feel strongly that this is an incorrect course for the Department to take, and, in effect, amounts to taxpayer financing of the export of American jobs. The conferees oppose the use of government funds for such Expos, therefore, new bill language has been included to prohibit the use of funds in connection with such exhibitions and conferences. The conferees also oppose any government support of projects designed to attract U.S. companies to relocate outside the United States. The conferees are concerned that this Expo is but one example of such projects. Therefore, the Department is requested to submit a report to the Appropriations Committees by December 1, 1986, detailing this Expo and any others with a similar mission planned or carried out by the Department or with its assistance.

The conference agreement includes the Senate language earmarking $6,785,000 for the Office of the Textiles and Apparel, including $3,349,000 for a grant to the Tailored Clothing Technology Corporation.

The conference agreement includes $15,790,000 for the Trade Adjustment Assistance program, and the full budget request of $4,589,000 for enhancements to trade administration programs.

(Rescission)

Rescinds $8,100,000 as proposed by the Senate which was appropriated for FY 1985 and FY 1986 for direct loans for trade adjustment assistance. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

MINORITY BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT AGENCY

MINORITY BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Appropriates $39,675,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $43,400,000 as proposed by the House. In addition, the conference agreement makes $28,080,000 available until expended instead of $29,805,000 as proposed by the House and Senate. The amount in the conference agreement plus recoveries of prior year obligations of $1,000,000 and unobligated balances of $2,725,000 will provide for a program level of $43,400,000 for the Minority Business Development Agency for fiscal year 1987.

UNITED STATES TRAVEL AND TOURISM ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $11,500,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $10,500,000 as proposed by the House. In addition, the conference agreement includes Senate language to require the appropriation to be used only to promote travel to the United States and its possessions and Senate language authorizing the hiring by contract of American citizens abroad. The House bill contained no provision on either of these matters. The conference agreement also inserts a reference to the 1981 Tourism Policy Act which was contained in neither version of the bill.

The conferees have inserted a reference to the 1981 Tourism Policy Act to assure that the ability of USTTA to conduct the policy studies authorized by that Act are directed to promoting travel to the United States and its possessions. The conferees are agreed that the funding available to USTTA is not to be used for policy studies or technical assistance to promote travel to any destination other than the United States and its possessions.

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC ADMINISTRATION

OPERATIONS, RESEARCH, AND FACILITIES

Appropriates $1,038,588,000 instead of $1,100,000,000 as proposed by the House and $1,008,612,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees have provided the budget request for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration with the following additions and reductions:

The conferees have included $27,500,000 for commercialization of the land remote sensing satellite (LANDSAT) system. However, the Committees on Appropriations have not yet received a formal proposal from the Administration to continue the commercialization effort. Therefore, the obligation of these funds is subject to the receipt, review, and approval of a proposal from the Administration detailing the use of these funds and funds from other agencies, as well as future funding requirements for LANDSAT commercialization.

Within available funds NOAA is directed to continue to provide $1,700,000 for aircraft services for high density data support for the National Hurricane Center.

The conference allowance provides funding to maintain the polar orbiting weather satellite program. The conferees expect the program will minimize the risk of a data gap, provide a backup satellite in orbit and provide future launches as required to maintain this guidance. The conferees expect quarterly reports to the Appropriations Committees on the status of the procurement of weather satellites K, L, and M.

The conference agreement includes $3,000,000 for a supercomputer to be located in Norman, Oklahoma, which will be used to process meteorological data and for other purposes. The funds are to be made available as a one-time grant to the Mid America Research Institute.

The restoration of $250,000 provided in fiscal year 1987 for right whale research will result in a total of $650,000 for the program to be conducted under cooperative agreement with the University of Rhode Island.

The conferees provide for a program level of $35,683,000 for section 306 and 306(a) grants under the Coastal Zone Management program. This level consists of $30,373,000 in new budget authority and $5,310,000 in unobligated balances previously appropriated under sections 306 and 308(b) of the Coastal Zone Management Act.

The conferees intend that $500,000 in deobligations be made available for the Albemarle-Pamlico estuarine system and $600,000 in deobligations be made available for a study of the Charleston harbor.

Of the funds provided for resource information, the conferees intend that $200,000 be made available to undertake tagging and migration studies of King Mackerel stocks in the Atlantic region.

The conferees intend that of the funds provided for resource information, $250,000 be provided in order that the National Marine Fisheries Service may cooperate with the Corps of Engineers to effectuate the memorandum of understanding to develop techniques to restore degraded coastal habitats.

The conferees intend that $500,000 be provided for research on habitat evaluation methodologies at Beaufort, North Carolina.

The conferees are aware that a review of the science program at the University of North Carolina—Wilmington is to be completed in January, 1987. Acquisition of a suitable research vessel for the program should proceed subsequent to this review, taking into consideration the recommendations of the review panel. Sufficient funds for vessel acquisition are available as a result of FY 1984 supplemental appropriations and program carryover from 1986. It is expected that, for FY 1987, program operational expenses will not need to be increased from the FY 1986 level.

The conferees are concerned that the National Weather Service has discontinued the weather reporting station at Oakland/Pontiac airport in Michigan. Funds have been included for the restoration of the reporting station and for, but not limited to, a remote reading hydrothermometer.

AVIATION WEATHER SERVICES

Appropriates $29,000,000 for aviation weather services from the Airport and Airways Trust Fund instead of $28,000,000 as proposed by the House and $30,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

TRANSFER FROM PROMOTE AND DEVELOP FUND

Transfers $51,800,000 from the Promote and Develop Fund to the Operations, Research, and Facilities account instead of $38,000,000 as proposed by the House and $50,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

TRANSFER FROM COASTAL ENERGY IMPACT FUND

Transfers $9,673,000 from the Coastal Energy Impact Fund to the Operations, Research, and Facilities account instead of $8,000,000 as proposed by the House and $8,300,000 as proposed by the Senate.

PROCUREMENT FUNCTIONS AT BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

Provides language proposed by the Senate which requires NOAA to continue certain procurement functions at Bay St. Louis, Miss. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

PAYMENTS UNDER SEC. 4 (B) OF THE COMMERCIAL FISHERIES RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACT

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which earmarked $3,000,000 for payments under Sec. 4(b) of the Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act of 1964 for commercial fisheries failures and disruptions.

FOREIGN FISHING OBSERVER FUND

Appropriates $2,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,500,000 as proposed by the House.

PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $98,000,000 instead of $100,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL RESEARCH AND SERVICES

Appropriates $122,000,000 for the National Bureau of Standards instead of $120,000,000 as proposed by the House and $123,953,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes:

Center for Fire Research	$5,402,000
Center for Building Technology	3,470,000
Institute for Computer Sciences and Technology	7,500,000
Cold Neutron Research Facility	4,500,000

The conferees are agreed that an additional $2,000,000 for construction of the Cold Neutron Research Facility should be derived from other sources. Sec. 104 of the Act permits the National Bureau of Standards to accept public or private contributions toward this effort.

NATIONAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION ADMINISTRATION PUBLIC TELECOMMUNICATIONS FACILITIES, PLANNING, AND CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $20,500,000 instead of $23,000,000 as proposed by the House and $18,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

SEC. 104. Provides language proposed by the Senate which would permit the National Bureau of Standards to accept public or private contributions to construct a cold neutron research facility. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 105. Deletes a general provision proposed by the Senate requiring the Secretary of Commerce to submit a report on plans, options and funding requirements for commercialization of LANDSAT to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees by September 15, 1986. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

TITLE II—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $67,000,000 instead of $70,800,000 as proposed by the House and $65,725,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition the conference agreement provides language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which limits the positions in the Department of Justice's leadership offices to 56.

The conference agreement provides $1,000,000 for the Financial and Administrative Management System.

The conferees are agreed that sufficient funds are inclued within the total amount provided for this account to maintain the Buffalo, New York Office of Immigration Review at the same staffing level which existed on July 1, 1986 and that this office shall not be closed nor its staffing level reduced unless the Department of Justice submits a reprogramming/reorganization request to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees in accordance with the procedures contained in Sec. 607 of this Act and the procedures contained in House Report 99-669, and receives approval of such a request from the House and Senate Appropriations Committees.

UNITED STATES PAROLE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $10,300,000 instead of $10,600,000 as proposed by the House and $9,912,000 as proposed by the Senate.

LEGAL ACTIVITIES

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, GENERAL LEGAL ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $208,934,000 instead of $220,000,000 as proposed by the House and $207,897,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, the conference agreement provides language earmarking $1,537,000 for office automation projects instead of $5,000,000 for this purpose as proposed by the House. The Senate proposed no funding for this item. The conference agreement also provides language permitting up to $1,000,000 to be transferred from other Justice Department appropriations to this account for expenses of independent counsel subject to approval of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees under the reprogramming procedures contained in section 607 of this Act.

The conference agreement is generally in accord with the amounts proposed by the Senate for the programs funded in this account. However, the conference agreement does not include any funding for expenses of independent counsel.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, ANTITRUST DIVISION

Appropriates $43,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $44,420,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are concerned over the potential antitrust implications of the development of the marketing structure of the cable communications industry pursuant to the enactment of the Cable Communications Policy Act as it relates to the home satellite earth station industry. The conferees are aware of an ongoing review of the marketplace by the Antitrust Division of the Justice Department and urge the Attorney General to complete this review in a expeditious fashion and report to the appropriate Committees of Congress on the findings of such a review.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS

Appropriates $320,000,000 instead of $340,000,000 as proposed by the House and $345,093,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes an additional $31,000,000 for the United States Attorneys in title II of this joint resolution for the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program. The total amount thus made available for the United States Attorneys for FY 1987 is $351,000,000 and will provide funds for the activities of the United States Attorneys as proposed by the Senate plus an additional $6,000,000 for the expanded Federal drug law enforcement effort.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, OVERSIGHT OF BANKRUPTCY CASES

Appropriates $11,500,000 instead of $13,200,000 as proposed by the House and $10,962,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement also provides language which continues the authorization for the United States Trustees Program from November 10, 1986 through September 30, 1987. This language is not intended to expand the current program but to continue the authorization until a new authorization is enacted. Both the House and Senate bills contained language continuing the authorization from October 1, 1986 through September 30, 1987.

The conference agreement includes $808,000 above the amount proposed by the Senate for additional computers and staff for field offices.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, FOREIGN CLAIMS SETTLEMENT COMMISSION

Appropriates $564,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $596,000 as proposed by the House.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, UNITED STATES MARSHALS SERVICE

Appropriates $142,000,000 instead of $155,000,000 proposed by the House and $157,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides an additional $17,000,000 for the United States Marshals in title II of this joint resolution as part of the expanded Federal drug law enforcement program. Thus, the total amount available for the Marshals Service for FY 1987 is $159,000,000 and will provide funds for the activities of the Marshals Service as proposed by the Senate plus an additional $2,000,000 for the expanded drug law enforcement effort.

SUPPORT OF UNITED STATES PRISONERS

Appropriates $55,000,000 of which $5,000,000 is for the Cooperative Agreement Program instead of $58,000,000 of which $5,000,000 is for the Cooperative Agreement Program as proposed by the House and $57,000,000 of which $2,000,000 is for the Cooperative Agreement Program as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement also provides language which was not in either the House or Senate bills which would authorize the use of unobligated balances for liquidating an estimated deficiency of $1,900,000 in this account.

In addition to the $55,000,000 provided herein, an additional $5,000,000 is provided in title II of this joint resolution for this account as part of the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program. Thus a total of $60,000,000 is provided for the Support of United States Prisoners account for FY 1987.

FEES AND EXPENSES OF WITNESSES

Appropriates $52,187,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $46,000,000 as proposed by the House.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, COMMUNITY RELATIONS SERVICE

Appropriates $29,637,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $30,000,000 as proposed by the House.

ASSETS FORFEITURE FUND

Deletes the language proposed by both the House and the Senate for the management expenses and non-reimbursable expenditures that are authorized from the Assets Forfeiture Fund. The conference agreement includes language in title II of this joint resolution which authorizes such sums as are necessary for payment of the management expenses and non-reimbursable expenditures which are authorized from the Fund.

DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION

Provides language proposed by the Senate which requires that $140,000 of the appropriation for DEA be spent for eatablishment and operation of an office in Hilo, Hawaii. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

Provides, language which authorizes DEA to fund travel, transportation and subsistence costs of State and local law enforcement officers who attend drug law enforcement training courses at the FBI Academy, Quantico, Virginia. The House and the Senate bills did not contain any provision on this matter.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $7,500,000 and makes the funds available no later than July 1, 1987 upon submission of a reprogramming requests, in accordance with Sec. 607 of this Act, setting forth the specific use of such funds. The Senate proposed $15,000,000 for this item to be available upon submission of a report no later than July 1, 1987 concerning the specific use of such funds. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

It is the intent of the conferees the funding provided in this joint resolution for an all source intelligence center be used for relocation of the existing El Paso Intelligence Center (EPIC) to Fort Bliss, Texas in accordance with the design prepared by the Army Corps of Engineers for the Drug Enforcement Administration. Further, it is the intent of the conferees that the all source intelligence center proposed by the National Drug Enforcement Policy Board be incorporated into EPIC.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $593,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $605,000,000 as proposed by the House; provides for a limitation of $25,000 on overtime pay for INS employees as proposed by the Senate instead of $23,000 as proposed by the House; and provides language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate prohibiting INS from closing its Northern Regional Office at Fort Snelling, Minnesota.

The conference agreement also includes language making $3,385,000 previously appropriated for INS construction projects, available for liquidating a potential FY 1986 deficiency in this account. The House and Senate bills contained no provision on this matter.

FEDERAL PRISON SYSTEM

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $598,807,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $602,000,000 as proposed by the House. The conference agreement also includes $28,000,000 for the Salaries and Expenses account in title II of this joint resolution as part of the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program. Thus a total of $526,807,000 is available for this account for FY 1987.

The conference agreement includes $200,000 for Prison MATCH and similar programs which operate at the four Federal prisons that house female inmates. The conferees are agreed that none of these programs are entitled to these funds, that each program must submit an application and receive approval for such funds in accordance with Federal Prison System regulations, and that all programs should seek other sources of funding.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CORRECTIONS

Appropriates $9,000,000 instead of $11,000,000 as proposed by the House and $8,527,000 as proposed by the Senate. The $473,000 included in this conference agreement above the amount proposed by the Senate is allocated for training programs which together with the carryover balances approximating $2,000,000 from prior years should be sufficient to maintain NIC-sponsored training at the full level that was provided for FY 1986.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

Appropriates $122,511,000 instead of $129,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate. The conference agreement also provides $96,500,000 in title II for this account as part of the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program. Thus, a total of $219,011,000 is provided for this account for FY 1987 and includes funds for construction of five new Federal prisons.

OFFICE OF JUSTICE PROGRAMS

JUSTICE ASSISTANCE

Appropriates $190,650,000 instead of $210,000,000 as proposed by the House and $148,650,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, the conference agreement provides for a transfer of $3,500,000 of unused discretionary Juvenile Justice funds to the State and local assistance program. The House and Senate bills contained no provision on this matter.

The following table shows the amounts in the conference agreement, including application of carryover funds, for the Justice Assistance program:

Item	Conference agreement
Juvenile Justice	$70,282,000
RISS	9,900,000
(Carryover)	(2,100,000)
Mariel Cubans	5,000,000
Missing Children	4,000,000
State and Local Assistance	40,000,000
(Carryover)	(4,400,000)
National Institute of Justice	18,566,000
Bureau of Justice Statistics	16,002,000
(Carryover)	(2,980,000)
Public Safety Officers Benefits	9,910,000
(Carryover)	(740,000)
Emergency Assistance (Carryover)	(1,148,000)
Administrative	16,990,000
(Carryover)	(272,000)
Total Appropriations	190,650,000
Total Program level, including carryover	202,290,000

The conference agreement also provides language proposed by the Senate which places an obligation limitation of $64,000,000 on the Crime Victims Fund for FY 1987. The House bill contained no provision on this matter. In providing this limitation on obligations from the Fund, the conferees do not intend to break faith with the Congressional commitment to fund the Crime Victims program as authorized by the Victims of Crime Act or to establish a precedent which the Administration might use to propose future limitations on obligations from the Fund. Rather the conferees intend by this limitation merely to obtain an outlay credit of $2,466,000 in the scorekeeping process for FY 1987.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

SEC. 205. Provides a general provision which authorizes the Immigration and Naturalization Service to impose a $5.00 fee for immigration inspection of airline and vessel passengers. The provision exempts passengers whose journey originated in Canada, Mexico, a territory or possession of the U.S. or the Caribbean. The fees shall be placed in a special account in the general fund of the Treasury and shall be used to reimburse the INS appropriation for expenses incurred in carrying out certain inspection activities for commercial aircraft and vessels. At the end of each two-year period, beginning with the creation of this account, the Attorney General, following a public rulemaking, shall submit a report to the Congress concerning the status of the account, including any balances therein, and recommend any adjustment in the prescribed fee that may be required to ensure that the receipts collected from the fee charged for the succeeding two years equal, as closely as possible, the cost of providing these services. The Senate proposal was the same as the conference agreement except that the Attorney General would have been authorized to adjust the fee at the end of each two-year period. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The legislation requires that implementing regulations for the INS user fee be consistent with Customs Service regulations setting forth procedures for collection and remittance of the customs user fee. The Customs Service is currently reviewing comments on its interim rule which include requests by foreign carriers, especially charter airlines, for changes in the rule. It is the conferees' intent that INS rules be consistent with the final rule ultimately adopted by the Customs Service.

SEC. 206. Provides language proposed by the Senate which would release scheduled passenger airlines and vessels from the responsibility to assume custody or financial responsibility for aliens who arrive by plane or commercial vessel in the U.S. without proper documentation. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 207. Provides language proposed by the Senate which amends the Public Safety Officers Death Benefits Act to include coverage for members on public rescue squads or ambulance crews who were responding to a fire, rescue or police emergency. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 208. Provides that none of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this title may be available for the performance of any pre-inspection activities by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (1) at Shannon International Airport in Ireland or (2) at Gander Airport in Newfoundland. In addition, the conference agreement provides that the General Accounting Office shall conduct a comprehensive analysis of the trial pre-inspection program conducted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service at Shannon International Airport from July 1, 1986 to October 31, 1986, and shall issue a report to Congress by April 30, 1987. The report shall include an evaluation of the economic impact on American airports and of whether pre-inspection is a cost-effective means of facilitating international air travel and enhancing law enforcement. The conference agreement is similar to the Senate proposal on this matter in Amendment No. 75 except that the conference agreement excludes the Customs Service from the provision, limits the proviso to airports in Shannon, Ireland, and Gander, Newfoundland, and requires the General Accounting Office to conduct a comprehensive analysis of the INS trial pre-inspection program. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 209. Provides that none of the funds appropriated by this title shall be available to pay for an abortion, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or in the case of rape. The conference agreement also provides, that should this prohibition be declared unconstitutional by a court of competent jurisdiction, this section shall be null and void. The House had proposed language which was stricken by the Senate that would have prohibited funds in title II from being used to pay for an abortion or to provide facilities for the performance of an abortion, or for expenses of travel, staff escorts, or housing related to the procuring of an abortion.

SEC. 210. Provides language which prohibits the Director of the FBI and the Administrator of DEA from establishing and collecting fees to provide training to State and local law enforcement officers at the FBI National Academy. Any fees collected for training of State and local law enforcement officers, which occurred at the National Academy on or after October 1, 1986, shall be reimbursed to the appropriate official or agency. In addition, the Director of the National Institute of Corrections shall not establish and collect fees to provide training to State and local officers which was not provided on a reimbursable basis prior to October 1, 1986. The House and Senate bills contained no provisions on this matter.

TITLE III—DEPARTMENT OF STATE

ADMINISTRATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $1,527,000,000 instead of $1,675,000,000 as proposed by the House and $1,400,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $127,000,000 for continuing the Diplomatic Security initiative. These funds are allocated as follows:

Program	Amount
Residential Security	$45,000,000
Perimeter Security	38,800,000
Replacement of FSNs	14,000,000
Technical Security Countermeasures	10,100,000
Radio Support	5,000,000
Training	4,000,000
Counterterrorism & Law Enforcement System	3,200,000
Protection of Classified Office Equipment	2,800,000
Domestic Security	2,200,000
Shielded Enclosure Acceleration	1,900,000
Total	127,000,000

The conference agreement does not provide for any of the other program increases requested for the Salaries and Expenses account.

Deletes a separate appropriation proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate for reopening and operating certain consulates. The conference agreement includes funding for these consulates in the amount provided for in the "Salaries and Expenses" account.

REPRESENTATION ALLOWANCES

Appropriates $4,460,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,700,000 as proposed by the House.

PROTECTION OF FOREIGN MISSIONS AND OFFICIALS

Appropriates $9,100,000 instead of $9,500,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

ACQUISITION AND MAINTENANCE OF BUILDINGS ABROAD

Appropriates $440,000,000 of which $15,000,000 is to be available for expenditure on October 1, 1987 instead of $500,000,000 without any deferral of expenditures as proposed by the House and $273,000,000 without any deferral of expenditures as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement also includes language which provides that up to $1,000,000 in this account shall be available for transfer to the National Bureau of Standards for conducting an independent analysis of the U.S. embassy office building being constructed in Moscow. In addition, NBS will submit a report including this analysis, an assessment of the current structure, and recommendations and cost estimates for correcting any defects to the House and Senate by April 15, 1987. In addition, the Secretary of State beginning on February 1, 1987 will report to the House and Senate every six months on any failures of Soviet agencies to perform obligations to United States diplomats or missions and the actions taken by the State Department to redress these failures. The conference agreement is the same as language proposed by the Senate in Amendment No. 66 but deletes the following provisions proposed in that amendment:

1. Requiring NBS to use approximately cleared personnel to conduct the analysis;

2. Prohibiting the State Department from obligating any funds for construction of the Moscow embassy building until 30 days after receipt of the NBS report, except as necessary to preserve existing structures and to conduct necessary renovation options.

3. Required that obligations of funds for further construction of the embassy office building be subject to appropriate reprogramming procedures.

4. Prohibiting disbursement of funds to the Soviet Union or Soviet contractors for construction efforts associated with the new office building, including but not limited to, work performed until the Secretary submits to the Speaker and the Senate Appropriations and Foreign Relations Committees an assessment of the adequacy of such work and the extent of damages to the U.S.

5. Requiring the Office of Foreign Missions to submit to the Speaker and the Senate Appropriations and Foreign Relations Committees by April 15, 1987 a plan to establish essential parity in the numbers and types of buildings held by the U.S. in Moscow and the Soviet Union in Washington, D.C.

6. Prohibiting the State Department from sending contractor personnel to the Soviet Union prior to receiving appropriate security clearances.

7. Requiring the Secretary of State, on February 1, 1987 and every six months thereafter, to report to the Speaker and the Senate Appropriations and Foreign Relations Committees on the progress of construction in Moscow.

The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conferees agree that the National Bureau of Standards shall assemble a term of appropriately cleared personnel to undertake an independent analysis of the new United States embassy office building being constructed in Moscow and report directly to the Congress on their findings. The National Bureau of Standards shall make every effort to use only the minimum funds necessary to conduct this study and shall report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees if more than $500,000 is needed to complete this study. Obligation of remaining funds for construction of the new office building and disbursement of any additional funds to the Soviet Union or its entities for construction efforts associated with the new office building shall be subject to appropriate reprogramming procedures.

The funds in the conference agreement are allocated as follows:

Activity
Diplomatic Security Capital Program	[1] $227,000,000
Non-security related Capital Program	30,000,000
Leasehold payments	93,000,000
Functional Programs	22,000,000
Related Activities and Administration	86,000,000
Anticipated Proceeds of Sale	−4,000,000
Construction slippage	−14,000,000
Total appropriation	$440,000,000

[1] $15,000,000 deferred for expenditure until October 1, 1987.

The conference agreement of $227,000,000 for the Diplomatic Security Capital Program includes funding for the following projects:

Project Support	$6,638,000
Istanbul, Turkey	14,782,000
Lima, Peru	68,640,000
Bogota, Columbia	57,542,000
Pretoria, South Africa	33,298,000
Cario, Egypt	46,100,000

COUNTERTERRORISM RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Deletes $10,000,000 proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate for the counterterrorism research and development program.

EMERGENCIES IN THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE

Appropriates $4,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,400,000 as proposed by the House.

PAYMENT TO THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE IN TAIWAN

Appropriates $9,379,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $9,800,000 as proposed by the House.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND CONFERENCES

CONTRIBUTIONS TO INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Appropriates $385,000,000 of which $130,000,000 would be deferred for expenditure until October 1, 1987 as proposed by the Senate instead of $405,000,000 without any deferral as proposed by the House. In addition the conference agreement deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have provided that not less than $31,729,477 of the funds appropriated for this account shall be available only for payment of the U.S. contribution during FY 1987 to the Pan American Health Organization. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conferees are concerned that any across-the-board reduction or deferral in U.S. payments would have three times as severe an impact on the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) and other inter-American institutions. They are particularly concerned with respect to PAHO which has demonstrated technical excellence in health cooperation benefitting the United States and other Western Hemisphere countries and which has been responsive to U.S. financial concerns in limiting its budget and in reducing staff costs. The conferees therefore expect that the Department will take account of these factors in order to avoid a disproportionate impact on the operations of these organizations, particularly on those of PAHO, in any application of reductions and deferrals in the U.S. payment required under this legislation. The conferees expect that the Department will treat organizations, such as PAHO, which operate effectively and efficiently, in as reasonable and fair a manner as possible under current circumstances.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES AND CONTINGENCIES

Appropriates $5,460,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $5,750,000 as proposed by the House.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSIONS

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY AND WATER COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $10,800,000 instead of $11,000,000 as proposed by the House and $10,600,000 as proposed by the Senate.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $3,900,000 instead of $4,100,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES COMMISSIONS

Appropriates $10,800,000 instead of $11,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

OTHER

UNITED STATES BILATERAL SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY AGREEMENTS

Appropriates $1,900,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $2,000,000 as proposed by the House.

PAYMENT TO THE ASIA FOUNDATION

Appropriates $8,800,000 instead of $9,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

SOVIET-EAST EUROPEAN RESEARCH AND TRAINING

Appropriates $4,600,000 instead of $4,800,000 as proposed by the House and $4,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF STATE

SEC.

302. Provides language proposed by the Senate which would require the Secretary of State to report to appropriate Committees of Congress every 30 days from the date of enactment of this Act on the obligation of funds provided for diplomatic security and related expenses. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

TITLE IV—THE JUDICIARY

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

CARE OF THE BUILDING AND GROUNDS

Appropriates $2,279,000 instead of $2,400,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FEDERAL CIRCUIT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $6,800,000 instead of $7,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

UNITED STATES COURT OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $7,000,000 instead of $7,200,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

COURTS OF APPEALS, DISTRICT COURTS, AND OTHER JUDICIAL SERVICES

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates a total of $929,500,000 of which $105,000,000 is for salaries of judges and $824,500,000 is for other salaries and expenses, instead of a total of $949,000,000 of which $105,000,000 is for salaries of judges and $835,000,000 is for other salaries and expenses as proposed by the House and Senate. In addition the conference agreement deletes the earmarking of $7,500,000 from the bill language for contractual services and expenses relating to the supervision of drug dependent offenders as proposed by the House and Senate. The conference agreement also provides $12,000,000 for treatment of drug and alcohol dependent offenders in title II of the joint resolution. In addition, the conference agreement includes Sec. 405 under "General Provisions—The Judiciary" which will permit fees collected for the preparation of mailing of notices in bankruptcy cases to be credited to this appropriation to be used for salaries and other expenses incurred in providing these services. The FY 1987 estimate for these fees is $3,000,000.

The conference agreement provides sufficient funds within the "Salaries and Expenses" account for resident deputy clerk services in Worchester, Massachusetts and any contractual court reporting services that may be needed at that location.

The conference agreement provides for 240 additional positions above the FY 1986 level for probation and pretrial services (160 officers and 80 clerks), which also contemplates that these offices will continue to be staffed at 94 percent of the formula allowance adopted by the Judicial Conference. Staffing for clerks' and probation and pretrial services offices is funded at 60 percent. The 160 officer positions include 90 for probation and 70 for pretrial services and the additional clerical positions include 50 for probation and 30 for pretrial services.

The number of positions provided specifically for pretrial services are exclusively for districts with pretrial services organized outside probation. This earmarking of positions is essential if the Pretrial Services Act of 1982 is to be fully implemented. Almost four years have passed since the enactment of this Act and only about half of the eligible defendants are being screened in order to advise the Judicial officer at the bail hearing, according to a recent GAO report. Experience under the Act clearly demonstrates that the most pressing need for these additional pretrial services is in the Metropolitan districts (districts with a total of six or more judges authorized). These additional positions should be established in those districts. The conferees recognize that many of the non-Metropolitan districts may have a small criminal caseload and that it may be more feasible and economical to provide pretrial services through the probation office. In such districts the allocation of new probation officer positions may take into account the assumption of these duties by the probation office.

DEFENDER SERVICES

Appropriates $68,378,000 instead of $70,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $72,000,000 as proposed by the House. The conference agreement also provides $18,000,000 for Defender Services in title II of this joint resolution as part of the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program.

FEES OF JURORS AND COMMISSIONERS

Appropriates $44,635,000 instead of $47,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate. The conference agreement also provides $7,500,000 for Fees of Jurors and Commissioners in title II of this joint resolution as part of the enhanced Federal drug law enforcement program.

COURT SECURITY

Appropriates $36,000,000 instead of $36,500,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES COURTS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $29,500,000 instead of $30,000,000 as proposed by the House and $29,800,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FEDERAL JUDICIAL CENTER

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $9,600,000 as proposed by the House instead of $9,702,000 as provided by the Senate.

BICENTENNIAL EXPENSES, THE JUDICIARY

BICENTENNIAL ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $1,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,500,000 as proposed by the House.

UNITED STATES SENTENCING COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $5,800,000 instead of $6,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—THE JUDICIARY

SEC. 405. Provides language which authorizes fees collected for the preparation and mailing of notices in bankruptcy cases to be deposited in the "Courts of Appeals, District Courts, and Other Judicial Services, Salaries and Expenses" account for use for salaries and other expenses incurred in providing these services. Neither the House nor the Senate bills contained any provision on this matter.

SEC. 406. Provides language proposed by the Senate to permit Federal judges to receive the increase in pay which will take effect under title 5 U.S.C. 5305 for Federal employees during FY 1987. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 407. Provides language increasing the filing fee for a civil lawsuit in U.S. district courts from $60 to $120 and the filing fee for a bankruptcy petition under chapter 7 and chapter 13 from $60 to $90 and requires funds paid to the U.S. district courts resulting from the increase in the filing fee to be available to offset funds appropriated for the operation and maintenance of United States courts as provided in annual appropriation Acts. The conference agreement is identical to the Senate proposal on this matter except that the Senate had proposed to increase the filing fee in bankruptcy cases from $60 to $80 and to require the funds paid to the U.S. bankruptcy courts resulting from the increase in the filing fee to be available to offset funds appropriated for operation and maintenance of the bankruptcy courts.

The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

TITLE V—RELATED AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

OPERATIONS AND TRAINING

Appropriates $64,000,000, as proposed by the House instead of $64,370,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that any disruptions in staffing levels caused by the $64,000,000 funding level are to be absorbed within the Office of the Administrator of the Maritime Administration.

ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY

ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $29,000,000 instead of $30,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

BOARD FOR INTERNATIONAL BROADCASTING

GRANTS AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $140,000,000 of which $15,000,000 shall become available for expenditure on October 1, 1987 instead of $140,000,000 without deferral as proposed by the House and $125,000,000 without deferral as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are agreed that the $15,000,000 deferred is for the modernization program. The remaining $125,000,000 is for the regular salaries and other expense items.

COMMISSION ON THE BICENTENNIAL OF THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $13,200,000 of which $3,700,000 is to carry out the provisions of Public Law 99-194, including $2,700,000 for implementation of the National Bicentennial Competition on the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, an education program for elementary and secondary schools administered by the Center for Civic Education and $1,000,000 for educational programs about the Constitution and the Bill of Rights below the university level as authorized by such Act.

The House had proposed $13,000,000 and the Senate had proposed $13,400,000, each without any earmarking of funds.

The conferees encourage the Commission to support the We The People 200 Committee's plans for commemorating the Constitution's bicentennial in Philadelphia.

COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $7,500,000 earmarks $2,000,000 for regional offices and $700,000 for civil rights monitoring and imposes certain restrictions on the activities of the Commission. The following table shows the House and Senate proposals and the conference agreement:

House	Senate	Conference
$11.8 million Language permitting the funds to be used only for costs associated with closing down the Commission by December 31, 1986 and providing certain reemployment rights for career employees.	$6 million Lanuage which (1) prohibits employment of consultants, temporary or special needs employees and more than 10 Schedule C's; (2) restricts the number of billable days for the Commissioners and their assistants' and (3) restricts contractual services.	$7.5 million Language earmarking $2 million for regional offices and $700 thousand for monitoring activities. Restrictions which provide: No more than $20,000 for consultants; No more than $185,000 for temporary or special needs appointees; No more than 4 Schedule C employees, exclusive of one Special Assistant for each Commissioner; Special Assistants for Commissioners shall not be compensated in excess of a level 11 salary nor shall such Assistants be allowed in excess of 150 billable days; No more than $40,000 for contracts for performance of mission-related research; and Commissioners shall not be compensated for more than 75 billable days with the exception of the chairman who is permitted 125 billable days.

The conferees are agreed that sufficient funds are included within the total amount provided for the Commission to meet all severance pay requirements for FY 1987.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

Appropriates $165,000,000 including not to exceed $20,000,000 for payments to State and local enforcement agencies instead of $167,700,000 and not to exceed $21,150,000 for payments to such agencies as proposed by the House and $165,000,000 and not to exceed $21,150,000 for such payments as proposed by the Senate.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $95,000,000 and provides language which (1) permits the FCC to recover the costs of implementing fees authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1985; (2) prohibits a reduction in the number of VHF channel assignments for noncommercial educational television stations; and (3) requires the FCC to consider alternative means of administering and enforcing the Fairness Doctrine and report to Congress by September 30, 1987. The House had proposed $96,300,000 without any of these language provisions. The Senate has proposed $95,000,000 with the first two language provisions contained in the conference agreement and a third provision which would have required the FCC to reconsider its inquiry into the Fairness Doctrine in order to consider alternative means of administering and encorcing this matter and to submit this inquiry as a report to the Congress by September 30, 1987.

It is the intent of the conferees that the Federal Communications Commission shall not change the regulation concerning the Fairness Doctrine without submitting the required report to Congress on this matter.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $11,600,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $11,400,000 as proposed by the House.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $65,000,000 instead of $67,500,000 as proposed by the House and $66,500,000 as proposed by the Senate and adds a proviso requiring the FTC to submit a report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees and the House and Senate Commerce Committees containing certain information on predatory pricing. The conference agreement on this matter is identical to the Senate language in Amendment No. 89 with the addition of the reporting requirement to the Appropriations Committees. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $33,900,000 instead of $34,100,000 as proposed by the House and $33,700,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement will provide for 20 positions and 10 staff years above the budget request to enable the ITC to handle its growing caseload.

JAPAN-UNITED STATES FRIENDSHIP COMMISSION

JAPAN-UNITED STATES FRIENDSHIP TRUST FUND

Appropriates $1,408,000 instead of $1,483,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

PAYMENT TO THE LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which would have provided that all of the limitations applicable to the Corporation in FY 1986 continue to apply until changes are approved in legislation passed by the House or are enacted in an FY 1987 authorization for the Corporation; provides all of the language proposed by the Senate restricting certain activities of the Corporation, providing a legistative funding formula, providing for reductions in the event of sequestration, and redistribution of funds; and provides language earmarking funding levels for each of the Corporation's program activities as follows:

Basic field programs	$261,293,672
Native American programs	7,022,000
Migrant programs	9,698,000
Program development, including law school clinics	1,339,800
Supplemental field programs	1,000,000
Regional training centers	623,964
Training development and technical assistance	376,036
National support	7,528,218
State support	7,842,866
Clearinghouse	865,000
CALR grants	510,444
Corporation management and administration (Carryover)	(3,300,000)
Total	305,500,000

The Senate had proposed $262,993,672 for Basic Field Programs and $5,700,000 for Corporation Management and Administration. The conferees intend that a total of $10,700,000 be available for Corporation Management and Administration of which $3,300,000 shall be derived from unobligated balances carried over from previous fiscal years.

The conferees are concerned that the Corporation has recently without any prior notice or hiring, disapproved a subgrant to the American Association of Retired Persons, who were using retired lawyers to provide legal assistance to the poor. The conferees are advised that this action was taken without the knowledge of the Chairman of the Board of the Corporation and that it would eliminate a cost-effective legal assistance program previously strongly supported by members of the Board. The conferees, therefore, direct that the Legal Services Corporation shall not disapprove a subgrant until the subrecipient has been accorded the same rights accorded to a recipient under section 1006 of the Legal Services Corporation regulation when the subrecipient has previously received funding under the Corporation-approved subgrant.

The conferees are agreed that the statutory language permitting reallocation of national support center funding in the event of Corporation action to defund or deny refunding to a center is intended to apply to funding cutoffs for cause and does not undercut the rejection of the Corporation's policy decision to defund all national support centers as a class.

The conferees direct the Corporation to submit a reprogramming for any reallocation of funds within its Management and Administration account which would reduce funding for Monitoring, Audit, and Compliance in the Office of Field Services below the FY 1986 level.

MARINE MAMMAL COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $900,000 instead of $860,000 as proposed by the House and $960,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $13,300,000 instead of $14,060,000 as proposed by the House and $112,216,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that the $1,094,000 provided above the budget request will be allocated to reducing the lapse rate for permanent positions and providing for additional contract services and other support costs.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $110,500,000 instead of $111,100,000 as proposed by the House and $100,050,000 as proposed by the Senate; provides a limitation of $3,000 on representation expenses as proposed by the Senate instead of a limitation of $2,000 on such expenses as proposed by the House; and provides language proposed by the Senate authorizing up to $10,000 for funding a permanent secretariat for the International Association of Securities Commissioners. The House bill contained no provision on the last item.

The conferees intend that the $450,000 provided above the budget request is for reducing the lapse rate for authorized positions of the Commission.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $162,000,000 for the regular expenses of the Salaries and Expenses account of the Small Business Administration instead of $165,000,000 as proposed by the House and $161,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $35,000,000 for Small Business Development Centers as proposed by the House instead of $33,500,000 as proposed by the Senate and provides Senate language originally proposed in Amendment No. 84 which authorizes the Small Business Administration to recognize costs incurred before December 16, 1980 by a small business development center at the University of Georgia as allowable costs chargeable to a FY 1981 cooperative agreement, provided such costs were incurred after October 1, 1979 and have not been reimbursed from non-Federal sources. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The following table shows the amounts in the conference agreement for the programs funded in the Salaries and Expenses appropriation:

Program	Amount
Procurement Assistance	$15,277,000
PASS	(1,053,000)
Management Assistance	54,285,000
SBDC	(35,000,000)
SBI	(2,871,000)
Finance and Investment	54,025,000
Innovation, Research, and Technology	1,126,000
Minority Small Business/COD	22,422,000
7(j)	(9,570,000)
Advocacy	4,743,000
Data Base and Research	(1,988,000)
International Trade	884,000
Women's Business Ownership	899,000
Private Sector Initiative	305,000
Veterans Affairs	1,233,000
VA Outreach	(700,000)
National Advisory Council	211,000
General Counsel	13,134,000
Inspector General	6,291,000
Hearings and Appeals	944,000
Comptroller	6,193,000
Equal Employment Opportunity	1,776,000
Information Resource	14,130,000
Management Services	34,984,000
Program Analysis and Review	1,145,000
Personnel	3,201,000
Public Communication	890,000
Congressional and Legislative Affairs	546,000
Executive Direction and Field Administration	30,356,000
Subtotal regular	269,000,000
Disaster Assistance	20,000,000
Total	289,000,000

The managers are recommending $15,277,000 for SBA's procurement assistance programs. This figure represents an increase of $1,989,000 over last year's level in order to provide additional funds required for the full implementation of the Breakout Procurement Center Representative (BPCR) Program, as defined in Public Law 98-577. The conferees reiterate the direction to SBA to implement a pilot Systems Procurement Center Representative (SPCR) Program, as described in Senate Report 99-150. A successful SPCR program could significantly expand subcontracting opportunities for small business concerns, especially within major systems being developed by the Department of Defense. Subcontracting opportunities hold the greatest promise for substantially expanding small business participation in the Federal procurement market. The conferees also note with approval SBA's on-going efforts to improve and broaden the Procurement Automated Source System (PASS), in conjunction with both the Federal procuring agencies (through the Procurement Automation Council sponsored by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy) to expand direct contracting opportunities and major contractors to expand subcontracting opportunities.

BUSINESS LOAN AND INVESTMENT FUND

Appropriates $164,000,000 in additional capital for the Business Loan and Investment Fund instead of $181,000,000 as proposed by the House and $176,000,000 for additional capital for new direct loan obligations to be incurred by the Business Loan and Investment Fund as proposed by the House instead of $91,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The following table shows the amounts in the conference agreement for the direct loan and loan guarantee programs of the Small Business Administration:

Conference Agreement

[In millions of dollars]

General business loans:
Direct
Guaranteed	$2,473
Handicapped loans:

SURETY BOND GUARANTEES REVOLVING FUND

Appropriates $9,497,000 for additional capital for the Fund instead of $10,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

POLLUTION CONTROL EQUIPMENT CONTRACT GUARANTEE REVOLVING FUND

Appropriates $14,245,000 for additional capital for the Fund instead of $15,000,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

STATE JUSTICE INSTITUTE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $7,200,000 to remain available until expended instead of $7,600,000 of which $7,100,000 was to remain available until expended as proposed by the House and $7,000,000 was to remain available until expended as proposed by the Senate.

UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $570,000,000 instead of $594,500,000 as proposed by the House and $560,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Provides a limitation of not to exceed $2,750,000 for the expenses of the Office of Inspector General as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conferees are agreed that the United States Information Agency should submit a reprogramming request to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees as soon as practicable in order to distribute the reduction from the budget request contained in the conference agreement.

EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Appropriates $145,000,000 of which $25,000,000 will be available for expenditure on October 1, 1987 as proposed by the Senate instead of $152,000,000 without any deferral of expenditures as proposed by the House.

The following table shows the House and Senate levels and the conference agreement for the various exchange programs:

Item	House	Senate	Conference
Fulbright, Humphrey and other core exchanges	$141,754,000	$133,000,000	$132,270,000
Private Sector Exchanges	10,246,000	9,000,000	9,730,000
CAMPUS Program		3,000,000	3,000,000
Total	152,000,000	[1] 145,000,000	[2] 145,000,000

[1] $25,000,000 would be available on October 1, 1987.
[2] $24,270,000 of funds for the core exchange programs and $730,000 for Private Sector exchanges are deferred until October 1, 1987.

With respect to the CAMPUS Program, the conferees intend that the Agency may obligate funds in the Salaries and Expenses account for recruiting a second group of students for two years of study in the United States. However, the conferees are agreed that the agency must submit the final evaluation of the initial two-year pilot program and a reprogramming request in accordance with Sec. 607 of this Act and receive approval of that proposal from the House and Senate Appropriations Committees before any of the $3,000,000 provided in the conference agreement for the CAMPUS program may be obligated.

The conference agreement provides language proposed by the Senate which waives Sec. 209 of Public Law 99-93. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

RADIO CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $46,000,000 to be available for expenditure October 1, 1987, of which not to exceed $12,000,000 shall be available for construction of facilities for Radio in the American Sector. The House had proposed $55,000,000 of which not to exceed $12,000,000 was for construction of these facilities. The Senate had proposed no funding for this item.

The conferees continue to note the substantial magnitude of the Voice of America facilities modernization program, which is expected to exceed $1,300,000,000 over several years. Therefore, the conferees reiterate their position that the USIA and the Voice of America should pursue agressively all relevant information relating to the availability of transmitters and antennas, spare parts and other technical equipment to determine whether such items can be procured at reasonable prices and in a timely manner under all foreseeable circumstances and to purchase American-manufactured equipment and materials to the fullest extent reasonably possible under the law in carrying out the facilities modernization program. In this regard, whenever a planned acquisition for the modernization program is expected to result in a contract award in excess of $2,500,000, the conferees direct that the House and Senate Appropriations Committees be notified as far in advance as practicable and, further, they that be provided; (a) a summary of the nature of the planned acquisition, (b) the anticipated delivery or implementation schedule, (c) the projected dates for soliciting proposals and making contract awards, (d) the prospective contractors to whom the solicitation will be provided, and (e) the criteria by which offers will be evaluated and upon which contract awards will be based.

RADIO BROADCASTING TO CUBA

Appropriates $11,250,000 instead of $11,500,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR DEMOCRACY

Appropriates $15,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $17,500,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees have been impressed by the effectiveness of discretionary grants made of the endowment. Therefore, the conferees direct that not less than 25 percent of program funds be available for discretionary grants not related to the traditional core grantees. The conferees have not included the fiscal year 1986 restriction that no grantee receive more than 25 percent of available funds.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION—UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY

Provides language proposed by the Senate which waives certain mandated earmarkings and funding floors in sections 203, 204, 205, and 210(c) of Public Law 99-93. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 606. Provides language proposed by the Senate which prohibits any of the funds in the Act for the legal Services Corporation from being used for any litigation concerning abortion except to save the life of the mother if the fetus were carried to term. The House provision on this matter would have prohibited any of the funds in the Act for the Legal Services Corporation from being used for any litigation concerning abortion.

SEC. 607. General Reduction. Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which would have reduced each discretionary appropriation in the act by 5.03% except for the FBI and DEA.

REPROGRAMMING PROCEDURES

Provides language proposed by the Senate concerning the reprogramming of funds within the appropriations contained in the Act. This language is identical to the provisions on this matter which were contained in the Fiscal Year 1986 Appropriations Act. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 608. Deleted language proposed by the Senate which would have provided that Sec. 608 of H.R. 5161 as reported to the Senate shall have no force or effect, and deletes Sec. 608 from the Act. The House bill contained no provision on this matter. Sec. 608 proposed the transfer of jurisdiction over airline industry mergers from the Department of Transportation to the Department of Justice.

Provides language proposed by the Senate originally in Amendment No. 105 which amends chapter 11 of title 11 of the Bankruptcy Code to require that retired former employees under a medical or hospital insurance plan established by a debtor prior to filing a bankruptcy petition shall be paid benefits under such plan until May 15, 1987. The language also provides that this section will be effective in chapter 11 cases in which a reorganization plan has not been confirmed by a court and in which such benefits are being paid on October 2, 1986, and in cases that become subject to chapter 11 after October 2, 1986. In addition the language provides that this section shall not apply during any period in which a case is subject to chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

SEC. 609. Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have provided that Sec. 609 of H.R. 5161 as reported to the Senate shall be deemed to be stricken, and deletes Sec. 609 from the Act. The House bill contained no provision on this matter. Sec. 609 would have given the consent of Congress to the California-Nevada Interstate Compact.

TITLE VII—CHILD ABUSE VICTIMS' RIGHTS ACT OF 1986

Provides language which authorizes the Child Abuse Victims' Rights Act of 1986. The conference agreement is identical to the language proposed by the Senate on this matter except that it omits the section which would have amended the RICO statute, and changes the provision authorizing treble damages to actual damages. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

TITLE VIII—JAMES MADISON MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

Provides language which authorizes the James Madison Memorial Fellowship Program; appropriates $20,000,000 to implement the program of which $10,000,000 would be available on November 1, 1987 and $10,000,000 which would be available on November 1, 1988; provides a payback provision; and provides an authorization and appropriation for backup information for the James Madison scholars and others whose interest in and appreciation of the Constitution is important. The Senate had proposed an authorization for the James Madison Scholarship Program and an appropriation of $20,000,000 to be available on October 1, 1987. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 3: Section 101(c) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5438, as reported to the House of Representatives on August 14, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in S. 2827, as reported to the Senate on September 17, 1986, with certain additional provisions and exceptions provided for in the joint resolution.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-793 and Senate Report 99-446 should be complied with unless specifically addressed in this joint resolution and statement of the managers to the contrary. The Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution, incorporates the following agreements of the managers.

TITLE I—MILITARY PERSONNEL

The conferees agree to the following amounts for the Military Personnel accounts:

[In thousands of dollars]

SUMMARY	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
Military Personnel:
Army	22,655,000	22,270,626	22,358,742	22,353,990
Navy	17,459,500	17,056,104	17,035,461	17,104,850
Marine Corps	5,333,400	5,245,086	5,225,361	5,266,053
Air Force	19,290,500	18,810,225	18,957,861	18,940,731
Reserve Personnel:
Army	2,432,000	2,330,830	2,322,529	2,323,210
Navy	1,527,600	1,436,680	1,470,066	1,464,453
Marine Corps	314,800	300,100	309,344	303,968
Air Force	646,000	628,977	633,715	629,200

[In thousands of dollars]

SUMMARY	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
National Guard Personnel
Army	3,485,200	3,303,174	3,335,461	3,323,145
Air Force	1,058,900	1,022,310	1,030,258	1,027,778
Total, military personnel	74,202,900	72,404,112	72,678,798	72,737,378

The following items represent language as agreed to by the conferees:

MILITARY AND CIVILIAN PAY RAISES

The conferees agree to a general provision which provides $1,911,000,000 to fund 3 percent military and 3 percent civilian pay raises, effective January 1, 1987. These funds should be applied proportionately as required for the military and civilian pay raises within the accounts affected. To the extent that additional sums are required for these pay increases, the conferees direct that such amounts be accommodated within existing funds.

ENHANCED METHOD FOR DETERMINING TRUE COSTS OF MILITARY RETIREMENT

The conferees agree to include a general provision that will enhance the method for determining true costs of militay retirement. This provision reflects action taken by the Senate on August 9, 1986, with the passage of S. 2638, authorizing fiscal year 1987 appropriations for the Department of Defense.

The conferees agree that a change in payments to the military retirement fund based on separate retired pay accrual calculations for active and reserve personnel will result in savings of approximately $575,000,000. However, the fiscal year 1987 budget request assumed that the Military Retirement Reform Act of 1986 would be effective on October 1, 1985. Due to the fact that this Act was not effective until August 1, 1986, fewer people than budgeted will be under the new retirement system in 1987, causing savings to be approximately $225,000,000 less than budgeted. Accordingly, the conferees have agreed to a net reduction of $350,000,000 based on this enhancement to the method used in determining the true cost of military retirement in fiscal year 1987.

ACTIVE DUTY END STRENGTHS

The conferees agree to a reduction of $106,843,000 from amounts requested in fiscal year 1987 for active duty end strength increases, providing appropriations which accommodate the following active duty manning levels:

	Fiscal year 1986 enacted	Fiscal year 1987
		Budget request	House authorization	Senate authorization	Appropriated level
Army	780,800	780,900	780,800	780,800	780,800
Navy	581,300	592,700	583,300	587,000	587,000
Marine Corps	198,800	200,300	198,800	199,600	199,600
Air Force	606,470	607,200	606,470	606,850	606,470
Total	2,167,370	2,181,100	2,169,370	2,174,250	2,173,870

ENLISTED PAY AND ALLOWANCES/WORKYEARS

The conferees agree to a reduction of $108,350,000 from fiscal year 1987 funding requested for active duty enlisted pay and allowances, providing adequate workyear flexibility to meet the end strength levels displayed above.

OFFICER PAY AND ALLOWANCES/WORKYEAR

Significant reductions in the Department of Defense officer corps are recommended in the pending fiscal year 1987 Defense authorization bill. Accordingly, although the conferees have not included legislative language mandating specific decreases in the number of officers, they agree to a reduction of $77,200,000 in fiscal year 1987 funding for officer pay and allowances. This reduction is to be applied by the services to the officer pay and allowance accounts as deemed appropriate, either through a decrease in the total number of officers or through policy or program execution revisions.

PERMANENT CHANGE OF STATION TRAVEL

The conferees agree to the following adjustments to the Department of Defense permanent change of station (PSC) travel budget request:

Cost-saving initiative	−$186,000,000
Household goods weight allowances	−97,500,000
Temporary lodging expenses in CONUS	−92,664,000
Increased dependency rates	+30,000,000
Total	−346,164,000

In accordance with the adjustments listed above, the conferees agree to total funding of $2,456,389,000 for PCS travel for fiscal year 1987. In addition, the conferees have agreed to a general provision which places a ceiling of $2,506,389,000 on funds to be obligated by the Department of Defense for permanent change of station travel in fiscal year 1987. This ceiling provides limited latitude above the appropriated level, to accommodate any inceased requirements due to foreign currency fluctuation and also provides adequate flexibility to conform with the conference agreement regarding payment of temporary lodging expenses for junior enlisted members discussed below. The conferees will consider prior approval reprogramming action within this PCS ceiling only for these purposes.

The conferees agree with the concerns of the Senate regarding the low level of execution for the temporary lodging expense (TLE) program in the continental United States, and the pending program revisions. However, the conferees are aware of the adverse financial impact that cancellation of this program could have on junior enlisted service members and their families. Accordingly, the conferees have agreed to a general provision which would limit payment of temporary lodging expenses in the continental United States to enlisted members in grades E-1 through E-4 serving in a with-dependents status. The conferees understand this limited use of the TLE will require a modest funding level, which may be accommodated within existing resources, or, if required, submitted in the form of a prior approval reprogramming within the limitations of the total PSC ceiling.

The conferees fully support efforts by the Department and the services to control PSC costs through policy changes, including increased tour lengths. The conferees are convinced that the $186,000,000 reduction associates with such policy revisions in fiscal year 1987 is achievable and directs that the Department continue to evaluate and implement additional policy related cost-saving initiatives in fiscal years 1988 and 1989.

SELECTIVE REENLISTMENT BONUSES

The conferees agree to a reduction of $238,790,000 in the fiscal year 1987 Department of Defense request for selective reenlistment bonuses.

Of this reduction, 171,600,000 is associates with the prohibition on the payment of more than 50 percent of such a bonus in a lump sum.

MILITARY PERSONNEL, ARMY

The conferees agree to provide $22,353,990,000 instead of $22,270,626,000 as recommended by the House and $22,358,742,000 as recommended by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

GUARD/RESERVE FORCES

The conferees agree to a reduction of $228,058,000 from amounts requested for Guard and Reserve end strengths. Of the total reduction, $145,158,000 is to be applied to the requested increases for full-time reservists and $82,900,000 to the selected reserve. Although making a minor reduction to the nearly $5,000,000,000 requested for training of drilling reservists, the conferees anticipate the Department will be able to attain the budgeted end strength levels. The civilian technician and full-time reserve end strengths portrayed below are the basis for the technician floor and full-time reserve ceiling included in the general provisions.

The following table summarizes end strength levels agreed to by the Committee of Conference:

FISCAL YEAR 1987 GUARD/RESERVE END STRENGTHS

[Dollars in thousands]

	Budget estimate	Conference
Drilling Reserve:
Army Reserve	$313,943	$313,943

INDIVIDUAL READY RESERVE SCREENING

The conferees have included a total of $15,250,000 for the Individual Ready Reserve Mobilization Test instead of no funding as proposed by the House and $61,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. A distribution of the funds requested and recommended by account follows:

[Dollars in thousands]

Account	Budget estimate	Conference
Reserve Personnel:
Army	$38,000	$8,000
Navy	10,000	2,375
Marine Corps	7,000	1,625
Air Force	6,000	1,250
Operation and Maintenance:
Army Reserve		1,500
Navy Reserve		125
Marine Corps Reserve		125
Air Force Reserve		250
Total	61,000	15,250

By service, the conferees' recommendation amounts to 25 percent of the budget request. In view of the difficult budget climate, the conferees are recommending a go-slow approach to this new initiative. Rather than recommend a specific methodology for the Department to follow with the reduced funding level, the conferees have provided the program's managers the flexibility to redesign the IRR screening for fiscal year 1987. The Committees on Appropriations will carefully review the program execution decisions made by the Department for the 1987 program during hearings on the fiscal year 1988 budget submission.

The conferees note that in addition to the $15,250,000 available for IRR screening, in 1987 the Department will have more than $117,000,000 available for other mobilization training. Such training, including several categories of short duration active duty, is designed to ensure that IRR personnel have their skills developed and maintained to meet mobilization requirements. These resources should be sufficient to meet all high priority requirements.

Finally, the conferees believe that by increasing the awareness of active duty military personnel concerning the legal and other obligations of members of the Individual Ready Reserve, increased mobilization readiness could be achieved at small cost. Too many military personnel believe their obligation to the military is over when they are discharged from active duty. Such an educational campaign is especially important with the increase in the enlisted contractual period from 6 to 8 years. The conferees urge the Department to initiate appropriate changes in this regard and report to the Committees on Appropriations by March 1, 1987, on the actions taken.

INCAPACITATION PAY

Pending implementation of proposed revisions in incapacitation pay for Guard and Reserve personnel, the conferees agree to restore the Senate reduction of $10,800,000.

RESERVE PERSONNEL, ARMY

The conferees agree to provide $2,323,210,000 instead of $2,330,830,000 as proposed by the House and $2,322,529,000 as proposed by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

MILITARY PERSONNEL SUPPORT

RECRUITING AND ADVERTISING

The conferees have agreed to a total reduction of $59,400,000 in the Operation and Maintenance accounts that fund recruiting and advertising programs. The following chart displays the reductions.

ACTIVE/RESERVE COMPONENT RECRUITING RESOURCES

[Dollars in millions]

	Fiscal year 1987 request	Reductions for—		Conference recommendation
		Growth	Mix test
Army	$531.3	−$6.1	−$18.8	$506.4
Navy	303.2	−12.5	−2.4	288.3
Marine Corps	176.9	−1.5	−2.0	173.4
Air Force	153.9	−1.6	−1.5	150.8

Joint Programs	113.5	−5.9	+1.0	108.6
Total	1,755.1	−35.7	−23.7	1,695.7

The conferees agree with the House position that the Department should inform the Committees when funding levels by Service or in total, change from those shown on the chart above.

While the conferees have agreed to the recommended fiscal year 1987 adjustments related to the Department of Defense (DoD) advertising mix test, they understand the Department intends to appoint a third party to conduct an independent assessment of the DoD Advertising Mix Test and plans to address the issue again after the reevaluation is concluded. Accordingly, the conferees direct DoD to keep the Committees informed of developments in this area, and report the findings of the independent assessment of DoD Advertising Mix Test, together with the Department's recommendations, as soon as they become available.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT EDUCATION

The Senate reduced funding for Department of Defense professional development education programs by $28,454,000 from the requested level. The conferees agree to a reduction of $17,447,000, and direct that with regard to the Navy, this reduction shall not be applied to training programs in the area of operational logistics.

RELOCATION ASSISTANCE TEST

The conferees agree that within funds available, not more than $2,500,000 shall be available for the Secretary of Defense to conduct a contract relocation assistance test to support members of the armed forces and their dependents undergoing a permanent change of station.

The conferees direct the relocation assistance test be structured as defined in House Report 99-718, National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1987. The conferees request they be kept informed on the formulation, contracting and implementation of the test.

The conferees further direct the Department to budget for the cost of continuing this test program in the fiscal year 1988 budget request.

TITLE II—OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

The conferees agree to the following amounts for the Operation and Maintenance accounts:

[In thousands of dollars]

	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
Operation and maintenance:
Army	21,341,870	19,774,531	20,026,759	20,022,399

Total, title II, Operations and Maintenance: New budget (obligational) authority	85,773,000	78,109,862	77,923,000	78,050,372

The following items represent agreements of the conferees:

AUTHORIZATION COMPLIANCE

The amounts recommended by the conferees for each Operation and Maintenance appropriation account are at or below the authorized level of those accounts. The conferees provide funds to several high priority readiness items at levels above the amount contained in the reports accompanying both the House and Senate passed FY 1987 Defense Authorization Acts. The conferees were able to fund these readiness initatives by offsetting them with reductions against lower priority or overbudgeted programs as by fully applying pricing adjustments, such as fuel savings or excess industrial fund profits. The conferees believes that these adjustments comply with the intent of the Authorization Act to adequately fund the higher priority readiness programs. Additionally, the conferees were able to reach total authorization levels without applying several real growth reductions to programs as recommended "without prejudice" in the House Authorization. The conferees did not fully apply to these reductions because they resulted in a double-dip of reduction made in the Appropriations Act.

STOCK FUND FUEL REFUND

The conferees agree to a total refund of $2,839,758,000 from the various Service Stock Funds to the operation and maintenance accounts to reflect the lower than budgeted cost of fuel to the Stock funds. This reduction assumes refunds from the Service Stock Funds as follows:

Defense Stock Fund	$2,629,662,000
24Army Stock Fund	37,700,000
24Navy Stock Fund	73,300,000
Air Force Stock Fund	99,096,000
Total	2,839,758,000

The Department is directed to use these amounts as a guideline for refunding Stock Funds; however, this does not preclude adjustments required during program execution as determined by the Office of the Secretary of Defense

INDUSTRIAL FUND PROFITS

The conferees agree to a total refund of $1,035,400,000 from the Service Industrial Funds as a result of excess profits and overbudgeting for inflation. The Senate had believed it was not appropriate to make inflation reductions in both the O&M accounts and the industrial funds, but was informed by the Department of Defense that such reductions are appropriate. Of these amounts, $960,400,000 is to be refunded to the various operation and maintenance customer accounts. The conferees also agree that $75,000,000 of this refund is to be passed through to the O&M, Army account for depot maintenance, as recommended by the House.

The reduction assumes refunds from the Industrial Funds as follows:

Army Industrial Fund	$107,400,000
Navy Industrial Fund	844,000,000
Air Force Industrial Fund	64,000,000
Defense Industrial Fund	20,000,000
Total	1,035,400,000

The Department is directed to use these amounts as a guideline for refunding from the Industrial Funds; however, this does not preclude adjustments required during program execution as determined by the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

Finally, the conferees consider the conversion of activities and functions from an appropriated fund status to an industrial fund status to be a matter of special interest to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate. Accordingly, the Committee directs that the Department of Defense not convert appropriated fund activities or functions to industrial fund operations without the prior approval of the Committees. Except in the most unusual circumstances, the conferees do not expect that it will be essential to approve the conversion of appropriated fund activities or functions (to industrial fund operations) outside of the normal budget review process.

Thus, the conferees expect that the Department of Defense will not request that appropriated fund activities be converted to industrial operations unless such conversions have been provided for sufficiently in advance so as to permit applicable budgetary resources to be realigned in the budget review process and to provide for proper oversight by the Committees.

MILITARY AND CIVILIAN PAY RAISES

The conferees agree to a general provision which provides $1,911,000,000 to fund 3 percent military and 3 percent civilian pay raises, effective January 1, 1987. These funds should be applied proportionately as required for the military and civilian pay raises within the accounts affected. To the extent that additional sums are required for these pay increases, the conferees direct that such amounts be accommodated within existing funds.

CIVILIAN PAY/FOREIGN NATIONAL COMPENSATION

The conferees agree to a total reduction of $400,000,000 for civilian pay and foreign national compensation. The conferees agree this reduction will result, in part, from the implementation of civilian work year limitations overseas, discussed below. The remaining reduction should occur due to effeciencies experienced as the Services more effectively manage their civilian manpower programs during fiscal year 1987.

CIVILIAN PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

The House included a general provision which does not allow the Department of Defense (DoD) to manage on the basis of end strength in 1987. The Senate proposed a general provision that placed a cap on both end strength and workyears for DoD in 1987. The provision also required contractor workyears and end strength to be included within ceilings if the work is contracted out after enactment of the 1987 appropriation. The Senate expressed concern that Defense Department civilian personnel levels have increased over 37,000 workyears since ceilings were removed by Congress in 1985 (a level exceeding the entire Department of Commerce workforce). The Senate expressed further concern that the Department annually exceeds its personnel plan. In 1986 it is estimated the Department will exceed its planned workforce by 10,000 workyears, a level that exceeds increases requested for 1987 by 7,000 workyears.

The conferees agree to exempt the Department of Defense (DoD) workforce in the United States from ceilings for another year and have accepted the House provision which does not allow the Department of Defense (DoD) to manage on the basis of end strength in fiscal year 1987, and requires the Department to submit the fiscal year 1988 budget request as though this section would be in effect for fiscal year 1988. The conferees, however, have recognized the higher rate of civilian growth overseas relative to the United States during the past few years. The conferees are concerned that this growth occurred after the Congress had imposed ceilings on military personnel abroad. Accordingly, the conferees have included a new general provision which limits the total civilian workyears in overseas areas in fiscal year 1987 to the level actually achieved in overseas areas in fiscal year 1986. Continuation of the large personnel growth over requested civilian personnel levels at continental U.S installations could motivate Congress to expand this provision in the future.

The conferees are extremely concerned about the lack of management and oversight by the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) over the Department's civilian manpower levels. OSD was unable to provide an employment plan by Service for FY 1987 without requesting the information from the Services. The conferees question how OSD can be properly managing these extremely important and currently controversial civilian programs without the most basic budget information available. The conferees direct OSD to provide an exhibit in conjunction with the fiscal year 1988 budget request, which identifies, by Service and by month, planned end strengths and workyears, broken out by CONUS/Overseas, with Overseas further broken out by U.S. direct-hire, foreign direct-hire and foreign indirect hire. Additionally, beginning March 1, 1987, OSD is directed to provide a monthly report on the executive of civilian employment levels. This monthly report should present the data as described above, comparing budgeted to actual employment levels.

APPROPRIATED FUND SUPPORT OF MWR

The conferees agree to reduce appropriated fund support of Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) activities by $69,500,000. To achieve these savings, the conferees direct the Department of Defense (DoD) to reduce the appropriated fund support of revenue-generating MWR activities throughout fiscal year 1987. The conferees direct DoD to suspend the use of appropriated funds in support of certain revenue-generating activities in large metropolitan areas in the 50 United States by September 30, 1987. A general provision has been added to effect this policy change.

The conferees are concerned about the increasing amount of appropriated funds spent to support revenue-generating recreation activities and facilities, such as golf courses; bowling alleys; boating and sailing marinas; officer, NCO and enlisted clubs; and other types of activities. The conferees agree that it is important to provide the full range of MWR services and activities for military members and their dependents overseas or in remote or non-metropolitan areas of the U.S. However, the conferees believe it is unnecessary to provide appropriated fund support for recreational-type activities such as those cited above, at installations in large metropolitan areas of the United States due to the preponderance of such activities available off base.

The conferees believe that sufficient definitions exists, similar to those contained in Army Regulations 215-1, chapter 4, for the Department to identify large metopolitan areas in the United States. The conferees direct the Department to submit a list of the affected areas and a detailed explanation of the criteria used to establish their designation by April 1, 1987.

Furthermore, the conferees direct the Department to develop a clear, consistent determination of the appropriate fund and nonappropriate fund requirements for both MWR and non-appropriated fund (NAF) activities. The Department should study its NAF activities, including MWR activities, to reassess baseline program authorizations, organization and staffing, and funding policies, with particular emphasis on the relationship between revenue and nonrevenue generating activities. This should be submitted by July 1, 1987.

The conferees agree with the House language requiring DoD to submit a report on obligations of appropriated funds in support of MWR and issue new policy guidance on the use of appropriated funds for MWR.

REAL PROPERTY MAINTENANCE/MINOR CONSTRUCTION

The Senate reduced funding for real property maintenance (RPM) and minor construction by $391,000,000 and eliminated the legislative floor on RPM funding. The House provided the full requested amount and included RPM floors. The conferees agree to a reduction of $200,000,000 and retain the RPM floors.

The conferees have not lessened their commitment to properly maintain the real property facilities on military installations, with a goal of bringing the backlog of maintenance and repair (BMAR) down to a manageable level. However, the conferees are concerned about the apparent laxity on the part of the Services in developing, reviewing and establishing priorities for the RPM program and BMAR. The conferees believe the Service headquarters and the Office of the Secretary of Defense must take a more active role in this regard. The Department must take steps to ensure that only valid, properly costed maintenance and repair projects are contained within the RPM program and BMAR. The office of the Secretary of Defense should submit an annual report with the budget that summarizes significant minor construction and real property maintenance projects, and establishes categories for such projects (e.g. mission readiness projects, administration, MWR, etc.). At a time when funding is becoming more constrained it is imperative that the Department utilize its limited resources for only the higher priority maintenance and repair projects.

TRAVEL

The House reduced travel by $22,400,000 providing for a freeze at fiscal year 1986 levels. The Senate reduced travel by $238,100,000, noting the lack of standardization in service budget submissions. For example, the Marine Corps budgets $337 per capita per year and the Air Force $653 per capita per year for travel. The House expressed concern regarding the Senate position that travel costs should be standardized on a per capita basis.

The conferees agree to a reduction of $114,850,000. The conferees direct the General Accounting office to review this issue and describe how and why the Service travel budgets differ.

TRANSPORTATION FOR THE GENEVA ARMS CONTROL DELEGATION

The Senate bill directed the Department of Defense to provide military airlift for the U.S. arms control delegation to and from Geneva, Switzerland. The House did not address this issue.

The conferees agree that the Department of Defense should provide military airlift between Washington, D.C. and Geneva from within available funds for the delegation and their essential classified material, at the start and finish of each round of negotiations.

PRINTING AND DUPLICATING SERVICES

The House directed DoD to establish a Defense Printing Service, to be operated under industrial fund concepts, in order to facilitate improved cost accounting, consolidation of resources and coordination of electronic printing initiatives. The House also directed that all funding for electronic printing be halted until after establishment of the defense printing agency. The Senate directed a report on printing consolidation and recommended that electronic printing funding not be halted. The conferees believe that the printing reforms sought by the House can be achieved without establishment of a defense printing service and, instead, the Department should comply with the following direction:

(1) Each branch of the Armed Services and the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) should designate senior level officials to act as an oversight body with line responsibility for examining, identifying, coordinating and controlling printing and all of the information resources necessary to deliver technical and administrative information to users. These senior officials should convene on a regular basis to analyze mutual requirements in order to promote Department-wide compatibility and cost accountability and to eliminate duplication of effort. Developments in addressing common functions need to be coordinated among the Services and the project results need to be fully and freely shared. The senior level officials in the OSD and the Services who manage information would be best situated to facilitate this coordination. Also, the Joint Committee on Printing of the U.S. Congress should continue to be a useful resource and contact point for this body of senior level officials.

(2) The Department should continue to fund its electronic printing programs, but under the overall guidance of the aforementioned oversight body. In addition, because of concerns raised over the 600-S program, the Department of the Army should report back to the Committees on Appropriations on the final plan for procurement of this system before issuing any solicitations.

(3) The Army and Air Force should institute improved methods of charging individual customers for printing and duplicating services so that users are made aware of and their organizations charged for the actual costs of these services.

(4) The Defense oversight group should examine the feasibility and cost savings associated with both interservice and intraservice consolidation of printing facilities in the following geographic areas: Philadelphia region, Central Pennsylvania, Norfolk region, San Antonio region, San Francisco Bay area, San Diego region, and the Washington, D.C. area to include all Defense Agencies.

The conferees fully expect the Defense oversight group to ensure that technology-intensive printing programs, such as 600-S, are carefully developed, fully cost justified, designed to encourage the broadest participation of the private sector, implemented in a controlled, evolutionary manner, and subject to continuing cost analyses.

The conferees expect the Defense oversight group to submit an annual report, in conjunction with the budget submission, on ongoing and planned printing programs to include costs of such programs and efforts to eliminate duplication and promote compatibility and consolidation.

Finally, the conferees direct the Department to submit a report by May 1, 1987, addressing actions taken by the Department to comply with the above direction.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY PRODUCTIVITY

The Senate reduced funding by $269,500,000 to reflect increased productivity at Defense industrial activities such as Navy shipyards and Air Force logistics centers. The House did not address this issue. The Conferees agree to a reduction of $136,000,000.

The Department's industrial activity budget justifications primarily discuss resources required as inputs to operate industrial activities, such as personnel, equipment, and changes in customer rates. The Department, however, has paid less attention to output and unit cost measures of weapons systems overhauled and repaired by industrial activities. The Conferees believe that measuring output is important to understanding industrial activities. Accordingly, beginning with the fiscal year 1988 budget, the Department should provide data by fiscal year that describes output and the unit cost of major weapons systems repaired, overhauled or modified by similar industrially funded effort. The Department also should explain any significant deviations in work packages that would affect such data.

SMALL BUSINESS MRE PROGRAM

The Senate bill directed the Department of Defense to award contracts for the Meals-Ready-To-Eat (MRE) program to those industrial prepared assemblers currently in the program and to not reduce the number of assemblers from four to three. The House did not address this issue. The Conferees believe that it is in the national interest to maximize the number of small business suppliers. The Department shall consider the impact on the existing MRE industrial prepared assemblers in its determination of future MRE acquisition plans.

ENERGY ISSUES

Domestic Use of Coal

The Conferees agree to the Senate provision which directs the Defense to continue the domestic coal conversion program implemented this year and which provides on a non-reimbursable basis the funds to do so. The House concurred in the program continuation but did so in report language.

The Conferees further agree to add a new proviso which makes such conversions or new construction projects subject to the criterion of cost effectiveness.

Overseas Fuel Procurement

The Senate added a general provision directing DoD to allow any U.S. refinery, which produces less than 75,000 barrels per day, to match the final offer of any foreign refinery on a bid to provide fuel for overseas military installations. The House did not address this issue. The conferees have agreed to amend the Senate provision to require that its implementation be limited to new solicitations only and that the provision may not supersede existing status of forces or international trade agreements.

Additionally, the conferees agree that eligible refineries must agree to the contract on the terms proposed by the foreign firm within 15 days of receiving notification by DoD that it has determined that the lowest bid would otherwise be awarded to a foreign refiner. Finally, for the purposes of this section, "crude oil refining capacity" is to be determined based upon a refinery's annual calendar day operating capacity.

Purchase of Utilities

Both the House and Senate were aware of a rule proposed by the Department of Defense and other federal agencies (51 Fed. Reg. 16988-16991) and a change to Section 8.304-91 of the Air Force Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement which would affect the purchase of utilities by Defense installations. The conferees are concerned about the impact of these proposed rules on local electric utilities and have included a general provision which prevents the Department of Defense from implementing or enforcing these rule changes. Furthermore, the conferees direct the Department not to implement additional changes affecting the purchase of utilities until after they have been formally presented to and approved by the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

Philadelphia Land Conveyance/Steam Plant

The Senate added a general provision authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to convey land to the Philadelphia Municipal Authority (PMA) with the understanding that the PMA will build a trash-burning steam plant on the site and sell steam back to the Navy at a negotiated price. The House did not address this issue. The conferees agree to the provision with an amendment which deletes reference to resource recovery or trash as the source of energy to generate heat for the steam plant. The conferees also direct the Navy, in consonance with the PMA to intitiate a feasibility study on this proposal and provide its findings to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate by May 1, 1987.

The conferees believe there is some merit in the proposal, but are concerned that the building of a steam plant powered by trash runs contrary to the conferees' direction on increased usage of coal in the United States. The conferees direct the Navy to consider to their study the advantages/disadvantages of building a steam plant on this property which is powered by either coal only or cogenerated by both coal and trash. Additionally, the study should address whether the City of Philadelphia can offset the lower utilization of coal as a result of this intitative by increasing coal utilization at its other city steam plants.

MEDICAL PROGRAMS

CHAMPUS Reform Initiative

The conferees are committed to a nationwide reform of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS), with a phased-in approach. It is the intent of the conferees to ensure that the Department of Defense carry on with its plan to reform CHAMPUS, with the understanding that the reform will take place in at least three geographic regions, phased-in on the basis of these geographic regions. The regions are defined in the CHAMPUS Reform Initiative draft request for proposal.

The conferees consider these phases, especially the first phase, as tests of CHAMPUS reform. The conferees are concerned with the magnitude of the changes necessary to correct current deficiencies in the way health care is provided, and believe it is critical that the Department of Defense have sufficient time to review all proposals. As results of the first regional phase or test are analyzed, the Department should use the results to structure the subsequent phases in the remaining geographic regions.

The conferees direct that no later than June 30, 1987, the Department begin a two-year test of a reform-type CHAMPUS alternative health care project in an area of uniformed services beneficiary population in excess of 30,000 where no inpatient military treatment facility exists, where there are significant geographic barriers and where a significant portion of the uniformed services population resides and is employed outside a military treatment facility catchment area. The test project should utilize a centrally managed comprehensive health care system that can be provided at a reduced cost and that would enhance existing services for both inpatient and outpatient care. If this test project proves successful, the participants should be provided an opportunity to negotiate with the CHAMPUS reform regional contractor to continue providing their services as CHAMPUS reform is phased into that geographic region.

Additionally, the Department should initiate the first phase of CHAMPUS reform in one geographic region of the continental United States to include approximately one-third of the CHAMPUS beneficiary population as soon as practical, but not later than September 30, 1987. Following this, at no less than nine month intervals, the remaining geographic regions should be phased in with a nation-wide reform of CHAMPUS completed by mid-1989.

The conferees believe a phase-in approach to CHAMPUS reform will promote the stability of the medical care provided to beneficiaries and provide more accurate data for use in predicting workload indicators and beneficiary needs. It is the conferees' belief that one of the greatest benefits of a phase-in approach to CHAMPUS reform is that it will ensure increased competition. The conferees request that the CHAMPUS reform initiative be structured in such a way as to be equally accessible to all potential bidders, including such entities as not-for-profit providers, community hospitals and consortiums established to provide health care. Further, consideration should be given to ensure the continuation of reasonable and comprehensive mental health benefits.

Funding for this phase-in approach, the test program mentioned above, and CHAMPUS reform in general, will be provided from within appropriations for CHAMPUS. Should additional resources be needed, or if the CHAMPUS appropriation is unable to accommodate additional funding needs, the Department should submit a prior approval reprogramming request. Additionally, the conferees agree that the military health care demonstration authority contained in title 10, United States Code, provides adequate authority for implementation of the initial phase of CHAMPUS reform. Should the continued implementation of CHAMPUS reform need further legislative provisions, they should be submitted to Congress in the appropriate manner.

The conferees remain concerned over issues that have not been addressed by the Department or issues that, while addressed, may require further consideration after industry comments on the draft request for proposal are analyzed. The conferees direct the Department of Defense to resolve the following issues, given consideration to Congressional and industry comments and concerns and report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and Armed Services, on the respective resolutions at least 60 days before release of the request for proposal on the initial phase of CHAMPUS reform:

Enrollment.—The procedures for enrollment need to be addressed in a more complete fashion. The conferees believe that without an adequate and properly managed enrollment mechanism, there will be little way to accurately predict the volume of services to be contracted. Enrollment is necessary to minimize the financial risk for both the government and contractors.

Utilization.—The designs of the Department in controlling utilization have not been fully developed. The conferees believe the Department should explore the mechanisms currently used by the private sector to ensure utilization remains at a reasonable and cost effective level. Furthermore, the Department should ensure that both contractors and the Medical Treatment Facility (MTF) personnel have adequate management flexibility to monitor utilization.

Current Contractor-Operated Care Facilities.—The responsibilities of the current contractor-operated primary care (PRIMUS, NAVCARE and USTF) facilities needs to be further addressed. The conferees believe the Department must determine how these facilities and the associated workload will be identified and managed.

71-059 O-87-18 (Pt. 22)

Care-Finder/Gatekeeper Function.—There are several issues that need further definition in the development of the functions of the gatekeeper or care-finder. For example, the draft request for proposal does not adequately address the role of the medical treatment facility (MTF) Commanding Officer in the care-finder/gatekeeper function. Additionally, the Department should explore the full potential of this care-finder's position, possibly making it the mandatory entry point for all beneficiaries seeking care. The conferees believe this function is a place where money can be saved because it will eliminate duplication of many administrative functions. However, the Department must ensure that the MTF Commanding Officer, who is ultimately responsible for all the care provided to his charges and their beneficiaries, be significantly involved with the functions of the care-finder/gatekeeper.

Data Availability.—It has been brought to our attention that making responsible proposals to the Department is extremely difficult due to the non-availability of data on workload, geographic indicators and other miscellaneous data. The conferees understand this data, if not currently available, will be before the end of the calendar year. Therefore, the conferees direct that as soon as possible, the Department provide, at a resonable cost, all requested data that is necessary for the compilation of material for a bid proposal on the CHAMPUS Reform Initiative. This data should be provided to bonafide bidders in accordance with Freedom of Information laws and regulations.

Medical Information Systems.—The requirement for complete medical information systems that can interface with the current Department of Defense system needs to be further evaluated. The conferees are uncertain which current medical information system the Department intends for interface and what its relationship is to the TRIMIS and CHCS systems. Furthermore, the conferees are concerned that the timetable for implementation of a DoD Medical Information System will not coincide with the implementation of CHAMPUS reform. The lack of a current system and the need to have a compatible system increases the risk to both potential CHAMPUS reform contractor(s) and the government.

Additionally, under CHAMPUS reform it is anticipated that the type and level of workload in the medical treatment facilities will be substantially different than currently scheduled. The conferees are uncertain how these changes under the CHAMPUS reform initiative will influence the procurement of CHCS equipment and capability. It is possible that the military medical facilities may receive more computer equipment and capability than is really necessary when CHAMPUS reform is phased-in.

With these concerns in mind, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct a rigorous review of the automatic data processing requirements in light of CHAMPUS reform requirements. The Secretary should report back to the Committees, no later than July 1, 1987, on the impact CHAMPUS reform requirements will have on the requirements for the planned medical information systems.

Use of Diagnosis Related Groups.—The contractors' use of diagnosis related groups (DRG's) has not been adequately addressed. The Department has recently initiated the development of DRG's for CHAMPUS expenditures as well as their use in MTF resource management. The conferees believe the success of CHAMPUS reform may well be related to the way DRG's are used by both the Department and contractor(s).

Quality of Care.—The issues surrounding the quality of the care provided to military, beneficiaries and retirees are important to the conferees. The Department should continue all efforts to ensure the quality of care remains at the highest level possible under the CHAMPUS Reform Initiative.

Analysis.—The procedures for the proper analysis of each phase of CHAMPUS reform need to be addressed by the Department. It is the desire of the conferees that an analysis of each phase to show the strong and weak points of the program should be used to structure the subsequent phases. A preliminary analysis of each phase, as developed by the Department, should be provided to the appropriate committees no later than six months from the initial implementation of each phase and a complete analysis provided no later than 12 months from the implementation of the respective phase. A comprehensive overview of CHAMPUS reform should be provided to the same committees no later than October 1, 1989.

Cost Savings.—The issue of the cost of CHAMPUS reform versus the cost of the current CHAMPUS program, needs to be further addressed. Will CHAMPUS reform actually save money, or is the object of reform to control the rate of cost growth? The conferees request the Department to further define the concept of cost savings/cost avoidance, making a final policy statement on its position by February 1, 1987.

Congressional Notification.—The conference direct the Department to keep the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and Armed Services fully informed on all aspects of the development, design and execution of the CHAMPUS reform request for proposal, contract award and the geographic region phase-in of the reform initiative.

The conferees direct the Department to submit the following:

a. A detailed report on the implementation of the two-year test of a Reform-type alternative health care project by September 1, 1987.

b. A report on the expenditures through fiscal year 1986 and fiscal years 1987 and 1988 planned expenditures, for all costs associated with developing, designing and implementing the CHAMPUS reform initiative, currently titled IMPRINT. This report should be submitted to the Committee by March 1, 1987.

CHAMPUS/Medicare Link

The conferees have reduced the CHAMPUS budget request by $100,000,000 based on the passage of legislation that allows the per diem charge currently used for collections under the Federal Medical Care Recovery Act, diagnosis related groups, fee schedules and other related charges, to be used by CHAMPUS. The Department originally stated this action would save $171,000,000. The Department has revised this estimate to a later date for implementation than originally planned. The conferees agree that the Department will be able to implement the new procedures at the beginning of fiscal year 1987, and a later implementation will reduce the projected savings.

Military Health Care Account

The conferees agree to the Senate position on the Military Health Care account and have funded expenditures for CHAMPUS within the Operation and Maintenance, Defense Agencies account. However, the conferees agree that the funding for CHAMPUS expenditures and other medical program needs to be reviewed and restructured. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department to submit appropriate legislation with the fiscal year 1988 budget request to establish a Military Health Care account as directed by the House.

Dependent Dental Care

Th conferees agree to a reduction of $60,000,000 for the Dependent Dental Care program to be funded by the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS). This funding level provides approximately $18,000,000 for the program in fiscal year 1987. The reduction is based on information from the Department of Defense indicating the program could not be implemented until later in the fiscal year than originally proposed.

Chemical Aversion Therapy

The House included a general provision directing the Department of Defense (DoD) to conduct a Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) demonstration project on the use of chemical aversion therapy for treatment of alcoholism. The Senate included report language stating that it was inappropriate to provide reimbursement under CHAMPUS for these services until the U.S. Public Health Service study had been completed. The conferees agree to include a provision that directs DoD to conduct a CHAMPUS demonstration project to compare the use of chemical aversion therapy with the use of other alcoholism treatments. The provisions allows the demonstration to be conducted at one location, to be determined by the DoD, and provided to beneficiaries that have been referred by a physician, psychiatrist or psychologist recognized as an authorized provider under CHAMPUS.

The conferees direct that the demonstration project begin no later than February 1, 1987 and continue to at least December 31, 1987. The DoD should submit by November 1, 1986, a report on how they plan to conduct this demonstration project. Furthermore, the DoD should periodically notify the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and Armed Services on the progress of this project.

Deployable Medical Systems

The conferees have agreed to a total reduction of $158,474,000 for deployable medical systems (DEPMEDS). The following chart displays the reductions by Other Procurement and Operation and Maintenance accounts:

[Dollars in thousands]

	Other Proc.	O&M
Army:
8 General Hospitals	$74,300	$32,000
1 300-bed Station Hospital	4,400	1,600
Navy: 1 500-bed Commz Hospital	30,548	3,000
Air Force: 1 500-bed Commz Hospital	23,126	2,000
Total reduction	132,374	38,600

Family Advocacy Program

The conferees concur with Senate language recommending full funding for the Department's Family Advocacy Program at the requested fiscal year 1987 level of $15,261,000. The conferees also agree that it is not appropriate to include funding for this type of activity within the budget of the Office of Economic Adjustment and direct that it be included as a separate budget activity program package in the fiscal year 1988 submission, for Operation and Maintenance, Defense Agencies.

Uniformed Services Treatment Facilities

The conferees have reduced the fiscal year 1987 budget request of $166,800,000 for Uniformed Services Treatment Facilities (USTF's) by $51,900,000 and limited expenditures for USTF's to $114,900,000.

To achieve this reduction, the conferees instruct the USTF's to work with the Department to negotiate fixed amount payment mechanisms, similar to the flat-rate payment mechanism negotiated in 1984 with the Pacific Medical Center in Seattle, Washington. Furthermore, reductions made by this action should apply to those USTF's that have experienced the largest cost growth and have not negotiated new contracts that are more favorable to the government.

Dependent Mental Health Demonstration Project

It has come to the attention of the conferees that the Army is reviewing a demonstration project proposal for the provision of mental health care to military dependents at Ft. Bragg, North Carolina. This proposal has cost savings potential as it may reduce the requirment of CHAMPUS funding for dependent mental health care at Ft. Bragg. The Army did not include the necessary funding for this project within the 1987 budget request.

Therefore, the Army is directed to fund from available resources, the demonstration project and evaluation in fiscal year 1987. Recent cost projections on the proposal indicate that in fiscal year 1987 this demonstration projects should cost approximately $650,000. The Army should seek reimbursement from the CHAMPUS budget for the savings realized. Furthermore, the Army should include the cost of continuing this program in the fiscal year 1988 budget request.

DRUG INTERDICTION SUPPORT

The conferees have included a total of $14,000,000 to reimburse National Guard units for costs incurred in surveillance and other drug interdiction efforts. The recommended funding includes $8,000,000 for the Army National Guard and $6,000,000 for the Air National Guard.

HURRICANE RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHTS

The Senate added $8,500,000 to O&M, Air Force for support costs associated with Air Force hurricane reconnaissance flights, which formerly were reimbursed by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). The House did not address this issue. The conferees agree to the Senate recommendation. At the Department's request, however, funding has been allocated as follows: $2,500,000 to O&M, Air Force and $6,000,000 to O&M, Air Force Reserve.

T-33 CONTRACT

The conferees agree to the House funding levels and restrictions for the Air Force's proposed T-33 replacement program. The Air Force may proceed with a contract approach provided that Guard units are funded at a rate proportionate to the number of aircraft owned and Guard units be converted ahead of or at an equal pace to active Air Force units. The Committees on Appropriations should be notified of the results of the competition for this service prior to expenditure of funds.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, ARMY

The conferees agree to provide $20,022,399,000 instead of $19,774,531,000 as recommended by the House and $20,026,759,000 as recommended by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

DEPOT MAINTENANCE

The House, in order to fully fund Army depot maintenance requirements for communications-electronics (C-E) equipment, added $100,000,000 to O&M, Army from excess industrial fund profits. In order to ensure that this work was not contracted out, the House also added a general provision which placed an employment limitation on the depots performing such work. The Senate did not address this issue.

The conferees agreed to an add-on of $75,000,000 which fully funds depot repair requirements for C-E equipment in FY 1987. The conferees also agreed to the House provision with an amendment which states that the limitations placed on C-E depot employment in the provision shall not cause undue employment reductions at other Army depots. The conferees believe that with the added $75,000,000 there is sufficient funded workload to fully employ personnel at C-E depots at the levels directed in the provision. Furthermore, since the conferees have agreed to remove civilian employment ceilings there is no reason that other depots should be impacted by this initiative.

6TH DIVISION SUPPORT

The conferees are advised that the essential infrastructure upgrade for the Sixth Infantry Division will be authorized for military construction appropriations. However, it also appears that test equipment facilities and new construction housing may be deferred. While this action will not impede the current plan for personnel deployment, the proposed deferral will strain the existing base infrastructure as personnel assignments increase. Therefore, the conferees agree to an increase of $30,000,000 for minor construction projects and accelerated real property maintenance programs to minimize disruption during the transition period and retain the planned deployment schedule for the Sixth Infantry Division. The conferees direct DoD to provide the Committees on Appropriations a report identifying projects and related costs to be funded with this $30,000,000.

ARMY ADP

The conferees agree to a reduction of $22,200,000 of which $20,000,000 from the VIABLE program is transferred to Reserve Forces automation and $2,200,000 is due to deferral of acquisition for the Corporate Data Base initiative. The Army may not reprogram resources into the VIABLE, STARNET, or ASIMS projects without approval from the Major Automated Information Systems Review Council (MAISRC).

The $4,500,000 appropriated for the Developmental Army Readiness Mobilization System (DARMs) is a special interest item requiring approval from the Committees on Appropriations prior to reprogramming increases, and should be so designated on DD Form 1414, Base for Reprogramming Actions. The Department is expected to phase out DARMS once the new Reserve Forces automation system is fielded. Proposed House reductions to the Commodity Control Standard System and Integrated Procurement System were restored with the understanding that the use of the budgeted funds will conform to MAISRC guidance on these major new acquisitions. Funds for the Theater Army Medical Management Information System (TAMMIS) are also restored, provided that the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs submits a report to the Committees on Appropriations by March 1, 1987, demonstrating that the Defense Department has an intrgrated plan for acquiring and fielding peacetime and tactical automated medical information systems.

OB/GYN CARE

The conferees agree to provide the $1,036,000 requested by the Army to increase routine OB/GYN care at Ft. Bragg. However, the conferees direct that the Army provide this care by contract.

OVER-40 RESERVE EXAMS

The conferees agree to provide $1,000,000 of the requested $2,000,000 for over-40 Reserve personnel exams. However, the conferees direct the Army to fund these exams on a reimbursable basis from the Operation and Maintenance, Army Reserve account in fiscal year 1988.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, NAVY

The conferees agree to provide $22,939,674,000 instead of $22,993,227,000 as recommended by the House and $23,156,226,000 as recommended by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

POSEIDON SUBMARINE OVERHAULS

The budget request included $645,937,000 for the overhaul of 5 Poseidon submarines. Since submission of the budget the President decided to dismantle two of these submarines, the Nathan Hale and the Nathaniel Green. Both the House and Senate reduced the $256,000,000 associated with the overhaul of these two vessels. The House further reduced $250,000,000 for the overhaul of two additional Poseidons, assuming they would be dismantled. The House also included a provision that required a reprogramming from other sources to be approved by the Appropriations Committees should the Navy elect to proceed with the overhaul of these two vessels. The Senate included the funding for these overhauls and did not agree with the reprogramming provision.

The conferees agree to funding of $389,937,000 for Poseidon submarine overhauls in FY 1987, a total reduction of $256,000,000, which will allow for the overhaul of 3 Poseidon submarines. In the event the Administration elects not to overhaul any of these Poseidon submarines, the conferees assume these funds will be used to offset additional ship maintenance costs resulting from overhaul packages which have slipped from FY 1986.

OVERSEAS SHIP REPAIR

The House included a general provision which prohibited the overhaul overseas of Naval vessels normally homeported in the United States. The Senate did not address this issue. The conferees agree to the House provision with an amendment specifying that only shipyards which are foreign owned and operated are covered and that the type of repairs covered does not include voyage repairs.

BATTLESHIP "TEXAS"

The House added report language directing the Navy to provide $5,080,000 out of available funds to the State of Texas for the restoration of the battleship Texas. The Senate did not address this issue. The conferees agree to add a general provision to accomplish this grant, based on a Navy General Counsel determination that the grant could not be made unless it was required by law.

DESTROYER USS "lawe"

The conferees direct the Department of the Navy to provide assistance to the State of Michigan and specifically to the City of Muskegon, Michigan, for the delivery and berthing of the retired destroyer, USS Lawe from its present location in Portsmouth, Virginia, to a berthing site adjacent to the municipally owned Hartshorn Marina near downtown Muskegon, Michigan, on Muskegon Lake. The conferees understand that this will be accomplished at a cost of no more than $500,000 from any existing funds provided in this bill and that the Department of the Navy is fully agreeable on this matter. The conferees further believe that the towing of the retired destroyer USS LaWE to Muskegon, Michigan, will be accomplished expeditiously under an agreement acceptable to the involved parties.

READY RESERVE FLEET

The House reduced RRF funding by a net of $500,000 resulting from a decrease of $4,400,000 to RRF Breakouts and an increase of $3,900,000 for RRF Dispersals. The Senate added $3,855,000 above the request to fund dredging operations in support of the National Defense Reserve Fleet (NDRF). It is the conferees' understanding that this dredging will support not only the NDRF, but also the RRF and therefore agree to the Senate add-on and direct the Department to fund such dredging. Additionally, the conferees agree that the Department should fully fund the $7,500,000 requirement for RRF Dispersal.

COAST GUARD/TACTICAL LAW ENFORCEMENT TEAMS (TACLET)

The Senate included $100,000,000 to fund U.S. Coast Guard operational support of defense missions, of which $15,000,000 was specifically for Tactical Law Enforcement Team (TACLET) drug interdiction personnel aboard Navy vessels. The House did not address this issue.

The conferees agree to funding of $75,000,000 for Coast Guard operations with the understanding that $15,000,000 for the TACLET program will be funded in the Omnibus Drug Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1987. If the Drug Supplemental is not enacted with the $15,000,000 included for support of the TACLET program, then it is the conferees understanding they will be funded within the $75,000,000 level.

PEACESAT

The Senate added report language directing the Navy to provide a UHF frequency allocation available to the Pan Pacific Educational and Communications Experiments by Satellite (PEACESAT) program. Additionally, the Senate required the Navy to make up to $1,000,000 available from within appropriated funds to cover startup costs. The House did not address this issue. The conferees direct the Navy to provide a UHF allocation to PEACESAT. However, the Navy is not directed to provide startup and operating costs.

NAVAL SPECIAL WARFARE CENTER

The conferees direct that within funds available, a total of $3,000,000 be provided for training at the Naval Special Warfare Center for fiscal year 1987 requirements.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, MARINE CORPS

The conferees agree to provide $1,743,750,000 instead of $1,793,338,000 as recommended by the House and $1,783,360,000 as recommended by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

HISTORIANS

The conferees agree to reduce the $16,727,000 Air Force request for the historian program by $3,316,000. While the conferees do not direct the specific number of historians the Air Force may have, the $3,316,000 must be reduced from the $16,727,000 requested for this program.

The conferees further agree with the House language directing the Air Force to increase its use of contracting. The conferees direct the Air Force to report to the Committees by March 1, 1987, on the execution of this reduction.

SHUTTLE RECOVERY PROGRAM

The House included $383,500,000 in orbital flight charges for reimbursement to NASA as a partial payment from the Air Force, in accordance with the existing Memorandum of Understanding. The Senate denied funding for orbital flight charges noting that the Department of Defense already has paid for ten shuttle flights that it has not used, and provided $2,960,000,000 for procurement of a fourth shuttle orbiter to replace the Challenger. The conferees have agreed to delete funding for orbital flight charges. Funds have been included for the replacement orbiter in the HUD/Independent Agency appropriation for NASA and are no longer required in the Defense portion of this resolution. The conferees expect NASA and the Department of Defense to reappraise shuttle flight charge reimbursements to reflect changes in system utilization and program requirements. The revised reimbursements should also reflect flights which were previously paid for, but not flown.

FTS CHARGES

The conferees agree to a reduction of $1,650,000 to the Air Force for FTS charges. The conferees further agree with the House language that makes a reduction from the Air Force request for Leased Communications. This is not a reduction to the Air Force recruiting program.

AIR FORCE ADP

The conferees agree to a reduction of $2,500,000 related to ASAT mission control and recosting of the 1st Information Systems Group ADP acquisition program. $16,400,000 for the Military Airlift Command's Command and Control ADP system is restored provided that no funds be spent until the Major Automated Information Systems Review Council formally reviews and approves a single plan for MAC ADP upgrades.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, DEFENSE AGENCIES

The conferees agree to provide $7,978,674,000 instead of $6,300,040,000 as proposed by the House and $7,652,437,000 as proposed by the Senate. Details of the adjustments are as follows:

DEFENSE LOGISTICS AGENCY (DLA): TRANSFER OF SUPPLY OPERATIONS

The Senate proposed "industrially funding" the Defense Stock Fund by reflecting in the price of supply items the personnel and overhead costs associated with DLA's management of the supply system. The Senate proposed financing these costs through excess fuel savings and assumed $100,000,000 in additional savings would occur. The House did not address this issue.

The conferees agree to further review "industrially funding" DLA stock fund operations and have not made the $100,000,000 reduction proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree that the costs and benefits of this proposal need to be more fully examined. Accordingly, the General Accounting Office is directed to identify potential advantages and disadvantages with this proposal and publish a final report by March 1, 1987. On the basis of these findings the Committees on Appropriations may consider whether "industrial funding" has application to all Department of Defense Stock funds.

DEFENSE COMMUNICATIONS AGENCY

The conferees agree that within the funds provided for the Defense Communications Agency are the entire budget requests for the National Communications Systems, the White House Communications Agency and the Defense Mobilization Systems Planning Activity.

PERSONNEL AND INDUSTRIAL SECURITY

The conferees agree to include a new general provision concerning personnel and industrial security which makes available $8,100,000 of existing funds in order to implement the recommendation of the Department's Security Review Commission. The Senate had proposed to make available $22,100,000 for this purpose and the House did not address the issue.

The conference agreement makes funds available for improved processing of criminal history data, safeguards for interim top secret clearances and better security training. The amount concurred in by the conferees does not, however, include the $14,000,000 proposed by the Senate for more extensive Defense Investigative Service background investigations since this amount may exceed that which is necessary to conduct such investigation.

The conferees are extremely concerned with the number and seriousness of recent security lapses. This concern was demonstrated by the addition of $25,000,000 above the fiscal year 1986 budget request to improve security procedures and the provision of additional authority above the budget again this year—at a time when funding for many DOD activities is declining to levels below those for 1986.

The Appropriations Committees will carefully review the issue of personnel and industrial security in connection with the 1988 budget estimate and will consider additional reprograming requests should the Department so require.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, ARMY RESERVE

Claims, Defense

NORFOLK NAVY STEAM PLANT

The conferees have included language in the Act which authorizes and directs the Secretary of the Navy to pay losses to the business concern responsible for construction of the Norfolk Navy Steam Plant. The language, with minor modifications, was proposed by the Senate. The House did not address the issue.

The conferees emphasize that the circumstances surrounding the contract and construction of the Norfolk Navy Steam Plant constitute a very special situation. The actions of the conferees on this matter should in no way be construed as a precedent.

In determining the losses to be reimbursed, the Department should define losses as allowable cost within the meaning of the Contract Disputes Act (41 U.S.C. 601–613), and the losses should be verified by the Secretary under the truth and negotiations clause of the Contract Disputes Act.

Environmental Restoration, Defense

The conferees agree to provide $375,900,000 instead of $346,100,000 as proposed by the House and $385,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees support the Senate instruction regarding environmental policy staffing.

Humanitarian Assistance

The conferees agree to provide $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $6,000,000 as proposed by the House. In addition, both House and Senate versions of the bill provide for a reappropriation of $7,000,000 made available in fiscal year 1986 for humanitarian assistance. Thus, the total available in fiscal year 1987 for humanitarian assistance under the terms of the conference agreement is $17,000,000.

The conferees have included language in the Act which permits the transfer of not more than $2,500,000 to the Secretary of State for necessary costs of managing the transportation of humanitarian relief supplies and for transportation costs outside the United States. It is the understanding of the conferees that out of country transportation costs may include both the acquisition and lease/rental of local transportation assets, including beasts of burden.

In addition, the conference agreement permits the use of up to $3,000,000 for the worldwide distribution of excess nonlethal supplies for humanitarian relief. The conferees understand that these funds may be used to alleviate refugee problems in the region of the Thailand-Cambodia border.

Finally, the conferees are concerned that during the operation of this program in fiscal year 1986, damaged and improperly maintained materials were provided to refugees. The program managers are directed to take action as necessary to ensure that the goods are visually inspected prior to shipment and that care be taken that all goods shipped are usuable and of good quality.

PROCUREMENT FINANCING POLICY CHANGES

The conferees agree in principle with the financing policy changes proposed by the Senate. The conferees have made a number of changes and refinements to the Senate language.

PROGRESS PAYMENTS

The conferees agree to a reduction of 5 percentage points in the progress payment rate rather than the 10 percentage point reduction proposed by the Senate. The conferees note that this adjustment is more in line with the interest rate decline down to today's rate of 7.5 percent. Further, the conferees do not view this as a precedent for continuing to legislate progress payment rates. Rather, this legislative prescription is done to ensure that outlay savings will occur and be visible. The conferees expect that setting progress payment rates will be done administratively by the Department in the future.

Authority for the Secretary of Defense to exclude shipbuilding, military construction and architect-engineering contracts from the lower progress payments has been provided. Traditionally, payment rates for these areas under the percentage of completion method have been linked to the "customary progress payment rate" used on the percentage of cost method. This authority may be used if the Secretary certifies that any of these three defense activities continue to need special consideration and treatment due to the nature of the construction industry.

Authority for the Department to grant higher progress payment rates based on demonstrated financial need for financially weak firms has also been added. This authority is currently available in the Department's acquisition policy. The potential for abuse is acknowledged and the Department is urged to continue to use this feature sparingly and judiciously.

PROFIT POLICY

The conferees agree to the policy objectives stated by the Senate which places increased emphasis on facility capital employed and contractor risk and which provide a linking of profit and working capital requirements. The effect of this is to remove specific individual elements of contract cost as a determinant of profit objectives.

The section describing the new profit policy for negotiated contracts has been clarified to reflect the consideration of working capital in profit calculations. This is the central feature in linking profit and financial risk. This also provides the Department of Defense another way in addition to changing progress payment rates for adjusting for changing financial conditions. The conferees understand that the allowance for financing (proposed as 2.5 percent of contract cost) and the interest rates used in adjusting profit objectives will be set administratively. This process merits the careful attention of the Committees and GAO as the new policy is implemented.

Through the language indicates that the policy should place increased emphasis on capital investment and risk, the conferees recognize that some types of firms, such as professional and technical services firms, doing business with DoD inherently are called upon to make less capital investment and may participate in projects with less total risk. It is the conferees' belief, that, notwithstanding this modified emphasis, any profit policy must ensure that firms performing satisfactorily for the Department of Defense earn a reasonable profit.

The conferees also note that as a result of the Defense Financial and Investment Review, the Department published a new profit policy in the September 18, 1986, Federal Register. While a detailed review of the Department's new rules has not been made, it appears that these rules are generally consistent with the conferees' policy objectives. The conferees expect that all 1987 contracts will be awarded under these new rules which are designed to decrease the negotiated profit objective by one percentage point.

In supporting this new policy, the conferees agree to the across-the-board reductions proposed by the Senate totalling $700,000,000 as a result of the lower contract prices expected. The conferees acknowledge that permitting adjustments in profit for working capital will decrease the savings slightly but feel that the $700,000,000 reduction out of an estimated $740,000,000 excess (one percent of $74 billion in negotiated contracts) is a reasonable adjustment.

TOOLING COSTS

The conferees have modified the Senate's provision to limit the amount of expected contractor exposure for special tooling and special test equipment to 50 percent of the contractor's proposed requirements. Furthermore, authority is provided for the Service Secretary to finance more than 50 percent of the special tooling and test equipment if budgeted and approved in advance. It is expected that this authority will be used when it is in the best interest of the government when contractors cannot handle the additional financial exposure. But it is clearly expected that contractors will carry as much of the financing as possible up to 50 percent. It is not the desire of the conferees that defense contractors "bet their companies" on any particular contract. It is the desire of the conferees to continue and accelerate the use of private investment in the defense industry.

The conference agreement continues to require government funding of special tooling and special test equipment used for final government acceptance of items as proposed by the Senate.

The policy statement has been clarified to permit direct reimbursement for tooling costs when there will be only a single year production contract available for amortization purposes.

The conferees have added a final provision entitling a contractor to be paid by the United States for the unamortized balance of any tooling remaining in the event of contract termination for any reason other than failure of the contractor to perform, in which case the law would permit the government to take title to the special tooling and test equipment.

BINARY CHEMICAL WEAPONS

The conference agreement provides the following for the binary chemical weapons program:

INFLATION AND PROFIT POLICY REDUCTIONS

Congress reduced the fiscal year budget to reflect excess inflation amounts included in that budget. These inflation amounts were excess to the budgeted program, but the Department of Defense (DOD) in many instances applied these reductions against items of congressional interest. The conferees strongly object to this practice, and agree that the inflation and profit policy reductions reflected in the Department of Defense Appropriations Bill for Fiscal Year 1987 are necessary and appropriate to account for amounts in excess to budgeted program levels. The conferees therefore direct the DOD not to delete or defer funded procurement and research, development, testing, and evaluation programs, projects, activities, or items in excess of amounts related to inflation and profit policy reductions for those programs, projects, activities, or items. The conferees further direct the DOD to submit to the Committee on Appropriations concurrently with the submission of the Fiscal Year 1988 Budget two detailed lists identifying how the inflation reduction and the profit policy reduction are distributed by P-1 and R-1 lines.

CONTROLLABILITY OF PROCUREMENT BUDGET

The conferees agree to the report requested by the House on the controllability of the procurement budget. However, the conferees direct that the report should include a discussion of the costs and benefits of implementing such a system for controlling fixed price contracts and should include comments from the Department of Defense on such a proposed system.

SPECIAL OPERATIONS FORCES ROTARY-WING AIRLIFT

The conferees agree that the Department of Defense should proceed with modernization and expansion of its SOF rotary-wing forces. However, the conferees also agree that the rotary-wing requirement in support of Special Operations Forces is sufficiently demanding and of such national importance that significant contributions will be necessary from both the Army and the Air Force. Specifically, the conferees agree that the Department should proceed with implementation of Intiative 17 with the following stipulations:

The Air Force will continue to provide dedicated HH-53 PAVE LOW support for special operations mission, including the Joint Special Operations Command. This will entail modernization and modification of all Air Force C/H-53 helicopters to the HH-53 PAVE LOW III enhanced modification configuration by the end of fiscal year 1990.

The Army will proceed with a vigorous modernization and expansion of its rotary-wing airlift force to include fielding of MH-60X and MH-47E aircraft.

The conferees agree further that the Army and Air Force capabilities are complementary and can, as required, be available for any long or short range Special Operations missions as the National Command Authority deems appropriate.

Finally, the conferees direct that the Secretary of Defense submit a progress report and detailed program to the Congress by February 1, 1987, delineating specific missions, resource levels, and operational integration of these expanded rotary-wing airlift capabilities.

GENERAL REDUCTIONS

The conferees agree to several general reductions throughout the procurement and research and development accounts. The conferees understand that these reductions shall be applied against program levels, and direct that no P-1 or R-1 line item be reduced by more than 5 percent (exclusive of inflation and profit policy reductions) to achieve the relevant general reduction. The conferees further direct the Department of Defense to submit to the Committees on Appropriations with the Fiscal Year 1988 Budget a detailed list identifying how the general reductions are distributed by P-1 and R-1 lines.

BUDGET ACTIVITY DELINEATIONS

The Senate bill provides appropriations for most accounts at the aggregate level instead of delineating subdivisions in the bill. The House appropriates several accounts at the subdivision level. The conference agreement delineates subdivisions in three Navy accounts for weapons procurement, shipbuilding and other procurement. These accounts were selected because of concern over excessive reprogramming or because of traditional practice.

Other accounts are appropriated at the aggregate level because the conferees believe further subdivision is unnecessary. The Appropriations Committees will monitor these accounts to ascertain whether appropriating funds at the account level allows for proper congressional oversight.

INDUSTRIAL FASTENERS

The conferees are concerned about allegations that certain categories of industrial fastener products used in U.S. military equipment may be substandard or counterfeit in terms of alloy strength and durability, posing a safety risk.

Therefore the Department of Defense is directed to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations addressing the following issues:

(a) Whether industrial fasteners (categories listed below) currently in use by DOD or its contractors may be substandard or counterfeit (not possessing qualities commensurate with their advertised grade strength);

(b) The status, of, or need for, adequate quality-control standards for these components;

(c) The availability of domestic suppliers of these components, and the advisability of greater reliance on domestic sources given possible quality problems in imported components:

(d) The Department's policy on procurement of imported fasteners.

The report will consider industrial fastener products in the following industrial fastener categories as defined by the Tariff Schedules of the United States (TSUS):

(1) 646.4920 Lag bolts or screws (of iron of steel);

(2) 646.5400 Bolts and their nuts imported in the same shipment (of iron or steel);

(3) 646.5600 Nuts (of iron of steel);

(4) 646.6320 Cap screws (of iron or steel) having shanks or threads over 0.24 inch in diameter;

(5) 646.6340 Other screws with shanks or threads over 0.24 inch in diameter (of iron or steel);

MINORITY BUSINESS PARTICIPATION

The conferees reiterate the House's concern and expectations regarding expanded opportunities for minority businesses and historically black colleges and universities. Additionally, the conferees agree with the House language requesting a detailed plan to meet the stated goal for expanded participation.

UH-60A BLACK HAWK HELICOPTER

The conference agreement for the UH-60A Black Hawk helicopter includes the necessary funding and legislative authorization to initiate a third multiyear contract using fiscal year 1987 advance procurement. However, the conferees direct that no such funds may be obligated toward a multiyear contract until the Army submits revised multiyear procurement justifications showing the approved multiyear program. Such a submittal shall also include the Army's plans for further UH-60A production, transition to an improved UH-60B, and the means of satisfying the overall long term utility helicopter requirements. The conferees expect that any proposed multiyear procurement will have savings of at least ten percent.

AH-64 APACHE ATTACK HELICOPTER

The conferees agree to provide $1,028,500,000 for procurement of 120 AH-64 Apache attack helicopters, of which 18 are specifically allocated for the Army National Guard.

The conferees agree with the concerns expressed in the House and Senate reports about the Army's current planning which would terminate production of the Apache attack helicopter at 675, some 45 percent short of filling the Army's total requirement for these aircraft, including active and National Guard/Reserve forces. Such an action also would leave the Army without a production base for attack helicopters until the LHX enters production, which would not be until the mid-1990s as the LHX program is presently structured. The Secretary of the Army is directed to submit a procurement program with the fiscal year 1988 budget that fulfills the Army's requirement for this aircraft.

OV-1 SURVEILLANCE AIRCRAFT MODS

The conference agreement provides $10,000,000 for OV-1 aircraft modifications as proposed by the House instead of $24,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. The reduction below the budget is made without prejudice and is related to a delay in the award of the production contract. The conferees strongly support this program.

ARMY HELICOPTER IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM (AHIP)

The conferees agree to an allowance of $127,700,000 for fiscal year 1987 modification of 36 helicopters and $22,500,000 for advance procurement as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees agree with the Senate that, if the Army terminates the AHIP program, the Army should report on its plans for meeting its Scout helicopter requirements before any of these fiscal year 1987 funds are obligated.

Furthermore, the conferees agree that any excess fiscal year 1987 funds should be applied to the follow-on Scout helicopter program that succeeds the AHIP program, but not the LHX program. The conferees expect this interim Scout helicopter program will be fully described and rationalized with the Army's LHX program.

AIR-TO-AIR-STINGER

The conference agreement provides no fiscal year 1987 funds for air-to-air Stinger modifications. This action is taken in recognition of the fact that $27,740,000 in reprogramming FY 86-54PA is available to initiate procurement in fiscal year 1987. The conferees hereby approve the air-to-air Stinger portion of this reprogramming.

The conferees are in agreement that air-to-air Stinger procurement funds shall not be obligated until the requirements of Section 122(d) of H.R. 4428 are complied with. The conferees are in further agreement that since the Army has selected the Stinger missile for its air-to-air combat missile, that planned testing by the Department of Defense of the Mistral missile for this mission be terminated.

STINGER

STINGER ADVANCE PROCUREMENT

The conferees agree to provide $281,700,000 for Stinger procurement, the sum proposed by the Senate plus $30,000,000. The $30,000,000 provided above the budget is to be used for the establishment of a second source as possible. The conferees expect that head-to-head competition should be possible no later than fiscal year 1990, preceded by an educational buy from the selected second source which extends over a twelve to eighteen month period.

The conferees agree to provide $30,000,000 for advance procurement. These funds are to be used for a three year multiyear procurement of Stinger RMP missiles, to provide a transition from the current sole source single-year arrangement to full competition in fiscal year 1990. The multiyear procurement may take place provided that the Army is able to demonstrate a cost saving of at least ten percent over three years, and that all other Congressional criteria are met. Language has been provided in the bill which allows multiyear procurement of Stinger.

PATRIOT GENERATOR SETS

The House and Senate took differing positions on a competition being conducted by the Army to obtain engines for Patriot generator sets. The House directed that the competition be limited to turbine engines, and the Senate directed that both turbine and diesel engines be considered. In light of the relatively small number of engines to be procured, and the fact that the bulk of Patriot units are already fielded with turbine engines, the conferees concur in the directive of the House. At the same time, the conferees recognize that significant advances have been made in diesel technology, and that Patrot is but one of many systems. Therefore, the conferees direct that diesel technology be vigorously pursued as an option in future competitions for engines for systems other than Patriot.

DRAGON INTERIM REPLACEMENT

The conferees agree that a plan is needed before procurement of an interim replacement for the Dragon anti-tank weapon occurs, if such an interim replacement is needed. The conferees direct the Department to provide a positive statement of its requirements for an interim DRAGON replacement and a plan for filling those requirements to include program schedules, milestones and funding profiles.

SQUAD AUTOMATIC WEAPON (SAW)

The conference agreement includes a modification of Senate bill language which requires that the M249 Squad Automatic Weapon be procured competitively. The conferees agree that competition for the M249 is feasible, in the best interest of the Government, and will ensure that the best producer is selected for introduction into the mobilization base which the Army is attempting to preserve.

The conferees agree that the 1985 competition for multiyear procurement of the weapon was fairly held and executed and that nothing has been gained in delaying it while desired modifications to the weapon have been readied and tested. The conferees agree that the Army should resume the delayed competition in order to fully execute its desired small arms program, or if that is not possible, then a new competition should be held as soon as possible.

M-88 RECOVERY VEHICLE

The conference agreement provides no procurement funding for the M-88 recovery vehicle. This is done without prejudice in recognition that such funding for the product-improved M88A2 vehicle is premature in fiscal year 1987 and that the incremental funding proposed in the budget violated accepted practices. If the Army can justify a fully funded budget estimate in fiscal year 1987, along with program milestones and an approved procurement strategy, a reprogramming may be submitted. Otherwise procurement funding request in fiscal year 1988 or a future year will be entertained.

9MM HANDGUN

The House bill included a provision requiring a cancellation of the current contract and recompetition of performance specifications for the 9mm handgun prior to obligation of fiscal year 1987 funds. The Senate bill had no such provision. The conferees are aware of the controversy surrounding the initial 9mm handgun competition. As a result, the conference agreement includes a general provision which directs the Department of Defense to hold a competition during fiscal year 1987 for a follow-on procurement of the 9mm handgun, but without any restrictions on obligation of 1986 and 1987 funds. The conferees have provided $15,000,000 over the budget request in the Procurement of Weapons and Tracked Combat Vehicles, Army account to fund this competition and for the initial period of follow-on production beginning in fiscal year 1988.

The conferees expect the new competition will be based on the same performance specifications used for the award of the current multiyear contract. The conferees further agree that (1) the current multiyear contract shall not be terminated as a result of any questions concerning the earlier competition or as result of this new competition, and (2) that there will be no options or extensions exercised to the current multiyear contract until the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate have been notified of the results of the new competition.

The Department of Defense is requested to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate on the results of the competition which includes a list of alternatives for smoothly incorporating the winning bidder into the 9mm handgun acquisition plan.

M483 155MM IMPROVED CONVENTIONAL MUNITION

The conference agreement provides $87,900,000 for procurement of M483 projectiles as proposed by the House. This is consistent with the Army's revised program, recognizing that an additional $65,500,000 in fiscal year 1986 unobligated balances can be applied to this program. The conference agreement also includes $30,000,000 for continued prove-out of production facilities at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

ARTILLERY FUZES

The conferees agree that the Army shall use a portion of the $80,000,000 unallocated general increase in ammunition to procure M577A1 and M582A2 fuzes. Such procurement shall be sufficient to bring the total procurement to a level required to maintain production at the two mobilization base producers.

AT-4 LIGHTWEIGHT MULTIPURPOSE WEAPON

The conference agreement provides $69,500,000 for procurement of tactical AT-4 rounds and $7,300,000 for procurement of 1,410 AT-4 trainers. The conferees agree that the total includes $10,000,000 for nonrecurring costs and $15,000,000 for low rate initial onshore production. The transition to onshore shall proceed without further delay.

The fiscal year 1986 supplemental bill included a provision (Chapter IIIA, Sec. 5(d)) which required the Army to complete testing of the M72E4, type classify it, and acquire the technical data package. The M72E4 was developed as a backup to the AT-4, but testing has been terminated by the Army. The conferees continue to believe that the testing should be restarted and completed. The conferees note that the Army's recent appeal justified the earlier termination on lax internal controls and management without regard to the merits of the program. The conferees commend the Army for its efforts to discipline the system, but find no basis to alter current law. The conferees further agree that these actions in no way change the stated position in last year's conference agreement and that they are taken "without expectation of subsequent procurement by the Department of Defense."

PRODUCTION BASE MODERNIZATION

The conferees agree to provide $189,600,000 for production base modernization as proposed by the Senate. However, the conferees are concerned about the problems encountered in reaching the design production capacity at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant (MAAP).

The conferees in the 1986 conference report agreed that the MAAP must be brought fully on line and directed that the Army conduct a thorough investigation of the plant and report on specific problems, proposed solutions and implementation plans and schedules. This report has recently been received, and the Army proposal is reflected in the Senate position.

The conferees continue to believe that MAAP must be brought on line but desire to be fully assured that the Army's plan to reach full wartime mobilization production capability is the correct one. The conferees, therefore, direct that, of the $130,200,000 provided for MAAP in this bill, not more than $50,000,000 may be obligated for projects at MAAP until an independent panel of experts in manufacturing and production, selected by the Secretary of the Army, validates the Army's plan for establishing the full mobilization production rate at MAAP. The Army should expedite action on the panel and complete action not later than 90 days after passage of this bill. It is agreed that, if this panel of experts validates this plan, than all of the $130,200,000 may be obligated.

If the Army's plan is not validated, the conferees direct that the Army submit a revised plan to reach full production. In any event, the balance of the funds may be released only upon validation of a plan.

The panel is also directed to explore and report options for peacetime utilization of MAAP to produce other products which could be accomplished within the funds provided.

HEAVY EXPANDED MOBILITY TACTICAL TRUCK

The conferees agree that the current production rate for the Heavy Expanded Mobility Tactical Truck (HEMTT) is six per day and assume that this rate will be maintained during fiscal year 1987 and the fiscal year 1987 funded delivery period. Further, it is now apparent that production at about this rate will be funded in fiscal year 1988. To maintain this rate, a fiscal year 1987 production contract must be in place by January 31, 1987. In order to avoid a production gap or decrease, the Committee directs the Army to begin immediately to negotiate a new fiscal year 1987 contract by that date. If this cannot be done, the Army is directed to take whatever interim measure is necessary to maintain the current production rate during the fiscal year 1987 funded delivery period.

MODULAR RECORD TRAFFIC TERMINAL

The conferees agree that $29,300,000 in fiscal year 1986 savings identified by the House in the Modular Record Traffic Terminal line item are available to fund the Single Subscriber Terminal and the Modular Tactical Communications Center in lieu of providing new budget authority in the bill.

UNIT LEVEL CIRCUIT SWITCH

The conferees agree that fiscal year 1986 savings identified by the House in the Unit Level Circuit Switch program are available to fund the Tactical Hybrid Switch program.

SINCGARS

The conferees agree to provide $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree that the fiscal year 1986 savings identified by the House for SINCGARS is available for the establishment of a second source of production for the current SINCGARS radio, and for no other purpose. If the Army decides not to proceed with the existing production contract, then these funds should be reprogrammed to the appropriate research and development account to support engineering development of a replacement combat net radio.

The conferees further agree that the Army should not procure an interim combat net radio. The conferees also agree that prior to a long term decision to use radios functionally equivalent to SINCGARS, the Army must resolve whether it wishes to continue with the existing contract for these radios. The existing contract already provides for a second producer who must employ a technical data package as the basis for his production. The overall requirement for combat net radios will not support three major producers. If, however, the Army decides not to proceed with the existing contract for combat net radios, then the conferees agree that the Army should consider all approaches—including radios which are "form-fit-function" equivalent radios—in its development of a long term procurement plan for replacement combat net radios.

IMPROVED HF RADIO FAMILY

The conferees agree to provide $11,100,000 for the Improved HF Radio Family program, as proposed by the Senate. The conferees understand that fiscal year 1986 funds that had been frozen by the Department of Defense (DoD) pending a program review, have not been released, and direct DoD to report to the Committees on Appropriations by December 15, 1986, on the results of that review and on its revised procurement plans for this program.

PACOM C3

The conferees agree to provide $11,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to complete the planned Regency Net study, "The Acquisition Plan for Regency Net-Pacific High Frequency Radio Systems," and report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by June 1, 1987. The study should cover at least the following issues: compliance with the requirement to incorporate Tri-Service Waveform in all new production radios with anti-jam capabilities to ensure compatibility with other radios; modification of European Regency Net radio equipment to accommodate requirements for use in the Pacific through the use of increased power and different antennas; compatibility of encryption devices; and the feasibility of using Regency Net components as an interim measure for Naval afloat connectivity until the Navy's High Frequency Anti-Jam assets are available to provide connectivity.

VIABLE

The conferees agree to provide the full amount requested by the Army in its budget to Congress. However, at least $20,000,000 is available only for Reserve forces automation in consonance with the plan required above. This should be clearly identified on DD Form 1414, Base for Reprogramming Actions. The Secretary of Defense should disclose how these funds will be used in his plan to Congress. No funds are available to expand the VIABLE system without explicit, formal approval from the Major Automated Information Systems Review council.

SUPERCOMPUTERS

The conferees agree to provide the full amount requested by the Army in its budget to Congress. Together with the funds appropriated last year, the Army will be able to procure the two supercomputers that have been approved to date by the Major Automated Information Systems Review Council (MAISRC). The conferees, however, disapprove the Army's reprogramming request number FY 86-58PA to purchase a third supercomputer which is premature in light of the Army's inability to justify it to the MAISRC. This denial does not prejudice future requests. However, the Defense Department is reminded not to request funds from Congress for major automated information systems which cannot pass internal Departmental oversight reviews. The funds proposed for reprogramming have been rescinded.

CORPORATE DATA BASE

The conferees agree that the Army's corporate data base concept is not sufficiently defined to allow procurement of hardware in fiscal year 1987. A March, 1986 Army audit on the data element standardization program shows that much internal planning remains to be done before acquisition of hardware and accompanying software is appropriate for the corporate data base. Further, the large acquisition has not been approved by the Major Automated Information Systems Review Council. The conferees direct the Comptroller of the Defense Department to ensure that no funds in any appropriation or in any fiscal year are expended on the corporate data base initiative in any fiscal year other than those needed to define system requirements and accomplish the necessary planning.

AUTOMATION FOR THE RESERVE FORCES

The conferees are concerned about the Defense Department's failure to field automation support for the Army Reserve forces in spite of substantial appropriations made by the Congress since 1979 for this requirement, or simply to develop a detailed, executable plan to accomplish this objective. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Appropriations and Armed Services Committees by March 1, 1987, on his plan to provide automation support for Army Reserve Forces.

The Secretary of Defense must certify that:

The Defense Department has afforded a top priority to this requirement;

It has a detailed plan and acquisition strategy that meets fundamental automation requirements of the Army National Guard and Army Reserve, to include the functions of office automation, training (particularly at remote locations and for unit staffs), readiness and mobilization planning/execution/deployment;

The plan will result in a standard, integrated mobilization system for the active Army, Army National Guard, and Army Reserve;

Sufficient funds are budgeted in fiscal year 1988 and the five succeeding fiscal years to accomplish these objectives and are dedicated to this purpose only;

Funding for all costs to include purchase of all computer equipment, all new software development, software redesign of standard Army systems, communications, and integration is clearly visible to Congress and traceable to all appropriations and line items where budgeted;

A detailed schedule is in place to have a fully deployed system by January, 1990 and a commitment made by the Secretary of Defense that the milestones will be met with state-of-the-art technology;

The acquisition is baselined to avoid subsequent perturbations to system configuration;

There is a single certified program manager at the general officer level (civilian or military), whose appointment is no shorter than four years, whose sole mission is to field the Reserve Forces Automation System, who is fully chartered in writing by the Secretary and Chief of Staff of the Army (to answer directly to the Secretary), and who has a substantial background in acquisition of large automated information systems;

That the program manager has complete control over and accountability for all personnel and financial resources for this project including allocations of funds to other Army programs necessary to accomplish his mission;

Acquisitions to be conducted under the plan will be cost effective and fully competitive;

That the system can function on a selective, limited, or all-out basis for wartime situations and can provide all day-to-day data and management information processing needs in peacetime;

And that the capability provided by this plan will meet to a substantial degree the requirements of the original Mission Element Needs Statement and the Request for Proposal for the Continental Army Management Information System.

The conferees prefer an A-109 competitive acquisition for a total system to meet Army Reserve Forces automation requirements. Such an approach would have to include hardware, software, communications, integration, and interfaces to other Army systems. The system to be procured would have to be decentralized, self-sufficient, self-sustaining, capable of operating in both the vertical and horizontal modes, and incorporating distributed data bases and data processing capabilities as widely dispersed as the Guard and Reserve Forces themselves. A request for Proposal to industry under this approach must have no constraints other than communications interfaces with other Army systems, and must satisfy the requirements of the original CAMIS mission elements needs statement.

The conferees would consider alternate strategies that accomplish the objectives stated above and that would result in a fully deployed, integrated system by January 1990. If the Department proposes no alternatives, however, an RFP conforming to the above guidance should be prepared for issuance upon approval of the Secretary's plan by the Appropriations Committees in April, 1987.

The Department is notified that the House Appropriations Committee intends to conduct a hearing on the Secretary's plan shortly after it is submitted, at which time the Comptroller of the Defense Department will justify it to the Committee.

MANEUVER CONTROL SYSTEM

The conferees agree to $56,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees also agree that procurement of nondevelopmental equipment under the MCS program should not be initiated until the Army submits the report directed by the House to be submitted no later than February 1, 1987, and that procurement of military standard equipment proceed as provided by the House.

The conferees agree to provide $42,900,000 as proposed by the House rather than $15,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. These funds are provided with the expectation that the Department of Defense will soon approve full rate production. In the event that full rate production is not approved, the conferees direct that funds in excess of those required for 12 months of production at the approved rate may not be reprogrammed without prior Congressional approval.

GAS MASK PROGRAM

The conferees recommend no new fiscal year 1987 funding, but would consider a reprogramming request if a contract can be awarded to the second source of production during fiscal year 1987. The conferees understand that a multiyear contract will be awarded to the winner of the current competition using funds provided last year. The award to the second source is to be make after the technical design package has been validated, a process that is likely to take 12 months.

The conferees have no objection to the awarding of a multiyear contract covering the period when both producers are establishing their production lines. However, the conferees expect that annual competitive awards based on price, quality and performance will be initiated for this program at the earliest opportunity.

P-3C AIRCRAFT

The conferees agree to provide $312,388,000 to procure nine P-3C aircraft of which four are to be Naval Reserve aircraft; three are to be active forces aircraft, and the mission of the remaining two aircraft is discussed in the accompanying classified annex of the statement of managers.

ADVERSARY AIRCRAFT

In fiscal years 1985 and 1986, Congress provided funds to procure F-16N adversary aircraft. In order to provide a smooth transition into the Navy fighter weapons school program, the Committee believes that the two-seat version of the F-16N should be among the first deliveries. This will enable the school to provide improved and more complete total crew training.

MODIFICATION OF AIRCRAFT

A-4 AIRCRAFT SERIES

In an effort to decrease the current shortfall of adversary aircraft, the conferees direct the Navy to assess all stored A-4 aircraft to determine whether sufficient service life is available in order that these aircraft can be modified for use by the Navy fighter weapons school. Additionally, the conferees have been advised that the Blue Angels will be transitioning from A-4 aircraft to the F/A-18 in the near future. The Committee believes that if sufficient service life remains in these aircraft that they should be modifed to an adversary aircraft configuration and provided to the Navy fighter weapons school.

AH-1 AIRCRAFT SERIES

The conferees agree to reduce the AH-1 modification program by $13,500,000 as a direct result of the Department's revised plan to reduce the number of AH-1 aircraft to be modified. If, however, additional funds are required to execute this modification, the Navy should reprogram funds from within the Aircraft Procurement, Navy appropriation.

OV-10 AIRCRAFT SERIES

In fiscal year 1986, the Navy was provided funds to convert OV-10A's to the "D" configuration. Funds were also provided for the OV-10 service life extension program. The Navy, however, did not execute the modification and then requested funds again in fiscal year 1987. The conferees do not support this practice, but recognize the requirement to complete this modification. Therefore, the conferees have rescinded $39,100,000, the amount less Gramm-Rudman that was appropriated in fiscal year 1986 for this modification, and approved the fiscal year 1987 budget request for this program.

SH-2F AIRCRAFT SERIES

The conferees agree to provide $36,485,000 for the SH-2F LAMPS MK-I helicopter modification and upgrade program as proposed by the House.

HARM BLOCK IV UPGRADE AND THE HARM LOW COST SEEKER

The conferees strongly support the services' requirement to upgrade the HARM missile as soon as possible to counter the increased sophistication of new target radars and new ECCM techniques not originally specified for the HARM missile. The conferees also agree that it is in the national interest to broaden the industrial base for the production of anti-radiation missile. Consequently, the conferees have agreed to guidelines for the funding of future production of anti-radiation missiles that respond to the concerns of both the House and Senate about the incorporation of alternative seekers into the HARM missile and future anti-radiation missiles.

The conferees direct that:

1. The development and integration of a Low Cost Seeker (LCS) compatible with HARM will be completed as fast as possible, for the purpose of incorporation into production HARM missiles. This direction is consistent with the written commitment made to the Congress by the Deputy Secretary of Defense on November 8, 1983 that"immediate development and application of a lower cost seeker for HARM" was required and that DOD would "ensure a rapid and efficient technology transfer to the contractors who will compete for production."

2. Beginning with missiles funded in fiscal year 1989, the LCS shall be phased into production. Not less than 800 HARM production missiles in the first year of LCS production shall incorporate LSC, and not less than 1,200 HARM production missiles in the second and subsequent years shall incorporate LCS, procured from the present LSC contractors.

3. Program management for LCS shall be transferred immediately to the Naval Air Systems Command, and technical management of LCS will be retained by the Naval Weapons Center, China Lake, California.

4. The proposed Block IV seeker design (or any derivative thereof) may be produced beginning in fiscal year 1990, provided that the Secretary of Defense certifies not later than December 15, 1986 that implementation of a Block IV program will be done at no cost to the government, and provided that the contractor agrees to transfer design data to the government for the purpose of establishing a second production source, should such establishment be desired by the Department.

5. The Department of Defense shall include in its fiscal year 1988 budget sufficient procurement for production start-up and long-lead items necessary for initial production of LCS/HARM in fiscal year 1989. The Navy and Air Force shall identify as separate items the procurement funding for both the HARM Block IV and the LCS seekers for HARM in its budget documentation to Congress, beginnning in fiscal year 1988.

6. The Low Cost Seeker development program shall form the basis for an advanced ARM development/production program with the same contractors who are presently developing the HARM Low Cost Seeker. The advanced ARM program shall be pursued as a joint Navy and Air Force program, with the Navy as Executive Agent. The new development shall be managed and controlled by the Naval Weapons Center, China Lake, California, to include the letting of contracts for work controlled and directed by that Center, in the same manner as was the case for the LCS development program. The Secretary of Defense shall ensure that adequate funding if provided by the Navy and Air Force to support this development.

AIM-9 SIDEWINDER MISSILE

The conferees agree to provide $35,800,000 rather than the $46,277,000 proposed by the House and $30,677,000 by the Senate.

The combined Navy and Air Force allowances reduce the fiscal year 1987 program to a level that will support one rather than two contractors. The conferees note that Department's future procurement plans will support only one producer. The conferees expect that the Department will competitively award a 5 year multiyear contract starting in 1987. The purpose of this multiyear contract is to insure the existence of a warm production base until a follow-on missile, or a product improvement to the current AIM-9 missile, are ready for production.

PHOENIX

PHOENIX ADVANCE PROCUREMENT

The conferees agree to provide $267,272,000 for Phoenix procurement as proposed by the Senate and $20,000,000 for Phoenix advance procurement. Furthermore, the conferees agree to the establishment of a second competitive source of production for the Phoenix and hereby approve the Department's reprograming request fiscal year 85-65PA which will provide $85,000,000 for non-recurring costs to establish the second source. These reprogrammed funds plus the $130,000,000 provided this year provide all of the up front costs.

MK-48 ADCAP TORPEDO

The conferees agree to provide $254,770,000 for the MK-48 ADCAP torpedo program. In fiscal year 1986, Congress provided $417,437,000 to procure 123 MK-48 ADCAP torpedos. The conferees are pleased to see that the current prime contractor is continuing its efforts to reduce the MK-48 ADCAP costs which resulted in the submission of favorable not-to-exceed estimates. The conferees believe that cost reduction efforts should be continued and direct the Navy not to limit the quantity of MK-48 ADCAP torpedoes to be procured to 123 units, and purchase as many torpedoes as possible within the funds provided to date. Since only 123 torpedoes were authorized, the Navy should also seek approval for this increase from the Committees on Armed Services.

MK-50, ADVANCED LIGHTWEIGHT TORPEDO

The conferees agree to provide $68,137,000 for the MK-50 advanced lightweight torpedo as proposed by the Senate of which $19,387,000 is to be used for second source qualification as proposed by the House.

MK-46 LIGHTWEIGHT TORPEDO

The conferees agree to provide a total of $180,036,000 the fully requested amount for the MK-46 torpedo program, MK-46 modifications, and MK-46 advance procurement. This sum is over the amount recommended by either Chamber and is being provided even though the multiyear contract was recently negotiated substantially below the budget request. These savings along with the substantial savings from the first the MK-46 multiyear procurement had been proposed for transfer or recission. The conferees direct the Navy to use these funds to buy out one year early the multiyear contract in fiscal year 1987. The conferees direct that the Navy proceed expeditiously in this regard and if additional funds are required to execute the conferees direction, the Navy is encouraged to submit a reprogramming action.

VERTICAL LAUNCHED ASROC

The conferees agree to provide $74,289,000 for the Vertical Launch ASROC (VLA) program.

Because of continued technical problems and testing delays, the conferees agree that none of the funds are to be obligated for the procurement of law rate initial production of 200 rockets pending successful completion of field tests for CTV-3A, CTV-4, and FTR-1 through FTR-X. This prohibition is not intended to affect the second source funds. The conferees also direct that a report of the flight test results be provided both the House and Senate Appropriations Committees prior to contract award for procurement of 200 low rate initial production rockets. If the testing schedule continues to slip, the Navy, with the approval of both House and Senate Appropriations Committees, should proceed with procuring essential long lead material and equipment. The conferees believe that the funds should be allocated as follows: $9,000,000 for VLA advance procurement, and $9,800,000 for those items that would reduce risk and expedite procurement of VLA missiles such as rocket motor transition to industry, acceptance gauges and fleet introduction and production planning and support.

SUBMARINE LAUNCHED MOBILE MINE

Last year, the conferees stated that they would entertain a reprogramming request for the MK-67 submarine launched mobile mine to maintain program continuity. The conferees agree that the Navy should consider reprogramming funds to cover the fiscal year 1986 contract option if program continuity is desired.

SHIPBUILDING COMPETITION

The conferees agree to support efforts by the Navy to compete sole source shipbuilding programs when it is clear that competition will benefit the government.

SSN–21

The conferees agree to provide $375,000,000 for the advance procurement of SSN–21 nuclear components and detail design instead of $187,800,000 as proposed by the House and $266,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

DDG–51 DESTROYER

The conferees agree to provide $1,670,300,000 to procure two DDG–51 destroyers provided that one ship is awarded to a second source shipbuilder.

MSH MINE SWEEPER/HUNTER

The conferees agree to the Senate language which stipulates that of the funds remaining available for the MSH program, $5,000,000 shall be used to continue work studying the surface effect hull form technology including the related shock attenuation benefits in conjunction with the first MSH ship construction efforts.

MHC COASTAL MINE HUNTER

On September 29, 1986, the Department of the Navy submitted a report, to the House Appropriations Committee, on the costs and risks of alternative acquisition approaches for the MHC program. The report outlines the Navy's plans to proceed with the following approach: Complete the contract design currently ongoing with Intermarine, and the first ship is constructed by a U.S. division of Intermarine in consortium with a U.S. builder. The remaining ships would be constructed by Intermarine U.S. and one other U.S. shipbuilder.

The conferees agree that the Navy should continue pursuing this course of action with fiscal year 1986 MSH funds provided that all MHC ships are built in the United States and that the follow-on ships be awarded competitively and selected by the Navy.

T–AGOS OCEAN SURVEILLANCE SHIPS

The conferees agree to provide $228,000,000 for the T–AGOS ocean surveillance ship program instead of $148,100,000 as proposed by the House and $130,100,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees also agree that three monohull T–AGOS and one SWATH T–AGOS should be purchased with these funds. It should be noted that the conferees agree to rescind the fiscal year 1986 funds for the SWATH T–AGOS.

AO–CONVERSION

The conferees agree to provide $40,000,000 for the AO oiler conversion program. The conferees direct that these funds be used for both the conversion and any repair package required on this ship. The conferees also support the Senate position that the expanded vessel shall be configured to a 180,000 barrel capacity, and not as an ammunition variant transport.

LANDING CRAFT

The conferees are concerned over the continued delays with the special warfare craft-medium program which is adversely impacting the ability of the Naval Special Warfare forces to perform their mission effectively. The conferees agree to provide $19,000,000 for the special warfare craft and direct the Navy to expeditiously complete the first craft as a prototype vessel. The Navy should also consider utilizing a contractor that has Surface Effect Ship experience to complete the first craft. The conferees believe that the fiscal year 1987 craft should be used as an option to successful construction of the prototype. In order to maintain a highly competitive program, the fiscal year 1988 request should include sufficient funds to cover the start-up costs associated with the award of one craft to a second source.

SERVICE CRAFT

The conferees agree to provide $47,900,000 for Service Craft of which $35,000,000 is available to competitively procure and convert civilian fishing vessels into coastal hydrographic vessels as proposed by the House. The conferees believe that the current market provides an opportunity to obtain conversion candidate vessels at very reasonable prices particularly if the Navy does not limit the conversion candidates to solely fishing vessels.

STRATEGIC SEALIFT

The conferees agree to provide $77,800,000 for Strategic Sealift as proposed by the Senate. The conferees direct the Navy to select the ships to be purchased in accordance with the priorities established under MSC release PAO 8-1-86 and include: Clean Product-Handy Sized Tankers; Breakbulk Cargo ships; Semi-submersible Heavy Lift ships; Container ships for conversion to Auxiliary Crane ships; Roll-on Roll-off ships; or any combination thereof.

The Navy should examine the possibility of using a portion of these funds to take advantage of a unique opportunity to acquire a Roll-on Roll-off vessel built in the United States since 1975 which is a sister ship of vessels already in the reserve fleet.

The conferees are concerned that the Department of Defense may be constructing new vessels while the Maritime Administration maintains similar vessels which are the property of the government due to private default. Therefore, the conferees direct the Defense Department to review the inventory of existing government assets prior to initiation of procurement contracts for support vessels. Further, the Secretary of Defense, or his designee, must certify that comparable vessels, able to meet the established mission requirements, are not available to DoD.

SEALIFT ENHANCEMENT

The conferees agree to deny the funding request for sealift enhancement as proposed by the House. The conferees believe that the program concept as presented to the respective Defense Appropriations Subcommittees has merit, however, the current request lacks justification. The Navy is encouraged to revisit this issue in fiscal year 1988 provided that more specific detail is present with the budget request.

SEALIFT SUPPORT EQUIPMENT

The conferees agree to $70,277,000 as proposed by the House, of which $45,000,000 is provided specifically for procurement of 350 Seashed Systems. The conferees further agree that the Seashed program should be funded at a level that supports cost efficient production rates supportive of two production sources.

ITEMS LESS THAN $900,000—SHIP SUPPORT EQUIPMENT

The Conferees agree to a reduction of $8,200,000 from this line without prejudice to any single item within the requested program.

NAVAL SPECIAL WARFARE EQUIPMENT

The Navy requested a total of $31,707,000 for naval special warfare equipment which included funds for Seal Delivery Vehicles (SDVs). Because of the extensive shortcomings in the MK-VIII and MK-IX SDVs currently in service and the recent slippage in the programs, the conferees direct that the Navy terminate any further procurement of the MK-VIII and MK-IX SDVs. The conferees also direct that the funds originally intended to procure SDVs ($6,656,000) should instead be available to purchase used commercial dry mini-submarines to assess their performance against the tentative operational requirements for an Advanced Seal Delivery System. The conferees expect the fiscal year 1988 budget request for an Advanced Seal Delivery System to reflect the results of the assessment of dry commercial mini-submarines directed by this report. The conferees consider this account an item of special interest.

AN/SQR-17 ACOUSTIC PROCESSOR

The conferees direct the Navy to reprogram $7,600,000 to support the Navy's plan for improving the reliability of LAMPS MK-1 data link system and ensuring LAMPS MK-1 and MK-III weapon system interoperability for both active and reserve ships.

U.S. NAVAL RESERVE ANTISUBMARINE WARFARE (ASW)

FRIGATE MODERNIZATION PROGRAM

The conferees agree to provide $16,929,000 for the Naval Reserve ASW frigate modernization program provided that these funds are to be used solely to procure 20 AN/SQR-17A acoustic processors. Any changes to the current AN/SQR-17A procurement strategy must be approved by the conferees.

AUTOMATIC CARRIER LANDING SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to $23,092,000 for Automatic Carrier Landing Systems. Recognizing the need to support the current fleet systems, $7,092,000 will be available for the SPN-42 DART Upgrade program. For the replacement SPN-46 system, $10,000,000 is for the SPN-46 Maintenance Trainer, and $6,000,000 is for one production SPN-46 unit. The funds for the one production unit will not be available until after the Navy has notified the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the successful completion of system testing and of the Navy production decision.

SONOBUOY PROCUREMENT

The conferees agree with House report language directing the Navy to submit a justification for its proposed sonobuoy procurement strategy before obligating any fiscal year 1987 procurement funds. The conferees recognize that initial production items from a new contractor will have higher unit costs than items procured from a qualified contractor who has been in production for several years. This can be addressed as a separate issue from the higher unit costs resulting from award of uneconomic procurement quantities to too many contractors.

SQQ-89 ON-BOARD TRAINER

The conferees agreed to provide $37,014,000 for the MK-116 Fire Control System which includes funds for 19 SQQ-89 on-board trainers. The conferees direct that one SQQ-89 on-board trainer be awarded to a second source. The conferees believe that establishing a second source will provide future cost savings for the Navy while, at the same time, provide an additional base for the planned competition of the SQQ-89 anti-submarine warfare combat system.

MK-92 CORT

The conferees agree to provide $116,000,000 for six MK-92 CORT Upgrade Modifications for fiscal year 1987. The conferees direct the Navy to report on the procurement strategy for the $116,000,000 provided for fiscal year 1987 no later than November 15, 1986.

COMPUTER ACQUISITION PROGRAM

The conferees agree to provide $192,279,000 for the Navy's computer acquisition program. A general reduction of $29,000,000 has been made without prejudice to any individual program.

AMPHIBIOUS EQUIPMENT

The conferees agree that the Navy report on the P-1 series pontoon directed by the Senate report is no longer necessary, and agree to $48,100,000 from within available funds for the Navy to maintain the industrial base for production of logistics-over-the-shore items. Procurement of these steel pontoons will follow approval of the sources of funds by the Committees on Appropriations. Due to delays in the availability of lighterage for these systems, the Navy will negotiate storage rights for these items at the manufacturers facilities at no cost to the government until the Navy can accept delivery.

OTHER PROCUREMENT, NAVY GENERAL REDUCTION

The conferees agree that the Navy has been budgeting program levels under this appropriation, which it has been unable to execute according to its own plans. The conferees further agree to a general reduction of $20,000,000 for Other Procurement, Navy for this reason, and direct the Navy to base future budget requests on more realistic projections of its ability to administer programs.

COASTAL DEFENSE AUGMENTATION

The conferees agree to provide $200,000,000 for Coastal Defense Augmentation as proposed by the Senate instead of no funding as proposed by the House. Consistent with the direction in the Senate report, the Coast Guard shall work with the Navy to determine what equipment shall be purchased with these funds. The Navy shall continue to be responsible for the contracting and execution management of these purchases. The conferees also agree that the Coast Guard should consider using a portion of these funds to procure AN/SQR-17 acoustic processors for antisubmarine warfare mission of the medium endurance cutters.

AIR DEFENSE COMPETITION

The conferees agree to fully fund the budget request for the Air Defense Competition. It has been authorized and funded by Congress in the face of stringent reductions required by Gramm-Rudman-Hollings and is intended to inject real and effective competition into Air Force fighter procurement. The Air Force must demonstrate that the ongoing competition between the F–16 and F–20 has been serious and fair, and considers the relative going-in positions of the two contenders. Although the flyaway cost of the aircraft should be given due Consideration, the life cycle cost to support the aircraft, including possible reduced manpower requirements, should be an important factor. The conferees expect that the Air Force will submit a full accounting to Congress upon completion of the competition providing the rationale for its aircraft selection.

T–46A AIRCRAFT

The conferees agree that the T–46A production program should continue and have provided $124,000,000 for procurement of 12 aircraft, $27,000,000 for advance procurement of 44 aircraft in fiscal year 1988, and $8,400,000 for initial spares and repair parts. Due to the unusual protracted delay in the T–46A production program, the conferees believe that it would be in the best interest of the Government to reform the existing contract. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to negotiate a reformed contract, within the current and prior year funds appropriated by Congress for T–46A production, that achieves an efficient production rate and demonstrates an acceptable program acquisition unit cost. Bill language has been included to accomplish these objectives.

In order to provide maximum flexibility to the Air Force when conducting new contract negotiations, the conferees decided against a legislative requirements to be on-contract by a certain date. However, it should be clearly understood that the Appropriations Committees expect the Air Force to conduct and conclude T–46A contract negotiations as soon as possible, but not later than June 1, 1987.

The conferees also agree to provide mandatory cost caps for the T–46A production program. Congress expects that the Air Force and its contractors will complete the T-46A program at or below the Air Force's original program cost estimated in constant fiscal year 1986 dollars, in spite of the unfortunate program interruption that has occurred. The bill language directs the Air Force to recompete the T-46A production contracts in fiscal year 1989 if these cost objectives are not met, based on actual contractor performance under the reformed contract. The conferees further expect that the Air Force will budget for continued T-46A production in fiscal year 1988 and subsequent fiscal years as long as contractor performance is satisfactory. The Air Force should report to the Committee on Appropriations and Armed Services its revised T-46A acquisition strategy and the results of contract negotiations no later than July 1, 1987.

Finally, since the conferees have agreed to fund the T-46 program, the conferees believe it would be in the best interest of the Air Force to reprogram funding for the T-46 flight training simulator program and reinstate the original competitively awarded simulator contract.

C-5B AIRCRAFT

The conferees are aware that there may be savings in the C-5B production program due either to possible defective pricing or due to renegotiation of the final production lot. Any such savings in any fiscal year are not available for use by the Air Force unless approved in advance by the Committee on Appropriations.

C-17 AIRCRAFT

The conferees agree that C-17 tooling costs in fiscal year 1987 are more properly financed in the Research, Development, Test and Evaluation appropriation rather than in procurement. Production tooling for the C-17 in future years will follow the agreed-on tooling policy discussed elsewhere in this report. The conferees agree to provide $650,000,000 to RDT&E (including tooling), $15,000,000 in the procurement line for production planning, and $35,000,000 for advance procurement.

The conferees are pleased that the Air Force has decided to conduct a competition for the production of C-17 wings. The Air Force should report the results of the competition and the Comptroller General should provide his independent assessment of the competition to the Committees on Appropriations as required by the House report.

HH-60 HELICOPTER

The Senate includes language directing the Air Force to use $25,000,000 of funds previously provided for the HH-60 program to procure three UH-60A helicopters. The conferees note that sufficient funds to procure nine UH-60A helicopters remain in the HH-60 program. The conferees agree with the Senate that the Air Force needs to expand its combat rescue helicopter capability and therefore direct the Air Force to use the funds appropriated for the HH-60 to procure 9 UH-60A helicopters.

SPARES AND REPAIR PARTS

The Conferees agree to provide $3,036,803,000 for procurement of aircraft spares and repair parts. The following adjustments were made.

[Dollars in millions]

F-15	−$16.7
F-16	−64.0

B-1B MODIFICATIONS

The conferees agree that the cost of B-1B retrofit modifications intended to provide a standard configuration to the 100 aircraft fleet are part of the $20,500,000,000 baseline cost of the B-1B bomber program in constant fiscal year 1981 dollars. The conferees also agree to provide $90,000,000, which is the assumed authorization level.

B-52 MODIFICATIONS

The Senate reduced funding for B-52 modifications by $158,600,000 while the House reduced this program by $16,200,000. The conferees agree with the House funding level. However, the conferees are concerned with use of prior year B-52 modification funds for other purposes and have rescinded prior year B-52 funds to demonstrate the disapproval of large scale internal reprogramming from the B-52 modifications program. Further, the conferees direct that future savings in any fiscal year in any B-52 modification are not available for any other use without prior advance approval from the Committees on Appropriations. In addition, the Air Force is advised to clearly show engineering change or allowances in all modification programs in future budgets to the Congress.

F-4D MODIFICATIONS

The conferees agree to provide $50,000,000 in aircraft procurement and research and development for F-4D modifications as recommended by the Senate.

OTHER PRODUCTION CHARGES

The conferees agree to provide $3,508,740,000 for other Production Charges. The conferees also agree to the House language requiring establishment of separate P-1 lines for common electronic warfare equipment in future budgets submitted to Congress. In addition, any savings resulting from the LANTIRN economic price adjustment contract clause in any fiscal year are not available for use by the Air Force unless approved in advance by the Committees on Appropriations. The following adjustments were made:

TECHNICAL DATA

The conferees chose to exclude the House bill language concerning technical data in Air Force aircraft production contracts this year. The issue will be addressed in hearings by the Appropriations Committees next year. A determination will then be made whether a legislative requirement to ensure that Air Force contracts for major aircraft systems and subsystems include adequate levels of technical data is necessary.

AIM-9 SIDEWINDER MISSILE

The conferees agree to provide $41,200,000 rather than the $93,836,000 proposed by the House and $36,436,000 by the Senate.

The combined Navy and Air Force allowances reduce the fiscal year 1987 program to a level that will support one rather than two contractors. The conferees note that the Department's future procurement plans will support only one producer. The conferees expect that the Department will competitively award a 5 year multiyear contract starting in 1987. The purpose of this multiyear contract is to insure the existence of a warm production base until a follow-on missile, or a product improvement to the current AIM-9 missle, are ready for production.

HARM BLOCK IV UPGRADE AND THE HARM LOW COST SEEKER

The conferees agreed to directives concerning future production of HARM which are applicable to both the Air Force and the Navy. Those directives are stated in the Weapons Procurement, Navy section of this report.

AMRAAM

AMRAAM ADVANCE PROCUREMENT

The conferees agree to provide $537,328,000 for procurement of 180 AMRAAMs, and $59,200,000 for advance procurement to support a fiscal year 1988 buy of not more than 630 missiles.

The House bill contained language which restricted obligation and expenditure of AMRAAM procurement funds. The conferees agree to modify that restriction, as follows: No funds may be obligated or expended for Lot I low-rate production of the AMRAAM until the missile has demonstrated, in flight test, the capability to successfully engage a minimum of two targets with two missiles on the same intercept in an electronic countermeasure environment after the missiles have been launched. This restriction does not apply to long-lead procurement. For purposes of this provision, a successful engagement requires the missile to resolve and establish independent terminal tracking against at least two targets on the same intercept under ECM conditions. Language has been included in the bill which embodies this restriction.

NAVSTAR GPS

The conferees agree with the Senate's direction that the Air Force should report to the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House on options for and the Department's plan for realigning the current GPS multiyear production contract to minimize storage costs due to delays in scheduled launches. The conferees agree that no more than $61 million may be obligated before receipt of this report. These funds are needed in early October for continuation of the multiyear contract. In addition, any savings resulting under the economic price adjustment contract clause in any fiscal year are not available for use by the Air Force unless approved in advance by the Committees on Appropriations.

DEFENSE METEOROLOGICAL SATELLITE PROGRAM

The conferees understand that the Air Force has identified a need for prior year funds to convert DMSP satellites from Atlas E to Titan II launch vehicles. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a reprogramming request to the Committees on Appropriations to accomplish this objective by February 1, 1987.

DEFENSE SUPPORT PROGRAM (DSP)

The conferees agree to provide $63,615,000 to continue the Defense Support Program in 1987 rather than the $108,515,000 proposed by the House or the $36,315,000 proposed by the Senate.

The conferees agree to provide $222,700,000 in advance procurement for a 4 or 5 year multiyear procurement of 5 satellites rather than the $250,000,000 proposed by the Senate or $134,400,000 proposed by the House. The Committees will consider a reprogramming request if necessary. The conferees direct the Air Force to enter into no more than a 5 year multiyear contract which aligns production with projected launch dates as much as possible within the advance procurement funds provided. The conferees request the Air Force to report to the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House the specific production and launch profiles along with negotiated savings over annual production.

The conferees agree to the inclusion of enabling multiyear procurement bill language as proposed by the Senate.

SPACE BOOSTERS

The conferees agree of provide $27,700,000 for space booster procurement and $180,000,000 for advance procurement for the Titan IV multiyear contract. The conferees direct the Air Force to budget for the costs of the new medium expendable launch vehicles in separate P-1 line items in future budget requests to Congress. In addition, the conferees expect that the Air Force will notify the Committees on Appropriations using a reprogramming request prior to obligating prior year funds provided by the fiscal year 1986 supplemental appropriation Act for the Space Recovery Program. The Air Force should allocate such prior year funds between the space boosters and medium expandable launch vehicles procurement and advance procurement line items, as needed. The conferees also agree to the House requirement that the CELV contract include a priced option to hold at least 4 vehicles in reserve.

TACTICAL AIR CONTROL SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS

The conferees recommend $51,500,000 for the Modular Control Element, and reduce the request by $12,816,000. This reduction is made without prejudice and does not preclude reprogramming by the Air Force for the Anti-Radiation Missile (ARM) Alarm Sensor or the Automated Force and Mission Planning system for NATO.

TACAN

The conferees agree to provide $8,900,000 for TACAN as proposed by the House, and to identify this item as a matter of special interest; no reprogrammings or distributions of general reductions shall be applied to this item without prior approval of the Committees on Appropriations. The conferees direct that any acquisition of FAA VORTAC-TACAN antennas shall be acquired through a competitive procurement of any low power consumption, low maintenance TACAN antenna, either electronically or mechanically scanned.

The conferees recommend $55,000,000 for the Weather Observation and Forecast Program, which is intended to fully fund the $25,195,000 budget request for the Next Generation Weather Radar (NEXRAD), and the $7,943,000 budget request for the Improved Weather Reconnaissance (IWR) program along with $1,700,000 for IWR sets to support the NOAA segment of this program from within this line.

RANGE IMPROVEMENTS

The conferees recommend $108,538,000 for the Range Improvements program, which is intended to fully fund the $35,332,000 budget request for the Homestead Air Combat Maneuvering Instrumentation System and the Strategic Training Route Complex, (STRC) request consisting of various items totalling $66,050,000.

JOINT TACTICAL COMMUNICATIONS PROGRAM

The conferees recommend $155,693,000 without prejudice. The Air Force should seek reprogramming funding if necessary to meet budgeted requirements.

WEAPONS STORAGE SECURITY

The Conferees concur with the Senate language directing the Air Force to report back to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by February 1, 1987, on options to streamline management of this program, particularly to consider selection of one prime contractor to coordinate both vault production and facility construction, so as to expedite the availability of these vital new facilities. The conferees also direct the Air Force to reflect existing NATO accords and cost efficiency considerations in the conduct of this study.

BASE LEVEL DATA AUTOMATION

The conferees agree to provide $49,221,000 for the Air Force base level data automation program. A general reduction of $50,000,000 has been made without prejudice to any individual program. The Committees on Appropriations would consider a reprogramming request in this line if warranted.

CHEMICAL BIOLOGICAL DEFENSE PROGRAM

The conferees agree to the DoD plan to procure 104,000 MCU-2/P gas masks to fulfill critical Air Force and Navy requirements for chemical protection. Due to delays in the availability of the technical data package, the conferees agree to defer funding of the improved MCU-2/P mask.

The conferees generally concur with the House initiative on procurement of major components and direct the Air Force to procure components for the Collective Protection System from domestic sources to the greatest extent possible. The Air Force will report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by March 1, 1987, on the percentage of domestically produced components used in the Collective Protection Systems and options to increase domestic content.

The conferees further agree that future budget requests for survivable semihardened collective protective systems should be funded as a procurement, rather than as a military construction item.

BASE PROCURED EQUIPMENT

The conferees recommended $55,000,000 for Base Procured Equipment, which includes $8,000,000 to fully fund the budget request to buy out uneconomical leases.

NAVY RESERVE COMBAT SEARCH AND RESCUE HELICOPTERS

The conferees agree to provide $38,000,000 as proposed by the House and not to provide $30,000,000 for HCS (HH-60) helicopters as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree with the Senate's concerns over unit costs of the Navy's program. The conference allowance is for at least 4 combat search and rescue helicopters. No funds are provided for non-recurring costs which the conferees believe are adequately provided for through other programs.

KC-130T TANKER AIRCRAFT

The Senate recedes to the House position to appropriate $40,000,000 for two KC-130T Marine Corps Reserve aircraft that will be based at Stewart Air Base in New York. In addition, to clarify the congressional intent with respect to the FY 1986 program, the $40,000,000 appropriated is for two KC-130T aircraft.

ACMI

The conferees agree with the ACMI requirements of both the House and Senate. Specifically, $15,200,000 of the $50,000,000 appropriated to the Air National Guard for miscellaneous equipment are only for increased TACTS/ACMI time sharing facilities at Savannah and Jacksonville ANG bases. An additional $15,200,000 is available only for construction of ACMI systems in Wisconsin and Michigan in consonance with the Senate report. These earmarked funds should be clearly designated on DD Form 1414, Base for Reprogramming Actions.

DEFENSE PRODUCTION ACT PURCHASES

The conferees recommend $13,000,000 for Defense Production Act Purchases, of which $5,000,000 is for the discontinuous-silicon carbide reinforced aluminum project, and of which $8,000,000 is to be merged with $4,000,000 previously appropriated for phase I of the Reclamation of Superalloy Scrap project to permit initiation of an enhanced phase I project.

On September 30, 1986, the President submitted a budget amendment requesting appropriation language in the Fiscal Year 1987 Defense Appropriations Bill, earmarking $3,000,000 for one Defense Production Act project. This project was previously requested by the President and funded in the Fiscal Year 1985 Defense Appropriations Act.

The conferees affirm the strong statements of the House and Senate reports pertaining to the administration of funds appropriated for the Defense Production Act. The conferees consider the budget amendment forwarded to the Congress to be inappropriate, unnecessary, and cumbersome.

The President requested money for this purpose in his Fiscal Year 1985 Budget. Congress provided and the President approved the amount requested for this purpose in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 1985. All that is lacking is expeditious administration of this program. The situation is so bad that the conferees have agreed to reductions in the Fiscal Year 1987 Budget because it included requests for the second phase of projects for which the first phase—although appropriated in prior years—has yet to be initiated.

The conferees urge the Department of Defense and the Office of Management and Budget to establish a more timely and efficient process to expedite release of the remaining funds appropriated for this purpose in prior years and for fiscal year 1987. The conferees consider this an item of special congressional intent and endorse the General Accounting Office review directed by the Senate report.

The conferees agree to the following language:

UNIVERSITY RESEARCH

With the establishment of the University Research Initiative in fiscal year 1986 and rising funds for the Strategic Defense Initiative, the Department of Defense's investment in university-based research is increasing. Consequently, the Appropriations Committees need to ensure that the peer review process for the allocation of university funding is working effectively, and that mechanisms are in place to broaden the base of DoD university research commensurate with these increasing resources.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to submit a report to the Appropriations Committees by March 1, 1987, which: (1) explains in detail the current peer review process in a step-by-step fashion; (2) explains current participants in this process, including peer review panels, boards, or conferences, and how such peer reviewers are evaluated and chosen; and (3) an analysis of the potential for expanding the research base into geographic areas which at the present time receive little defense-related university funding.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT BID AND PROPOSAL

The conferees agree with the House proposal that the ceiling for fiscal year 1987 for IR&D and B&P be set at $5,331,200,000, and concur in the directive of the House that this and future ceilings be fully allocated by the Department.

UNIVERSITY PROGRAMS

The managers wish to stress the importance to our long-term national security of the Department's university technology base programs. The new Unversity Research Initiative and the closely related defense research sciences programs of the services offer substantial potential to assist in meeting our future security needs. Greater investments will be required to sustain and develop both the new University Initiative and the research programs of the services. The Committee therefore requests the Department to develop a plan for the next five years that will provide for the sustained real growth of both the University Research Initiative and the university research programs of the services, and to present the plan to the Committees by March 15, 1987.

AIRCRAFT ENGINE COMPONENT IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS

The conferees agree to provide $45,300,000 for the Navy aircraft engine component improvement program, and $114,376,000 for the Air Force aircraft engine component improvement program. The conferees share the reservations expressed by the Senate that the aircraft engine CIP programs of the military services are non-competitive, and have become entrenched to such an extent that they are not sufficiently reviewed in-house by the military services or the Department of Defense for cost savings through competitive bidding. The conferees direct the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense to examine the feasibility of gradually transitioning the financial support for these programs to the private sector and report its findings back to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate no later than April 1, 1987. The conferees agree that the military services should exert every effort to adhere to the spirit of the language in the Senate report, encouraging the award of future aircraft engine CIP contracts on the basis of competitive bids. Both the Navy and Air Force are to provide the Committees on Appropriations with a quarterly status report on aircraft engine CIP contract awards during fiscal year 1987, and clearly identify to what extent competition was involved the the contracting process.

The conferees understand that the budget reductions imposed against aircraft engine CIP programs in fiscal year 1987 may pose hardships in the event that certain engines encounter serious engineering support difficulties during the course of the fiscal year. The conferees would be willing to entertain reprograming actions, but only for those specific engines that have clearly identified support problems.

ELECTRONIC WARFARE PROGRAMS

The conferees agree to fund electronic warfare (EW) programs in their individual program elements under service control as proposed by the Senate instead of consolidated funding under the Office of the Secretary of Defense, as proposed by the House, since such consolidation might disrupt ongoing programs to an unacceptable level.

However, the conferees do share the longstanding concern of the House Armed Services Committee and others that there is unacceptable duplication and poor coordination among service EW activities. For this reason, the conferees strongly support the continued submission of an annual EW Master Plan which reflects the programmatic priorities and funding justification upon which the fiscal year 1988 budget is based. The EW Master Plan should be submitted to both Appropriations Committee by April 1, 1987.

AVIONICS FOR THE NAVY ATA, AIR FORCE ATF AND ARMY LHX

The conferees are concerned that the Services are not adequately addressing provision and funding for modern digital integrated electronics, avionics and embedded communications security for new aircraft under development. These include such important and costly programs as the Navy Advanced Tactical Aircraft (ATA), the Air Force Advanced Tactical Fighter (ATF) and the Army Light Helicopter Family (LHX) developments. The Integrated Communications, Navigation, Identification and Avionics (ICNIA) and Integrated Electronic Warfare Systems (INEWS) programs are not on track to marry up with the anticipated production schedules for these new aircraft. Without such modern electronics, these costly new aircraft will be initially unable to realize their full potential. Later modification will undoubtedly be much more costly than inclusion at production.

The conferees agreed to direct the Services to include fully integrated, digital avionics, communications, sensors, embedded communications security and other electronics on all aircraft under development. These should include the results of the ICNIA/INEWS program and such others as may be appropriate to met this intent. They further agreed that no funds appropriated by this or any other act may be committed, obligated, or expended for any new design aircraft, including the ATA, ATF, LHX, unless that design includes such fully integrated electronics. The Service Secretaries are directed to prepare a joint plan to meet the intent of this direction and to provide it through the Secretary of Defense to the Congress within 180 days.

JOINT TACTICAL INFORMATION DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM (JTIDS)

JTIDS is intended to fulfill a long-standing, urgent requirement for a highly jam-resistant, secure, digital information distribution system for use in a tactical combat environment. Within NATO, its counterpart is the Multifunctional Information Distribution System (MIDS). The MIDS design standard is substantially the JTIDS Class 2 terminal standard. Both are intended to be fully interoperable.

The conferees believe that such cooperative efforts are crucial to improved interoperability within NATO and fully support such efforts. The Department of Defense and the Services are expected to provide their full support to such cooperative programs, including the fullest possible openness in sharing design and production information and technology required to ensure their success.

In this regard, it has come to the attention of the conferees that the Air Force is considering delay of installation of the JTIDS Class 2 terminals in F-15 aircraft. Such a step would seriously limit Air Force air combat capability and readiness to face a massive, sophisticated air threat backed by extensive jamming. Worse still, it would eliminate an essential common means for language-independent interoperability with our NATO allies and sharing of the air picture so essential for successful prosecution of air combat.

To ensure continuing progress toward full and early fielding of JTIDS, the conferees agreed to direct the Air Force to report on implementing a accelerated program to install the JTIDS Class 2 terminal in all F-15D&E aircraft and, as soon as available, the Low Volume Class 2 terminal in all F-16C&D aircraft. In addition, the Secretary of the Air Force is directed to examine and report back through the Secretary of Defense to the Congress within 180 days on the feasibility and, if feasible, a pan for accelerated installation of the JTIDS Class 2 terminal in the F-15C and the Low Volume Class 2 terminal in the F-16A&B.

The conferees further agreed to direct the Navy to report on implementing an accelerated program to install, as soon as possible, the Low Volume Class 2 terminal in F/A-18 aircraft. The Secretary of the Army is directed to examine and report back through the Secretary of Defense to the Congress within 180 days on the feasibility and, if feasible, a plan for phasing in the Low Volume Class 2 terminal for Army applications in lieu of the JTIDS Class 2M Army terminal. The Army plan should include a report on production and installation plans of the JTIDS Class 2M terminal until the Low Volume Class 2 terminal is available.

The reports specified above are to be submitted to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate not later than June 30, 1987.

ADVANCED ROTORCRAFT TECHNOLOGY INTEGRATION/LHX

The conferees agree to provide $44,420,000 for Advanced Rotorcraft Technology Integration/LHX as proposed by the Senate, instead of $40,000,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees concur in the directives of the Senate concerning the LHX program, and direct that the analysis of the LHX helicopter procurement and operating costs made by the Cost Analysis Improvement Group be forwarded to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

SURFACE-TO-SURFACE MISSILE ROCKET SYSTEM

The conferees agree to provide $42,681,000 for Surface-to-Surface Missile Rocket System as proposed by the Senate, instead of no funds as proposed by the House. The entire sum is budgeted for development of the Terminal Guidance Warhead (TGW) to be carried by MLRS rockets. The conferees note the concerns expressed by the House, and direct the Army to submit not later than April 1, 1987, a report which explains and justifies in detail the requirement for TGW, including a comparison with all other guided submunition and warhead programs being funded by DoD, and which provides a complete funding profile for development and procurement, a program schedule, and an explanation of acquisition strategy.

WEAPONS AND AMMUNITION

The conferees agree to provide $12,000,000 for Weapons and Ammunition, the authorized amount. Of this sum, $11,827,000 are provided only for development and test of a lightweight anti-armor munition launched from a unmodified M-16 rifle.

ARTILLERY/MORTAR AMMUNITION DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $9,807,000 for Artillery/Mortar Ammunition Development as proposed by the House, instead of $14,807,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees endorse the position of the House that an additional new start to produce yet another smart 155-millimeter projectile is not justified as this time. Should the Army identify a firm requirement for such a program as part of the Anti-Armor Master Plan, the conferees would be willing to reconsider such a program in future years.

AIR DEFENSE ALTERNATIVES

The conferees agree to provide $83,944,000 for Air Defense Alternatives, instead of no funds as proposed by the House or $63,944,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Of the sum provided, $63,313,000 are for the Fiber Optics Guided Missile (FOG-M). The conferees concur in the concerns expressed by the Senate over the schedule and structure of the FOG-M program, as well as those expressed by the House over the adequacy of justification for pursuing FOG technology. It must be noted that last year FOG-M was being put forward as an anti-armor weapon. The House requested additional justification, including "a business plan which details the competitive development, under Army laboratory supervision, and the competitive procurement of this technology." Subsequently, the Army decided to develop FOG-M as an element of the newly announced Forward Area Air Defense System (FAADS). On September 30, 1986, the Army forwarded a highly abbreviated business plan which the conferees regard as an interim response. The Army is directed to forward a more thorough version at the time it submits the program restructuring report required by the Senate.

Of the sum provided, $20,631,000 are for Line of Sight-Heavy, the project to find a replacement for DIVAD. The conferees concur in the concerns expressed recently by the House over the pace of this project. In a letter to the Secretary of Defense on September 26, 1986, the House directed that fiscal year 1986 funds provided for the project be used to acquire, test and evaluate solely air defense systems which are currently in production and are currently in operational use. In order to allow for evaluation of systems which may be on the verge of production, the conferees agree the fiscal years 1986 and 1987 funds may be used to acquire, test and evaluate systems which either are currently in production or are ready for production. The conferees direct that all test and evaluation be completed and the Department announce a selection not later than November 26, 1987.

CONFERENCE REPORT (H. REPT. 99-1005)

FIELD ARTILLERY AMMUNITION

The conferees agree to provide $89,275,000 as proposed by the House, instead of $67,275,000 as proposed by the Senate, and to decline to transfer $18,000,000 of prior year funds as proposed by the House. The conferees note that the application of prior year funds to fiscal year 1987 tasks will bring the program to the full budgeted amount of $107,275,000.

The conferees specifically endorse the directives of the House and the Senate concerning the SADARM program. In addition, the concerns stated by the House over the realism of a 48 month total development schedule, and by the Senate over the proposal to down-select to one contractor after 30 months, are well founded. The conferees direct that the SADARM program be restructured to provide for a total schedule of 60 months, thereby ensuring that technical and financial decisions will not be driven by artificially short deadlines. The efforts now in progress should continue without interruption, and the necessary restructuring accomplished at a convenient point in the future.

PHYSICAL SECURITY

The conferees agree to provide $7,216,000 for Physical Security as proposed by the House, instead of $1,216,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The development of better equipment to protect installations and rear areas from terrorists and special forces is of high priority. The conferees are advised that the budget request is inadequate to fund the design of the Advanced Facility Intrusion Detection System (AFIDS), as had formerly been planned. Accordingly the conferees have provided $6,000,000 above the budget to continue system integration and development of AFIDS components.

ADVANCED FIELD ARTILLERY TACTICAL DATA SYSTEMS (AFATDS)

The conferees agree to provide $10,700,000 for the AFATDS program. These funds are for program office support costs only. A contract ceiling was established for the Concept Evaluation Phase (CEP) by the Army and the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate last year. Since the contract ceiling has been reached, no additional funds are required until such time as the ASRAC/JRMB reports verify that the CEP has been successfully completed and the program is ready for Full Scale Development (FSD).

The conferees are still concerned about the high risks and costs of the AFATDS program, and the schedule slips that are becoming increasingly evident. Continued support of this program beyond the CEP will hinge upon whether the performance of the system justifies the cost and if it is delivered in a timely manner. In light of these above concerns the conferees would be willing to entertain a reprogramming request for AFATDS only following submission by the Army of an updated program status report and certification by the Secretary of the Army that AFATDS can achieve all objective system requirements.

As reported by the Army, the initial test of the LFATDS system disclosed a significant improvement in mobility, deployability and distributed capabilities. The GAO also reported that LFATDS is not only the most suitable system for the Light Divisions, but has an excellent potential for cost-savings. The conferees therefore agree that the Army is to subject the LFATDS system to a full-scale operational test under the auspices of an independent DOD testing agency. Test results are to be provided to the Senate and House Appropriations Committee by July 1, 1987.

SPECIAL OPERATIONS FORCES EQUIPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $21,124,000 for Special Operations Forces Equipment as proposed by the Senate, instead of $31,242,000 as proposed by the House.

Within the amount provided, $14,678,000 are to develop an avionics package for installation in modified UH-60 and CH-47 helicopters to be used for the special operations mission. The Army is directed to use these funds to proceed with a competitive evaluation and integration of a low-cost, in-production avionics system. The conferees are advised that there exists an abundance of advanced avionics technology that could justify this requirement, and are therefore of the opinion that future requirements for research and development funds for this purpose cannot be justified.

BASE OPERATIONS

REAL PROPERTY MAINTENANCE

The conferees are aware that reductions in Base Operations and Real Property Maintenance Accounts for Army RDT&E may cause difficulty at a number of Army research and test installations. This matter came to the attention of the conferees after the funding levels had been determined. While the conferees are interested in obtaining more visibility into the cost of the support activities at the Army's test and research installations and in providing only those resources that are necessary, it is not the intent of the conferees to initiate major reductions in force at these facilities as a result of the funding provided in this bill. The conferees instruct the Army to conduct a quick, but thorough review of the support activities, at these installations and to implement cost savings proposals where feasible, but otherwise, to maintain the planned employment levels. Any funding shortfall that may result should be met through reprogramming. The conferees reiterate their position that funding for these activities be merged into the Operations and Maintenance account in the future.

GROUND LAUNCHED HELLFIRE

The conferees agree to provide $2,000,000 for Ground Lauched Hellfire as proposed by the House, instead of no funds as proposed by the Senate. The conferees acknowledge the potential that the Ground Lauched Hellfire System provides as an effective anti-armor weapon for the Army's light infantry divisions. The conferees agree to provide $2,000,000 to purchase components for a prototype unit, fund up-front design work and cover in-house expenses. The conferees will be willing to consider future funding for the Ground Launched Hellfire System once the Army has identified a firm operational requirement, established organizational and operational concepts for its employment and has made it an integral part of the Anti-Armor Master Plan.

MILAN II

The conferees agree to provide $10,000,000 for Milan II, instead of $20,000,00 as proposed by the House and no funds as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree that the funds provided for the Milan II program are solely to be used for the test and evaluation of the Milan II as a potential alternative medium-range anti-tank weapons system. None of the funds provided are to be used for the establishment of a production source or to transition the program to production.

The Army is encouraged to give full and fair evaluation of the Milan II as an interim medium-range anti-tank weapons system. Should Army analyses conclude that the acquisition of the Milan II is required and is reported as requested in the Army missile procurement account to meet a near-term threat and that satisfactory organizational and operational concepts for Milan II can be developed, the conferees would be willing to consider production of the system in the future. However, the conferees express their strong support for the Advanced Anti-Tank Weapon System-Medium as the Army's approach to finding a Dragon replacement. Acquisition of any interim system for special mission infantry battalions should not slow the development of a medium-range anti-tank weapon for Army infantry units to replace the Dragon.

PROTECTIVE MASKS

The Army intends to award competitively a production contract for protective masks in the near future. The conferees emphasize that such an award must be made strictly on the merits of the competition, and that all candidates must be given full and fair consideration.

EXPENDABLE JAMMERS

The conferees agree that, within the Army's Tactical Electronic Countermeasures Systems program (P.E. 6.47.50A), development of expendable jammers is of high priority. The conferees direct that project DL14, Expendable Jammers, be fully funded at the fiscal year 1987 budget request.

ACQUIRED IMMUNE DEFICIENCY SYNDROME

The conferees agree with the Senate recommendation to include $21,885,000 in fiscal year 1987 to continue the Army's vital research effort on the acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). Further, the conferees concur in the direction that the Army should continue to be allowed maximum flexibility in managing both the financial and personnel resources for this research program and that the Department of Defense work closely with the Army to include an appropriate budget request in the fiscal year 1988 submission.

UNDEFINITIZED CONTRACTS

The conferees agree with House language directing the expeditious definitization of RDT&E unpriced contracts and submission of a Plan of Action and Milestones by April 1, 1987.

FIXED PRICE CONTRACTS

In a small number of cases, the conferees were unable to totally exempt fixed price contracts from reductions, some service this would have required unacceptable reductions in other programs of high priority such as the Trident II/D-5 Weapon System and Submarine Combat Systems. However, the conferees agree to consider a reprogramming which would restore fixed price contract funding, either individually or en bloc, provided that the contracts in question have been definitized.

NAVAL OCEANOGRAPHIC INSTITUTE

The conferees agree that the Naval Oceanographic Institute be funded at the budget request level, as proposed by the Senate.

AAW/ASUW TECHNOLOGY

SYSTEM SUPPORT TECHNOLOGY

The conferees agree to the reductions as proposed by the House totalling $16,325,000 for the Hypersonic Wide Area Defense Missile (HYWADM). None of the reductions should be applied against other activities in these program elements.

SUBMARINE HULL ARRAY DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree that $5,000,000 of funds provided for Submarine Hull Array Development (Advanced) must be allocated to the ACSAS sonar project, as proposed by the House.

MEDICAL DEVELOPMENT (ADVANCED)

The conferees agree to provide $12,000,000 for Medical Development (Advanced), instead of $10,535,000 as proposed by the House or $16,700,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees direct that none of the reduction to this program be applied against the national bone marrow registry and transplantation projects.

ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY TRANSITION

The conferees agree to provide $11,000,000 for Advanced Technology Transition instead of $13,492,000 as proposed by the House or $4,943,000 as proposed by the Senate. The Advanced Fiber Optics Technology and Quiet ADCAP projects must be funded at the budget request level.

NAVY STRATEGIC COMMUNICATIONS

The conferees agree to provide $93,266,000 for Navy Strategic Communications instead of $84,654,000 as proposed by the House or $135,116,000 as proposed by the Senate. These funds must be allocated as follows: E-6A, $76,609,000; Ship to Shore Communications, $13,657,000; and STRATSEC, $3,000,000. The TACAMO Advanced Communication Suite has been funded at the budget request, under the Integrated Platform Communications Development program. Furthermore, the conferees censure the Navy for reprogramming fiscal year 1986 STRATSEC funds in clear violation of Congressional direction. Should this problem recur in the future, the Appropriations Committees will take strong measures to ensure enforcement.

T-45 TRAINING SYSTEM

The conferees agree to provide $125,263,000 for the T-45 Training System instead of $115,163,000 as proposed by the House or $134,163,000 as proposed by the Senate. The reduction of $8,900,000 is intended to delete low-priority items which were added to the FSD contract at the end of negotiations since contract savings were available to finance them. Given budget constraints, these savings should instead be used to offset the fiscal year 1987 request. Should the Navy reaffirm the absolute necessity of these items after further review, the Appropriations Committees interpose no objection to below threshold reprogrammings up to the budget request level.

AIRBORNE LIFE SUPPORT SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to provide $3,377,000 for Airborne Life Support Systems as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,100,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees further agree to the House's direction that $3,000,000 of this amount be allocated to the Aircrew Impact Injury Prevention Project, an important activity which has been underfunded in recent years. Language is included in the bill to ensure that this conference direction is carried out.

ADVANCED AIR-TO-SURFACE MISSILES

The conferees agree to provide $30,000,000 for Advanced Air-to-Surface Missiles instead of $11,700,000 as proposed by the House or $31,700,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of the recommended amount, $20,000,000 is provided to initiate development of the Standoff Land Attack Missile (SLAM) and $10,000,000 is to continue Skipper upgrades, as stated on page 298 of Senate report 99-446. The $10,000,000 provided for Skipper RDT&E is only for the activities stated in the Senate report, and may not be diverted to SLAM, AIWS, Skipper follow-on, or other activities. Furthermore, the conferees deny Reprogramming 86-23PA, which proposed to initiate SLAM development in fiscal year 1986. The conferees will reconsider the Advanced Interdiction Weapon System next year pending strong justification for the project.

ADVANCED AIR-TO-AIR MISSILE/

ADVANCED SURFACE-TO-AIR MISSILE

The conferees agree to provide $35,000,000 for Advanced Air-to-Air Missile/Advanced Surface-to-Air Missile (AAAM/ASAM) instead of no funds as proposed by the House of $70,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of this amount, $30,000,000 is provided to initiate full-scale development of the AEGIS ER area defense missile. The proposed Outer Air Battle Missile (OABM) is not sufficiently justified to enter the Demonstration and Validation phase in fiscal year 1987. The conferees agree to reconsider the OABM in fiscal year 1988 pending stronger programmatic justification, which is to include an analysis of the potential for a joint Navy/Air Force development effort.

LOW COST ANTI-RADIATION SEEKER

The conferees agree to provide $39,704,000 for Low Cost Anti-Radiation Seeker as proposed by the House instead of $9,704,000 as proposed by the Senate. Language has been provided in the bill which specifies that these funds are available only for the Low Cost Anti-Radiation Seeker.

The directives of the conference concerning development and production of the Low Cost Seeker, as well as advanced ARM development, are contained in the Weapons Procurement, Navy section of this report.

EMPRESS II

The conferees agree with House direction that EMPRESS II be budgeted as a separate program element beginning in fiscal year 1988.

SQQ-89 UPGRADE

The conferees agree to provide $20,168,000 for Surface ASW instead of $11,584,000 as proposed by the House or $23,168,000 as proposed by the Senate, and in addition $18,430,000 for Surface ASW Systems Improvements as proposed by the House instead of no funds as proposed by the Senate. These programs provide advanced and engineering development for an upgrade to the SQQ-89 Surface ASW System.

Navy documents indicate that major elements of the advanced development program may be delayed at least one year due to high technical risk. It therefore seems imprudent to finance a large degree of concurrency until advanced development risks are reduced to an acceptable level. For this reason, the authorized level for advanced development is provided, and full-scale development is reduced. Furthermore, bill language is included which forbids obligation of any of the $18,430,000 for Surface ASW Systems Improvements until the Secretary of Defense certifies that the program has been approved to enter full-scale development by the Joint Resources Management Board, and that a Secretary of Defense Decision Memorandum has been signed to that effect. The Navy has the flexibility to provide two certifications, for Milestones IIA and IIB, which would allow a corresponding two-phased release of fiscal year 1987 funds.

STANDARD AVIONICS DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $14,000,000 for Standard Avionics Development instead of $2,740,000 as proposed by the House or $19,432,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of this amount, $7,000,000 is to be used only for development of a second source for the CAINS II gyro project. These funds were deleted during Navy's internal budget review for fiscal year 1987, and the conferees, in their general support for increased competition, believe the funds should be restored.

S-3 WEAPONS SYSTEM IMPROVEMENT

The conferees agree to provide $10,200,000 for the S-3 Weapons System Improvement Program, instead of $15,644,000 as proposed by the House or no funds as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree to provide funding for the S-3 WSIP effort on the understanding that this is the final year that RDT&E funding will be required for the program. The Navy should complete all S-3 WSIP operational testing is fiscal year 1987. The conferees would not object to the Navy reprogramming funds below threshold up to the fiscal year 1987 budget level.

EW SIMULATOR DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $41,896,000 for EW Simulatory Development as proposed by the Senate, instead of no funds as proposed by the House. Because of the conferees strong support for the use of EW simulation in maintaining Navy readiness and training capabilities, they would interpose no objection to the Navy reprogramming funds below threshold up to the budget request level during fiscal year 1987.

ACOUSTIC SEARCH SENSORS

The House and Senate deleted all funds for continued development of the Expendable Reliable Acoustic Path Sonobuoy (ERAPS) due to technical and cost problems, and directed that the project be terminated. The conferees agree to provide no funds for this project; however, the conferees will allow the Navy the flexibility to reprogram funds to restructure ERAPS, if Navy believes the program to be of sufficient priority. Further development is allowed only if the restructured program is to be accomplished by manufacturers currently producing sonobuoys for the U.S. Navy. Furthermore, the Navy may not execute a contract for the restructured development effort until an updated ERAPS acquisition plan is submitted for approval by the Appropriations Committees. This plan must be accompanied by a certification that RDT&E cost to complete (fiscal year 1987 and out) will not exceed $30,000,000, and that unit costs will not exceed $23,000 in low-rate production or $6,000 for the ten thousandth buoy (in fiscal 1985 dollars). If such certification cannot be granted, ERAPS must be promptly terminated.

Furthermore, the conferees agree with House direction that $5,700,000 of the $36,819,000 provided for Acoustic Search Sensors is only for the Doppler Enhancement Program.

MK-92 FIRE CONTROL SYSTEM

The conferees agree to provide $4,000,000 for the MK-92 Fire Control System instead of $7,808,000 as proposed by the House or no funds as proposed by the Senate. Should additional funding be required during fiscal year 1987, the Appropriations Committees will entertain a reprogramming to address the shortfall.

SEA LANCE

The conferees agree with the House position directing the Navy to accelerate development of the conventional variant of the Sea Lance ASW Standoff Weapon by one year.

SUBMARINE COMBAT SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to provide $284,949,000 for Submarine Combat Systems as proposed by the House instead of $266,649,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees do not agree to House language stipulating that the AN/BSY-1 Submarine Advanced Combat System (SUBACS) be funded at the budget request; instead, the Navy is given the flexibility to allocate the reduction as it sees fit. However, the Navy is to provide adequate funding for BSY-1 development to ensure that ship deliveries for the SSN-751 and follow-on ship are not delayed.

The Navy has claimed that budget reductions to the SSN-21 Combat System would result in deletion of the Wide Aperture Array (WAA) from the led ship design; however, the Navy has provided no documentation to support that claim. The conferees note that recent at-sea tests of the WAS have been highly impressive, and that WAA performance goals are integral to SSN-21 requirements. Considering this, the Navy is directed to retain WAA in the lead ship design.

SSN-21 DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $248,000,000 for SSN-21 Development, instead of $240,000,000 as proposed by the House or $256,668,000 as proposed by the Senate. The recommendation provides 97 percent of the funds requested for the program, despite severe budget constraints facing the Congress. The conferees believe the program to be fully executable at the recommended level since management savings were achieved in fiscal year 1985, and reductions absorbed in fiscal year 1986, which were greater on an annual basis than the proposed reduction of $8,000,000 for fiscal year 1987.

Furthermore, the conferees agree to the establishment of a cost cap for the SSN-21, as stated by the House, and forbid the obligation of more than $157,000,000 in fiscal year 1987 RDT&E funding until the Appropriations Committees are notified of, and respond to, the establishment of this cap.

SUBMARINE TACTICAL WARFARE SYSTEMS

ANTI-SURFACE TORPEDO

The conferees agree to provide $40,000,000 for Submarine Tactical Warfare Systems instead of $31,101,000 as proposed by the House or $42,101,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of the recommended amount, necessary funding up to $7,000,000 is made available only for the evaluation and testing of Anti-Surface Torpedoes from two sources. Furthermore, following such testing, the Navy is to submit to the Appropriations Committees a report which includes the detailed results and Navy's evaluation of those tests as well as a discussion of operational requirements, inventory requirements, loadout plans, and acquisition strategy. If the Navy requests procurement funding for the ASUW Torpedo for fiscal year 1988, the report should also clearly demonstrate the torpedo's readiness for production. In any event, this report should be submitted no later than May 1, 1987. The test results may be submitted later if not ready at that time.

MARINE CORPS GROUND COMBAT/SUPPORT ARMS

The conferees agree to provide $2,034,000 for Marine Corps Ground Combat/Support Arms as proposed by the House, instead of $3,746,000 as proposed by the Senate. Because of the delay in transitioning the VEMASID program to full scale engineering development, fiscal year 1986 funding is available to apply against fiscal year 1987 program requirements. The Marine Corps should not reprogram fiscal year 1986 VEMASID funds into other program requirements.

INITIAL TRAINERS ACQUISITION

The conferees agree to provide $70,000,000 for Initial Trainers Acquisition as proposed by the Senate instead of no funds as proposed by the House. The reduction of $14,621,000 is of a general nature, and may be allocated as the Navy sees fit.

MARINE CORPS C^3 SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to provide $26,169,000 for Marine Corps C^3 Systems as proposed by the House instead of $32,188,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of this amount, the budgeted amount of $7,737,000 is provided only for MIFASS development and testing.

V-22 OSPREY

MK-50 ADVANCED LIGHTWEIGHT TORPEDO

The conferees agree to add funds above the budget to address shortfalls in two high priority full-scale development (FSD) programs. The conferees intend that these additional funds only be used for the purposes described below, and that they not be diverted to any other use.

$422,671,000 is provided for the V-22 Osprey, an addition of $35,800,000 which is required to fully fund the fixed-price FSD contract. The Navy failed to exempt the V-22 from Gramm-Rudman-Hollings reductions in fiscal year 1986, as it did other fixed-price programs. As a result, a serious funding shortfall exists which would significantly delay the program if not addressed immediately. An offsetting general reduction has been made in order to finance the add-on without affecting account outlay levels.

The conferees agree to provide $173,525,000 for the MK-50 Advanced Lightweight Torpedo instead of $188,825,000 as proposed by the House or $148,825,000 as proposed by the Senate. The addition of $24,700,000 is required to increase in-water testing during fiscal year 1987. The conferees are advised that the Navy supports this additional funding. To ensure a smooth production transition, bill language is included to prevent the diversion of funds.

LIBYAN LESSONS LEARNED

The Libyan conflict occurred after the Administration's budget request, and therefore, does not reflect potential changes due to the Libyan lessons learned. These changes, which could include improvements in night attack capability, weapons, RPV's, communications, and inventory replacements, would not normally be addressed during this budget cycle but as part of the President's fiscal year 1988 budget submission.

The conferees believe that the Navy needs to take timely advantage of the Libyan lessons learned. The conferees therefore direct the Navy to identify potential RDT&E activities directly attributable to the Libyan conflict, and to identify available fiscal year 1986 and fiscal year 1987 funds, not to exceed $50,000,000, to finance the activity. The Navy is to submit a report outlining these activities and funding sources prior to obligation, as well as a certification that the expenditure is both directly related to the Libyan lessons learned and will have a significant impact on our warfighting capability. If transfer authority becomes necessary, the Appropriations Committees will entertain a reprogramming action.

COMPOSITE HELICOPTER ROTOR SYSTEMS

The conferees agree with Senate direction that $10,000,000 in available funds be used to initiate a competitive program leading to the acquisition of composite rotor systems for the U/EH-60, SH-60B/F, CH-53E, and AH-64 helicopters.

H-60 HELICOPTER ENGINE COMPETITION

The Senate expressed support for a joint Army/Navy program intended to obtain engines for H-60 helicopters competitively. The conferees concur, and wish to emphasize their commitment to full and fair competition, and to continued NATO cooperation. In that regard, in order to clarify a reference in the Senate report to domestic manufacture of a European-developed engine, the conferees agree that if such an engine is selected, it is to be manufactured under license in the United States in order to ensure a domestic source in an emergency. Further, the conferees direct that the acquisition program be so structured that the aggregate cost of items manufactured in the United States shall represent not less than 50 percent of the aggregate cost of the engines procured over the life of the program. The Department is directed to submit the plan which will implement this program structure prior to signing a production contract, and to submit quarterly progress reports on its execution. Finally, in order to protect defense preparedness, every part in the selected engine must be capable of being manufactured in the United States.

INFRARED SEARCH AND TRACK SYSTEMS

The conferees are concerned that the Navy and Air Force do not have a coordinated and aggressive plan for the development and introduction of both Mid-Wave and Long-Wave Infrared Search and Track Systems (IRSTs). The Department of Defense is therefore directed to submit a report by March 1, 1987, explaining in detail the Navy and Air Force requirements for IRSTs, the five year RDT&E and procurement plan to address those requirements, and the feasibility of establishing a joint IRST program for F-14D, F-15C, and F-16C aircraft.

SYNTHETIC APERTURE RADAR

The conferees express their interest in the work now being conducted by the Navy in the field of synthetic aperture radar displaced phase center antennaes. The Navy has already allocated some funding to this concept in an effort to upgrade the Navy Remote Ocean Surveillance System (N-ROSS) satellite. This technology has potential application for improvement of U.S. air defense capabilities through improved detection of low-level, low-observable aircraft and cruise missiles. The conferees would be willing to entertain a reprogramming request to accelerate the Navy research effort in this technical field.

INTEGRATED PLATFORM COMMUNICATIONS DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $69,021,000 to initiate the Integrated Platform Communications Development program in fiscal year 1987, as proposed by the House. These funds are derived from three separate projects which were budgeted individually; therefore, full funding is provided, but for a restructured and consolidated program. The conferees agree that ICS/SCAN should serve as the baseline architecture for each of the three platforms, as proposed by the House and supported by Navy analyses. The Navy is directed to submit the Plan of Action and Milestones as requested by the House by March 31, 1987.

RELOCATABLE OVER THE HORIZON RADAR (ROTHR)

The conferees agree to provide a total of $46,070,000 for the ROTHR program. This includes $31,000,000 in RDT&E, $10,073,000 in Procurement, $2,638,000 in Operation and Maintenance, and $2,359,000 in Military Personnel. The recommended amount for RDT&E involved a reduction of $10,071,000 from the budget request. The conferees also agree that the first operational site should proceed. Necessary military construction funds are provided elsewhere in this bill. However, the conferees are concerned that the developmental effort is behind schedule and further expense may well be incurred. The conferees expect a full accounting of the prototype ROTHR cost prior to proceeding with the first production unit deployment plan.

ORGANOTIN

The conferees agree that $4,000,000 is provided only for research into ship anti-fouling research, and that at least $2,350,000 of this amount is to be applied to organotin paint research, as proposed by the House. In concert with this effort, the conferees agree with the Senate's bill language to allow the painting of aluminum-hulled craft and up to 15 steel-hauled vessels with organotin, in order to collect research data. The Navy is directed to submit semiannual reports on the status and findings of this research program to the Appropriations Committees, and to make available copies of these reports to other interested parties on request.

TEST AND EVALUATION SUPPORT

The conferees agree to provide $312,000,000 for Test and Evaluation Support instead of $305,000,000 as proposed by the House or $317,580,000 as proposed by the Senate. The Navy is given the flexibility to allocate the reduction as it sees fit, instead of directed allocation as proposed by the Senate; however, the conferees agree with the House position that Improvements and Modernization (I&M) for the Atlantic Underwater Test and Evaluation Center (AUTEC) be funded at the budget request level.

MANUFACTURING TECHNOLOGY

The conferees agree that, of the funds provided for Navy Manufacturing Technology, $5,000,000 is for Modern Casting Technology and $3,000,000 is for the Laser Articulating Robotic System, as proposed by the House.

ICBM MODERNIZATION

The conferees agree to provide $1,610,000,000 for ICBM Modernization, distributed as follows:

MX	$290,000,000
Small ICBM	1,200,000,000
Alternate basing	120,000,000

ANEUTRONIC POWER SOURCE

The conferees are advised that Phase I efforts on feasibility studies of an aneutronic power source have been completed, and that the Air Force is ready to enter Phase II. Because the potential payoff is very great, a modest investment to explore further the basic physics of the aneutronic concept is justified. The conferees direct that $1,500,000 for theoretical and conceptual studies of the aneutronic concept be provided from funds available to the Air Force in the Defense Research Sciences program, P.E. 61102F.

CREW SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY

The conferees agree to provide $15,905,000 for Crew Systems Technology as proposed by the House instead of $14,699,000 as proposed by the Senate.

A problem of particular concern is providing aircrew members with adequate ocular protection. The conferees are advised that acceleration of the Ocular Integration Subsystem within project 2830 appears feasible, leading to the possibility of early production in fiscal year 1989. Accordingly, the conferees direct that within the Crew Systems Technology program, project 2830 be funded at $2,764,000, with the increase of $860,000 to be added to the budgeted amount for the Ocular Integration Subsystem.

LOW COST SEEKER

The conferees agree to provide $17,375,000 for Low Cost Seeker as proposed by the House instead of no funds as proposed by the Senate. Language has been provided in the bill which specifies that these funds are available only for the Low Cost Seeker.

The directives of the conference concerning development and production of the Low Cost Seeker are contained in the Weapons Procurement, Navy section of this report.

ARMAMENT ORDNANCE DEVELOPMENT

The conferees agree to provide $20,000,000 for Armament Ordnance Development, instead of $14,338,000 as proposed by the House or $29,773,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are aware that prototype testing has recently demonstrated that a 2,000 pound hard target bomb body can be produced at significantly lower cost using modern casting technology. Therefore, the conferees direct that within the $20,000,000 provided for Armament Ordnance Development, $4,000,000 shall be used only for a preplanned product improvement effort to fully qualify a cast version of the bomb body. The results of this work are to be reported to the Committees on Appropriations when they are completed.

WIDE AREA ANTI-ARMOR MUNITIONS

The conferees agree to provide $25,102,000 for Wide Area Anti-armor Munitions, instead of $39,102,000 as proposed by the House or $15,102,000 as proposed by the Senate. The $10,000,000 thus provided above the budget are to be used to accelerate development of the Sensor Fused Weapon project.

LIFE SUPPORT SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to provide $15,396,000 for Life Support Systems as proposed by the House, instead of $12,396,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Loss of consciousness by pilots operating in high-G environments continues to be a serious problem. The Tactical Life Support System (TLSS) being developed in project 412A seeks to solve this problem for the F-16 and other high performance tactical aircraft. The conferees are aware that the budget request is insufficient to support engineering definition and production preparation on a schedule commensurate with planned test and evaluation activities. Accordingly, the conferees have provided $3,000,000 above the budget to be used for TLSS, for engineering definition, tooling and fabrication of hardware needed for test and evaluation.

F-4 SQUADRONS

The conferees agree to provide $68,698,000 for F-4 Squadrons. Of that amount, $38,698,000 are for F-4G Wild Weasel Squadrons, the budgeted amount. The additional $30,000,000 are for F-4D modifications, as described in Senate Report 99-446, page 220.

ADVANCED COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS

The conferees agree to provide $33,000,000 for Advanced Communications Systems, the authorized amount.

The conferees direct that project 2614, SINCGARS-V, be funded at the budget request of $5,600,000. These funds are to be used to continue development of SINCGARS-V, including full embedded COMSEC capability and interoperability capabilities.

REAL PROPERTY MAINTENANCE

BASE OPERATIONS SUPPORT

The conferees agree to provide $119,264,000 for Real Property Maintenance as proposed by the Senate instead of $132,866,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees also agree to provide $93,728,000 for Base Operations Support as proposed by the Senate instead of $104,418,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees note that the Air Force has recommended that Base Operations and Real Property Maintenance funding for RDT&E facilities not be transferred to the Operations and Maintenance account until fiscal year 1988, in order to permit an orderly transitioin to occur. Accordingly, the conferees recommend that the transfer of BOS/RPMA for RDT&E facilities to O&M be accomplished in fiscal year 1988.

STRATEGIC TECHNOLOGY

LONG RANGE INTERCEPTOR EXPERIMENT

The conferees agree that $20,000,000 of the amount recommended for Strategic Technology be allocated to the Long Range Interceptor Experiment (LORAINE), and that future budgets be in accord with fiscal year 1987 testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, as proposed by the House.

MATERIALS PROCESSING TECHNOLOGY

TUNGSTEN HEAVY ALLOY

The conferees agree that development of tungsten heavy alloy be funded at the budget request, and that no prior year funds be reprogrammed out of the project, as proposed by the House.

DEFENSE NUCLEAR AGENCY

The conferees agree to provide $327,103,000 for the Defense Nuclear Agency instead of $347,103,000 as proposed by the Senate or $262,113,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees do not agree to House direction concerning DNA's underground testing, physical security, and intelligence studies projects. The reduction of $20,000,000 is of a general nature; DNA is allowed the flexibility to allocate the reduction. The conferees agree that the Office of the Secretary of Defense should provide to both Appropriations Committees the report requested by the Senate.

The conferees also believe that the DNA should expand its radiation simulator program in fiscal year 1987. The radiation simulator program is an important complement to underground testing of the survivability of strategic and theater nuclear weapons. DNA should develop this complementary method more fully in the event that future arms control agreements should restrict underground nuclear testing.

STRATEGIC DEFENSE INITIATIVE (SDI)

The conferees agree to provide a total of $3,213,000,000 for the Strategic Defense Initiative instead of $2,846,000,000 as proposed by the House or $3,400,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. Furthermore, the conferees agree that the reduction of $1,572,155,000 is to be of a general nature, and not program specific as proposed by the House. The funding level and general reduction are identical to those provided in authorizing legislation.

SDI 1987 ANNUAL REPORT

The conferees agree that no more than $8,000,000 provided for Management headquarters, SDI may be obligated or expended until the classified version of the SDI 1987 Annual Report to the Congress is received by the Appropriations Committees.

SDIO PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICE

The conferees agree with the House's position concerning the SDIO Public Affairs Office. These activities are to be conducted by other public affairs offices in the Department of Defense.

FREE ELECTRON LASER RESEARCH

The conferees agree that $15,000,000 of funds provided for the Strategic Defense Initiative is available only for continued research into the medical and material science applications of the free electron laser, as proposed by the Senate.

NATIONAL AEROSPACE PLANE

The conferees agree to provide a total of $110,000,000 for the National Aerospace Plane (NASP) program, instead of $60,000,000 as proposed by the House or $130,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. This allows an increase of 144 percent over the amount provided for fiscal year 1986. The conferees direct that $100,000,000 of the recommended amount be funded by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) and $10,000,000 be provided from funds recommended for the Strategic Defense Initiative. The conferees received a late request from the Department of Defense to consolidate all NASP funding in the Air Force. The conferees did not have adequate time to evaluate the merits of this proposal, but agree to reconsider such a change during the next budget cycle, if necessary.

Furthermore, the conferees agree with the Senate that larger investment in NASP RDT&E is required both from NASA and private industry. Consequently, bill language is included which restricts the obligation of half of the recommended amount until the Secretary of Defense certifies that NASA has agreed to assume a significantly larger portion of NASP RDT&E costs than the current 20 percent, and that industry investment out of private capital has been incorporated into the acquistion plan. The Senate's proposed restriction on IR&D funding is not agreed to. The revised funding profile directed by the Senate should be submitted to both Appropriations Committees not later than August 1, 1987.

DCA LONG HAUL COMMUNICATIONS

The conferees agree to $8,000,000 for the universal modem program, as proposed by the Senate. The reduction from the budget is made without prejudice and the Department of Defense may meet additional requirements through reprogramming actions if necessary.

The conferees also agree with the House requirement for a report on the universal modem program. This report must be made to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations prior to obligation of the funds recommended, but no later than Feburary 27, 1987. It should describe in detail the international aspects of this program, especially as it affects interoperability, and in addition it should cover how the Department plans to meet performance, survivability, and interoperability requirements with the systems being fielded, with the new system, and during the transition between the two systems if there is to be one; and it should cover plans for procurement, modification and fielding of the current and proposed systems with particular attention to cost effectiveness.

DMA EXPLOITATION MODERNIZATION PROGRAM

The conferees agree to provide $239,629,000 for the Defense Mapping Agency's Exploitation Modernization program, instead of $203,629,000 as proposed by the House and $243,629,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees do not agree with House direction requiring the conversion to fixed-price contracts; however, in lieu of fixed price contracts, a more rigorous technical risk management program should be established to ensure prompt identification and resolution of technical issues in this ambitious program. Therefore, DMA is directed to establish a risk management program encompassing the entire EMP effort, and which is based upon the critical path templates described in DoD Instruction 4245.7-M, "Transition from Development to Production." As part of this effort, DMA is to develop top-level risk assessment summaries for future Congressional oversight and monitoring. Of the amount recommended, $1,500,000 is available only for prompt development of this risk management program.

CONVENTIONAL DEFENSE INITIATIVES (CDI)

The conferees agree to provide $200,000,000 for Conventional Defense Initiatives, instead of no funds as proposed by the House or $400,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. Language is included in the bill similar to that proposed by the Senate, and provides that no more than half of these funds may be obligated or expended until SDI spinoff technologies and their applications have been defined and reported to the Congress, but in any event not prior to July 1, 1987. The bill further states that none of the funds may be used to support SDI. The House recedes from its report language concerning the SDI Civil Applications Initiative since CDI funds may be used for the same purpose.

The conferees also agree that $16,000,000 of the recommended amount is to be allocated to the Surface Ship Defense System (SSDS), as proposed by the Senate, provided that, pror to the obligation of such funds, the Secretary of the Navy certifies the following to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations: (1) that SSDS will meet documented and urgent requirements not addressed by other systems currently in development or production; (2) that follow-on RDT&E funding for SSDS has been included in the January 1987 Five Year Defense Plan which is sufficient to allow approval for limited production in fiscal year 1989; and (3) that Navy inventory requirements for antiship missile (ASM) assets are sufficient to procure SSDS, as well as other ASM procurement programs planned by the Navy, in economic order quantities.

INDUSTRIAL PREPAREDNESS

The conferees agree that, of the $6,000,000 recommended for Industrial Preparedness, $2,000,000 is for the Military Sewn Products Automation (MILSPA) project and $3,000,000 is for the Microelectronics Emulation project, as proposed by the House.

COOPERATIVE DOD/VA MEDICAL RESEARCH

The conferees agree to provide $20,000,000 for Cooperative DoD/VA Medical Research. Pursuant to authorization, these funds are provided for a single program line within RDT&E, Defense Agencies.

DEVELOPMENTAL TEST AND EVALUATION, DEFENSE

The conferees agree to the following amounts for Developmental Test and Evaluation, Defense:

[In thousands of dollars]

	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
Developmental Test and Evaluation, Defense
NATO Research and Development	47,991	42,991	40,000	40,000
Foreign Weapons Evaluation	18,010	18,010	18,010	18,010
Development Test and Evaluation Defense	75,799	48,536	73,799	48,536
Inflation/Fuel Savings			−1,000	−1,000
Total, Developmental Test + Evaluation, Defense	141,800	109,537	130,809	105,546

TEST AND EVALUATION

The conferees agree to provide $48,536,000 for Test and Evaluation as proposed by the House instead of $73,799,000 as proposed by the Senate. The reduction of $27,263,000 is specifically to terminate further development of the IFFN/JFAAD test beds. The conferees agree that there is inadequate service commitment to use these systems, and that the planned capabilities are not sufficient to justify further investment.

OPERATIONAL TEST AND EVALUATION, DEFENSE

The conferees agree to provide $11,300,000 for Operational Test and Evaluation, Defense, as proposed by both the House and Senate.

TITLE V—SPECIAL FOREIGN CURRENCY PROGRAM

The conferees agree to provide $3,500,000 for the Special Foreign Currency Program, as proposed by both the House and Senate.

TITLE VI—REVOLVING AND MANAGEMENT FUNDS

The conferees agree to the following amounts for the revolving and management fund accounts:

[In thousands of dollars]

	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
Revolving and management funds summary:
Army stock fund	296,700,000	230,138,000		110,100,000
Navy stock fund	478,500,000	379,570,000		352,570,000
Marine Corps stock fund	45,900,000	31,233,000		822,000
Air Force stock fund	239,400,000	200,410,000		139,980,000
Defense stock fund	136,800,000	66,949,000		47,200,000
Total revolving and management funds	1,197,300,000	908,300,000		650,672,000

The following items represent language as agreed to by the conferees:

STOCK FUND INVENTORY BUILDS

The House reduced a total of $289,000,000 from the Stock Funds, which held peacetime inventory builds to FY 1986 level plus inflation and reduced war readiness material (WRM) inventory builds by $227,870,000. The Senate eliminated the total request of $1,197,300,000. The conferees agree to the House reduction to peacetime inventories and the Senate reduction to WRM inventories for a total reduction of $546,628,000.

TITLE VII—CHEMICAL AGENTS AND MUNITIONS DESTRUCTION, DEFENSE

The conferees agree to the following amounts for Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense:

[In thousands of dollars]

	Budget	House	Senate	Conference
Operations and maintenance	60,500	60,500	59,900	59,900
Procurement	49,800	49,800	49,200	49,200
Research, development, test and evaluation	9,800	9,800	9,600	9,600
Total, Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense	120,100	120,100	118,700	118,700

The conferees recommend $118,700,000 for chemical munitions destruction as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees agree with the direction of the Senate that the Department establish an independent group to evaluate and advise on the Department's plans for destruction of current chemical agents. However, the conferees do not agree with the Senate's direction that the American Society of Mechanical Engineers must be the agent to perform that service.

The Department is directed to select and enter into appropriate arrangements with an independent advisory group and report to the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate and House no later than January 1, 1987, on its selection and arrangement.

TITLE VIII—RELATED AGENCIES

INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY STAFF

The conferees agree to provide $21,738,000 for the intelligence Community Staff instead of $21,538,000 as provided by the House and $22,338,000 as provided by the Senate.

BARRY GOLDWATER SCHOLARSHIP AND EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION FUND

The conferees agree to the Senate position and appropriate $40,000,000 to the Barry Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Fund in recognition of Senator Goldwater's outstanding service to the Nation as both a soldier and a statesman. The House did not address this issue.

HENRY M. JACKSON FOUNDATION

The Senate directed that $10,000,000 be made available from within existing funds for the Henry M. Jackson Foundation. The House did not address this issue.

In recognition of the late Senator Jackson's forty-three years of service to the United States as a senior statesman, Congressman and Senator, the conferees agree to appropriate $10,000,000 to support the Henry M. Jackson Foundation's ongoing educational and public service programs.

TITLE IX—GENERAL PROVISIONS

NOTIFICATION REPROGRAMMING

The Senate included language requiring a notification reprogramming action for any program reduced by the Appropriations Act which the Defense Department would subsequently restore a portion of the reduction.

The conferees agree with the intent of the Senate that the Defense Department shall consider reductions to be items of special interest. However, the conferees further believe the requirement for notification action reprogramming for each such change would create a documentation burden on the Defense Department and the Congress. Therefore, the conferees have not included the Senate language, but will require quarterly reports delineating any increases in all programs which were reduced by the Appropriations Act.

It should be clear that the conferees believe increases in items reduced by the Appropriations Act should be minimized. Abuse of this flexibility could lead to enactment of language similar to that recommended by the Senate this year.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS LIMITATION

As a result of increasing funding in the O&M, Marine Corps account for public affairs by $200,000, the conferees agree to increase the limitations on public affairs funding (Section 9020) by a like amount.

SENIOR EXECUTIVE SERVICE

The conferees agree to provide a total of 39 senior executive schedule positions for the Department of Defense. This is an increase of two positions over the fiscal year 1986 level to accommodate the new positions identified for the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and the Assistant Secretary for Defense for Special Operations Forces and Low Intensity Conflict (SOFLIC).

TRANSFERS/RESCISSIONS

The House bill included $2,617,800,000 in transfers from prior year accounts, but did not extend the availability beyond the time period they were originally available. The Senate, instead, rescinded $4,615,874,000 of funds available from prior years.

The conferees agreed to rescind the funds specified in the following table and have included bill language rescinding $5,323,877,000.

[1] Bill language permitting application of FY 85 funds for FY 86 program provided in the Missile Procurement, Air Force account.

Working Capital Fund Transfer

The conferees agree to new amounts to be transferred from Defense working capital funds into the operations and maintenance accounts. The revised amounts reflect the conference agreements on fuel refunds, industrial fund refunds, ACP expenditures, Industrial Fund productivity, as well as amounts programmed to be refunded by the Department in the budget request.

Foreign Selling Costs

The conferees agree that the language prohibiting the use of funds to compensate foreign selling costs as described in Federal Acquisition Regulation 31.205-38(b) as in effect on April 1, 1984, does not include costs incurred in marketing U.S. systems at domestic exhibits and international exhibits. The foreign selling provision was never intended, nor is it now intended, to apply to costs incurred in promoting American aerospace exports at domestic and international exhibits. The Department of Defense is requested to identify to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees any other provision of law or Federal regulation that would impede American industry's participation at such domestic and international exhibitions.

Local Hire

The conferees agree to the Senate general provision on local hire. The conferees further agree that on union contract jobs a worker released by the union should be considered a resident of Alaska.

Flat Rate Per Diem

The Senate included a general provision which provides for the extension of a flat rate per diem system for DOD military personnel, as established for all Federal civilian employees in July 1986, after certification by the Department of Defense that costs under the new method of calculation will not exceed those which the Government would incur under the current system.

The conferees agree to inclusion of this provision, with a modification which allows for continuation of the current flat rate per diem test in the Air Force and Defense Logistics Agency until such time as the new system becomes effective.

Depleted Uranium Penetrators

The House bill included a provision requiring that depleted uranium penetrators in ammunition be procured on a Government-furnished equipment basis from at least two sources in the production base. The Senate bill required that such penetrators be procured competitively from at least two sources. The conference agreement is the Senate version, which deletes the requirement for a Government-furnished material approach.

The conferees are in agreement with the current plan of the Army and Air Force to competitively procure depleted uranium penetrators for GAU-8 armor piercing ammunition on a component breakout basis under a combined fiscal year 1986/1987 contract. The conferees direct that this approach be implemented without delay.6

Sale of Alcoholic Beverages

The Senate included a provision requiring the Department of Defense to procure alcoholic beverages in the state in which a military installation is located. The House did not address this issue.

The conferees agree to a new provision that: (1) requires that the Department of Defense procure wine and malt beverages in the state in which a military installation is located, and (2) allows the Department of Defense to procure other alcoholic beverages from the most competitive source, regardless of location. Local procurement for all alcoholic beverages is continued for the states of Hawaii and Alaska since Department of Defense policy stipulates that nonappropriated fund activities not be charged for transportation of alcoholic beverages to these states.

Contractor Salaries

The Senate included a provision restricting the level of personnel salaries and bonuses allowable on all contracts with the Defense Department. The conferees are concerned that in many cases allowable costs for contractor salary for exceed the maximum compensation level permitted in the public sector. This issue will be examined in greater detail, but adoption of the provision is premature without further study.

The House conferees agree that hearings on this subject would be appropriate, and the Senate conferees intend to commission an investigation by the General Accounting Office.

Automatic Data Processing

The conferees are pleased with recent initiatives by the Comptroller of the Defense Department to improve the management of DOD major automated information systems. The Department is urged to sustain its emphasis on improved management of these acquisitions which are critical to the warfighting capability of our Armed Forces. The conferees agree with the House legislative requirement requiring oversight of DOD major automated information systems. The conferees did not agree to the House bill language on Navy computer aided design/computer aided manufacturing (CAD/CAM), but expect that all Navy organization will be required to use the standard contracts when they are in-place, and that the acquisition of this equipment will be reviewed by and conform to guidance from the Major Automated Information Systems Review Council prior to significant expenditure of funds. The conferees also agree to the House report language concerning central design activities, requirements contracts, DOD medical systems, automated logistics systems, and OSD oversight of certain Army ADP systems.

The conferees recognize the concerns expressed in the Senate report pertaining to the Composite Health Care System. The conferees understand that the current test program will include extended benchmark testing of each potential system along with on-site testing of one system for each vendor at DOD medical facilities. The conferees believe this plan conforms with the intended guidance of the Armed Services Committee and will ensure an unbiased selection process. The conferees agree that no funds for world-wide deployment of CHCS shall be obligated until a complete report that details the life-cycle costs of the selected system and the roster of facilities to have on-line access to the system is provided to both the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and Armed Services. The conferees also agree to legislatively cap the life cycle cost of the Composite Health Care System at $1,100,000,000 in constant fiscal year 1986 dollars.

AIR FORCE LANDS CONVEYANCE

The conferees have agreed to language with a minor amendment that conveys real property to Onondage County, New York.

COPPERHEAD

The House bill included a general provision which was intended to allow continued production or modification of the Copperhead projectile with or without a second source. The conference agreement supports the intention of the House language but includes alternative language which more clearly states the intent of Congress.

The conference report on the fiscal year 1986 appropriations Act requested a report on the cost-effectiveness of establishing a second source of the Copperhead round prior to entering such a contract. The report has not yet been submitted. The Committee is aware of the extensive efforts made by the Department to achieve widespread commonality of components between the Copperhead projectile, the Hellfire missile and the Navy (Deadeye) five-inch guided projectile to support expansion of the production base.

The Committee still believes that a second source of production should be established if it is likely to be cost effective. However, the Committee remains concerned that the amount of program remaining may not be sufficient to justify such an action in light of the trend to fire-and-forget technologies.

The Department of Defense is encouraged to aggressively pursue a second sourcing program which maximizes component commonality without requiring major redesign, development and testing effort.

AMMUNITION PLANT CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION

The conferees agree to include a general provision which permits the use of funds for the construction and operation of an Army ammunition plant without seeking third party contracts prior to the use of such funds. The Senate included similar language and the House did not address the issue.

The conferees have modified the Senate proposal to delete the reference that such energy production facilities may utilize oil or gas as a fuel source since the conferees are committed to using the most cost effective fuel available.

CARGO PREFERENCE REGULATIONS

The Senate included a general provision denying funds to implement a change to the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) concerning cargo shipments between Iceland and the U.S. In addition, the provision directed DOD to implement the unratified treaty on this issue signed by the U.S. and Iceland. The conferees agree to the Senate provision, except the treaty section of the provision, which is no longer required because the Senate recently ratified the treaty. The Department is directed to expeditiously implement regulations conforming to the agreements made in the treaty.

SMALL BUSINESS SETASIDES

The conferees agreed to include a new general provision which clarifies the standards to be applied when agency errors have been made in evaluating applications for extensions covered in the cited section of the Code of Federal Regulations. This section makes clear the duty of the agency if an evaluation error is found and a request for reconsideration has been made.

OBLIGATION LIMITATIONS

The conferees recommend a general provision to waive certain obligation limitations contained in any Act authorizing appropriations for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 1987. Although the authorization act has not been enacted at the time of consideration of the appropriations bill, the conferees are advised that the authorization conferees have considered obligation limitations on appropriations accounts, budget activities and appropriation subdivisions which could impede the orderly execution of the defense budget for fiscal year 1987. The recommended general provision is born of the uncertainty surrounding enactment of these respective bills and assures that Congress avoids enactment of conflicting measures restricting obligations for the balance of the fiscal year due to accounting differences. While an exhaustive examination of the respective conference positions has not been possible, it would appear that the preponderance of these accounting differences are due to treatment of prior year transfers in the authorization conference, as opposed to rescission of these prior year excess funds as recommended in this bill. This accounting anomaly artifically overstates the level of appropriation accounts compared to authorization. This is not intended to be an annual provision, rather the provision specifically addresses a unique situation existent this fiscal year.

FORT DERUSSY

The House continued language prohibiting the sale, lease, rental, or excessing of land at Fort DeRussy, Hawaii. The Senate added new language which permits the sale, lease, or rental of land at Fort DeRussy to the State of Hawaii or City of Honolulu. This land is referred to the subsection (b) of the provision.

The conferees agree to a provision in which subsection (a) prohibits sale, lease, or transfer of the twenty-six acres which contain the Hale Koa Hotel, the Armed forces Recreation Center, and beach front area.

The conferees further agree to subsection (b), which prohibits the sale, lease, or transfer of the remaining property at Fort DeRussy prior to August 1, 1987. This prohibition provides the Armed Services Committees sufficient time to hold hearings on this issue and to include any legislation in the FY 1988 Defense Authorization, if necessary.

The conferees also agree in subsection (b) that after August 1, 1987, the Secretary of the Army may make a proposal to sell, lease or rent this land at Fort DeRussy, but may not finalize this action until 60 legislative days after notification to the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate. The conferees believe that resolution of this issue must take into account the impact of any sale or lease of this property on: the active duty military personnel, retirees and dependents who utilize beach front facilities; the Reserve Centers located on the property to include relocation cost; and the State of Hawaii, City of Honolulu in general, and specifically the Waikiki Beach area.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1987

Amendment No. 4: Section 101(d) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects, and activities provided for in the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects, and activities at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5175 as passed the House of Representatives on July 24, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects, and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5175 as passed the Senate on September 16, 1986.

The conference agreement in House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-675 and Senate Report 99-367 shall be complied with unless specifically addressed to the contrary in this joint resolution and accompanying statement of the managers. The District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—FISCAL YEAR 1987 APPROPRIATIONS

The conference action inserts title and fiscal year heading to separate fiscal year 1987 appropriations from supplemental appropriations for fiscal year 1986.

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Appropriates $444,500,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $414,147,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees are pleased to note that the District has recently enacted emergency legislation raising its minimum drinking age for all alcoholic beverages to 21 years. The conferees understand that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has given provisional approval to the substance of this emergency measure pending enactment of permanent legislation raising the minimum drinking age to 21. This means that the District will avoid losing highway funds pursuant to the Uniform Minimum Drinking Age Act of 1984. More importantly, conforming the District's law to national drinking age policy will undoubtedly save lives. The Consumer and Regulatory Affairs Committee of the Council of the District of Columbia is scheduled to take up permanent drinking age legislation in the near future. The conferees urge the Council and the Mayor to act as soon as possible to bring the District into full compliance with the Uniform Minimum Drinking Age Act and assure continued eligibility for its full allotment of Federal highway funds.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INITIATIVE

The conference action appropriates $20,000,000 for fiscal year 1988 as proposed by the Senate and inserts language stating that if the District government does not sign a design and construction contract on or before October 15, 1986, the $50,000,000 appropriated for the project will lapse in which case the cost of the prison will be sole responsibility of the District government. The bill language also approves a plan that includes construction of a facility of not less than 700 beds and specifies that the prison will be a medium security facility on a 14-acre site in the southeastern most portion of the D.C. General Hospital grounds near the current D.C. jail.

The bill language agreed to by the conferees requires that the $50,000,000 for construction remain in the United States Treasury and be transferred to the District government only to the extent that outstanding obligations are due and payable to entities other than agencies of the District government. Payments may be made to District agencies only in reimbursement for amounts expended to construct the prison.

Since Federal funds are being used to finance the new prison, the conferees direct that District officials make every effort and take every precaution to ensure that proper and adequate contract award procedures are followed with regard to the design, construction and management of this new facility. The conferees further direct that payment vouchers be audited by competent District personnel prior to payment to ensure that services as contracted for have been provided and supplies and materials which meet pre-set standards have been delivered. The conferees plan to request the General Accounting Office to perform a comprehensive audit of the project and the Treasury drawdown procedures.

The conferees also direct District officials to submit quarterly reports prepared by the construction managers and the contractors on the status of prison construction progress compared to the plan. In addition, the report should detail any problems encountered during the quarter as well as any potential problems envisioned and the proposed solutions. The conferees expect that potential delays in completion, cost overruns and the like be disclosed and fully explained in the report.

The conferees cannot overemphasize the importance of selecting competent, highly qualified construction managers and contractors. It is imperative for District officials to ensure that personnel assigned to this project by the construction management firm and the contractors reflect the competence and qualifications of the firms who receive the contracts. The conferees direct that District personnel assigned to this project have the highest level of competence and qualifications in order to deal effectively with the contractors. The conferees intend that District officials meet regularly with area residents to discuss current and future plans concerning this facility.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA FUNDS

GOVERNMENTAL DIRECTION AND SUPPORT

Appropriates $108,407,000 as proposed by the House instead of $108,353,000 as proposed by the Senate.

D.C. Retirement Board.—The conference action provides $754,000 from the general fund and $3,018,000 from the Board's investment earnings as proposed by the House instead of $700,000 from the general fund and $3,072,000 from the Board's investment earnings as proposed by the Senate. The action by the conferees provides for a 20/80 percent split of the Board's total expenses between the District's general fund revenue and the Board's investment income. The conference action also provides 10 positions for the Board as proposed by the Senate instead of 7 positions as proposed by the House.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AND REGULATION

Appropriates $128,960,000 instead of $129,460,000 as proposed by the House and Senate.

Department of Employment Services.—Provides $34,512,000 instead of $35,012,000 as proposed by the House and the Senate. The reduction of $500,000 reflects a transfer to the Board of Education for the Cooperative Employer Education Program. This program was administered by the Department of Employment Services in cooperation with the public school system in fiscal year 1986.

PUBLIC SAFETY AND JUSTICE

Appropriates $600,165,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $580,765,000 as proposed by the House.

Metropolitan Police Department.—The conference action provides $160,066,000 instead of $157,813,000 as proposed by the House and Senate. The increase of $2,253,000 above the House and Senate allowances is to help defray the costs of pay increases for the department.

Fire Department.—The conference action provides $69,131,000 and 1,871 positions instead of $68,284,000 and 1,849 positions as proposed by the House and $70,784,000 as proposed by the Senate. The increase of $847,000 and 22 additional positions above the House allowance will permit the department to staff the new Engine Company No. 33 located at First and Atlantic Streets, Southeast. In addition, $1,309,000 is provided under the "capital outlay" heading for two new pumper trucks for Engine Company No. 33 ($337,000), and for major rehabilitation work for Engine Company No. 3 ($972,000). The conference action also includes bill language proposed by the Senate prohibiting the use of funds in this Act to implement any plan to close Engine Company No. 3 at its present location at 439 New Jersey Avenue, Northwest.

The conferees strongly urge District officials to fund the Fire Department's hazardous materials unit for the full year from funds otherwise available rather than for six months as proposed by the District so that it can respond to hazardous materials incidents on a full-time basis.

The conference action includes bill language requiring the D.C. Retirement Board to pay a one-time lump sum bonus of 3 percent by October 15, 1986 to 23 firefighters who retired between November 24, 1984 and April 13, 1985 instead of those who retired between November 24, 1984 and March 28, 1985, as proposed by the House and the Senate. The April 13, 1985 date reflects an adjustment based on a subsequent review of the retirement records.

The conferees are concerned about the state of the city's emergency ambulance service. The Advisory Committee on Emergency Medical Services has presented a report with 140 recommendations for improving the service. Many of these recommendations directly affect the emergency medical care provided by city ambulance personnel. These recommendations must be considered the most urgent priority of the Ambulance Division. The conferees direct that the Fire Department present to the Mayor, the Council, and the appropriate committees of Congress an evaluation of each recommendation, an implementation plan and cost estimate not later than November 15, 1986.

The conferees also request that the Department undertake an analysis of the adequacy, number, and location of basic life support and advanced life support ambulances in the District. Comparisons with other similar cities and changes in city population patterns should be considered in this analysis.

Superior Court.—The conference agreement provides $44,506,000 and 1,057 positions as proposed by the Senate instead of $43,706,000 and 1,036 positions as proposed by the House. The allowance recommended by the conferees includes increases of $153,000 for communications as proposed by the Senate instead of $53,000 as proposed by the House; $109,000 and eight additional positions in the Civil Division instead of $83,000 and six additional positions as proposed by the House and $113,000 and eight additional positions as proposed by the Senate; and $67,000 and two additional positions for the Clerk of the Superior Court instead of $70,000 and two additional positions as proposed by the Senate. The conferees intend that these positions and funds be used to speed-up processing and reduce delays in handling court cases. The conferees request a report by January 5, 1987, on how these funds will assist in reducing delays and expediting court cases.

The conference action also provides a total of $607,000 and 17 positions to fund the Intensive Probation Supervision Program instead of $600,000 and 17 positions as proposed by the Senate. This funding will support intensive probation supervision for 200 high risk probationers in fiscal year 1987. This sum includes $531,000 for salaries, $8,000 for supplies, $8,000 for communications, $48,000 for other services and charges and $12,000 for necessary equipment.

The conferees are pleased that the courts are taking an innovative approach to probation supervision. They are encouraged to continue this effort and to look for less labor intensive techniques and technologies.

Department of Corrections.—The conference action provides $163,230,000 and 3,005 positions instead of $147,730,000 and 2,857 positions as proposed by the House and $163,930,000 and 3,005 positions as proposed by the Senate. The increase of $15,500,000 and 148 positions above the House allowance includes $6,300,000 and 148 positions for the annual cost of the vocational education program instead of $7,000,000 and 148 positions as proposed by the Senate. The reduction of $700,000 below the Senate allowance is based on revised cost estimates for the program. The conference action also provides $5,500,000 as proposed by the Senate to permit the District to renovate facilities within the District to house prisoners on an emergency basis. The conferees direct that the Mayor report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations within 45 days after this Act is approved on the anticipated uses of these funds. The conference action also provides $27,766,000 as proposed by the Senate for payment to the Federal Bureau of Prisons to cover the cost of D.C. Code violators in the Federal Prison System instead of $24,066,000 as proposed by the House.

Reimbursement to Fairfax and Prince William Counties.—The House bill included language initially approved in fiscal year 1986 earmarking not to exceed $50,000 to reimburse Fairfax County, Virginia, for the costs of police, fire and other emergency services at the District's Lorton prison complex. The Senate bill increases the earmarking to $100,000 and provides for reimbursement to Prince William County, Virginia, as well as Fairfax County. The conferees agree with the bill language proposed by the Senate.

Lorton Telephone Information Service.—The conference action includes bill language proposed by the Senate which requires the District government to establish a free, 24-hour telephone information service so that residents of the area surrounding Lorton prison in Fairfax County, Virginia, can obtain information promptly from District officials on all disturbances at the prison, including escapes, fires, riots, and similar incidents. Bill language also requires the District government to publicize the availability of this free information service.

Lorton Prison.—The conference action includes bill language proposed by the Senate prohibiting the District from renovating or constructing prison bed space at the Occoquan facilities of Lorton prison beyond the number of prison bed spaces which were damaged or destroyed there by the July 25, 1986 fire.

The conference action deletes bill language proposed by the Senate expressing the sense of Congress on the District's prison situation.

Board of Parole.—The conference action includes bill language proposed by the Senate prohibiting the use of funds in this Act to implement the D.C. Board of Parole notice of emergency and proposed rulemaking as filed with the District of Columbia Register July 25, 1986.

Current regulations require the issuance of a parole violator arrest warrant and revocation of parole for a positive test for phencyclidine (PCP). These regulations also state the general policy of the Board to issue a violator warrant for use of any controlled substance. The stated purpose of the proposed changes filed with the D.C. Register is to give the Board wide authority to consider other factors in determining whether to issue an arrest warrant or to revoke parole.

The conferees believe that if a parolee tests positive for PCP that he should be taken into custody for further determination and investigation as to what further action is required. The fact that a parolee is using drugs indicates a serious risk to the community and should not be tolerated.

National Guard.—The conference action provides $863,000 as proposed by the House instead of $763,000 as proposed by the Senate. The increase of $100,000 above the Senate allowance is a one-time nonrecurring allowance which will be used along with Federal matching funds to provide needed maintenance and upgrades in both troop and administrative areas at the D.C. Armory.

PUBLIC EDUCATION SYSTEM

Appropriates $541,318,000 instead of $540,718,000 as proposed by the House and $540,872,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Board of Education.—The conference action allocates $394,406,000 instead of $393,806,000 as proposed by the House and the Senate. The increase of $600,000 includes $500,000 transferred from the Department of Employment Services under the Economic Development and Regulation appropriations account and will allow the Board to operate a Cooperative Employer Education Program in fiscal year 1987. During fiscal year 1986 this program was administered by the Department of Employment Services in cooperation with the public school system. The target populations for this program are out-of-school youth, public housing residents, ex-offenders and career education students interested in careers in the building industry. The program provides remedial education and job training through the rehabilitation of vacant and abandoned District-owned housing units. During fiscal year 1986 sixty-one individuals completed the training and 92 percent were placed in jobs. The plan for fiscal year 1987 is to enroll 86 persons.

The conferees fully support the Board's Career Enrichment Program which was initially funded last year as the Student Dropout Prevention Initiative with a special Federal payment of $150,000. The conferees encourage the Board of Education and the Superintendent to continue their efforts to reduce the student dropout rate and look forward to receiving a report prior to next year's hearings. The conferees urge the Board to identify funds for this program within the school's total fiscal year 1987 operating budget of $386,406,000. The conferees are confident that this will be done based on the Superintendent's testimony during House hearings that program personnel were being trained and student involvement in the project began in June of 1986 and would extend through the summer months until June of 1987. The conferees feel that follow-up and monitoring of the students involved are essential in order to determine the success of the program, and commend the Board and Superintendent for their leadership in searching for ways to motivate young people to stay in school.

The conference action includes bill language in section 134 which amends the Leadership in Educational Administration Development Act of 1984 (Public Law 98-558, approved October 30, 1984) to include the District of Columbia in the definition of the term "State". The conferees were advised that both the Senate and House sponsors of this legislation intended to include the District of Columbia in the program, and the Congressional Record of September 25, 1986, includes a statement by the author of the original bill that he "never intended to make the District of Columbia ineligible".

The conferees note that the Board's project at the Center for Immigration Policy and Refugee Assistance at Georgetown University has developed a pool of approximately 200 volunteers who help non-English speaking students enrolled in the District's public schools to learn English and adjust to North American life. The volunteers work as tutors in several local public schools, on Georgetown's campus on Saturdays, and in the homes of recently arrived families. The project recently initiated an additional activity, the Peer Tutoring Program, in which students who have benefited from the program are now tutoring non-English speaking students of elementary school age.

The project continues to serve as an adjunct to the Division of Bilingual Education of the District's public school system whose responsibility it is to test and place all non-English proficient students and to provide bilingual counselors, education specialists and other personnel to ensure the proper education of these students. Because of the project's rapid development and effectiveness, the Board has recognized the project as an official program of the school system.

The project's initiation in January 1984 was funded by a private benefactor. Since that time, the project has received $50,000 from the Board to supplement the project's operation. According to testimony, the cost of the program in fiscal year 1987 will be $80,000. The conferees urge the Board to give every consideration to funding this request.

University of the District of Columbia.—The conference action allocates $68,861,000 as proposed by the House instead of $69,015,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference action provides a total of $1,146,000 for acquisition of the Antioch School of Law as proposed by the House instead of $1,300,000 as proposed by the Senate. Bill language proposed by both the House and Senate is included making this appropriation of $1,146,000 contingent on approval by both the University's Board of Trustees and the City Council. The language further provides that if such approval is not granted, the $1,146,000 is to be used to reduce the District's accumlated general fund deficit.

REPAYMENT OF GENERAL FUND DEFICIT

Appropriates $20,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $8,675,000 as proposed by the Senate and restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate requiring that not less than $11,325,000 of the $20,000,000 appropriation is to be funded and apportioned by the Mayor from appropriations or revenues otherwise available to the District government.

CAPITAL OUTLAY

Appropriates $361,860,000 instead of $310,551,000 as proposed by the House and the Senate. The increase of $51,309,000 consists of $50,000,000 to construct a new prison facility in the District of Columbia, $972,000 for major renovations to Engine Company No. 3 located at 439 New Jersey Avenue, Northwest, and $337,000 for two pumper trucks for new Engine Company No. 33 located at First and Atlantic Streets, Southeast. Language concerning the new prison facility is included under "Criminal Justice Initiative" earlier in this statement.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Provides an employment ceiling of 33,549 as proposed by the Senate instead of 33,355 as proposed by the House. The increase of 194 positions above the House allowance consists of three positions for the Retirement Board, 22 positions for the Fire Department, 21 positions for the Superior Court, and 148 positions for the Department of Corrections.

The conference action includes bill language proposed by the Senate in section 117 prohibiting the use of Federal funds for abortions except to save the life of the mother or such medical procedures necessary for the victims of rape or incest which has been reported promptly to a law enforcement agency or public health service. The Senate amendment agreed to by the conferees also allows use of Federal funds for drugs and devices necessary to prevent implantation of the fertilized ovum and medical procedures necessary for the termination of an ectopic pregnancy. The House language prohibited the use of both local and Federal funds for abortions except to save the life of the mother. The Senate amendment is identical to language that has been carried in District of Columbia Appropriations Acts annually since fiscal year 1980.

The conference action includes language proposed by the Senate in Section 132 which requires the District government to construct appropriate signs identifying "Andrei Sakharov Plaza". The language agreed to by the conferees also provides that the proper address of the Soviet Embassy in Washington shall be No. 1 Andrei Sakharov Plaza. The conferees intend that all Federal government departments and agencies use the proper mailing address.

The conference action includes statutory language under section 133 reaffirming the authority of the District's legislative body to adopt legislation closing a portion of 8th Street, N.W.

TITLE II—FISCAL YEAR 1986 SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA FUNDS

The conference action inserts a new "Title II" and heading for fiscal year 1986 supplemental appropriations as proposed by the Senate. There are no Federal funds involved in this supplemental; it is funded entirely with increases in local revenue collections above the level projected at the time the District's regular appropriations bill for fiscal year 1986 was considered and approved by the Congress. The conferees note that this supplemental was not submitted to the Congress in time to be considered in the House version of H.R. 5175.

Governmental Direction and Support.—The conference action appropriates an additional $1,738,000 and 36 positions for fiscal year 1986 for various departments and offices as proposed by the the Senate.

Economic Development and Regulation.—The conference action appropriates an additional $5,658,000 and 18 positions for fiscal year 1986 for various departments and offices as proposed by the Senate.

Public Safety and Justice.—The conference action appropriates an additional $47,093,000 and 122 positions for fiscal year 1986 for various departments and offices and rescinds $12,735,000 in budget authority for the Police and Fire Retirement System as proposed by the Senate. This rescission is due to an actuarial recertification of annuity requirements approved by the D.C. Retirement Board.

Public Education System.—The conference action appropriates an additional $92,000 for fiscal year 1986 for the Commission on the Arts and Humanities and provides that $3,423,000 of the funds available to the District of Columbia Teachers' Retirement Fund for fiscal 1986 shall be used to reduce the fund's unfunded liabilities as proposed by the Senate.

Human Support Services.—The conference action appropriates an additional $3,545,000 and four positions for fiscal year 1986 for various agencies and programs and rescinds $1,982,000 in budget authority for the Unemployment Compensation Fund as proposed by the Senate. The conference action also rescinds $2,463,000 in revenue sharing funds as proposed by the Senate.

Public Works.—The conference action appropriates an additional $4,216,000 for fiscal year 1986 for the Department of Public Works as proposed by the Senate. The conference action also provides for 41 positions instead of 18 positions as proposed by the Senate. The increase of 23 positions above the Senate allowance is for the vacant lot cleanup program.

Washington Convention Center Fund.—The conference action appropriates an additional $150,000 for fiscal year 1986 as proposed by the Senate.

Repayment of Loans and Interest.—The conference action rescinds $16,316,000 in fiscal year 1986 budget authority as proposed by the Senate.

Personal Services.—The conference action appropriates an additional $1,000,000 for fiscal year 1986 and rescinds $3,423,000 in budget authority as proposed by the Senate.

Adjustments.—The conference actions rescinds $1,000,000 in fiscal year 1986 budget authority within object class 30A (energy) as proposed by the Senate.

Repayment of General Fund Deficit.—The conference action deletes language proposed by the Senate which would limit the reduction in the District's accumulated general fund deficit to $5,000,000. Language in the District's regular fiscal year 1986 appropriations act requires the District to reduce its deficit by $20,000,000 in fiscal year 1986.

Capital Outlay.—The conference action appropriates an additional $126,791,000 for 41 projects for fiscal year 1986 as proposed by the Senate.

Water and Sewer Enterprise Fund.—The conference action appropriates an additional $300,000 for fiscal year 1986 as proposed by the Senate.

General Provisions.—The conference action deletes language proposed by the Senate as section 201 which would have prohibited the Mayor from paying overtime expenses for U.S. Marshals to make evictions from housing units owned by the District government until certain steps are taken by the Mayor. The conference action renumbers section 202 and 201 and includes language which deems the appropriations made in title II to be available for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1986. This language in effect ratifies all obligations and expenditures made in anticipation of the enactment of the District's fiscal year 1986 supplemental request as approved in title II of this Act.

ENERGY AND WATER DEVELOPMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 5: Section 101(e) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5162 as passed by the House of Representatives on July 23, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5162 as reported to the Senate on September 15, 1986, with certain additional provisions and exceptions provided for in the joint resolution.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-670 and Senate Report 99-441 shall be complied with unless specifically addressed in this joint resolution and statement of the managers to the contrary. Report language included by the House which is not changed by the report of the Senate, and Senate report language which is not changed by the conference is approved by the committee of conference. The statement of the managers, while repeating some report language for emphasis, does not intend to negate the language referred to above unless expressly provided herein. The Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution incorporates the following agreements of the managers.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—CIVIL

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

CORPS OF ENGINEERS—CIVIL

The summary tables at the end of this section set forth the conference agreement with respect to the individual appropriations, programs and activities of the Corps of Engineers. Additional items of conference agreement are discussed below.

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

Appropriates $136,287,000 for general investigations instead of $149,441,000 as proposed by the House and $124,240,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate appropriating $250,000 for the Bolsa Chica/Sunset Harbor, California, study.

Appropriates $520,000 for the Red River Waterway, Shreveport, Louisiana, to Index, Arkansas, project as proposed by the House instead of $300,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Provides a limitation of $18,000,000 for research and development activities as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement provides $600,000 for the Navajo Indian Reservation, Arizona, New Mexico and Utah investigation, including a study of the Ganado Dam in Arizona.

The conference agreement for coordination studies with other agencies includes $200,000 for Section 22 studies in the States of Oklahoma, New Jersey, and North Dakota. Public Law 93-251 limits the amount allocated to any State to no more than $200,000.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Engineers to use the $480,000 provided for continuation of planning and engineering on the Roanoke River Upper Basin project, including the design of floodproofing for the Roanoke Memorial Hospital and city sewage treatment plant as recommended in the Chief of Engineers report dated August 5, 1985.

The conferees have learned that the Federal Emergency Management Agency has recently found that a substantial portion of the City of Loma Linda lies within the flood plain of the San Timeteo Creek, a tributary of the Santa Ana River in California. The Committee feels that this information would alter the Corps estimates of the cost benefits of a San Timeteo adjunct to the Santa Ana project. Therefore, the conferees direct that within the funds provided for the Santa Ana project, the Corps reevaluate the cost benefits of a San Timeteo Creek project element taking the new FEMA information into account in its calculation of the potential benefits.

The House and Senate report language regarding the Arkansas River Basin, Arkansas and Oklahoma, study is deleted.

Within the amount provided to Flood Plain Management Services, the conferees expect the Corps of Engineers to provide funding for the continuation of the South East Louisiana Hurricane Preparedness Study.

The conferees agree with the House Report language earmarking $300,000 for a water resources-based economic development computer model and $400,000 for the Technology Transfer Demonstration Program.

The conferees have provided funding for the continued analysis of erosion problems which might be caused in the Capay Valley, California, by the Cache Creek Project. They continue to believe that both the upstream and downstream elements of the project as defined in the pending authorization bill address themselves to important problems. However, the conferees also believe that it would be counterproductive to solve problems in one place only to cause them in Capay Valley. Therefore, the conferees anticipate the need for finding that any such transfer of problems can be prevented before the project or portions of it would proceed to construction.

The conference recommendation includes $500,000 to implement the acequias rehabilitation program that is included in H.R. 6, the Omnibus Water Resources Development authorization legislation, now in conference. The State of New Mexico and other interested parties are urged to take early steps to identify those acequias, including, but not limited to those previously enumerated, that would be considered for rehabilitation upon the enactment of H.R. 6.

CONSTRUCTION, GENERAL

Appropriates $1,152,150,000 for construction, general instead of $1,187,734,000 as proposed by the House and $1,061,260,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate providing for the construction of a storage facility at Dam Site 18 of the Papillion Creek and Tributaries, Nebraska, project.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate authorizing the construction of flood control structures at the Papillion Creek and Tributaries Lakes, Nebraska, project.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate appropriating $2,300,000 for the Sandy Hook to Barnegat Inlet, New Jersey, project; $6,800,000 for the Yatesville Lake, Kentucky, project; $1,600,000 for the Sturgeon Point Marina, New York, project; and $1,600,000 for the New Melones Lake, California, project.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate appropriating $1,300,000 for the Clarence Cannon Dam, Missouri, project.

Appropriates $1,100,000 for the Barbourville, Kentucky, project as proposed by the House instead of $300,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $68,000,000 for the Red River Waterway, Mississippi River to Shreveport, Louisiana, project as proposed by the Senate instead of $30,000,000 as proposed by the House.

Earmarks $38,000,000 for Locks & Dams 1 and 2 and $30,000,000 for continuing contracts on the Red River Waterway, Mississippi River to Shreveport, Louisiana, project as proposed by the Senate.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the initiation of water resource projects.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate amended to read as follows:

Section 123 of Public Law 99-190 is amended by striking out "at an estimated cost of $1,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "a cost of $2,300,000"

The conferees reiterate their continuing strong support for the Elk Creek Lake project in Oregon. It should be pointed out that, in response to the fiscal 1986 budget request, Congress appropriated $18,000,000 to initiate an ongoing contract for main dam construction. On January 24, 1986, the Corps of Engineers awarded the contract for construction on the main dam and work is proceeding on schedule. Further, the Corps has testified that currently available funds are sufficient to meet projected needs through 1987 and, therefore, no funding request was included in the 1987 budget.

In light of the Corps' action to award an ongoing contract for main dam construction (and congressional action to appropriate nearly half of the amount required to complete project construction), the conferees expect that sufficient funds be requested to cover anticipated contract earnings in fiscal year 1988.

The conference agreement includes funding for the following projects in the Continuing Authorities Program:

Section 107—Small Navigation Projects.—Kahului Harbor, Hawaii, $75,000; Laupahoehoe Point, Hawaii, $937,000; Shell Point, Florida, $75,000; Sturgeon Point, New York, $1,600,000; Sheffield Lake, Ohio, $200,000; Dillingham, Alaska, $150,000; and North Shore Channel, Illinois, $63,000.

Section 103—Small Beach Erosion Control Projects.—Sand Island, Hawaii, $600,000; Orchard Beach, New York, $500,000; Indian River Inlet (North), Delaware, $550,000; Indian River Inlet (South), Delaware, $550,000; Century Park, Ohio, $100,000; and Homer, Alaska, $600,000. The Committee has no objection to the Corps of Engineers allocating $456,000 to the Lincoln Park, Washington, project.

Section 205—Small Flood Control Projects.—Morrison Creek, California, $1,000,000; East Fork 102 River at Bedford, Iowa, $100,000; Salyersville, Kentucky, $300,000; and Noyes, Minnesota, $400,000.

Section 14—Emergency Streambank and Shoreline Protection.—Black River-Clover Bend, Arkansas, $150,000; Red Lake River (Gentilly), Minnesota, $150,000; and $50,000 for the Cox Run area of the Wellsburg, West Virginia, project; $50,000 for the Middle School area of the Wellsburg project; $200,000 to protect the water works along the Ohio River in the vicinity of 10th Street in Wellsburg; and $100,000 to protect Main Street from 2nd to 5th Streets in Wellsburg. The conference agreement also includes $50,000 for Sistersville, West Virginia, and $250,000 for Glen Dale, West Virginia. The conference agreement includes $125,000, within available funds, for the Lake Erie, Deist Road, Middle Bass Island, Ohio, project.

Section 117 of P.L. 99-190, the Continuing Resolution for Fiscal Year 1986, directed that the Secretary of the Army credit the non-Federal interests in the Fairfield Vicinity Streams Project for the costs of works compatible with the project carried out by the local sponsor between December 31, 1973, and December 19, 1985, against any further non-Federal contribution requirement. This provision had the effect of applying some $4 million in local sponsor ezpenditures on elements of the project prior to 1986 to satisfy the five percent up front cash cost-sharing requirement made by the Corps for the Fairfield Project. The Congress does not intend that any general five percent up front cash requirement enacted in the Omnibus Water Resources Development Act subsequent to December 1985, shall supercede this specific provision with respect to the Fairfield Vicinity Streams Project.

The conferees intend that the cost-sharing conditions spelled out when Congress passed the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1985, apply to the new construction starts included in the "Construction, general" appropriation.

FLOOD CONTROL AND COASTAL EMERGENCIES

Appropriates $10,000,000 for flood control and coastal emergencies as proposed by the Senate instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the House.

FLOOD CONTROL, MISSISSIPPI RIVER AND TRIBUTARIES, ARKANSAS, ILLINOIS, KENTUCKY, LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI, MISSOURI, AND TENNESSEE

Appropriates $310,797,000 for flood control, Mississippi River and tributaries, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, and Tennessee instead of $319,460,000 as proposed by the House and $300,369,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the Pumping Station and Gravity Outlets at the City of DeValls Bluff, Arkansas.

The conferees concur in and strongly support the House report language relating to the Yazoo Basin, Mississippi, Demonstration Erosion Control, a joint program of the Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Service.

The conferees note that the House version of H.R. 6, which authorizes new projects and programs for the Corps of Engineers, also provides that new project features funded under the Flood Control, Mississippi River and Tributaries, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, and Tennessee appropriation, involving seven states, be considered as part of the overall project for purposes of cost sharing.

On November 6, 1985, the House of Representatives confirmed the action of the legislative committee when it defeated 296 to 124 an amendment providing that each element of the Mississippi River and Tributaries project be considered as a separate project for cost sharing purposes.

As part of the ongoing flood control efforts in the Lower Mississippi Basin, the Corps and the Soil Conservation Service are developing joint projects to keep the flood waters in the foothill areas in order to prevent tributary flooding throughout the area.

The floods currently being experienced from Oklahoma to Illinois and throughout the Midwest area are graphic examples of the need to accelerate our flood control efforts in all areas of our country.

Following is a brief history of the origin and purpose of the Mississippi River and Tributaries appropriation:

The Mississippi River drains more than 1,245,000 square miles in 31 states, or 41 percent of the land area in the 48 contiguous states. It has the third largest drainage basin in the world.

The potential power in the Mississippi River during flood stage from Cairo to the Gulf is about 60 million horsepower. Impossible to harness, this force is dissipated by eroding streambanks, transporting silt, and moving water. In flood stage, uncontrolled Mississippi River water could cover up to 30,000 square miles.

In response to these threats of floods and erosion, the people of the basin started building protection levees in the mid-Nineteenth Century. Over $125 million was spent by basin residents before the first Federal assistance was received in 1882.

The Federal Government organized the Mississippi River Commission in 1879, signaling the start of Federal participation in the cost of flood control levees along the Mississippi River. The Commission supervised expenditure of about $90 million from 1882 through 1926, $15 million of which was contributed by Delta residents. In addition, state and local organizations spent another $152 million on flood control during this period.

A total of nearly $300 million was spent by basin residents through 1926 on flood control alone, not counting flood damages and expenses by individuals. Flood damages from just the 1927 flood were estimated to exceed $236 million. That year a brown tide of Mississippi River water breached levees and spread out nearly 100 miles at times, inundating towns and farms. A single levee break on the east bank flooded 2.3 million acres in the Mississippi Delta, affecting nearly 173,000 people. In total, 16.6 million acres were flooded in seven states, 162,000 homes were inundated, $102.6 million in crop losses occurred, 425,000 people were displaced, and as many as 500 people were killed. Following that devastating 1927 flood, the Mississippi River and Tributaries (MR&T) project was authorized in 1928.

Although still not complete, the MR&T project has already resulted in flood control benefits to the Nation far in excess of cumulative construction investments of approximately $3.7 billion made from 1928 through 1984. Of that amount, total expenditures for levees by state and local organizations exceeded $922 million. The project prevented potential damages estimated to be $31 billion during the 1983 and 1984 floods. Thus, in just two years, the flood control benefits were nearly nine times the cumulative investment in the project over the last half century. Total benefits over the life of the MR&T project have been approximately $100 billion.

Unless all parts of the flood control plan for the Mississippi River and tributaries is continued on a timely basis, it could well be disastrous for the lower Valley where, in a number of places, the riverbed is now above the surrounding land.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, GENERAL

Appropriates $1,389,846,000 for operation and maintenance, general instead of $1,417,447,000 as proposed by the House and $1,369,418,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate earmarking $7,400,000 for the Sepulveda Dam, California, project.

Inserts a limitation of $8,000,000 for mobilization planning activities instead of a limitation of $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees recognize the increased demand on local law enforcement officers in Columbia County, Georgia, associated with the public use of Clarks Hill Lake. The conferees have been advised that there is a 100% increase in reported crimes, and that the demands far exceed local resources. Accordingly, the Corps is directed to provide within existing funds for such purposes those additional sums that, in the judgment of the Secretary, are necessary to provide reasonable law protection.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the buildings and facilities for the Corps of Engineers District in Walla Walla, Washington.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the Papillion Creek and tributaries Lakes, Nebraska, project.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the Des Moines Recreational River and Greenbelt, Iowa, project.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate regarding the construction of new Department of the Army water resources projects funded in Public Law 99-88.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding Greers Ferry Lake and Little Red River, Arkansas.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate amended to read as follows:

SEC. 126. None of the funds made available by this Act or any other Act for any fiscal year may be used hereafter to study, to plan, to implement, to construct, or to issue any permit for the Northfield Mountain Water Supply Project, Massachusetts or the Millers and Tully Rivers Water Supply Project, Massachusetts: Provided, That this section shall not apply to environmental studies undertaken by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service: Provided further, That this shall not be construed as a precedent for any other Corps permit in any other state or region.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding channel modifications at Jackson, Alabama.

Deletes language proposed by the Senate providing for the reconstruction of Deist Road on Middle Bass Island, Ohio, because funds are provided elsewhere.

TITLE II—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The summary tables at the end of this section set forth the conference agreement with respect to the individual appropriations, programs and activities of the Bureau of Reclamation. Additional items of conference agreement are discussed below.

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

Appropriates $29,409,000 for general investigations instead of $32,320,000 as proposed by the House and $26,929,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $300,000 each for the following items under the Atmospheric Water Resources Management Program: (1) Southwest Cooperative Operational Demonstration Program-Southwest Drought Rain Augmentation Research; (2) Sierra cooperative pilot studies of the effects of cloud seeding; and (3) High Plains cooperative program to continue research grant work related to cloud seeding and pilot training.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

Appropriates $602,158,000 for the construction program instead of $592,359,000 as proposed by the House and $577,059,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the North Loup Division, Nebraska, project.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the San Joaquin Valley Drainage Program.

Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate regarding the rehabilitation of acequias in New Mexico, because funds are provided elsewhere.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate amending section 507 of Public Law 92-514 regarding the North Loup, Nebraska, project.

Inserts language proposed by the Senate amended to read as follows:

:Provided further, That of the total herein appropriated in this account, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to obligate no more than $8,800,000 by August 1, 1987, for the San Joaquin Valley Drainage Program.

The conferees have provided no more than $8,800,000 to continue the San Joaquin Valley Drainage Program, and have included bill language to require that all of these funds must be obligated prior to August 1, 1987. None of these funds or any other funds may be obligated for this program after August 1, 1987. It is also the conferees' understanding that none of the funds requested for the study of the Kesterson Reservoir cleanup would be used for the actual implementation of the chosen clean-up method.

Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate relating to recovery of costs in connection with the Central Valley Project.

The conferees intend that the cost-sharing conditions spelled out when Congress passed the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1985, apply to the new construction start included in the "construction program" appropriation.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Appropriates $140,000,000 for operation and maintenance as proposed by the House instead of $150,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

LOAN PROGRAM

Appropriates $37,480,000 for the loan program as proposed by the Senate instead of $40,651,000 as proposed by the House.

LOAN PROGRAM

(LIMITATION ON DIRECT LOANS)

Provides a limitation of $43,806,000 on direct loans as proposed by the Senate instead of $42,000,000 as proposed by the House.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Inserts language proposed by the Senate regarding the Central Project.

Inserts clarifying language proposed by the Senate regarding the Central Utah Project.

The Resolution includes language which provides that not more than 20 percent of total annual appropriations for the Central Utah Project may be expended by the Secretary of the Interior for all administrative expenses and requires that the inspector general of the Department of the Interior annually audit expenditures by the Bureau of Reclamation to determine compliance with this limitation.

The intent of this section is to limit annual administrative costs as a proportion of total project appropriations. Administrative costs are all costs which are not directly identified to the construction of specific project facilities. These costs are incurred centrally and charged to the project on the basis of the utilization of Bureau labor services. This limitation shall not apply to costs directly identified to the construction of project facilities such as right-of-way appraisals, land acquisition, designs, and payments to contractors.

The conferees are aware of reductions in the amount of annual appropriations that have been allocated for project construction purposes. The objective of the conference agreement is to maximize to the greatest extent possible that percentage of each annual appropriation which is expended on project construction, particularly for those project features which are designed to provide water deliveries to the Wasatch Front such as the Jordanelle Reservoir. The conferees intend that all funds appropriated for the Bonneville Unit shall be expended by the Bureau for project purposes. Further, the Bureau of Reclamation is directed to keep congressional interests and the local project sponsor informed as to changes in underfinancing. The conferees realize that it may be necessary for the Bureau to contract out for engineering and design services in order to meet the limitation imposed by this amendment and encourages the Bureau to do so.

The conferees have also included a provision which eliminates a possible 10-year interest-free repayment deferral period for the portion of the Bonneville Unit of the Central Utah Project for which the Water Supply Act of 1958 was invoked in 1981. The Bureau of Reclamation and the project sponsor, Central Utah Water Conservancy District, in 1981 invoked section 301(b) of the Water Supply Act of 1958 which altered several repayment terms for water delivery of 60,000 acre-feet to be developed by certain features of the Strawberry Collection System. The purpose of this section is to nullify application of the 10-year interest-free period provided by section 301(b)(2) which may have been utilized to defer repayment on those portions of the Strawberry Collection System which were the subject of the 1981 Water Supply Act invocation. It is the conferees' intent that repayment of these Strawberry Collection System features should commence in accordance with the terms provided for repayment by the Several repayment agreements entered into between project sponsors and the Bureau of Reclamation which require repayment of principal and interest to commence upon the issuance of block notices by the Bureau. The conferees are aware that the first block notice for delivery of water from the lower portion of the Strawberry Collection System has been duly issued and that water exchange agreements have been executed to initiate repayment of principal and interest for those features subject to that block notice consistent with this section.

This section also provides that in the event that the Bonneville Unit is not substantially complete, as determined by the Secretary, at the end of fiscal year 1995, the Central Utah Water Conservancy District will have credited to its reimbursement obligation the sum of $2,000,000 each year thereafter for a period not to exceed 10 years or until the Secretary determines the unit to be substantially complete, whichever occurs first.

TITLE III—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

The summary tables at the end of this section set forth the conference agreement with respect to the individual appropriations, programs and activities of the Department of Energy. Additional items of conference agreement are discussed below.

ENERGY SUPPLY, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $1,347,048,000 for Energy Supply, Research and Development Activities instead of $1,316,326,000 as proposed by the House and $1,318,798,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $684,158,000 of prior year unobligated balances is transferred from Uranium Supply and Enrichment Activities. Conference actions are discussed below.

The conference agreement includes $500,000 to continue the Hawaii Biofuels Program at the Hawaii Natural Energy Institute as provided by the House.

The conferees agree with the Senate provisions relating to the complex carbohydrate program at the University of Georgia, under biological research.

GEOTHERMAL

The conferees agree with the Senate direction on geothermal research.

NUCLEAR ENERGY PROGRAMS

Light Water Reactor Technology.—The conference agreement provides $34,000,000 for light water reactor technology, allocated as follows: $17,500,000 for the advanced light water technology program; $12,500,000 for TMI; and $4,000,000 for licensing and safety activities.

Advanced Reactor Research and Development.—The conference agreement provides $73,000,000 for advanced reactor R&D operating expenses, allocated as follows: HTGR-$20,000,000; IFR-$20,000,000; LMR-$15,000,000; Other activities-$18,000,000.

Space and Defense Power Systems.—The conference agreement provides $48,280,000 for all space and defense power systems activities. $9,700,000 is for the DOE portion of the multimegawatt systems, of which $3,000,000 shall be for terrestial program activities and of which $5,000,000 shall be for the thermionic fuel element verification program and of that $1,200,000 shall be for the thermionic technology program.

Facilities.—The conferees agree that funds are to be used to maintain at close to current levels operations at both HEDL and ANL-West.

The conferees agree that the study of a cogeneration facility at FFTF may be made with available funds and may include services as non-DOE participants' contributions.

Remedial Actions.—For the Uranium Mill Tailings Program, the conference provides $116,000,000. This amount of funding will allow the Department to remain on schedule for all sites and vicinity properties, particularly those with completed remedial action plans.

Byproducts Program.—The fiscal year 1984 budget initiated funding for a number of food irradiator projects. Funding continued in the FY 1986 budget and five specific irradiator projects were begun. The FY 1987 recommendation provides an additional $5,000,000 for continuation of these projects and one additional project in Alaska, and specifies in the language of the bill that all funds for irradiator projects shall be available only for the six projects: Oklahoma, Red-Ark Development Authority; Florida, Department of Agriculture and Consumer Affairs; Iowa, Iowa State University; Hawaii, Department of Planning and Economic Development; Washington, Port of Pasco; and State of Alaska. These are all public agencies that have an ability to manage these projects and provide continuity for their future operation. All funds appropriated to date for these irradiator demonstration projects are to be applied only to these projects and the Department is to proceed directly to design and initiate construction and undertake simultaneously all other related activities necessary to bring all irradiators on line at the earliest possible date and lowest cost.

SUPPORTING RESEARCH AND TECHNICAL ANALYSIS

Cooperative Programs.—The Department is to provide $1,500,000 to enhance and support the relationship among the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory, the Ana G. Mendez Foundation, and Jackson State University.

Geosciences.—The conferees agree with the House direction in regard to the geosciences research report requirement.

Biological Research.—The conference agreement provides $1,200,000 to continue and enhance fundamental research at the OGC in the biological and biochemical sciences, as directed by the Senate.

Chemical Sciences.—$600,000 of GPP funds shall be made available to Ames Laboratory.

University Research Support.—The conferees agree with the Senate direction to provide $2,900,000 for LEU support.

URANIUM SUPPLY AND ENRICHMENT ACTIVITIES

Privatization.—The conferees agree that not more than $250,000 may be spent in FY 1987 to conclude studies and report to the Congress with the results of privatization reviews. Such report shall include, but not be limited to, a determination as to how the public interest will be served by privatization, a review of options considered by the Administration and available to the Congress; a legislative proposal to authorize any additional privatization activities; an estimate of the value of the enrichment enterprise which shall be based primarily on fair market value and replacement value of assets and facilities; a determination based on review by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission of licensing requirements for a private enrichment enterprise; an estimate of all environmental cleanup and management requirements and their costs. Proposals to privatize the enrichment enterprise shall consider the viability of the entire enrichment and domestic uranium supply requirements as a single enterprise and not propose dissolution of various components individually; shall include specific protections to assure supply of enriched materials for national defense requirements of the Federal Government; and shall assure that advanced technology development (AVLIS in particular) continue through deployment. House direction in regard to technology transfer and analysis activities shall apply.

ENRICHMENT CRITERIA

The conferees agree that maintaining the long-term viability of the uranium enrichment and producing industry is essential to the economic and national security needs of this country. The conferees also agree, however, that the revised uranium enrichment criteria submitted to the Congress on July 24, 1986 require some adjustment in order to protect these interests and also to assure fairness to all the parties in certain pending litigation now before the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit.

Specifically, the conference substitute recognizes that the revised criteria have come into effect, but modifies certain provisions of the new criteria. First, the conference substitute permits DOE to continue to carry out its enrichment business by enriching foreign source material for domestic use, but limits the continued effectiveness of DOE's current import restriction policy to the outcome of the pending Tenth Circuit litigation on the issue whether current law requires imposition of restrictions on enrichment of foreign source material for domestic use. If DOE's legal position prevails, it may continue to conduct its enrichment business without further changing the criteria to impose limits on enrichment of foreign source material for domestic use unless it chooses to do so, or the Congress directs it to do so by new legislation, but if the Court of Appeals (or the Supreme Court, should certiorari be granted) decides that section 161(v) of the Atomic Energy Act requires DOE to impose such limits, then under the conference substitute when that decision becomes final DOE will be required to amend the criteria and impose such limits in accordance with the final court decision.

Second, the conference substitute requires DOE to offer all customers, irrespective of the percentage of their enrichment requirements contracted from DOE, free variable tails assays in the current range of 0.2% to 0.3% U-235.

Third, the conference substitute limits the contract validation provision of the new criteria to conform to the decisions regarding uranium import restrictions and free variable tails assay options described above.

Fourth, the conference substitute specifies that no funds are available to carry out any provision of the new criteria, or any contract, that permits or results in reducing enrichment customer feed delivery requirements to DOE, thus "backing out" demand for uranium ore, as a result of DOE "overfeeding" its enrichment plants from the government-owned uranium stockpile. While DOE may use the stockpile to increase its operating efficiency or reduce its other production costs (such as electricity), such steps cannot result in reducing the amount of uranium DOE's customers must provide to DOE compared to the amount of uranium those customers would be required to provide without "overfeeding" from the stockpile.

The conferees emphasize that they have not taken a position on the legal merits of the question now before the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals whether section 161(v) of the Atomic Energy Act requires DOE to limit or restrict enrichment of foreign source uranium that is used by the domestic utility industry. That question is now before the court, and the conferees expect it to be decided on the merits of the case that was submitted to the court. Thus, the conferees intend that neither the effectiveness of the enrichment criteria that were submitted to the Congress on July 24, 1986, nor the conditional authority for continued enrichment of foreign source material that is provided by the conference substitute, should be regarded as an indication that by those actions the Congress has expressed any view on the legal question of import restrictions now before the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. Similarly Congress has not expressed any view on the legal question, as it was presented in the same case before the United States District Court for the District of Colorado, of the particular use of government stockpile uranium that was presented in that case. For these reasons, the conference substitute also specifies that no provision of this joint resolution shall affect the merits of the legal position of any of the parties in the pending litigation concerning the questions whether section 161(v) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 requires restriction of enrichment of foreign source material destined for use in domestic utilization facilities, and whether distribution may be made of source material or special nuclear material from the government stockpile for commercial customers.

Finally, the conference substitute modifies the provision of the new criteria dealing with recovery of prior unrecouped government costs in the enrichment program. In particular, the conference substitute modifies that provision of the criteria by specifying that no funds may be expended implementing that provision insofar as it may require a determination by DOE of the amount of unrecouped costs that must be returned to the Treasury. These costs are an outgrowth of initial calculations in the enrichment program, primarily valuation of plants originally constructed for defense purposes, together with cumulatively imputed interest on that amount. Calculation of an appropriate amount reflecting that initial calculation together with imputed interest which should be returned to the Treasury from revenues paid by enrichment customers has been controversial, both because differing methodologies yield different results and because such repayment to the Treasury is perceived by some as a major new departure in the approach by which appropriations and customer revenues have funded uranium enrichment activities. Because of the controversial nature of this issue, as well as the fact that estimates of an appropriate repayment obligation have ranged as low as $350 million and as high as the $7.5 billion, this is a matter that the conferees believe should be determined by the Congress after full opportunity to inquire into the matter, rather than be determined unilaterally by DOE. The conferees emphasize also, however, that independently of the decision of this major issue by te Congress, the DOE will be required to exercise its existing responsibility to determine costs that are appropriate for recovery in the course of establishing prices for separative work to be charged to DOE's enrichment customers.

GENERAL SCIENCE AND RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $708,400,000 for General Science and Research Activities instead of $738,400,000 as proposed by the House and $677,400,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Prior to proceeding with the continued research and design of the Superconducting Super Collider, the Department will submit a plan for approval by the House and Senate Appropriation Committees showing the work to be done and the source of funding.

NUCLEAR WASTE DISPOSAL FUND

The conferees agree to provide $499,000,000 for the Nuclear Waste Disposal Fund, of which $420,000,000 is available immediately and $79,000,000 is available only subject to prior approval of the Subcommittees on Energy and Water Development Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the United States Senate and subject to certification by the Secretary of Energy that he has made a good faith effort to comply with the requirements of Section 10137(c) of Title 42 of the United States Code, relative to consultation with the states selected for site characterization for a repository under the Nuclear Waste Policy Act. The Secretary shall provide a detailed explanation of his efforts. This funding level is compared to $677,748,000 as proposed by the House and $380,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

No funds are provided for drilling of any exploratory shaft at and site in FY 1987. The funding reduction is to be applied against the entire program effort including site-specific activities for the first and second waste repositories and site-specific work at a monitored retrievable storage facility which is neither authorized nor funded.

The conferees believe that the surest course for the Department lies in the careful implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act in close consultation with the affected parties, in particular, the affected states. The conferees urge the Department to continue such consultation in hopes that pending litigation may be resolved in a timely manner. It seems obvious that a restoration of consensus is required before significant progress can be made and that many of the original deadlines of the act will not be met. The important task is the resolution of the numerous issues in which the program is now embroiled and the restoration of confidence in the program.

ATOMIC ENERGY DEFENSE ACTIVITIES

Appropriates $7,477,750,000 for Atomic Energy Defense Activities instead of $7,693,900,000 as proposed by the House and $7,261,600,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Inertial Confinement Fusion in funded as a separate subcategory within the category "Weapons Activities".

The conferess agree that due to budget constraints, no funds are provided for the Plasma Separation Program.

The conferees agree that funds for the Strategic Defense Initiative program in this Joint Resolution are limited to $341,000,000. In addition, if the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1987, is enacted into law by December 31, 1986, the funds provided in this paragraph for the Strategic Defense Initiative shall be limited to the amount and in the manner provided for in that legislation.

The conferees agree with the language contained in the Senate Report 9[illegible]-141 concerning the N Reactor at Richland, Washington. No funding is provided for the Production Assurance Program or any other activities which are designed to extend the operation of the N Reactor beyond 1995. Based on the high costs of the N Reactor, the Department should carefully review plans to continue its operation.

The conferees agree that at least $174,000,000 is to be allocated to defense waste management activities at Hanford, Washington.

The conferees agree with the language contained in the Senate Report 99-441 concerning the Special Isotope Separation program.

The conferees' agreement includes $15,000,000 for design and related activities to expedite the schedule for development of the Hanford Waste Vitrification Plant (HWVP).

The conferees agree to the Senate proposal to return control of U.S. Forest Service lands to the Department of Energy (DOE) which will greatly improve the security posture at the Savannah River Plant (SRP) at Aiken, South Carolina.

DEPARTMENT ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $143,611,000 for Departmental Administration instead of $145,663,000 as proposed by the House and $144,611,000 as proposed by the Senate.

With the exception of those items changed by congressional actions, the conferees interpose no objection to the use of prior year unobligated balances to offset funding requirements within the Departmental Administration account.

POWER MARKETING ADMINISTRATIONS

Appropriates $284,711,000 for the Power Marketing Administrations, the same as proposed by the House and Senate.

The conferees agree with the Senate report language concerning borrowing authority for the Bonneville Power Administration.

The conferees agree to defer without prejudice the consideration of a Tracey-Livermore intertie proposed by the House for the Western Area Power Administration. The conferees continue to feel, however, that the potential benefits of such a line to the Federal Government could be very substantial.

FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION

The conference agreement includes essentially traditional appropriation language which has been carried for many years in appropriations bills, as proposed by the Senate. House Document 99-257 contains a budget amendment requested by the Administration and which is similar in intent to the Senate language.

The conferees also agree to the natural gas reporting requirement included in the House version of the continuing resolution.

The conferees are concerned by the continuing delay in Docket No. RP82-105-000 and urge that a decision be rendered expeditiously.

TITLE IV—INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

DELAWARE RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

CONTRIBUTION TO DELAWARE RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

Appropriates $200,000 for the contribution to the Delaware River Basin Commission as proposed by the Senate instead of $289,000 as proposed by the House.

NATIONAL COUNCIL ON PUBLIC WORKS IMPROVEMENT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $1,750,000 for the National Council on Public Works Improvement instead of $2,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

Appropriates $401,000,000 for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission instead of $405,000,000 as proposed by the House and $391,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees have agreed to include language in the Joint Resolution that would allow the NRC to use the money currently collected under 10 CFR Part 25, to pay the Office of Personnel Management for conducting background investigations used as a basis for NRC security clearances to allow designated licensee representatives access to classified information.

TITLE—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conferees have recommended bill language to prohibit the construction of any additional hydropower units at Denison Dam-Lake Texoma in fiscal 1987. It is the conferees' intention that the two currently operating hydropower units at Denison Dam continue to operate, negotiations and discussions may occur, but that construction be initiated nor any agreements to construct be finalized for additional hydropower units at Denison Dam-Lake Texoma.

The conferees believe it is inappropriate to construct any additional hydropower units at Denison Dam until the ongoing Red River Basin, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, Comprehensive Study and the Denison Dam Restudy are completed. The conferees strongly support the earliest possible completion of these studies, and has provided funds to move up the scheduled completion date of the Red River Basin comprehensive study to September 1988.

The conferees do not intend this limitation to interfere with either the current operation of the existing two hydropower units at Denison Dam, nor with their ongoing studies involving Denison Dam, including the Red River Basin comprehensive study and the Denison Dam Restudy.

The conferees agree to the House language relating to section 503.

FOREIGN ASSISTANCE AND RELATED PROGRAMS

Amendment No. 6: Provides for funding for foreign assistance programs for fiscal year 1987. The amendment inserts the conference agreement for Foreign Assistance and Related Programs for fiscal year 1987.

IOP ACCOUNT OBLIGATION CEILING

The conferees agree to delete the Senate provision which limited obligations during FY 1987 for the IOP account, excluding IFAD, to $90,000,000.

INTERNATIONAL FUND FOR AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement provides $28,710,000 for the International Fund for Agricultural Development, of which $10,000,000 shall be for the Special Program for Sub-Saharan African Countries Affected by Drought and Desertification. The decision to fund a contribution to the Special Program will put the United States behind in meeting its commitment to IFAD's second replenishment. While the conferees regret this fact, it is one that has been taken with the knowledge and support of IFAD's management given the priority of the Special Program.

The conferees note that IFAD is entering its 10th year of operations. As a consequence, IFAD's project portfolio has grown and many projects have reached completion. This will require IFAD to pay greater attention to monitoring and evaluation. Therefore, the conferees instruct the U.S. Representative to IFAD to recommend the establishment of an independent program Evaluation Division, which shall serve as a central evaluation unit with a direct line of reporting to the Board of Directors, and that the Evaluation Division make a report available to the donor representatives by February 1 of each year detailing the extent to which (a) IFAD staff are simultaneously involved in project lending and evaluation operations, and (b) evaluation report recommendations are actually taken up in the field. The conferees request IFAD to prepare a study for the U.S. representative analyzing the impact of the implementation of this recommendation.

AGRICULTURE, RURAL DEVELOPMENT, AND NUTRITION, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

AGRICULTURE ACTIVITIES IN POLAND

The conferees agree to the Senate provision providing up to $10,000,000 in assistance under the Agriculture account for agriculture activities in Poland. The activities funded through this program are to be managed by the Polish Catholic Church or other non-governmental organizations.

HEALTH, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

IMMUNIZATION ACTIVITIES

The conferees have provided that up to $4,150,000 may be made available from the Child Survival Fund or Health, Development Assistance account in order to place 25 Public Health Service physicians in A.I.D. assisted countries to begin implementing the Congressional goal of immunizing 80 percent of the children in 63 A.I.D. assisted countries by 1990. In addition, funds are available for up to five technical core staff at the Centers for Disease Control or A.I.D. The conferees note that additional physicians and logistical support will be required in future years to attain this ambitious but extremely worthwhile goal.

CHILD SURVIVAL FUND

AID ADMINISTRATION OF CHILD SURVIVAL FUND

The conferees strongly support the goal of child survival in AID's development program, and commends the agency for its commitment to making child survival the focus of its health program.

The conferees have heard from a number of PVOs and international organizations, including CARE, Inter-Action and Save the Children, about their concerns over the short time they were given to prepare program proposals and their concerns over the administration of the program.

They were concerned that an emphasis on a few selected interventions may not adequately address priority child survival needs in all countries served. Furthermore, AID's strategy to target resources to selected countries, which will assist in maximizing impact on those countries, will at the same time not allow for expansion of child survival efforts in other countries with severe infant and child survival problems. It is the intent of the conferees to make child survival funds available in areas of high infant mortality and for activities of those private voluntary organizations and international organizations with an already established record in international health.

These groups were concerned that the administration of the Child Survival Fund may be unnecessarily restricting activities. Two leading activities, oral rehydration therapy and immunizations, should be supported and coordinated with other important child survival interventions appropriate to the community served. Programs, such as breast feeding promotion, should emphasize the role of mothers, who have the greatest impact on children's health.

Increased time for project planning should be incorporated in the administrative procedures governing use of the Child Survival Fund to ensure appropriate project design and delivery. Implementing agencies should have information on the use and availability of Child Survival Funds on a timely basis.

EDUCATION AND HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

The conferees agree to the Senate provision providing not less than $6,000,000 for the International Student Exchange Program.

ENERGY AND SELECTED DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

CENTRAL AMERICAN RURAL ELECTRIFICATION SUPPORT

The conferees agree to the Senate provision providing not less than $5,000,000 for the Central American Rural Electrification Support Project.

AMERICAN SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS ABROAD

ASHA PROGRAMS IN CHINA

The conferees agree to the House report language encouraging the establishment of ASHA-sponsored educational and other programs in China which could help set a firm foundation for improved political, economic and cultural relations between the United States and China.

INTERNATIONAL DISASTER ASSISTANCE

EL SALVADOR

The conferees agree to provide $50,000,000 in emergency disaster assistance for El Salvador, to respond swiftly to needs arising from the recent earthquake.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

ACCOUNT CHANGES

The conferees agree that for the purpose of funds made available by this act for FY 1987, the Agency for International Development may change program related overseas in-country travel to the relevant program account. Similarly, for FY 1987, the cost of foreign service nationals who carry out program related functions may also be charged against the relevant program account.

The conferees expect that these costs will be derived proportionately from the various accounts administered by AID overseas. It is also agreed that the total of funds provided for operating expenses together with these program related transfers shall not exceed $380,00,000 for FY 1987.

It is also the sense of the conferees that this "account changes" provision should not be continued in future years unless there are extraordinary requirements for doing so.

AID INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conferees agree with Senate provisions which provide for a personnel floor for the Inspector General's Office, allowing up to 3% of the funds under AID Operating Expenses to be transferred to the Inspector General if additional funds are required, and prohibit the transfer of any of the Regional Overseas Inspector General Offices.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT

The conferees agree to the Senate provision limiting funding for Foreign Affairs Administrative Support to not more than $15,000,000.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT INTERN (IDI) PROGRAM

The conferees agree to the Senate report language expressing strong support for the AID IDI Program, but are not recommending an earmark for the program because of AID assurances that the program for FY 1987 will be as large as that for the current year.

AID DEPENDENT SCHOOLS

The conferees agree with Senate report language which clarifies that an earmark for education for AID dependents overseas is not being recommended due to assurances from AID management that support for dependent schools will be continued this year.

INDIA FOOD AID

The conferees are well aware of continuing record domestic food surpluses which are causing serious disruption to American agriculture and rural economies. The conferees also understand that AID exports of P.L. 480 Title II commodities to India are on a "phase down" or "phase out" schedule, despite the fact that recent nutrition studies point out the continued importance of, and need for, the school feeding program there. In light of the opportunities for continued utilization of the India food aid program, and the fact that it benefits U.S. farmers, the conferees recommend that AID reconsider its current "phase down" of the India food aid program.

ROCAP

The conferees have reviewed the AID Regional Inspector General's recent report of its audit entitled "Regional Office for Central American and Panama (ROCAP) Institutional Grantees' Economy, Efficiency and Compliance." The report identifies a number of serious problems and deficiencies with respect to administrative procedures, fiscal proceedures and systems, internal control systems, organization, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations of ROCAP's grantees. These problems have resulted in $454,197 in questioned costs, and raise doubts about the long-term viability of certain regional institutions which are major recipients of ROCAP funds. It is the conferees' recommendation that no additional funds be obligated to ROCAP until the AID Administrator certifies that recommendations of the Inspector General contained in the audit report are fully complied with.

The conferees have also reviewed the GAO's report entitled "Questions on the Central American Regional Program Need To Be Resolved." This report, dated September 1986, cites the ineffectiveness of some prior regional programs and raises profound questions about the role of regionalism in Central America and the need for ROCAP. While the conferees believe the United States should encourage regional economic cooperation in Central America, the GAO report reveals that half of AID regional programs are administered by AID/Washington. Accordingly, the conferees recommend that AID submit to the Congress within 90 days a report analyzing the prospects and utility of regional programs, and the management and control of these programs within AID.

ECONOMIC SUPPORT FUND

OBLIGATION CEILING

The conferees agree to delete the obligation ceiling proposed by the Senate. Funds provided under the ESF account may be obligated in either fiscal year 1987 or 1988.

CENTRAL AMERICA FUNDING

The conferees agree to include language proposed by the House that requires that ESF for Central America, provided under authority included in the FY 1987 Military Construction bill, be included within the FY 1987 funding leval.

PAKISTAN

The conferees agree to earmark ESF funds for Pakistan at $250,000,000.

PHILIPPINES

The conferees agree to earmark an additional $200,000,0000 in ESF for the Philippines in recognition of the assistance requirements of the Aquino government.

IRELAND

The conferees agree to earmark $35,000,000 for the United States contribution to the International Fund for Northern Ireland and Ireland. The $35,000,000 is the authorized level for fiscal year 1987.

ASSISTANCE FOR NARCOTICS CONTROL RESPONSIVENESS

The conference agreement provides up to $20,000,000 for countries notably responsive to U.S. narcotics control concerns. The provision allows the Administration to provide additional ESF support to countries that are receiving International Narcotics Control assistance and which have made substantial progress in efforts to control illicit drugs. Funding for this program is to be provided through the regular notification process.

SOUTH AFRICA NOTIFICATION

The conferees agree to the House provision requiring that funding for South African programs, projects and activities be provided through the regular notification process.

TIED AID

The conference agreement provides a $5,000,000 limit on the use of ESF funds for tied aid. However, additional tied aid may be provided through a determination and notification by the President.

The conference agreement provides for $100 million in funds available under the Export-Import Bank appropriations to be used for tied aid.

SEPARATE ACCOUNTS

The conferees have included the House provision that requires that after February 1, 1987 any country which receives in excess of $5,000,000 as cash transfer assistance must maintain separate accounts for the funds.

DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE PROVISION

The conferees agree to delete the Senate provision that would have permitted development assistance funds to be used as a cash grant.

CYPRUS

The conference agreement provides for a $15 million earmark for Cyprus.

MOZAMBIQUE

The conferees have deleted a Senate provision on assistance to Mozambique. Restrictions on assistance to Mozambique are included in the authorization bill.

CIP FOR EGYPT

The conferees agree to earmark $200 million for a Commodity Import Program in Egypt. However, if the FY 1987 cash payment to Egypt exceeds $115 million, as permitted by this legislation, then the increase in the cash payment shall be derived from proportionate reductions in both project assistance and the Commodsity Import Program.

HIJACKING IN PAKISTAN

The conferees recognize that the Pakistani authorities are responsible for conducting a thorough investigation of the tragic hijacking of Pan Am Flight 73 and preparing for a trial in accordance with Pakistani law. It is the expectation of the conferees that the investigation will be vigorous, expeditious, and that the terrorists associated with the hijacking will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

INTER-AMERICAN FOUNDATION (IAF)

The conferees agree to the House level of $11,800,000 for the Inter-American Foundation. The conferees encourage the Foundation to continue to work actively in Haiti with an expanded program, and have provided sufficient funding for this purpose.

MIGRATION AND REFUGEE ASSISTANCE

The conferees agree to the Senate provision that not more than $8,500,000 of the funds appropriated under this heading shall be available for the administrative expenses of the Office of Refugee Programs of the U.S. State Department.

PEACEKEEPING OPERATIONS

The conferees agree to accept the House provision that not more than half of the funds appropriated under this account which are allocated for the U.N. Force in Cyprus may be obligated for the U.S. contribution to that force until the Secretary of State submits a report to the Congress detailing how the U.S. and other contributing countries plan to eliminate the force's financial deficit.

TITLE III—MILITARY ASSISTANCE

The conferees agree to the following amounts under Title III:

	FY 1986 adjusted	FY 1987 estimated	House	Senate	Conference
TITLE III—MILITARY ASSISTANCE
FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT
Military Assistance	748,374,000	1,046,450,000	675,697,000	.....	900,000,000
International Military Education and Training	52,146,500	68,830,000	47,082,000	65,000,000	56,000,000
Foreign Military Credit Sales Direct credits and forgiven loans	4,966,830,000	5,611,000,000	4,264,744,284	4,922,523,284	4,040,441,284
Special Defense Acquisition Fund (limitation on obligations)	(311,025,000)	(350,000,000)	(280,820,000)	(350,000,000)	(315,820,000)
Total military assistance programs	5,767,350,500	6,726,280,000	4,987,523,284	4,987,523,284	4,996,441,284
(Limition on obligations)	(311,025,000)	(350,000,000)	(280,820,000)	(350,000,000)	(315,820,000)

MILITARY ASSISTANCE

ACQUISITION OF AIRCRAFT FOR NARCOTICS CONTROL

Under the conference agreement, funding for additional aircraft for narcotics control is to be provided under the increased funding for International Narcotics Control under Title II of the continuing resolution.

NOTICE ON LAW ENFORCEMENT FUNDING IN EL SALVADOR

The conferees agree to the House proposal to restrict the obligation of funds for law enforcement until the Committees on Appropriations have received the same notice as provided to the authorizing committees.

OVERSEAS MILITARY PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

The conferees agree to provide $37,000,000 for Overseas Military Program Managment. The House had proposed $34,400,000 and the Senate $39,100,000.

REPORTS ON EL SALVADOR

The conferees agree to the House language that requires that reports on el Salvador that are submitted to the authorization committees also be submitted to the Appropriations Committees.

HAITI

The conferees agree to delete House language that required that military assistance for Haiti be provided through the notification process. The requirements for military assistance to Haiti are included in S. 1917.

FOREIGN MILITARY CREDIT SALES

PAKISTAN

The conferees agree to earmark $312,500,000 in FMS for Pakistan.

LAVI

The conferees agree to the Senate provision that requires that funds for the Lavi program be expended upon the Department of Defense's determination that proposed contracts meet applicable technical standards.

FMS REFORMS AND DEBT RELIEF

The conferees agree to delete Senate provisions which would have given the administration the authority to provide a fiscal year 1987 grant financed FMS program and permissive authority to provide forgiven terms on obligated but undisbursed FMS loans from prior year appropriations. The conferees agree that the Senate proposals have merit, particularly in the context of a global debt crisis which threatens default. Therefore, the conferees believe that the administration should study these proposals, and, in preparation for the Congressional review of the fiscal year 1988 budget submissions, present to the Congress a comprehensive plan for addressing requirements for FMS reform and debt relief for selected recipients of U.S. economic and security assistance.

MILITARY ACCOUNT EXPENDITURES

The conferees agree to provide language proposed by the Senate that requires that funds in the FMS account be expended at the minimum rate necessary to make timely payment for defense articles and services.

TURKEY AND GREECE

The conferees agree to earmark military assistance amounting to $490,000,000 for Turkey and $343,000,000 for Greece.

GUATEMALA

The conferees have deleted House language certifications related to Guatemala. The same certifications are included in the authorization bill.

CONCESSIONAL LOANS

The conference agreement deletes the House ceiling of $498,510,000 on FY 1987 concessional loans.

TITLE IV—EXPORT ASSISTANCE

The following table shows the conference agreement for Title IV, Export Assistance:

	FY 1986 adjusted	FY 1987 estimates	Source	Senate	Conference

Total. Title IV. Export assistance	18,087,000	318,000,000	16,331,000	20,000,000	20,000,000

[1] Includes $462,000,000 in budget authority related to the Export-Import Bank which has been scored against the House bill but not against the Senate bill.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK

The conferees agree to delete the House provision withholding administrative expenses after January 1, 1986 until the Bank adjusted its financial accounting and reporting practices to reflect generally accepted accounting and reporting practices.

The conferees are deeply concerned that the Bank continues to inadequately report on its increasing level of problem debt and that the Bank continues to refuse to create a loan loss reserve for its problem debt. The Comptroller General has for several years reported that the Bank's financial statements do not accurately portray the true financial condition of the Bank due to this problem.

The Comptroller has further reported that if a loan loss reserve was created and funded at a reasonable level then the Banks assets as of September 30, 1984 would have been reduced to between $400 million and negative $100 million. The FY 1987 Reconciliation Bill proposes to sell portions of the Export-Import Bank loan portfolio. This action would further reduce assests by approximately $500 to $600 million.

The conferees believe that both the asset position of the Bank and the failure of the Bank to accurately report its financial condition are major problems which must be addressed by the Executive Branch or, if necessary, in future legislation. The conferees request that the Secretary of the Treasury and the President of the Export-Import Bank report to the Committees on Appropriations concerning solutions to these issues before March 1, 1987. The conferees also suggest that the relevant legislative committees consider this problem.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

OBLIGATION RATE (SEC. 502)

The conferees agree to require that not more than 15 percent of the funds provided for each account, with certain exceptions, may be obligated during the last month of the availability of the funds.

DEOBLIGATION/REOBLIGATION AUTHORITY (SEC. 515)

The conferees agree to modify the current deobligation/reobligation authority to permit the reobligation of funds within regions. Under existing authorities funds may be deobligated and, with prior written approval by the Committees on Appropriations, may be reobligated under a different account.

AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS (SEC. 517)

The conference agreement provides that Economic Support Funds are available on a two year basis.

UN REPORTING REQUIREMENTS (SEC. 528)

The conferees agree to the modification of the provision on UN reporting requirements, to include the Senate subsection (c) stipulating that the Administration's annual report on the degree of support by other countries for U.S.-held positions at the UN, required by subsection (a) of this provision, shall be in the identical format as the "Report to Congress on Voting Nations" which was submitted on June 6, 1986 pursuant to P.L. 99-190 and P.L. 98-164.

ENVIRONMENTAL PRIORITIES AND REVIEW

Practices of the Multilateral Development Banks (Sec. 539).

The conferees include compromise language on the Environmental priorities and review practices of the MDBs.

AFGHANISTAN (SEC. 541)

The conferees agree that the Administration should determine the mix between development assistance and economic support funds for the $30,000,000 in humanitarian assistance provided for the Afghan people.

CAMBODIAN RESISTANCE (SEC. 543)

The conferees agree to the House provision that not less than $1,500,000 nor more than $5,000,000 in Military Assistance and Economic Support Funds shall be made available to the Cambodian non-communist resistance forces.

ETHIOPIAN RELOCATION (SEC. 548)

The conferees agree to the Senate prohibition on providing funds for any of the costs associated with Ethiopian villagization programs.

SUDAN AND LIBERIA (SEC. 549)

The conferees agree to the House provision that none of the funds appropriated shall be obligated or expended for Sudan or Liberia except as provided through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

COOPERATION IN NARCOTICS CONTROL (SEC. 553)

The conferees agree to accept the House provision allowing for the reprogramming of funds to provide additional assistance to countries which have met illicit drug eradication targets or have otherwise taken significant steps to halt illicit drug production or trafficking.

AID AND IDB COORDINATION IN HAITI (SEC. 554)

The conferees agree to the House provision calling for better coordination in Haiti of development activities implemented by the Agency for International Development and the Department of State, with those of the Inter-American Development Bank.

MULTILATERAL TRADE PROVISION (SEC. 555)

The conferees agree to the House provision amending Section 49 of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act.

REPEAL OF LIMITATIONS ON ASSISTANCE TO PHILIPPINES (SEC. 556)

The conferees agree to the Senate provision repealing Section 901(d) of the 1985 International Security and Development Cooperation Act. This section provided ceilings on assistance to the Philippines during the Marcos regime. With the change of government in the Philippines this ceiling was no longer needed.

LIMITATION ON ASSISTANCE TO CHILE (SEC. 557)

The conferees agree to amend the House and Senate provisions limiting assistance to Chile, forbidding provision of Title III and Economic Support Funds to that country and opposing all loans through multilateral development institutions, except for basic human needs purposes, until the Government of Chile makes significant progress in the area of human rights and toward establishment of a democratic government.

AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES (SEC. 558)

The conferees agree to the Senate provision limiting availability of funds for activities which could result in increased competition abroad for U.S. agricultural commodities.

IMPORT-SENSITIVE ARTICLES (SEC. 559)

The conferees agree to the Senate provision limiting availability of funding for development of manufactured goods which would compete with import-sensitive U.S. manufactured articles.

PRESIDENTIAL CERTIFICATION ON WITHHOLDING FUNDS (SEC. 560)

The conferees agree to insert language withholding indirect assistance from selected countries unless the President certifies that such action is contrary to the national interest.

REPORTS TO CONGRESS

The conferees agree to delete the Senate provision that would have required that Foreign Assistance funds not be obligated if reports to the Appropriations Committees were not received on time. The conferees deleted this provision after receiving assurances from the Administration that future responses to Congress would be made on a timely basis. The conferees agree that if the Administration does not fulfill its reporting obligation the proposed Senate provision should be reconsidered.

HUD-INDEPENDENT AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 7: Provides that appropriations for programs, projects, or activities provided for in the Department of Housing and Urban Development-Independent Agencies Appropriations Act for 1987 (H.R. 5313) shall be available to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conferees report and joint explanatory statement of the managers (H. Rept. 99-977), filed in the House of Representatives on October 7, 1986, as if such Act had been enacted into law. The House version of the joint resolution provided for a rate of operations based on the House passed bill and the Senate amendment provided for a rate of operations based on the Senate reported bill. Deletes language proposed by the Senate concerning salary funds for commissioners of the Consumer Product Safety Commission and providing that administrative fees paid to public housing authorities shall be those in effect on September 30, 1986; and inserts language appropriating an additional $36,000,000 to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "Research and development" and an additional $2,398,000,000 to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "Space flight, control and data communications" accounts.

The conference agreement on the fiscal year 1987 HUD-Independent Agencies Appropriations Bill provided no funding for production of a new orbiter to replace Challenger. It also assumed that the Department of Defense and HUD-Independent Agencies appropriations bills would share the costs of the fiscal year 1987 Air Force payment to NASA for launch services. The conferees have further agreed that funding for a replacement orbiter will be carried in the HUD Appropriations Bill rather than the Department of Defense Appropriations Bill and that the balance of monies necessary in lieu of the Air Force payment are also included under this subsection. In addition the conferees have included funds to replace both the inertial upper stage (IUS) cradle ($36,000,000), and the Tracking and Data Relay Satellite (TDRSS) ($33,000,000). In summary the changes from the amounts made available in H.R. 5313 for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are as follows:

	H.R. 5313	Change
Research and development: IUS airborne support equipment replacement		+$36,000,000
Space flight, control, and data communications:
Orbiter	$211,000,000	+2,100,000,000
Space shuttle operations	1,602,700,000	+265,000,000
Space network (replacement TDRSS)	374,300,000	+33,000,000

The conferees have included language specifying that the funds provided for the orbiter replacement are not available for obligation before August 1, 1987. Also, the full $531,000,000 included in lieu of the Air Force payment is not available for obligation before January 15, 1987.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR AND RELATED AGENCIES

Amendment No. 8: Section 101(h) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for in the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects, or activities at a rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5234 as passed the House of Representatives on July 31, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects, and activities at a rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5234 as passed the Senate on September 10, 1986.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-714 and Senate Report 99-397 shall be complied with unless specifically addressed to the contrary in this joint resolution and accompanying statement of the managers. The Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

Appropriates $483,610,000 instead of $380,370,000 as proposed by the House and $474,029,000 as proposed by the Senate. The increase above the amount proposed by the House consists of increases of $200,000 for Alaska programs in mining law administration; $3,250,000 for the Alaska lands program and the Alaska automated land records system in lands and realty management; $1,000,000 for commercial forest management in Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho; $5,000,000 for wild horse and burro management; $500,000 for noxious weed control in Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming; $5,000,000 for grasshopper control projects in range management; $450,000 for the Challenge Grant Program for fish and wildlife activities in wildlife management; $600,000 for the Hagerman Fauna Site National Natural Landmark in cultural resources management; $650,000 for Alaska maintenance, including Tangle Lakes campgrounds, and $400,000 for the San Pedro Riparian Area, both in recreation resources management; $3,990,000 for Alaska cadastral survey; and $83,000,000 for firefighting; and decreases of $500,000 in oil and gas leasing for Alaska programs; and $300,000 for plans in wildlife habitat management.

The managers expect the Bureau to report to the Appropriations Committees by May 1, 1987 on the rate of adoption of excess wild horses and burros in fiscal year 1987 in relation to planned rates.

In soil, water, and air management the managers agree the amount for hazardous waste management is $1,782,000.

The managers expect the Bureau to give proper consideration to the surveying of Alaska Native allotments in the Alaska cadastral survey program and to work with BIA in assuring that the highest Native priorities are met.

For forest management on public domain lands, the managers expect the Bureau to provide a report to the Appropriations Committees by May 1, 1987 of the components of the costs and revenues by State of providing proper management of timber lands both in the case where no "commercials" sales are offered and in the case where such sales would be offered.

The managers agree that, within funds for wildlife habitat management, $200,000 is available for increased management of the desert tortoise as described in the Senate report.

Within funds for recreation management, the managers agree that there is $188,000 for Soda Springs, $42,000 for Calico-Early Man, and $70,000 for the Barstow Way Station in the Mojave Desert.

Of the additional $500,000 provided for noxious weed control, $100,000 shall be available for Idaho.

With regard to Western Oregon management plans, the managers agree that existing management plans may be modified only to the extent that existing allowable cut in any master unit is affected by less than one million board feet, in order to provide for orderly management.

Bill language is included making funds for firefighting and grasshopper control available until expended.

Bill language is also included providing for new procedures for bonding hardrock mining operations. Bonds would be required of all operators with a record of non-compliance involving surface disturbances. Bonds would continue to be discretionary for operators with a proven record of compliance with BLM regulations and stipulations. The managers have also included a broader concept of bonding to include acceptance of equivalent State bonds, third party surety bonds or irrevocable letters of credit as recommended by the Department of the Interior bonding task force.

The managers understand that the Bureau of Land Management is establishing a task force to examine activities conducted under the Mining Law of 1872 on public lands with specific emphasis directed toward adequacy and necessity of reclamation bonding for operations involving less than five acres. The managers expect that upon completion of the task force examination, the Bureau of Land Management will inform the appropriate committees in the House and Senate of its findings, and expect a progress report no later than May 1, 1987.

CONSTRUCTION AND ACCESS

Appropriates $2,800,000 for construction and access as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,200,000 as proposed by the House.

LAND ACQUISITION

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

Appropriates $6,220,000 for land acquisition instead of $850,000 as proposed by the House and $800,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers agree to the following distribution, including allocation by reprogramming of $305,000 in unobligated balances from the Rogue Wild and Scenic River:

Acquisition management	$300,000
El Malpais Natural Area, NM	250,000
Gila Lower Box Area of Critical Concern, NM	250,000
King Range Conservation Area, CA	1,000,000
Owyhee National Wild River, OR	700,000
Red Rock Recreation Area, NV	3,000,000
Steens Mountain Recreation Area, OR	225,000
Upper Missouri Wild and Scenic River, MT	500,000
Inholdings, including designated wilderness areas	300,000
Total	$6,525,000

The managers have also agreed to rescind $3,200,000 appropriated in fiscal year 1984 for cash equalization of Navajo-Hopi land exchanges.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA GRANT LANDS

Appropriates $54,524,000 instead of $54,260,000 as proposed by the House and $55,642,000 as proposed by the Senate. The $264,000 increase above the House amount is for Forestry Intensive Research (FIR) and the Coastal Oregon Productivity Enhancement program (COPE). The managers agree that the $1,100,000 unobligated balance adjustment proposed by the House will be applied for timber development, management, and reforestation in renewable resources management. An additional $1,350,000 for mapping assistance for decadal planning for the O&C lands is included in the "Surveys, investigations, and research" account of the Geological Survey.

RANGE IMPROVEMENTS

Appropriates $9,253,000 instead of $8,506,000 as proposed by the House and $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers agree to delete House language on the assignment of grazing permits, but expect the Bureau to prosecute illegal subgrazing vigorously.

U.S. FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

Appropriates $314,692,000 for resource management instead of $313,352,000 as proposed by the Senate and $306,500,000 as proposed by the House.

The net increase above the amount provided by the Senate includes increases of $300,000 to continue the Des Plaines wetlands study, $1,000,000 for waterfowl mortality factors, $250,000 for non-game research, $115,000 for initial operating expenses of the Northeast Anadromous Fish Research Laboratory, $150,000 for the Gainesville National Fishery Research Laboratory, $135,000 for red wolf recovery, $250,000 for endangered species listing, $260,000 for the Senecaville NFH, OH, $100,000 for fishery mitigation, $300,000 for endangered species law enforcement and $300,000 for consultation; and decreases to the Senate position of $702,000 for refuge maintenance, $340,000 for Alaska refuges operations and maintenance, $250,000 for prelisting, and $125,000 for research on Chinook and Chum Salmon on the Yukon River. There is also a decrease of $153,000 to the amount provided by the Senate for fixed costs and to replace unrealized administrative savings and a reduction of $250,000 in the amount provided the Fish and Wildlife Foundation for matching grants.

The $300,000 provided to continue the Des Plaines wetlands study is with the understanding that there is no commitment to involve the Fish and Wildlife Service beyond the research stage. The additional $1,000,000 for waterfowl mortality factors includes $500,000 for research and $500,000 for waterfowl habitat production.

The managers have agreed to drop language included in the bill by the Senate directing the Southeastern Fish Culture Laboratory to coordinate its research with the Alabama Cooperative Fishery Research Unit, but affirm their support of the intent of the language.

The managers agree to designate the Washington cooperative research unit as a combined fish and wildlife cooperative research unit and establish a unit at the University of Minnesota.

The report requested by the Senate on FTE levels at refuges is expended to include staffing levels at research units and for law enforcement. The report should be provided to the Committees by March 1, 1987.

The managers reiterate the House report language directing the Service to provide management and technical support to North Carolina and the Environmental Protection Agency in designing a comprehensive research plan for the Albemarle/Pamlico estuary.

The managers have reviewed the issuance of special use permits at the Tennessee National Wildlife Refuge. The managers direct the Service to negotiate and reoffer special use permits at the Tennessee National Wildlife Refuge to landowners on the north shore of Swamp Creek that held such permits in 1984. The reissued permits shall provide for land use activities that are consistent with the National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act. The Service shall enforce the terms and conditions of all special use permits in an evenhanded manner. The managers have agreed to review the progress made by the Service during the fiscal year 1988 appropriations hearings.

The managers have provided a total of $4,500,000 above the budget for the Service's contaminant program. For refuge lands, the managers have recommended an increase of $2,000,000. Of this amount, the managers recommend that $1,500,000 be used to move aggressively to initiate necessary studies, to accelerate the analysis of refuge samples, and to continue to develop and implement strategies to clean up affected refuges and initiate clean-up actions where appropriate. Further, the Service is urged to develop and implement a plan for long term contaminant monitoring of refuge habitats and wildlife. This activity should be designated to detect the presence of contaminants throughout the National Wildlife Refuge System through repetitive sampling, resulting in early detection and correction of identified problems in the future. The managers have provided $500,000 within the allowance for this activity and the funding may also be used for developing sampling and analytical protocols and to train refuge employees to participate in the collection of samples. The Service is to enter into an agreement providing one-half of the funding to the Idaho National Engineering Lab (INEL) for design of the long term monitoring system, development of sampling and analytical protocols, and employee training.

In research and development, the managers recommend five initiatives totaling $2,500,000: (1) $500,000, to be used to assess the effects of new contaminants; (2) $550,000, to begin a long term study on the upper Mississippi River; (3) $450,000 for a long term study of contaminants and diving ducks on the Gulf Coast; (4) $600,000 to be spent pursuant to an agreement between the Service and INEL, for developing a scientifically sound national strategy and plan that reviews and integrates activities and responsibilities of all Federal agencies relative to contaminant monitoring in aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems including surface and groundwater, and for training the non-Federal sector in appropriate quality assurance/quality control procedures for contaminant analysis, to enable them to meet Service analytical lab needs; and (5) $400,000 for a long term study in the San Francisco Bay.

The managers have agreed to drop House bill language placing restrictions on Office of Legislative Services staffing.

The managers direct the Secretary to enter into a long term Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the State of Ohio for the State to operate the Senecaville National Fish Hatchery. Such long term MOU is contingent upon the State of Ohio agreeing to rear or allow the rearing of striped bass for the Department of the Interior's Chesapeake Bay restoration program as needed by the Fish and Wildlife Service, through 1990. Any costs at Senecaville associated with the striped bass program incurred by the State of Ohio shall be reimbursed by the Service to the State. The managers have included a total of $416,000 in fiscal year 1987. Of that amount $166,000 is provided for necessary maintenance and repairs at the facility. The remainder of the funds may be used to reimburse the State of Ohio for rearing the required fish, to contract with private producers for the production of fish, for continued (through 1990) limited operations at Senecaville associated with the striped bass program, to cover the costs of added production at other Federal hatcheries, or in any combination of the above.

Within available funds there is $1,000,000 for Youth Conservation Corps as proposed by the House.

The managers generally endorse the Service's statement of fishery roles and responsibilities and the current production and distribution priorities.

The $300,000 provided for Leetown National Fishery Center is for striped bass.

CONSTRUCTION AND ANADROMOUS FISH

Appropriates $26,513,000 instead of $21,113,000 as proposed by the House and $23,603,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase above the House includes increases of $1,500,000 for Kenai NWR, AK rehabilitation, $1,200,000 for a Bogue Chitto NWR, LA visitor center, $2,000,000 for Leetown National Fishery Center raceway and pond rehabilitation and $900,000 for a Kilauea Point, HI visitor facility; and a decrease of $200,000 for the National Fishery R&D Laboratory, PA.

Language is included to earmark $2,000,000 for Anadromous Fish grants, including $500,000 to continue striped bass studies.

The managers encourage efforts to reduce overall costs at the Minnesota Valley NWR visitor center and to raise private contributions to help reduce the cost to complete this facility.

MIGRATORY BIRD CONSERVATION ACCOUNT

Appropriates $7,000,000 as an advance to this account instead of $3,000,000 as proposed by the House and $10,561,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers encourage the use of these funds for acquiring part of the Little River Wildlife Refuge at a level of $1,100,000 if the study presently being conducted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Corps of Engineers proves the wildlife refuge to be compatible.

The managers also urge the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission to consider additional acquisition activity in the Chickasaw NWR, Tennessee and Arkansas, and additional land acquisition at Cache NWR, LA with willing sellers only.

LAND ACQUISITION

Appropriates $42,425,000 instead of $33,225,000 as proposed by the House and $41,775,000 as proposed by the Senate. The following table shows the allocation agreed to by the managers:

Inholdings	$1,000,000
Acquisition management	1,750,000
Alligator River NWR, NC	650,000
Aransas NWR, TX	3,000,000
Ash Meadows NWR, NV	500,000
Bayou Sauvage NWR, LA (subject to authorization)	3,000,000
Bogue Chitto NWR, LA	1,000,000
Bon Secour NWR, AL	500,000
Connecticut Coastal NWR, CN	600,000
Eastern Shore NWR, VA	375,000
Finnegan Cut, CA	1,100,000
Florida Panther NWR, FL	3,000,000
Great Dismal Swamp NWR, NC	750,000
Hakalau Forest, HI	3,000,000
Kirtlands Warbler, MI	300,000
Lower Rio Grande NWR, TX	6,000,000
Lower Suwanee NWR, FL	1,500,000
Minnesota Valley NWR, MN	1,500,000
National Key Deer NWR, FL	2,000,000
Rachel Carson NWR, ME	900,000
Red Rocks Lake Refuge, MT	$2,000,000
Sacramento NWR, CA	2,200,000
San Francisco Bay NWR, CA	1,500,000
Tensas River NWR, LA	1,000,000
Willapa NWR, WA	3,300,000
Total	$42,425,000

Within the $1,750,000 for acquisition management the managers have provided $150,000 for the Sacramento River National Wildlife Refuge study with the understanding that the Fish and Wildlife Service will coordinate any plans for a refuge with other Federal, State, and local agencies and landowner groups along the river. The managers anticipate that taking into account multiple views will lead to an overall plan using a variety of tools and policies to achieve multiple objectives. The managers recognize that proper coordination with the State may require the Fish and Wildlife Service to take more time in the preparation of the study than set forth by the House.

The managers have not provided land acquisition funds for the Carrizo Plain NWR, CA in this bill. The Fish and Wildlife Service and the Bureau of Land Management are to continue to work together to plan for the refuge.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

The managers have agreed to language proposed by the Senate providing the Fish and Wildlife Service authority to construct buildings necessary for a forensics laboratory on a site leased by the Service.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM

Appropriates $649,613,000 for Operation of the National Park System instead of $628,875,000 as proposed by the House and $579,055,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Increases above the House include $470,000 for Glen Canyon NRA, $421,000 for New River Gorge NR, WV, including $330,000 for operations and $91,000 for development of concept plans, $150,000 for Saguaro NM, AZ, $250,000 for Jean Lafitte NHP, LA, $60,000 for the National Capital Region's July 4 mall celebration, $80,000 for new exhibits and $85,000 for police support at Harpers Ferry NHP, WV, $170,000 for maritime preservation activities, $247,000 for resource evaluation of sensitive habitat at Organ Pipe NM, AZ, $53,000 for the Alaska Land Use Council, $75,000 for Congressional Affairs, $15,000,000 for enclosed park operations as related to the entrance fee proposal, $3,500,000 for additional costs of fee collection, and $991,000 for fixed costs. There are decreases to the House position of $64,000 for Ford's Theater support, $100,000 for Ellis Island NHS, NY interpretation and visitor services, and $150,000 for Delaware Water Gap NRA, PA and $500,000 for the Volunteers-in-Parks program.

The managers are concerned about Park Service employee housing conditions. To address this concern, the Park Service should complete a housing study and make recommendations to the Committees about methods to improve housing conditions for employees. Innovative leasing and ownership arrangements should be considered.

The managers direct that the $398,000 made available for a cooperative agreement with the Johnstown Flood Museum Association shall be obligated by the National Park Service as soon after November 30, 1986 as possible, by which time the cooperative agreement, required pursuant to Section 2 of Public Law 99-388 (100 Stat. 826), shall have been executed. A match, as required in Public Law 99-388 remains in effect.

The managers agree that hereafter the Service should use its internal reprogramming authority so that there will be no diminution of the amount provided for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, unless reduced by the House or Senate in a report accompanying the appropriations bill.

The additional amount provided for park operations at Santa Monica may be used to handle land acquisition activities at the park.

The managers have agreed to retain language proposed by the House restricting employment levels in the Office of Legislative and Congressional Affairs.

Bill language is included establishing the Steamtown National Historic Site in Scranton, PA. An authorization of $20,000,000 is provided and $8,000,000 is appropriated so that necessary facility maintenance and rolling stock protection may begin immediately.

The appropriation provides $790,000 for a new Park Police rookie class. The managers agree to continue the practice of staffing the law enforcement needs at Golden Gate NRA and Gateway NRA with Park Police. The Service is directed to meet seasonal fluctuations in law enforcement needs with temporary staff and to discontinue the past practice of detailing Park Police from the National Capital Region to the other units as a method of meeting seasonal workload.

New bill language has also been included refining the procedure to be used in making additional money available for emergency law enforcement activities.

The managers note that the Inspector General of the United States Department of the Interior recently concluded an investigation of allegations of mismanagement, falsification of records, and obstruction of a GAO inquiry at Gateway NRA, NY. The managers are pleased to note that the investigation disclosed no evidence to support the allegations. The managers encourage the Secretary to follow through on this finding, if appropriate.

The managers agree that within available funds, $1,000,000 shall be available for the operation of the Youth Conservation Corps.

Bill language has been included providing for a one-year National Park System entrance fee to further park purposes. The provisions included in the bill will be superseded by the provisions of permanent statutory language if such language is enacted during fiscal year 1987.

The language provides for a top fee of $5.00 per vehicle and exempts children 12 and under from entrance fees where the fee is collected on a per person basis. The language amends the Senate proposal to provide that existing entrance fees, new entrance fees, user fees and the additional entrance fees shall go toward park purposes. The managers have provided a direct appropriation of $15,000,000 as the amount available for enhanced park operations due to this park fee provision. A specific list of appropriate uses for this money is included in the bill. This money shall be distributed as follows: 50 percent to all park units based on total operating budgets and 50 percent to collecting parks based on the estimated share of entrance fee revenue collected. The managers have provided an additional $3,500,000 to cover the increased costs of fee collection. The managers encourage the Director to consider allocating the additional fee collection funding and staffing through the regional offices, in an effort to prevent park managers from having to choose between fee collection staffing and staffing for other park management activities.

To simplify the collecting, accounting, and utilization of fee receipts, the language provides that the fee receipts shall be deposited directly into the General Fund. As a result of the direct appropriation of additional funding for enhanced park operations, the Service shall have the estimated fee receipts available at the beginning of the year, while fees shall be returned to the Treasury as they are collected throughout the year.

There is considerable concern about which park units will actually have an entrance fee program during fiscal year 1987. Bill language has been included establishing an exemption for any unit which provides significant outdoor recreation opportunities in an urban environment and to which access is publicly available at multiple locations. An additional exemption has been provided for any unit which has a current, specific statutory exemption. The managers direct the Secretary to consider existing statutory fee criteria stated in the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act, as amended, when determining which park units will have new fees. Further, the Secretary is encouraged to charge fees only at units where receipts will exceed collection costs and to consider other appropriate factors, including the current charging of user fees.

The managers direct the Secretary to send a list of park units and the existing and new entrance fees proposed, and the existing user fees for all units, to the appropriate Congressional committees by December 15, 1986.

NATIONAL RECREATION AND PRESERVATION

Appropriates $10,628,000 for National Recreation and Preservation instead of $10,904,000 as proposed by the House and $10,277,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The net decrease below the House includes reductions of $294,000 for national register programs and $17,000 for environmental compliance review and an increase of $35,000 for maritime activities to be done by the Historic American Engineering Record.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION FUND

Appropriates $24,250,000 for the Historic Preservation Fund instead of $24,200,000 as proposed by the House and $24,300,000 as proposed by the Senate. This includes $20,000,000 for grants to the States and $4,250,000 for the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

The allowance for the Trust includes an additional $50,000 to continue maritime preservation efforts.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $88,095,000 instead of $75,989,000 as proposed by the House and $76,518,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers have agreed to the following changes to the House bill:

Cape Hatteras NS, NC	+$4,070,000
C&O Canal Flood Repair, MD	+2,000,000
Cuyahoga Valley NRA, OH	−245,000
Delaware Water Gap NRA, PA	−800,000
Denali NP, AK	+3,550,000
Eugene O'Neill NHS, CA	−724,000
Fort Union NHS, ND	+700,000
Glen Canyon NRA, UT	+30,000
Grand Canyon NP, AZ	+435,000
Guadalupe Mtns. NP, TX	−$250,000
Haleakala NP, HI	+500,000
Harpers Ferry NP, WV (completion of water system)	+140,000
Jean Lafitte NHP, LA	+1,080,000
Katmai NPP, AK	+320,000
New River Gorge NR, WV	+2,600,000
Sitka NHP, AK	+700,000
Springfield Armory NHS, MA	−1,000,000
Yellowstone NP, WY	−1,000,000

Within the amount provided for planning, the managers agree to the following projects:

Canyonlands NP, UT—visitor facility	$495,000
Knife River NHS, ND—visitor facility	435,000
Harpers Ferry NHP, WV—bldg. rehabilitation	80,000
Glen Canyon NRA, UT—State line project	400,000
Little Kinnakeet Lifesaving Station, Cape Hatteras NS, NC	55,000
Guadalupe Mtns, NP, TX—visitor facility	250,000
Wolf Trap Farm Park, VA—traffic study and improvements	100,000
Glen Echo Park, MD—rehabilitation	50,000
Johnstown Flood NM, PA	150,000

In addition there is $2,000,000 within available funds for the Buffalo NR, AR, Tyler Bend Facility.

Of the funds provided for Denali NP, AK, the Service is to provide $620,000 for rehabilitation at the Wonder Lake campground, $349,000 for the Polychrome Pass comfort station, and the remainder of $2,581,000 to initiate construction of a visitor facility.

The managers understand that future construction needs at the Glen Canyon NRA (State line project) will be met by the concessioner, without establishing a possessory interest.

The managers have agreed to the inclusion of $2,500,000 to be derived from the Highway Trust Fund for the construction of an additional inbound lane on the George Washington Memorial Parkway as proposed by the House.

LAND ACQUISITION AND STATE ASSISTANCE

Appropriates $87,220,000 instead of $101,100,000 as proposed by the House and $73,400,000 as proposed by the Senate. The following table shows the allocation agreed to by the managers:

Assistance to States:
Matching grants	$32,700,000
Administrative expenses	2,270,000
Total, Assistance to States	34,970,000
National Park Service:
Acquisition management	5,000,000
Hardships, inholdings and emergencies	5,000,000
Acadia NP, ME	3,500,000
Apostle Islands NL, WI	300,000
Appalachian Trail	7,000,000
Big Cypress NP, FL	2,000,000
Big Thicket NP, TX	4,000,000
Cuyahoga Valley NRA, OH	4,500,000
Delaware Water Gap NRA, PA	2,000,000
Gates of the Arctic NP, AK (Walker Property)	175,000
Golden Gate NRA, CA	2,000,000

Haleakala NP, HI	$1,000,000
Indiana Dunes NL, IN	1,000,000
Lake Clark NPP, AK (including $175,000 for Twin Lakes)	1,675,000
Lowell NHP, MA	800,000
Mound City Group, OH	1,000,000
New River Gorge NR, WV	1,000,000
North Cascades NP, WA	500,000
Olympic NP, WA	2,000,000
San Antonio Mission NHP, TX	500,000
Santa Monica Mountains NRA, CA	6,000,000
Sequioa-Kings Canyon NP, CA	1,100,000
Wind Cave NP, SD	200,000
Subtotal, NPS	52,250,000
Total, National Park Service	$87,220,000

The managers have agreed to drop House language making Apostle Islands NL, WI subject to authorization.

The highest priority for Santa Monica Mountains NRA, CA acquisition is hardship cases. The funds provided are not to be used to reimburse California for land purchases.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL NATIONAL HERITAGE CORRIDOR COMMISSION

Appropriates $250,000 for the Illinois and Michigan Canal National Heritage Corridor Commission as proposed by the House instead of nothing as proposed by the Senate. The managers will carefully review funding for the Commission in fiscal year 1988.

JEFFERSON NATIONAL EXPANSION MEMORIAL COMMISSION

Appropriates $75,000 for the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Commission as proposed by the House instead of nothing as proposed by the Senate. The managers will carefully review funding for the Commission in fiscal year 1988.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Provides that funds received by the National Park Service as reimbursement for the cost of providing security, law enforcement, interpretive, and other services with respect to the operation of facilities at the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial National Historic Site shall be credited to the appropriation bearing the cost of providing such services.

The managers have agreed to continue bill language which allows the Park Service to transfer no year funds to cover costs of emergency search and rescues, law and order emergencies and unforeseen law enforcement situations. The managers are concerned about abuses of this authority as reported by GAO and request monthly reports on its use. Bill language has also been included to make any transfers subject to Committee reprogramming guidelines.

The managers agree to strike House language prohibiting issuance of a request for proposals to lease any or all of Glen Echo Park. The Park Service is encouraged to continue to work out a mutually satisfactory arrangement with the newly formed Glen Echo Park Foundation. The Foundation is willing to raise private funds for the rehabilitation of the existing Glen Echo Park in order to maintain the current character of the park. The managers have provided $50,000 in planning funds to help start the process.

The managers have modified the bill language regarding outstanding claims related to the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration to state that the process used in settling the test case should be applied to the remaining cases.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

Appropriates $418,665,000 for surveys, investigations and research instead of $423,220,000 as proposed by the House and $402,933,000 as proposed by the Senate. The decrease below the amount proposed by the House consists of increases of $1,500,000 for continuation of Louisiana coastal erosion studies; $700,000 for administration of water resources research institutes; $370,000 for national water resources research and technical development competitive grant programs; and $524,000 for grants to water resources research institutes on a per capita basis; and decreases of $249,000 for cartographic and geologic information; $500,000 for equipment for Parkfield, CA, in earthquake hazards reduction; $900,000 in landslide hazards reduction; $1,000,000 in energy geologic surveys for coal investigations; $2,000,000 in National water data collection and analysis; and $3,000,000 for the National water quality assessment.

The managers agree that grant funds made available to State water resources research institutes which are not matched by States on the statutory basis of one and a half State dollar for each Federal dollar shall be available for the competitive grant programs.

MINERALS MANAGEMENT SERVICE

LEASING AND ROYALTY MANAGEMENT

Appropriates $160,697,000 instead of $162,893,000 as proposed by the House and $155,187,000 as proposed by the Senate.

In outer continental shelf lands, the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is a result of increases of $1,087,000 in leasing and environmental programs and $1,000,000 in the regulatory program. These increases are offset by a reduction of $436,000 in resource evaluation which includes a restoration of a general reduction of $764,000 which is offset by a reduction of $1,200,000 for geological and geophysical data acquisition. In addition, bill language included by the Senate on geological and geophysical data has been deleted, and language proposed by the House to deduct the costs of collecting mineral receipts before distributing the revenues to the States and the Treasury has also been deleted.

In mineral revenue collections the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is a reduction of $105,000 for two attorneys with the Solicitor's Office which is offset by an increase of $523,000 which the Senate had proposed as a general reduction. The managers agree that costs associated with the Solicitor's Office should be in the solicitor's budget. No funds have been included in mineral revenue collections for late interest payments as proposed by the Senate. In mineral revenue compliance the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is an increase of $2,500,000 for 50 additional auditors and support staff as well as an increase of $369,000 which the Senate had proposed as a general reduction. The managers agree that MMS is to report quarterly to the Committees on the number of FTE's involved in conducting audits, the cost of this effort and any return realized as well as a projection of the assignment of the auditors for the balance of the fiscal year. Bill language is included which specifies that not less than $11,059,000 shall be spent for the mineral revenue compliance audit program.

In general administration the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is an increase of $624,000 in general support services which is offset by a reduction of $52,000 for office consolidation since shuttle service will not be needed for the entire fiscal year.

The managers agree that the Department is to report back to the Committees by December 31, 1986, on how best to structure cooperative agreements with States for the auditing of revenues from section 8(g) Outer Continental Shelf lands. In addition, the Department must implement, by no later than the end of the fiscal year, an accurate and regular reporting system for payments from the 8(g) settlement in accordance with 30 U.S.C. 1715(a). In every month prior to the implementation of that reporting system, the Department is directed to provide the States with information on description of payment, the period covered, the payor and source of payment, including amount, quality and unit value of production by lease and royalty rates as well as unit resources, and the basis for valuation to the extent that information is available.

The managers are concerned that adjustments are being made in the Auditing and Financial System with no restrictions. These adjustments create an increased workload on a monthly basis and a disruption of audit trails. As a result, the government cannot be assured that there is an accurate accounting of the royalties due. Therefore, the Secretary is to request that a study be conducted by the Royalty Management Advisory Committee on the current adjustment procedures with an emphasis on developing ways to simplify this process while maximizing revenues. This study is to be submitted with the fiscal year 1988 budget request for the Minerals Management Service.

The managers agree that product value guidelines need to be determined expeditiously so that auditors will have sound criteria within which to work. Therefore, proposed product value guidelines for coal and oil are to be published in the Federal Register within 90 days of enactment and gas guidelines within 120 days of enactment of this Act.

The Minerals Management Service is to continue to notify the Committee by quarterly reports on progress in meeting its system integration plan for the new royalty management computer system as well as the status of the operation of the system, including any anticipated enhancements and their cost once the reimplementation of the Auditing and Financial System is completed and placed in operation. Any difficulties in reaching these deadlines are to be included in the quarterly report along with the reasons for not achieving them.

BUREAU OF MINES

MINES AND MINERALS

Appropriates $138,162,000 instead of $126,429,000 as proposed by the House and $130,965,000 as proposed by the Senate.

In health and safety technology the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is a result of increases of $1,000,000 for robotics; $250,000 for fires and explosions; $250,000 for post disaster research; $2,500,000 for respirable dust research to be conducted by Pennsylvania State University, West Virginia University, the University of Minnesota and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; $1,000,000 for ground control to continue mountain bump research on in-mine evaluation of geological conditions; and $800,000 for methane research. These increases are offset by a decrease of $500,000 for rock burst research.

In advanced mining technology the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is a result of an increase of $1,500,000 for proof-of-concept validation to complete surface and underground evaluations of previously developed prototype mining equipment. This increase is offset by decreases of $500,000 for predictive research and $500,000 for the in-situ copper mining demonstration at Casa Grande, Arizona. In resource conservation technology the difference from the amount proposed by the Senate is due to increase of $500,000 for acid mine drainage research; $500,000 for subsidence research; $1,900,000 for the transfer of title IV research from the Office of Surface Mining to the Bureau of Mines; and an offsetting decrease of $500,000 for water contamination research. In transferring the title IV research from the Office of Surface Mining, the managers expect that the Bureau will focus on research which can be completed in a short timeframe. If the research originally conducted by the Office of Surface Mining cannot be conducted by the Bureau in-house, it should be competitively bid. The Bureau is to coordinate its activities with the Office of Surface Mining and other Federal agencies to assure a coordinated approach to maximize the benefit derived from these expenditures and avoid duplication. Specifially, the Bureau is to consult with the OSM Assistant Directors for Field Operations to assure the research conducted meets the needs of those in the field.

In minerals and materials the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is a result of increases of $750,000 to restore research in this area; $100,000 to continue research initiated in fiscal year 1986 on a flame reactor which will recover strategic materials from a wide variety of sources; and an offsetting decrease of $1,000,000 for research to be conducted at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

In mineral institutes the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate is due to increases of $550,000 for allotment grants and $333,000 for the administration of the program. These increases are offset by a decrease of $3,271,000 for research grants. In respect to the competitive research program, it is the manager's expectation that there will be open competition among the mineral institutes for these funds within the generic areas of research with the focus being on the highest priority research problems.

In general administration there is an increase of $1,535,000 over the amount proposed by the Senate.

With the increases provided, the Bureau is directed to hold their FTE level at the fiscal year 1986 post-sequestration level.

Bill language provided by the Senate giving the Bureau authority to use funds from the sale of any excess property or land for the purchase of other land and property has been deleted.

The managers understand that the Bureau of Mines has a carryover balance from fiscal year 1986 of approximately $4,000,000 which will serve to complete many of the Bureau's research projects. The managers direct the Bureau to use up to $500,000 for not less than seven months of full operation to continue to fruition the controlled burnout program in Albright, West Virginia.

In addition, the managers agree that within available funds the Bureau is to conduct a study on the status of the chromium industry including an analysis of the chromite extracting and ferrochromium processing technologies in commercial use in the United States in relation to the technologies used by United States competitors.

Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement

REGULATION AND TECHNOLOGY

Appropriates $100,003,000 instead of $99,078,000 as proposed by the House and $96,130,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The difference over the amount proposed by the Senate includes an increase of $3,000,000 in State regulatory program operations. These additional funds have been provided to allow States to administer the inspectable units program. States are to establish an inventory of all sites subject to the Act since 1977, determine a priority system of their inspection, take photographs of site conditions and take enforcement action where necessary. The State files are to be open to OSM inspection at any time.

In regulatory program operations the difference over the amount proposed by the Senate includes an increase of $843,000 for 10 additional two-acre and bond forfeiture inspectors and the use of a helicopter; $700,000 for 10 troubleshooters to be divided equally between the Eastern and Western technical centers with one specifically assigned to Ohio; and $100,000 for 2 additional inspectors for the inspection of both production and non-production sites.

In technical services, training and research the difference from the level of funding proposed by the Senate is a result of a reduction of $500,000 for training.

In general administration the difference from the amount proposed by the Senate consists of reductions of $70,000 for executive direction and $200,000 for general services for decentralization costs.

ABANDONED MINE RECLAMATION FUND

Appropriates $203,720,000 instead of $232,720,000 as proposed by the House and $187,020,000 as proposed by the Senate.

In State reclamation program grants the difference from the amount proposed by the Senate is a result of an increase of $10,000,000.

In reclamation program operations the difference from the amount proposed by the Senate is a reduction of $1,900,000 for title IV research which is being funded in the Bureau of Mines.

In the rural lands reclamation program there is an increase of $8,600,000 over the amount proposed by the Senate.

The managers continue to be concerned about the high unobligated balances from prior year State reclamation grants. OSM is to keep updated obligation records for each State and report quarterly to the Committees on the progress made by the States in obligating prior year unobligated balances as well as the issuance of any administrative and construction grants to the States.

Bill language has been included allowing the Secretary to deny up to 50 percent of a State reclamation grant, in accordance with the procedures set forth in section 521(b) of the Act, when the Secretary determines a State is inadequately enforcing its State program.

The managers are concerned about the problems with the State of Ohio's surface mining regulatory program. Periodic evaluations by the Office of Surface Mining have highlighted a number of recurring problems in Ohio's implementation and enforcement of the Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act. The Office of Surface Mining is directed to work with the Ohio Division of Reclamation to address these problems through a public forum. This directive should not be construed as a precursor to Federal takeover of the Ohio program. OSM and the State should work together to develop an explicit plan of action to correct the enforcement deficiencies. The managers strongly support the concept of State primacy and it is their hope that problems will be resolved that will maintain Ohio State primacy.

Bill language has been added under General Provisions, Department of the Interior, which amends the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 to allow qualified registered professional land surveyors to prepare and certify maps and plans where they are so authorized.

Language has been included which states that none of the funds may be used for a reclamation grant to any State if the State has not agreed to participate in a nationwide Applicant Violator System. The Office of Surface Mining is presently studying a range of options with respect to the design of the Applicant Violator System (AVS). Definitions under examination for "ownership" and "control" vary from ten percent to fifty percent. At this time the managers take no position with respect to the final design of the AVS but have included bill language to permit the Office of Surface Mining to delay the pending rulemaking until March 31, 1987. This three month extension will permit the Committees on Appropriations to review this matter during the fiscal year 1988 hearings.

Bill language has not been included prohibiting the Office of Surface Mining from implementing a cost-sharing matching fund or directing that the Secretary's discretionary fund be apportioned on the basis of the Abandoned Mine Lands Inventory. However, the managers are concerned over internal discussions involving an AML costsharing initiative and understand the Department will take no action in fiscal year 1987. Additionally, the managers expect the Office of Surface Mining to discuss any future initiatives affecting the AML State Grant Program with the appropriate legislative and appropriations Committees.

Bureau of Indian Affairs

OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

Appropriates $911,182,000 for the operation of Indian programs instead of $892,328,000 as proposed by the House and $887,708,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase over the amount proposed by the Senate consists of increases of $1,200,000 for Indian school equalization formula, $1,428,000 for the institutionalized handicapped program, $200,000 for declining enrollment adjustments, $1,000,000 for education contract support, $750,000 for Johnson-O'Malley educational assistance, $250,000 for special higher education grants, $750,000 for tribally-controlled community colleges, $2,000,000 for residential care for handicapped children, $200,000 for the Winnebago tribe retrocession costs, $550,000 for retrocession costs of the Colville tribe, $556,000 for self-determination grants and training and technical assistance for Alaska, $4,182,000 for contract support, $208,000 for the Inchelium ferry, $750,000 for reforestation, $9,000,000 for water resources, $980,000 for the United States-Canada Pacific Salmon Treaty, $120,000 for grizzly bear surveys, $166,000 for the Klamath conservation program, $347,000 for fish hatchery operations, $200,000 for fire suppression equipment, $5,000,000 for fire suppression costs, $800,000 for mineral inventories, $800,000 for litigation support, and $200,000 for program management; and decreases of $18,000 for school operations, $50,000 for central office operations for tribal government services, $100,000 for the social services quality control program, $85,000 for the special investigative unit, $100,000 for tribal accounting services, $50,000 for wildlife and parks central office operations, $7,500,000 for water resources under Indian rights protection, $160,000 for the consolidated training program, and $100,000 for ADP services.

The managers direct that $900,000 of the funds received from the Department of Education for education of handicapped children be directed toward the institutionalized handicapped program. The Bureau is requested to seek outside evaluation of their educational program for exceptional children. A Bureau-wide policy for determining which handicapped children are supported by the Bureau and which by the public schools shall be developed and provided to the Committees on Appropriations. The Bureau shall also ensure that all schools use the same criteria in classifying exceptional children.

The managers have included bill language placing a one year moratorium on any payments that would otherwise be required under section 1128(b) of Public Law 95-561. The Bureau shall provide a report on this matter as outlined in the Senate report. Bill language is also included relating to the Phoenix Indian School and maintaining the current formula for payments under the Johnson-O'Malley Educational Assistance Act (JOM). If the JOM formula is to be changed, the managers direct that votes occur on a regular schedule and that provisions be made to phase in new formulas. The managers agree to review this matter for fiscal year 1988.

Bill language has been included to allow the use of funds provided for the Institute of American Indian Arts to be used to implement Part A of the American Indian, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian Culture and Art Development Act. The language also gives the Secretary continued authority to operate the Institute until the governing body of the Institute is appointed.

Of the amounts provided for the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA), $1,200,000 shall be used to provide fourth quarter funding to extend through the fiscal year those grants approved late in fiscal year 1986. The remainder of the funds are available for the regular competitive grant program. For fiscal year 1988 it is the intent of the managers to put the entire program back on the full fiscal year schedule. As in the past, the managers intend the ICWA grants to be made available for the highest priority projects, whether on or off reservation. Alaskan tribes and organizations are eligible to apply for ICWA grants and small tribe core management grants on the same basis as every other tribe. General assistance grants have been reduced $3,000,000 below the budget estimate. Should there be a shortfall, the Bureau should notify the Committees on Appropriations in a timely manner.

The $818,000 reduction in contract support is the amount requested for pre-1985 contracts. The Bureau is directed to correct any errors and omissions in these contracts from within the amounts that were transferred to the programs in fiscal year 1985. The managers expect the Bureau to improve contract management and contract support payments by ensuring that fringe benefits are controlled and that direct program costs are not charged to indirect costs. Contract support should not be "grandfathered" on an individual contract basis and only additional costs which can be shown to be a direct result of contracting should be allowed.

The managers note that as part of the effort to control contract support costs, the Bureau has decided that only one-third of the support costs for pre-1985 contracts will be released at the beginning of fiscal year 1987. In order to provide for a transition period in the payment rates for contract support, the released funds should be budgeted for only one-third of the fiscal year. If current regulations are amended, changes in contract support payments should be phased in over the remainder of the fiscal year with full implementation delayed until the beginning of fiscal year 1988. If the regulations are not amended, the Bureau should release the full year's funding as early in the year as possible.

The managers agree that no Bureau funds shall be used to meet the matching requirement for the economic development grant program. The allowance for employment development includes $1,633,000 for the United Tribes Educational Technical Center.

Within the amount provided for wildlife and parks, $80,000 is available for the Creston, MT fisheries program. A total of $433,000 is provided for operation of the Inchelium ferry $225,000 of which is derived by transfer from road maintenance.

The allowance for the United States-Canada Pacific Salmon Treaty is the total amount available for all direct and indirect costs of the program. The managers agree that funds provided for water investigations are available for tribal contracting and that within the allowance for water investigations are funds to continue the work at Flathead ($390,000), Zuni, and Yakima ($545,000). The managers intend that the funds provided for minerals investigations not be limited solely to efforts oriented toward precious metals exploration or to programs with expected immediate financial returns. Mining and minerals funds shall be available for tribal contracting.

The managers agree that attorney fees for the Navajo and Hopi tribes shall be reviewed on the same basis as all other requests and that such costs shall not be subject to any arbitrary ceiling.

Within the allowance for facilities management, an additional $189,000 is provided for the Hopi High School. The Bureau shall begin implementation of the program recommended by the Office of Construction Management to provide operation and maintenance funding to schools based on enrollment. The Department should continue to monitor the facilities program and report quarterly to the Committees on Appropriations. The Department and the Bureau are reminded that the Committees will decide when the facilities program is ready to be returned to Bureau control from the Office of Construction Management, based on consideration of the progress or accomplishment of the following:

A significant improvement in the rate of FI&R obligations and procurements, indicating improved management capabilities and procedures;

Acceleration of the reduction of total plant size;

Completion of the comprehensive education plan, to be submitted to and approved by the Appropriations Committees;

A final plan for reorganization of facilities management, approved by the Appropriations Committees and under active implementation; and

A plan for an O&M allocation formula based on BIA student space planning requirements, approved by the Committees and implemented.

The additional reduction below the Senate allowance for the consolidated management training program represents the amount requested for salary costs for Bureau participants in the Departmental manager development program. The managers agree that $113,000 shall be used to train contracting officers and that the program should be managed by the Central office.

The managers have deferred action on requests to establish additional offices in Lafayette, LA and San Juan, NM. The Bureau is requested to submit to the Committees on Appropriations a detailed report of the costs of operating agency and field offices along with recommendations for consolidating existing operations and/or adding additional offices.

Bill language proposed by the House regarding the relocation of the Northern California Agency has been deleted.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $76,101,000 for construction instead of $86,066,000 as proposed by the House and $67,951,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase over the amount proposed by the Senate consists of increases of $4,150,000 for facility improvement and repair and $5,000,000 for the Navajo Indian Irrigation Project; and a decrease of $1,000,000 for the Flathead irrigation project. No additional funds are provided for the Fort Belknap irrigation project pending further review.

The managers agree that of the unobligated balances from irrigation funds made available in Public Law 98-8, $900,000 shall be reprogrammed to complete the Fort McDowell rehabilitation project and $390,000 shall be reprogrammed for the Papago, AZ high school. Together with the amount reprogrammed, unobligated balances from the Papago project may be used to construct six units of quarters and to improve the playing fields to the extent funds are available.

Within the allowance for buildings and utilities, $90,000 shall be available for planning the Taholah, WA high school. As the work at the Marty school is not of the highest priority, no additional funds are provided. The managers agree that there is no requirement for new construction at the Oglala Sioux school as the needs of the facility can be met through the facility improvement and repair program. Improvements to the Santa Rosa dormitory which are required to make space available for students from the Papago high school shall be met within available funds for facility improvement and repair. The Bureau shall review the need for emergency repairs at the Standing Rock, ND high school and make any required life/safety repairs.

The managers agree that the Bureau should ensure that tribal personnel costs are brought in line with the amount of funds available for housing construction and repairs. Of available prior year balances, $1,500,000 shall be reprogrammed to meet the Bureau's share of the Alaska 500 housing settlement. No fiscal year 1987 funds are made available for this purpose.

Bill language has been included by the managers which revises language in the fiscal year 1986 continuing resolution to permit funds for Navajo and Hopi relocations to be used for counseling ($500,000); water production ($600,000); and administration ($125,000).

Under existing law, the Commission is authorized to call upon any department or agency of the United States to assist in implementing the relocation plan. The managers have approved the involvement of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Indian Health Service. Although the managers are aware of and have not changed 25 USC 640d-11(i), authority has been given to the Bureau of Indian Affairs to utilize their funds to provide social service counseling and water production. The determination of eligibility for relocation benefits and the execution of contracts for relocation still remain the responsibility of the Commission. In addition, the Commission will continue with other aspects of new land development such as range improvements and electricity. The managers will hold each party accountable for their respective tasks and will expect each to report on the progress of their actions during their testimony on their fiscal year 1988 budget requests before the Committees. In addition, the managers expect quarterly reports on the meetings held between the Commission, Bureau of Indian Affairs and Indian Health Service which are to include the timelines in which they expect to achieve their objectives.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates no funds for road construction instead of $2,500,000 as proposed by the House. Bill language has been included to earmark $10,000,000 of Federal Highway Trust Funds available to the State of Oklahoma for the construction of the Honobia Indian Road, and waiving the requirement for a 25% match with local funds.

WHITE EARTH TRUST FUND

Appropriates $6,600,000 for the White Earth Trust Fund, as proposed by the Senate.

INDIAN LOAN GUARANTY AND INSURANCE FUND

Appropriates $2,452,000 instead of $2,652,000 as proposed by the House and $2,485,000 as proposed by the Senate. This amount reflects an increase of $167,000 over the budget level of $2,485,000, to allow an additional amount of $10,000,000 in loans to be guaranteed; and an offsetting decrease of $200,000 for management and technical assistance, leaving a balance of $500,000. The managers do not intend for any additional funds to be obligated for contracts for model business development centers.

TERRITORIAL AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

ADMINISTRATION OF TERRITORIES

Appropriates $78,224,000 instead of $78,874,000 as proposed by the House and $76,016,000 as proposed by the Senate. Included is $75,501,000 for grants and technical assistance and $2,723,000 for the Office of Territorial and International Affairs. The net decrease below the House consists of a decrease of $900,000 for the Guam mental health facility, and an increase of $250,000 for four FTE's in the Office of Territorial and International Affairs, for supervision of Compact programs in the Freely Associated States, one each in Palau, the Marshall Islands, the Federated States of Micronesia, and in Washington. The managers intend to add four additional FTE's in the future, for a total of eight.

The $2,000,000 provided for construction of the Guam mental health facility is the total of Federal funding that will be provided.

Bill language is included which amends the language proposed by the Senate, to clarify that covenant grant funding to the Northern Mariana Islands shall be subject to nthe terms of the Agreement of the Special Representatives on Future United States Financial Assistance, but only as approved by and provided in Public Law 99-396.

TRUST TERRITORY OF THE PACIFIC ISLANDS

Appropriates $67,387,000 instead of $14,340,000 as proposed by the House and $66,987,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net decrease from the amount proposed by the Senate consists of increases of $900,000 for the Enewetak support program, $500,000 for the Bikini food program, and $1,000,000 for the Bikini Atoll Rehabilitation Committee program; and a decrease of $2,000,000 for construction of the Palau hospital. The managers agree that Palau should complete plans and initiate construction of the hospital with the funds provided in fiscal year 1986, and that the balance of the $10,000,000 total cost will be provided in a future appropriations act.

The managers have agreed to provide the regular grant funding to the Trust Territory governments, until the Compacts of Free Association become effective.

In accordance with the provisions of Public Law 99-239, the Compact of Free Association Act, Federal programs in the Federated States of Micronesia and the Republic of the Marshall Islands shall continue to be provided until the effective date of the Compact, which has not yet been determined. Even after the effective date, Federal funds will continue to be provided for those Federal programs and activities to be continued under the Compact, pursuant to Public Law 99-239.

The managers direct the Department of the Interior and the Department of Energy to develop a plan for providing Federal funding for the necessary continuing activities related to the activities of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and the Bikini Atoll Rehabilitation Committee on Bikini Atoll after fiscal year 1987, in order that those activities may be completed as required, and a final report and recommendation as to the preferred method for rehabilitation of the atoll be provided to the Congress. A report on the DOI-DOE plan for funding and completing these activities shall be submitted to the Committees on Appropriations by February 1, 1987. In addition, the Departments of Energy and the Interior are directed to provide the Committees with a report by December 1 of each year detailing how funds were spent during the previous fiscal year for the radiological health care program, and the agricultural and food programs for Enewetak and Bikini, as referenced in section 103(h) of Public Law 99-239. The report shall also specify the anticipated needs during the current fiscal year and the following fiscal year in order to provide for the radiological health care, and the planting, agricultural maintenance, and food programs for Enewetak and Bikini at a level not less than that which existed prior to the implementation of Public Law 99-239, and as anticipated in section 103(h) of Public Law 99-239. The managers believe that the United States has a moral obligation to fund these programs and intend to do so in the absence of compelling considerations to the contrary.

Bill language proposed by the House, allowing funds from the Bikini Trust Fund to be used for settlement outside of the Marshall Islands, has been included. The managers expect the expenditure of any funds from the Trust Fund to continue to be subject to the same controls as now exist. The managers also intend that the costs of future relocations outside the Marshall Islands, or back to the Marshall Islands, chosen by the Bikinians will be paid from funds available in the Trust Fund.

COMPACT OF FREE ASSOCIATION

Appropriates $2,250,000 instead of $36,170,000 as proposed by the House and $27,920,000 as proposed by the Senate. The amount provided is for the second installment of the Enjebi Community Trust Fund, making a total of $5,000,000. The managers remain committed to providing the balance of funding necessary to provide the full $10,000,000 authorized for the Fund in future appropriations acts.

Bill language has been included changing the effective date of the Compact of Free Association for the Federated States of Micronesia and the Republic of the Marshall Island to October 1, 1986, and establishing that date as the effective date for the Compact for the Republic of Palau. This change does not affect the Kwajalein use and impact payments, for which the effective date remains October 1, 1985. The managers have very reluctantly agreed to this change, given the current uncertainty as to when the Compacts will become effective, and when the Compact funding will be released. The managers are committed to providing the second year of funding for the Compacts at the earliest possible opportunity once this uncertainty has been resolved.

Bill language has also been included providing that both the funds made available for the Compacts, and the funds to be offset against them, as provided in Public Law 99-349, shall remain available until expended. Language is also included that will offset $60,719,000 of the Trust Territory funds provided in this Act against the Compact funds in fiscal year 1987 when the Compacts become effective.

With regard to the funding for Federal education programs included in section 105(i)(2) of the Compact, the managers believe this language is sufficient to allow the freely associated states to continue to apply to the Department of Education, and to continue to be funded, up to the levels specified in section 105(i)(2), without any further action by the Congress.

DEPARTMENTAL OFFICES

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

Appropriates $42,816,000 instead of $42,482,000 as proposed by the House and $42,822,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers have agreed to the following distribution of funds:

Secretary's Office	$1,586,000
Executive Secretary	374,000
Congressional and Legislative Affairs	1,046,000
Equal Opportunity	1,274,000
Public Affairs	784,000
Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization	381,000
A/S Water and Science	625,000
A/S Lands and Minerals	840,000
A/S Fish and Wildlife and Parks	600,000
A/S Indian Affairs	600,000

A/S Territorial and International Affairs	$508,000
A/S Policy, Budget and Administration	825,000
Environmental Project Review	1,404,000
Acquisition and property management	1,264,000
Office of Personnel	1,617,000
Administrative Services	1,032,000
Information resources management	4,450,000
Policy analysis	1,950,000
Office of Budget	1,404,000
Financial Management	954,000
Hearings and Appeals	5,200,000
Aircraft Services	1,658,000
Central Services	12,440,000
Total	$42,816,000

Bill language is included earmarking $1,586,000 for the Immediate Office of the Secretary.

No funds are recommended for a cooperative agreement with the Benjamin Franklin Institute.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

Appropriates $20,880,000 for the Solicitor instead of $21,255,000 as proposed by the House and $19,385,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net decrease below the House position includes reductions of $225,000 for travel, $50,000 for subscription and legal books, $100,000 for overtime/promotions; $50,000 as a general reduction and an increase of $50,000 for Statue of Liberty support.

The managers are in agreement that work associated with the Office of Surface Mining is of highest priority.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

Appropriates $16,300,000 as proposed by the House instead of $15,424,000 as proposed by the Senate.

DEPARTMENT WIDE PROVISIONS

The managers agree to designate the Laurel Highlands National Recreational Trail as part of the Potomac Heritage Trail.

The managers have included language designating the Visitor Center associated with the headquarters of the Illinois and Michigan Canal National Heritage Coridor as the "George M. O'Brien Visitor Center".

The managers agree to an exchange of Land and Water Conservation Fund assisted land in Berkeley, Illinois.

Language proposed by the Senate amending the Act of August 9, 1955, to allow the Tulalip Tribe to enter into long-term leases if the lease is executed under tribal regulations approved by the Secretary, is included.

Language proposed by the Senate applying the exception in Public Law 87-279 to the Flathead Indian Irrigation Project has been stricken.

Language is included, as proposed by the Senate which prevents final regulations concerning paleontological research on Federal lands until the Secretary has received a report from the National Academy of Sciences on such regulations and forwarded to Congress a comparison of that report and the Department's proposed regulations.

Language is included to prohibit the use of funds for portions of steps leading up to the lease sale in the Georges Bank-North Atlantic planning area.

Language is also included, as proposed by the House, which provides the Secretary of the Interior the authority to adopt recommendations proposed by the negotiating team on California offshore leasing as authorized in section 111 of Public Law 99-190.

The language also delays the publication of a call for information and nomination for Sale 95 until March 1, 1987 and delays the final notice of sale for Sale 91 until January 1, 1989.

The managers agree to delete the language propsed by the House restricting implementation of a settlement of a case regarding the Westlands Water District.

Language is included as proposed by the Senate to allow land surveyors to prepare and certify maps for surface mining permit applications.

Language is included as proposed by the Senate requiring funds transferred pursuant to Section 101 to be rplenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible.

Language proposed by the Senate delaying implementation of a settlement on oil shale claims in Colorado for 180 days, provided the Courts and the parties to the agreement concur, is included.

The House bill contained a provision for purchasing oil rigs for the Outer Continental Shelf containing specific percentages of American material and labor. The Senate passed bill contained no such provision. This provision is not included.

TITLE II—RELATED AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

FOREST SERVICE

FOREST RESEARCH

Appropriates $128,882,000 for forest research instead of $129,183,000 as proposed by the House and $123,282,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers agree that the changes from the budget request, $111,481,000, by program are as follows:

Fire and atmospheric sciences:
Atmospheric deposition research at Fort Collins, CO	+$200,000
Fire research at Riverside, CA and Missoula, MT	+300,000
Forest insect and disease research:
Eastern hardwoods research cooperative at Broomall, PA	+325,000
Western conifers research cooperative at Corvallis, OR (to be managed by the Environmental Protection Agency)	+300,000
To be distributed to the highest priority insect and disease research projects	+697,000
Forest inventory and analysis:
Atmospheric deposition research at Research Triangle Park, NC	+1,200,000
Restore forest inventory cycle to previous level	+900,000
Western ecosystems acid rain monitoring pursuant to an agreement with the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory	+1,000,000
Renewable resources economics research: Maintain at 1986 level	−86,000
Trees and timber management:
Eastern hardwoods research cooperative at Broomall, PA	+325,000
Western conifers research cooperative at Corvallis, OR	+300,000
Fairbanks, AK	+500,000
Genetic engineering research at Berkeley, CA	+300,000
Parsons, WV: $188,000 for rehabilitation and $100,000 for research. Additionally, the $196,000 proposed for transfer to Morgantown shall be returned to Parsons	+288,000
Boise, ID	+200,000
Honolulu, HI	+50,000
Watershed and minerals management research:
Atmospheric deposition research at Oxford, MS, Grand Rapids, MN, Riverside, CA, and Fort Collins, CO	+600,000
University Park, PA	+152,000
Soil stabilization research at Corvallis, OR	+125,000
Watershed research at Arcata, CA, Durham, NH, and Parsons, WV. Additionally, the $349,000 proposed for transfer to Morgantown shall be returned to Parsons	+375,000
Wildlife, range and fish habitat research:
Spotted owl research at Fresno and Arcata, CA and Olympia, WA, to be matched by $500,000 in private funds	+1,500,000
Endangered species research at Missoula, MT	+200,000
Trout stream productivity research at Blacksburg, VA	+200,000
Semiarid habitat research at Albuquerque, NM	+100,000
Moose habitat research at Fairbanks, AK	+100,000
Tropical wildlife research at Rio Piedras, PR	+100,000
Forest recreation research:
Wilderness management research at Missoula, MT	+150,000
Urban/wildland research at Riverside, CA	+150,000
Forest products and harvesting research:
Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, WI	+450,000
For whitewood shake and shingle preservative treatment research and market development, to be conducted on a fifty-fifty match basis with funds to be provided by private industry	+100,000
Research on products from low quality logs at Blacksburg, VA	+300,000

Competitive grants: To be divided equally between basic improved harvesting, processing and utilization research; and basic forest biology, including biotechnology.....	+6,000,000

The managers note that within the fire and atmospheric sciences program, $206,000 of research that was formerly conducted at Fairbanks, AK will be conducted at Anchorage, AK in fiscal year 1987. The Forest Service is directed to maintain the fire research work unit in East Lansing in fiscal year 1987.

Included in the appropriation is $1,000,000 to be provided for the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory's intermountain ecological and environmental study, pursuant to an agreement to be developed between INEL and the Forest Service. This agreement will provide that all activities will be compatible with the existing National Acid Precipitation Assessment Program (NAPAP) and the Mountain Cloud Chemistry Program (MCCP), including measurement and monitoring protocols. The increase will enable the Forest Service to accelerate research on effects of atmospheric deposition on alpine/sub-alpine ecosystems.

STATE AND PRIVATE FORESTRY

Appropriates $58,946,000 instead of $57,671,000 as proposed by the House and $61,771,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase over the amount proposed by the House consists of: an increase of $1,600,000 for cooperative lands pest suppression; and decreases of $200,000 for the Boundary Waters Canoe Area grant, $50,000 to pest management special projects, Federal lands, and $75,000 to urban forestry.

The managers agree that within the amount provided for cooperative lands pest suppression, the Forest Service is to provide $1,500,000 for spruce budworms in Yakima, WA and $211,000 for budworm control in New Mexico, if these projects are of high enough priority.

Within the funds provided for wood utilization, $100,000 is to be used for a study on the proposed marketing initiative, for which no funds are provided. The study, which should be submitted to the Appropriations Committees by March 1, 1987, should include at a minimum the following:

A list of projects suggested by the Forest Service;

The criteria to be considered in selecting projects;

The amounts to be provided for technical assistance and financial assistance through the States, and how these amounts are to be determined;

The rationale for providing Federal funding for these activities;

The role of private industry, the States and other non-Federal entities in such a program.

A proposal on cost-share rates, and the basis therefor.

The managers agree that there is no commitment to Federal funding for this program, but it will be reviewed in conjunction with the 1988 hearings.

Bill language has been included earmarking $2,800,000 for the Boundary Waters Canoe Area grant, as proposed by the Senate.

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

Appropriates $1,158,294,000 for the National forest system instead of $996,687,000 as proposed by the House and $1,137,894,000 as proposed by the Senate. The change from the amount proposed by the Senate includes: increases of $1,700,000 for land line location, $24,000,000 for fighting forest fires, $2,635,000 for trail maintenance, $7,152,000 for recreation management, $2,000,000 for wilderness management, $1,000,000 for spotted owl management, $500,000 for threatened and endangered species, $1,900,000 for soil and water improvements and $1,300,000 for soil and water inventories; and decreases of $2,266,000 to fire protection, $340,000 to cooperative law enforcement, $2,500,000 to road maintenance, $8,392,000 to timber sales preparation, $4,050,000 to reforestation, $2,202,000 to timber stand improvement, $900,000 to habitat improvement, and $1,137,000 to grazing.

The managers agree the additional funds for land line location are to be used for multiple resource management purposes.

The mangers are concerned about the costs per acre of reforestation and timber stand improvement, and request the Forest Service to provide a report by March 1, 1987, as to specific steps to be taken to better control costs, and a methodology to be used to determine the economic feasibility of reforestation and TSI projects before they are undertaken.

Within the increase provided for noxious weed control, $80,000 is for the Boise National Forest.

Within the funds provided for soil and water improvements, $250,000 is for a 50 percent cost shared acid neutralization research and demonstration project in the Cranberry River area of the Monongahela NF, WV. An additional $250,000 is for a project in the Blackwood Creek watershed of the Lake Tahoe Basin Management Unit.

In the wildlife and fish habitat management program, there is included an increase of $425,000 for anadromous fish habitat improvements in the Northeast. Included in the soil, water and air program is $280,000 for Bull Run watershed monitoring.

The managers agree that the funds available for spotted owl inventory activities shall be used in various types of habitat, including old growth and non-old growth areas, and in various land use classification areas, including wild and scenic areas, research natural areas, and designated wilderness areas. The managers are concerned that if the Forest Service focuses its inventory on old growth areas and commercial timber lands only, it might miss spotted owl populations in other land use areas, including those already protected by statute or regulation.

The managers are concerned that the Service has developed plans for reorganizing the national forests in Arizona that will result in disruption and economic hardship in small communities. Therefore, the managers direct the Service not to implement the plans without first satisfying Congressional concerns.

The allowance provides for a 1987 timber sales program of 11.2 billion board feet (BBF). This approximates historic levels and is recommended on the basis of continuing high harvest levels and softwood timber demand. The allowance also includes funds to maintain timber support activities and to begin the advanced sales preparation work necessary to maintain the option of continuing historic sales levels after the supply of reoffer volume has been exhausted. The managers agree that the costs of maintaining this option will need to be examined in detail as part of the consideration of the FY 1988 budget for the Forest Service, and expect the Forest Service to have detailed, supportable bases for their estimates available for review at that time. The managers also expect the Forest Service to be prepared to discuss in detail how future years' timber sales levels will be impacted by the land management plans which are now in the final stages of review. The Forest Service is encouraged to offer up to 7.0 BBF of new green sales in fiscal year 1987, and to maintain the sales level in Region 6 at 5.2 BBF gross, 4.5 BBF net merchantable sawtimber, and in Regions 1 and 4 at about 1.0 BBF and 0.4 BBF, respectively. The sales program is intended to be a balanced one across the country.

The managers have agreed to provide $1,000,000 for 1987 costs related to the Helistat. Additional costs required in the future should be submitted as a budget request.

The managers understand that the current land management planning process is proceeding on a forest-by-forest basis. The managers have agreed to include bill language intended to prevent the existing land and resource management plans from being enjoined in their entirety, solely on the basis that they are outdated, pending the completion of the new plans, and have also agreed to restate the direction provided in Section 6(c) of the NFMA that the Forest Service may continue the management of units of the National Forest System under existing plans pending the completion of new plans.

Under the provisions of Section 6(c), the Forest Service is encouraged to begin to incorporate new standards and guidelines into existing plans as soon as practicable. The managers are concerned, however, that in carrying out this direction, the Forest Service must not contravene the public participation requirements of NFMA. Section 6(d) required full public participation in the development, review, and revision of existing land management plans. The managers therefore direct the Forest Service to provide for public review of new suitability standards, yield tables, minimum management requirements and other standards and guidelines prior to their incorporation into existing plans, in accordance with the provisions of Section 6(d) of NFMA.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $261,436,000 for construction instead of $192,409,000 as proposed by the House and $268,130,000 as proposed by the Senate. The changes from the amounts proposed by the Senate consist of: increases of $9,856,000 for facilities and $570,000 for trail construction; and a decrease of $17,120,000 to road construction.

Within the amount provided for recreation facilities is $587,000 for Clear Creek, AL, $568,000 for Mount St. Helens NM, WA, and $150,000 for Mount Rogers NRA, VA. A slippage adjustment of $300,000 is made against budgeted facility construction projects. The managers have provided $10,000,000 for high priority recreation facility rehabilitation projects, with the first emphasis to be on health and safety-related projects.

The managers agree that a total of $1,617,000 is provided for flood repair in the Monongahel NF, WV, consisting of $1,021,000 for facilities, $431,000 for roads, and $165,000 for trails.

The allowance for road construction also includes $8,473,000 for Mount St. Helens, WA, $5,114,000 for Clear Creek, AL, and $100,000 for design and survey in the Hells Canyon NRA.

The managers agree that within available administrative facilities funds, $100,000 is provided for design of the Big Sur multi-agency work center. There is also $1,570,000 for Mount St. Helens administrative facilities. There is no objection to shifting $538,000 budgeted for the Vernon work center on the Kisatchie NF to other high priority projects on the Desoto NF, MS; the Francis Marion and Sumter NF, SC; the Chattahoochee and Oconee NF, GA; the Holly Springs NF, MS; and the Homochitto NF, MS.

Bill language has been included appropriating $300,000 for the construction of administrative improvements at the Mount Elden Work Center in Flagstaff, AZ. This is in addition to other projects identified in the statement of the managers and is in addition to the $261,436,000 also appropriated for construction.

The allowance provides $165,000,000 for engineering, design and construction costs for forest roads needed to support the fiscal year 1987 sales program of 11.2 BBF, and $15,000,000 for advanced engineering and design activities required to enable the Forest Service to be able to maintain the option of continuing historic sales levels and related road construction programs. The managers will review the Forest Service road construction program again next year and determine the progress the Forest Service has made in regaining the option of maintaining sales levels, especially in Region 6, after the supply of reoffer volume has been exhausted, and what impact other factors may have on the sales levels, and resulting need for road construction. It is the intent of the managers that the projects funded be undertaken pursuant to all applicable forest management laws and regulations, and that the Forest Service should not unduly accelerate its access into released roadless areas.

The managers continue to be concerned about allegations that the Forest Service is building roads to a standard greater than is necessary for timber use or multiple use management. Therefore, bill language is included, as proposed by the Senate, requiring further reductions in the unit costs of timber roads. The managers expect a complete report at the end of the fiscal year on how these reductions were achieved, and also expect the Forest Service to notify the Committees immediately during the year if this effort to reduce costs will result in potential environmental damage. The managers are concerned about allegations that the Forest Service cannot specify where specific road segments will be constructed. The managers are also concerned that funds provided for Forest Service roads be used in a manner consistent with multiple use resource guidelines. Therefore, the managers direct that each Forest Supervisor make available for public review the anticipated location, mileage, cost and use for all local, arterial and collector roads required in an annual timber sales program as determined by a forest management plan. While such forest road data may vary with the dynamics of the timber sales program, such information shall be published annually and be updated every six months.

The managers expect the Forest Service to maintain the funding breakdown of the road construction budget submitted in the budget request, as modified by congressional action. If funds are to be shifted between categories within the road construction line item, the Forest Service should notify the Appropriations Committees in advance of the proposed changes, and the reasons for them.

Bill language is included correcting language carried in the fiscal year 1986 Continuing Resolution regarding Highway Trust Fund money for Mount St. Helens road construction. The language providing additional purchaser construction ceiling of $154,321,000, as proposed by the Senate, has not been included. There is sufficient unobligated funds available from prior years' programs for the 1987 program.

Language proposed by the Senate earmarking certain projects in the construction account has also been deleted.

LAND ACQUISITION

Appropriates $52,236,000 instead of $42,936,000 as proposed by the House and $39,906,000 as proposed by the Senate. The following table shows the allocation agreed to by their managers:

Acquisition management	$3,206,000
Appalachian Trail	1,500,000
AuSable-Manistee Rivers, MI	6,000,000
Columbia River Gorge, OR and WA	4,650,000
Jefferson NF, VA	280,000
Lake Tahoe, CA and NV	7,000,000
Mono Lake-Inyo NF, CA (wilderness)	400,000
Monongahela NF/Shavers Fork, WV	12,800,000
Mount Rogers NRA, VA	1,000,000
Ottawa NF, MI	3,000,000
Pisgah NF, NC	900,000
Wasatch NF/Little Cottonwood Canyon, UT	2,500,000
Wayne NF, OH	2,000,000
Endangered Species Habitat	2,000,000
Inholdings and recreation composites	5,000,000
Total	$52,236,000

Included in the inholding and recreation composite allowance are funds to acquire the Reed Ranch in the Payette NF.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Bill language regarding compliance with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act has been included, as proposed by the House.

Language proposed by the Senate, allowing use of Forest Service funds to reimburse employees for the cost of State licenses and fees, and providing that purchaser elect funding will be available for actual rather than estimated road construction costs, has also been included. This does not change the criteria for award of a contract to the lowest acceptable bidder.

The managers have agreed to provide $26,000,000 for the Salvage Sale fund, as proposed by the Senate.

The managers have included language providing for a $1,000,000 Youth Conservation Corps program from within available funds, as proposed by the House.

Bill language has been included directing the Forest Service to negotiate claims resulting from the Black Hills National Forest forest fire, and providing that the negotiated amounts shall be paid from the Claims, Judgments and Relief Act Fund (P.L. 95-26) in the Department of the Treasury.

The managers have agreed to include language proposed by the Senate, which modifies the boundaries of the Gifford Pinchot National Forest.

Bill language has been included limiting costs for the Resources Planning Act Washington staff to $500,000 for the costs of developing the 1990 RPA Program called for by the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974, as amended.

The Congress has only recently received the 1985 Program and the managers are concerned about its timeliness and its content. In addition, the relationship between the range of outputs called for in the recommended program and the current generation of land management plans is not clear.

Therefore, the Committee directs that the Forest Service provide the following information to the appropriate Congressional Committees by March 1, 1987: (1) a detailed breakdown of Forest Service Washington office and field office funding and staffing that are to be spent annually in preparing the 1990 assessment and the 1990 program; (2) a detailed breakdown of Forest Service Washington office and field office funding and staffing that are to be spent annually in preparing the land management plans; (3) a detailed analysis of the factors that have resulted in the national forest plans differing from the RPA goals.

In doing the analysis, the Service is directed to address: (1) the role that the RPA targets played, and should play in the future, in the decisionmaking process in the development of specific national forest management plans; (2) the role that each RPA alternative program had in the selection of the final RPA recommended program and in the selection of preferred forest plan alternatives; and (3) the actions the Service will take if the national forest planning process is not in agreement with the RPA goals for any resource, and how these relate to the legal and regulatory requirements under which the land management plans were developed.

In developing the 1990 RPA Program, the Congress directs the Forest Service to identify and recommend a single, strategic proposal within the range of alternatives developed, to guide the management, research, protection, and other activities of the Forest Service for the succeeding five years. The plan should respond to the short term and long term National and natural resource needs of the Nation as identified by the Resource Assessment. The Congress fully exists the 1990 RPA Program to be transmitted to the Congress on time, in conjunction with the provisions of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Act, as amended.

The managers want to stress that the allowance is not intended to slow in any way the development of new forest plans or to reduce funding availability for development of revisions and updates to the assessment.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

CLEAN COAL TECHNOLOGY

Bill language is included providing for submission of statements of interest and informational proposal within 60 days after a Federal Register notice soliciting such statements and proposals, as proposed by the House; and providing for a summary report on March 6, 1987 as proposed by the Senate, and a detailed report within 120 days of receipt of such statements and proposals as proposed by the House.

The managers agree that the solicitation provided for in this Act shall specify, but not be limited to, the following generic emission reduction technologies and processes:

1. Coal cleaning;
2. Dry sorbent injection;
3. (a) partial stack gas scrubbing or (b) advanced scrubbing techniques;
4. NO_x controls; and
5. Repowering of existing equipment.

It is not the managers' intent to consider projects which duplicate previous demonstrations.

The managers agree that proposals are not limited to those connected with electric power generating technologies.

Bill language is also included providing that notwithstanding guidance provided by the Department in the February 17, 1986 Clean Coal Technology Program Opportunity Notice, funds expended by a private sector participant during the period of Congressional approval or review of projects for which agreement has been reached may be eligible for cost-sharing, as appropriate, commencing immediately after the required report on the project in question is submitted to the Congress for a 30-day review pursuant to the Administrative Provisions of the Department of Energy in this Act. Such cost-sharing may only be reimbursed after the Congress has approved the project or the 30-day review period has elapsed and the agreement is executed by the Department. In no case shall funds expended by the private sector during the review period be eligible for cost-sharing reimbursement of any project disapproved by the Congress.

FOSSIL ENERGY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

Appropriates $295,866,000 instead of $314,512,000 as proposed by the House and $242,947,000 as proposed by the Senate. The decrease below the amount proposed by the House consists of increases of $71,000 for advanced separation technology and $1,000,000 for acid rain control technologies in flue gas cleanup; $4,931,000 for the Calderon hot gas process and $768,000 for direct coal fired turbines in gas stream cleanup; $500,000 for university coal research and $1,000,000 for biological processing of coal in advanced research and technology development; $1,000,000 for close-coupled catalytic concepts in direct liquefaction; $1,600,000 for advanced pressurized fluidized bed (PFB) systems in combustion; $300,000 for technology base research in molten carbonate fuel cells; $500,000 for high Btu defense fuels in advanced process development and $1,300,000 for high temperature in-situ sulfur capture in systems engineering concepts, both in gasification; and decreases of $500,000 for joint EPRI/DOE advanced physical coal cleaning and $250,000 for chemical and electrochemical coal cleaning in coal preparation and analysis; $500,000 for advanced NO_x control and $100,000 for enhanced mass transfer in flue gas cleanup; $1,400,000 for on-line zinc ferrite regeneration in gas stream cleanup; $342,000 for field monitoring of wastes and energy recovery in waste management technology; $547,000 for materials and components, $194,000 for instrumentation, and $452,000 for direct utilization in advanced research and technology development; $525,000 for advanced research in liquefaction; $2,000,000 for co-processing research and $1,000,000 for pyrolysis research in direct liquefaction; $1,800,000 for the La-Porte, TX, pilot plant in indirect liquefaction; $700,000 for atmospheric fluidized beds (AFB) in combustion; $200,000 for component evaluation at NYU, $325,000 for Grimethorpe, $400,000 for corrosion/erosion testing, and $414,000 for basic research in pressurized fluidized beds (PFB) in combustion; $177,000 in advanced combustion technology; $711,000 for work using highly beneficiated coals in alternate fuel utilization; $1,000,000 for the 7.5 MW system, $1,000,000 for the 11 MW system, $1,000,000 for the 40 KW on-site system, and $500,000 for the 25 KW organic fueled technology in phosphoric acid fuel cells; $300,000 for the competitive stack development procurement in molten carbonate fuel cells; $800,000 for solid oxide modules and $200,000 for advanced research in advanced concepts in fuel cells; $1,600,000 in heat engines; $1,300,000 for support of the Wyoming field test and $400,000 for modeling and data support in underground coal gasification; $3,500,000 in magnetohydrodynamics; $214,000 for advanced research in gasification; $270,000 for hot gas cleanup testing in gasification systems engineering; $119,000 for extraction and process research and $425,000 for environmental mitigation in advanced exploratory research in advanced process technology; $450,000 for heavy oil; $1,000,000 in oil shale; $400,000 for western tight sands; $440,000 for advanced research in unconventional gas recovery; $1,500,000 for equipment not related to construction; $1,750,000 for general plant projects; and $500,000 for use of prior year balances.

In addition $411,000 in unobligated, deferred balances available to the Office of the Federal Inspector are transferred in the bill to offset new budget authority requirements.

The managers agree that:

(1) Funding for the Calderon hot gas regenerative system ($4,931,000) is conditioned on (a) access to an existing test site; (b) non-Federal cost-sharing of at least 20 percent; (c) a maximum Federal share of $8 million; and (d) a commitment to commercialize the project with no further Federal funding after completion of this feasibility demonstration.

(2) Funds added in advanced combustion technology ($1,000,000) are not limited to slagging combustors.

(3) Funding for the water-cooled on-site phosphoric acid program ($2,000,000) is conditioned on an equivalent amount being provided by non-Federal sources.

(4) In molten carbonate fuel cells, there is a total of $1,000,000 for contaminant resistant cell research.

(5) Work in fuel cell advanced concepts shall include solid polymer electrolyte technology.

(6) The $2,000,000 for pollutant recycle and hot particulate removal in sytems engineering concepts in gasification is for the existing facility at Schenectady, NY.

(7) The $7,000,000 for the Wilsonville liquefaction pilot plant is to continue work with the existing owners and operating contractors.

(8) $75,000 in heat engines is for work at UNDERC.

(9) $621,000 for tar sands work in enhanced oil recovery is for WRI, not for UNDERC as stated in the House report.

(10) The additional $1,000,000 for extraction and processing research in advanced exploratory research is for work in oil and oil shale with national laboratories and universities.

(11) The $11,000,000 for oil shale consists of $3,471,000 for WRI, $4,000,000 for direct eastern shales work as detailed in the House report, $1,000,000 for work at INEL, and $2,529,000 for research allocated in a manner similar to the Department's budget submission to OMB.

(12) The amounts provided for WRI and UNDERC may be transferred to activities within programs without prior reprogramming notification to Congress.

(13) Support for Argonne National Laboratory for fossil energy and conservation research in total shall be at levels equivalent to fiscal year 1986.

(14) The Department shall transfer $1,613,000 from various direct program activities to program direction in order to provide a uniform method of accounting for costs at Energy Technology Centers (ETC's).

The managers agree that additional funds will be required for continued support for configuration "B" of the 11 megawatt technology, and for extended operation and testing of the IFC phosphoric acid, water cooled, on-site fuel cell verification test article in fiscal year 1988, and intend to provide funds at that time. For the 11 megawatt project, the managers recognize that IFC's private sector cost-sharing investment will exceed $30,000,000 by the end of the calendar year 1986 and recommend that the Department of Energy also recognize this as a cost-sharing effort. For the on-site project, the funding provided includes endurance testing of a full area short stack of configuration "B" cells, incorporating results of the on-going technology program. This funding does not constitute a new start, but rather a continuation of the ongoing program.

The Department projects a $2,724,000 ETC program direction shortfall, even with sums added by Congress. The shortfall is $1,498,000 at METC and $1,226,000 at PETC, and shall be absorbed in those amounts by each ETC. The managers agree that such shortfalls may be absorbed either by reducing allocations to the direct research program, as long as congressionally added programs are not affected, or by reducing overhead contracting support or other overhead expenses. In either case, government personnel levels shall not be affected.

NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

The managers agree to delete the Senate provisions for the sale of the reserves and the House provision prohibiting study of the sale of the reserves. The managers agree that only $500,000 may be used for such studies, if undertaken by the Administration, and include a general provision in title III of the bill limiting the funds to be expended for such studies and requiring a report based on such studies to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate by June 30, 1987.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

Appropriates $280,129,000 for energy conservation instead of $285,825,000 as proposed by the House and $246,413,000 as proposed by the Senate. The decrease below the amount proposed by the House consists of increases of $1,175,000 for dynomometer testing and analysis of battery and powertrain technologies in electric vehicles; $1,000,000 for capital equipment for advanced materials in transportation; and $2,800,000 for grant monitoring in State and local program direction; and decreases of $100,000 for windows and daylighting and $300,000 for retrofit of multi and single family residences in building systems; $500,000 for advanced refrigeration systems and $250,000 for non-oil based combustion systems in technology and consumer products; $500,000 for research utilization in analysis and technology transfer; $100,000 for the Federal Energy Management Program; $750,000 for capital equipment in the buildings program; $200,000 for industrial wastes and $200,000 for improved combustion efficiency in waste energy reduction; $500,000 for sensors, $679,000 for thin-strip casting steel research and $500,000 for the Steel Technology initiative in industrial process efficiency; $500,000 for adiabatic diesels in vehicle propulsion; $490,000 for methanol work in alternative fuels utilization; $250,000 for the ETX-II propulsion system in electric vehicles; $140,000 for the transportation energy data book in transportation systems utilization; $3,000,000 for grants monitoring as a separate line item; $250,000 for materials and $200,000 for combustion in ECUT; $300,000 for innovation grants in the inventors progam; and $962,000 for the use of prior year balances.

The managers agree that:

(1) $250,000 added for lighting in technology and consumer products may be used for any lighting research.

(2) Battery research in electric vehicles shall include research on lithium-metal sulfide batteries.

(3) Funding beyond Phase I of the program for fuel cell/battery hybrid buses will not be considered without assured private sector cost-sharing in future phases.

(4) The total amount of schools and hospitals administrative expense funds shall be allocated to States based on the provisions of part G of title III of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (42 U.S.C. 6371 et seq.), shall not exceed the statutory limit of 5 percent of grant funds, shall be subject to the matching provisions of 10 CFR 455.83(a) and (c), and shall remain available to each State for administering Exxon funds in a subsequent year if not fully utilized in fiscal year 1987.

(5) $1,200,000 of weatherization funds shall be provided to Indian tribes. The remaining $109,000,000 is available for grants to States. In combination with other funds, such as funds from the Exxon settlement, no more than 10 percent may be used for administrative expenses, as provided by law.

(6) Support for Argonne National Laboratory for fossil energy and conservation research in total shall be at levels equivalent to fiscal year 1986.

Bill language is included making funding for an energy demonstration and research facility at Tufts University contingent on authorization legislation and upon approval of an appropriate technical review panel convened by the Department. Language is also included in the bill continuing cost-sharing provisions for the steel research and development program established in fiscal year 1986.

Bill language is included making appropriations of $112,450,000 for weatherization and schools and hospitals contingent on a determination by the Secretary of Energy that "excess" funds derived from oil product escrow funds are less than $200,000,000. The conference agreement on the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 provides that up to $200,000,000 from product escrow amounts held by the department of Energy under procedures established by budget reconciliation legislation shall be made available for State energy conservation programs, including weatherization and schools and hospitals, as long as enough funds remain in escrow for restitution to injured parties. Only amounts that equal the difference between $200,000,000 and the "excess" amount would be appropriated, provided the excess is less than $200,000,000. If "excess" funds are more than $200,000,000, the appropriation does not take effect.

Tha bill language also states that if such legislation does not pass by March 1, 1987, the full amount of $112,450,000 shall become available from amounts held administratively in escrow by the Secretary of Energy.

The managers agree to delete House language repealing industrial reporting requirements of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act because the repeal is included in budget reconciliation legislation.

The managers agree that transfers of personnel and funds among conservation research and development program direction amounts for buildings and community systems, industrial conservation, transportation, and multi-sector are not considered reprogramming actions. Changes to these activities should appear, however, in the periodic update of the Department's "Base Table" submitted to the Committees.

The managers agree that the annual Federal commitment of about $7,500,000 for the steel initiative is a reasonable target but, because of the availability of funds previously deferred, only $2,000,000 is required in fiscal year 1987 to meet that commitment.

SPR PETROLEUM ACCOUNT

Appropriates no funds for purchase of petroleum for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve instead of $220,000,000 as proposed by the House. Approximately $550,000,000 available from unobligated balances for oil purchases would allow for filling the Reserve in fiscal year 1987 at up to 90,000 barrels a day at prices of $16.45 a barrel, including transportation.

The managers have agreed to delete bill language on minimum rates of fill for the Reserve because minimum rates are included in budget reconciliation legislation.

ENERGY INFORMATION ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $60,301,000 for the Energy Information Administration instead of $60,361,000 as proposed by the House and $59,651,000 as proposed by the Senate. The reduction of $60,000 below the House amount is for the Foreign Energy Supply Assessment.

The managers agree that annual reports of the financial performance of major energy producing companies should be based on available publicly reported information, instead of information independently gathered for that purpose, such as on form EIA-28.

The managers agree to delete House language mandating a manufacturing energy survey because it s included in budget reconciliation legislation.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICES

Appropriates $841,809,000 for Indian health services instead of $836,336,000 as proposed by the House and $833,106,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase over the amount proposed by the Senate consists of decreases of $305,000 for direct operations and $147,000 for two urban health demonstration projects; and increases of $407,000 for mandatory costs in hospitals and health clinics, $1,000,000 to expand the model diabetes program, $2,500,000 for tribal contracting costs, $93,000 for dental health, $55,000 for mental health, $1,300,000 for alcoholism prevention programs, $2,000,000 for community health representatives, $200,000 for urban health programs, and $1,600,000 for health manpower.

Bill language is included to establish a catastrophic health care fund as proposed by the Senate.

In addition to the alcoholism prevention and fatal alcohol syndrome (FAS) programs proposed by the House, the Indian Health Service should use base resources in the alcoholism program to implement the recommendations contained in the recent review of the alcohol and substance abuse programs. In the FAS program, $100,000 is provided for the University of Washington research program.

Of the amount provided for direct operations, $600,000 is to provide salary costs for personnel tansferred to the Indian Health Service and $500,000 is for the management fellowship program.

Prior to implementation of any changes in eligibility, the managers direct that a summary of the major issues raised during the comment period and how IHS has responded to them be provided to the Committees on Appropriations for review.

The Indian Health Service should continue to advise the Committee of any shortfalls in tribal contracting and what steps are being taken to meet these costs.

The new policy covering contract care payments should be implemented on an area-by-area basis and IHS should continue working with the tribes to ensure that needed health services are provided. A report on the costs of the new system, as well as cost savings realized by the program should be presented to the Committees on Appropriations once sufficient data is compiled.

The managers agree that the staffing levels provided for the Kanakanak, AK hospital shall be sufficient to ensure a deficiency rate no greater than 11 percent.

The health manpower program incldues $240,000 for the MPH program and $323,000 for INMED.

INDIAN HEALTH FACILITIES

Appropriates $65,555,000 instead of $54,921,000 as proposed by the House and $60,920,000 as proposed by the Senate. The net increase over the amount recommended by the Senate includes increases of $807,000 for planning and design of the Harlem, MT health center; $428,000 for planning and design of the Fort Hall, ID health clinic, and $5,000,000 for sanitation facilities; and decreases of $100,000 to new and replacement hospitals, and $1,500,000 for the ventilation project at the Mount Edgecumbe, AK hospital. The managers direct that the Mount Edgecumbe project is to be accomplished with $1,500,000 of available unobligated balances in this account.

With regard to the Parker, AZ outpatient health clinic, the IHS is directed to perform an engineering analysis, within available funds, to determine the condition of the existing Parker health center, including structural, mechanical and electrical systems, and report to the Committees prior to the fiscal year 1988 hearings.

Within funds appropriated for the Rosebud hospital, the IHS is directed to enclose totally the third floor of the facility.

The managers agree that the IHS should provide a new temporary facility of 2,600 square feet at Sisseton, SD, within available funds.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Bill language allowing for exchange of land in Anchorage and Kotzebue, AK, as proposed by the Senate, has been included.

Although bill language regarding changes in allocation methodology, as proposed by the House, has not been included, the managers agree that any allocation using the new Area Resource Allocation Methodology (ARAM) shall follow the general outline of the report, dated August 11, 1986, as submitted to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees. In no case should the allocation affect more than three percent of the base resources of the IHS for fiscal year 1987, unless the IHS submits a report to the Committees sixty days in advance on the proposed changes in excess of three percent, including the reason for the proposed changes and the likely effects. The report should also include a statement certifying that the IHS has held consultations regarding the proposed allocation of base resources with all Indian tribes or tribal organizations affected by the proposed allocation. The managers recognize the importance of continued tribal participation in development of the new ARAM methodology, both on policy matters and on technical issues, and direct IHS to continue to provide tribes with the most current information on ARAM, consult with tribes, and consider their views carefully. As major developments in ARAM occur, IHS should continue its practice of holding national and area workshops that will both inform tribes and provide a vehicle for consultation.

The managers agree that the provisions set forth in Public Law 96-126 restricting authority for initial leasing of permanent structures by the Indian Health Service shall not apply whenever such arrangements are completed in accordance with established General Services Administration procedures (for space to be occupied by Federal employees).

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

OFFICE OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

INDIAN EDUCATION

Appropriates $64,036,000 instead of $67,236,000 as proposed by the House and $62,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The change over the amount proposed by the Senate includes increases of $368,000 for Part A for Indian controlled schools; $261,000 for Part B fellowships; $1,845,000 for Part B projects for Indian children; and $62,000 for Part B educational personnel development. The offsetting decrease is $500,000 from Part B planning, pilot and demonstration.

Bill language has been included which prohibits the Department of Education from implementing eligibility requirements for the Part A Indian Education program in fiscal year 1987. This language ensures that school districts have adequate time to review any new eligibility requirements before they are forced to include them in their grant requests to the Department of Education.

OTHER RELATED AGENCIES

NAVAJO AND HOPI INDIAN RELOCATION COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $22,335,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $22,289,000 as proposed by the House.

The managers agree that district six evictees are eligible to relocate tc the new lands.

Language is also included which requires the Commission to review the eligibility of all households certified as eligible and decertify those who have been certified contrary to law or regulation. Those decertified are to be given the opportunity to appeal this decertification before an administrative law judge.

The managers have also included language stating that the Commission shall relocate any certified eligible relocatees who have selected and received an approved homesite on the Navajo reservation or on the new lands or selected a replacement residence off the Navajo reservation.

Language has also been included which states that for those certified eligible households for whom a benefit level has not been determined such level shall hereafter be determined consistent with the interpretation of 25 USC 640d-14 issued by the Solicitor of the Department of the Interior on August 25, 1986.

The managers have not included bill language limiting the amount which may be spent for contracted attorney's fees. Nonetheless, it is the understanding of the managers that these expenditures will be reduced due to the approval of an on-staff legal position and by the Commission's compliance with the recommendations contained in the Inspector General's report.

The managers agree that the Commission has not implemented relocation as efficiently as Congress expected. Therefore, relocation has taken longer than envisioned. While the managers remain committed to full implementation of the relocation program and to the return of the Hopi Partitioned Lands to the Hopi tribe, the managers feel that the Congress must deal with the entire problem rather than attacking it in a piecemeal fashion.

Bill language has been included which states that there will be no eviction of those on the Hopi Partitioned Land who have not been provided a new or replacement home. In addition, language has been included which states that only one new or replacement home will be provided to relocatees. It is not the intent of the managers to allow migration back to the Hopi Partitioned Land. Funds have been provided to the Commission and the Bureau of Indian Affairs to move forward with the development of the new lands so that relocation may proceed. Therefore, if the managers learn of a problem of resettlement back to the Hopi Partitioned Land by those who have already relocated, this problem will be addressed in the supplemental appropriations bill.

Bill language earmarking funds for post-move counseling and the Office of Policy and Direction has not been included. Sufficient funds for counseling have been provided to the Bureau of Indian Affairs for this purpose.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $183,920,000 for salaries and expenses instead of $189,318,000 as proposed by the House and $180,550,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The net decrease below the amount proposed by the House consists of increases of $200,000 for equipment for the hospital at the National Zoological Park, $75,000 for the Sackler Gallery, $6,000 for the Museum of African Art, $10,000 for Public Service, $15,000 for the Office of Exhibits Central, $300,000 for the Conservation Analytical Laboratory, $100,000 for International activities, and $500,000 for acquisition and conservation of the Duke Ellington Collection; and decreases of $150,000 for computer equipment for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, $60,000 for research at the Museum of Natural History, $137,000 for research at the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, $1,012,000 related to the closure of the Environmental Research Center's Rockville facility, $25,000 for research at the Cooper-Hewitt Museum, $60,000 for the inventory of sculpture, $772,000 for the National Museum act, $300,000 for collection management and inventory, $431,000 for moving costs of the Museum Support Center (MSC), $1,500,000 for MSC equipment, $115,000 for postage, $216,000 for telephone services, $116,000 for rent, $710,000 for inflation, and $1,000,000 for Quadrangle support.

The decrease to the Environmental Research Center includes a transfer of $862,000 to the renovation account for the Edgewater, MD facility.

In agreeing to terminate funding for the National Museum Act, the managers have provided an increase of $300,000 to the Conservation Analytical Laboratory to provide increased training in the field of conservation.

The managers agree that future support for moving costs related to the Museum Support Center should come from base resources of the Smithsonian.

The remainder of the $500,000 not required for acquisition of the Duke Ellington collection shall be applied to conservation of the collection.

A reduction of $1,000,000 and 25 positions has been applied to the request for activities associated with the Quadrangle. The Smithsonian may allocate the reduction to lower priority activities.

The managers request reports from the Smithsonian examining ways to increase curatorial and exhibition functions of the Museum of Natural History and on all public programs and outreach activities. These reports should be available prior to hearings on the fiscal year 1988 budget.

The managers agree that within existing resources the Smithsonian should support activities associated with the International Space Year.

CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENTS, NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

Appropriates $2,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

RESTORATION AND RENOVATIN OF BUILDINGS

Appropriates $12,975,000 instead of $12,113,000 as proposed by the House and $12,028,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The increase of $862,000 over the amount proposed by the House is for construction at Edgewater, MD. The managers direct the Smithsonian to redirect $1,325,000 from other restoration and renovation projects of lower priority, and not related to health and safety, in order to accomplish the PCB removal project over a two year period. Together with the $475,000 included in the budget request, this will provide a total of $1,800,000 for this project in fiscal year 1987.

The managers agree that major renovation projects, such as that proposed for the Arts and Industries building, estimated to cost $24,000,000, and for the Museum of Natural History, estimated at $55,000,000, should be presented to the authorizing committees for review prior to requests for appropriations.

The funds for the dormitory project at Naos in Panama have been deferred, pending review of the report requested by the Hosue.

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates $6,095,000, as proposed by the House. Bill language describing the Tropical Research Institute, as proposed by the House, has been included.

The managers agree that the Smithsonian is to maintain the fifty-fifty match of Federal/non-Federal funding in completing construction of the Quadrangle.

WOODROW WILSON INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR SCHOLARS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $3,322,000 for salaries and expenses instead of $3,383,000 as proposed by the House and $3,138,000 as proposed by the Senate. The increase of $184,000 over the amount as proposed by the Senate is a result of an increase of $200,000 for conference planning and offsetting decreases of $8,000 for scholar support and $8,000 for general administration.

ENDOWMENT CHALLENGE FUND

No funds are appropriated for the Endowment Challenge Fund as proposed by the House instead of $300,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The purpose of the endowment was to raise general funds for the Center rather than specific funds for planned conferences and events. Therefore, funds raised for individual regional programs do not constitute a match for the Endowment Challenge Fund. Funds raised after October 1, 1985 can be considered as matching funds for the Federal appropriation provided for this purpose in fiscal year 1986.

NATIONAL FOUNDATION ON THE ARTS AND THE HUMANITIES

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE ARTS

GRANTS AND ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $136,661,000 as proposed by the House instead of $132,950,000 as proposed by the Senate. This includes $15,900,000 for administrative programs as proposed by the House instead of $16,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers agree on the following allocation of funds:

Program grants:
Artists-in-Schools	$5,300,000
Dance	8,847,000
Design Arts	4,276,000
Expansion Arts	6,655,000
Folk Arts	2,982,000
Inter Arts	3,885,000
Literature	5,100,000
Media Arts	12,000,000
Museums	11,400,000
Music	12,236,000
Opera/Musical Theatre	4,200,000
Locals Test	2,180,000
Theatre	10,800,000
Visual Arts	6,200,000
Advancement	200,000
Subtotal, program grants	96,261,000
State Programs	24,500,000
Subtotal, grants	120,761,000
Administration area:
Policy Planning and Research	1,000,000
Administration	14,900,000
Subtotal, administrative area	15,900,000
Total, grants and administration	136,661,000

The $12,000,000 for the media program continues the 1986 initiative to increase resources for television and radio programming in the arts.

The managers have agreed to delete House bill language restricting reprogrammings.

MATCHING GRANTS

Appropriates $28,420,000 instead of $29,000,000 as proposed by the House and $27,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. This includes $20,000,000 for challenge grants and $8,420,000 for Treasury funds.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES

GRANTS AND ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $109,990,000 instead of $110,141,000 as proposed by the House and $107,700,000 as proposed by the Senate. This include $95,790,000 for program and state grants as proposed by the House instead of $93,500,000 as proposed by the Senate; and $14,200,000 for administrative areas as proposed by the Senate.

The managers agree on the following allocation of funds:

Program grants:
Media Grants	$8,900,000
Museums and Historical Organizations	8,780,000
Humanities programs for adults	2,000,000
Humanities projects in libraries	2,900,000
Education program	16,350,000
Fellowships and seminars	15,460,000
Research grants	16,400,000
Subtotal, program grants	70,790,000
State programs	21,000,000
Office of Preservation	4,000,000
Subtotal, grants	95,790,000
Administrative area: Administration	14,200,000
Total, grants and administration	109,990,000

The managers have agreed to delete House bill language restricting reprogramming.

MATCHING GRANTS

Appropriates $28,500,000 as proposed by the House instead of $29,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. This includes $12,000,000 for Treasury funds and $16,500,000 for challenge grants.

NATIONAL CAPITAL ARTS AND CULTURAL AFFAIRS

Appropriates $4,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of 3,500,000 as proposed by the House. The managers have deleted language proposed by the House limiting grants to certain organizations. New language has been included to clarify the original authorization by setting total non-Federal income of at least $1,000,000 annually for a period of three years as a condition of eligibility.

The managers have deleted language proposed by the House making inoperative several provisions of the authorization for the program.

INSTITUTE OF MUSEUM SERVICES

Appropriates $21,250,000 instead of $21,394,000 as proposed by the House and $18,888,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers agree on the following distribution of the funds:

Operating support grants	$16,962,000
Conservation grants	3,400,000
Museum Services Board	58,000
Program administration	830,000
Total	21,250,000

The managers agree to the Museum Services Board to no more than three meetings during fiscal year 1987 as proposed by the Senate.

COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $450,000 for salaries and expenses instead of $420,000 as proposed by the House.

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Appropriates $2,397,000 for salaries and expenses instead of $2,342,000 as proposed by the House and $2,437,000 as proposed by the Senate.

PUBLIC DEVELOPMENT

Appropriates $3,924,000 for public development as proposed by the Senate instead of $3,869,000 as proposed by the House.

UNITED STATES HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL COUNCIL

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL COUNCIL

Appropriates $2,040,000 as proposed by the House instead of $2,057,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The difference from the amount proposed by the Senate consists of reductions of $35,000 for museum development and $1,000 for travel which are offset by increases of $70,000 for the archive project with the National Archives. The managers agree to restore $65,000 of the funds reduced by the House for staff positions which is a reduction of $51,000 from the Senate level. These funds are to be used by the Council to hire a chief financial officer who is to implement the recommendations outlined in the August 25, 1986 Touche Ross report.

Bill language has been included which gives the Chairman of the Council authority to waive any bylaw when the Chairman determines it to be in the best interest of the Council. This waiver may take effect, if after 30 days written notice, a majority of council members do not object to the action of the Chairman.

Bill language has not been included which required the Chairman of the Council to approve all travel before reimbursement.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Language providing a one-year extension for negotiating biomass energy loan guarantees with projects previously submitted to the Department of Energy as proposed by the Senate is included.

Language proposed by the House amending the log export provision has been deleted.

Language, as proposed by the Senate, is retained stating that funds shall be available to the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands on the same basis as in fiscal year 1986 until alternative funding is available under the terms of the Compact of Free Association.

Language as proposed by the Senate is included stating that any lease within the Gallatin and Flathead National Forests affected by Case CV-82-42-BU in the U.S. District Court for Montana is expected from the limits on aggregate acreage set out in previous law.

Language is included which prevents enforcement of regulations requiring steel shot unless appropriate State regulatory authority approves such implementation.

Language is included which adds a provision to amend Public Law 94-204 regarding Cook Inlet Region, Incorporated which reduces from 10 to 7 the number of townships required to establish eligibility.

The House provision regarding policy deferrals has been stricken.

The managers have agreed to include modified Senate language which limits administrative appeals to one level of appeal on all returned or defaulted timber sales within the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management. The modified language retains opportunities for judicial review. The agencies should complete action on such appeals within 90 days whenever possible, but may, at their discretion, extend the deadline for completion of such action. The managers make no attempt to prejudge the nature, cause, basis or standing of an administrative appeal brought before the agencies on returned or defaulted timber sales; however, because of the heavy reliance on such sales in this year's timber sales program, and because of the importance of a timely and stable sales program, administrative appeals shall be limited to one level of appeal within the respective agencies.

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES AND EDUCATION AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 9: Deletes language proposed by the House and Senate and inserts new language relating to the rate for operations for programs, projects, or acitivities provided for in the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987.

The House version of H.J. Res. 738 provides appropriations for activities of the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies at the rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5233 as passed by the House of Representatives on July 31, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these activities at the rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5233 as passed by the Senate on September 10, 1986. The conference agreement provides for amounts necessary for programs, projects, or activities provided for in H.R. 5233 to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conference report and joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference (House Report 99-960) as filed in the House of Representatives on October 2, 1986, as if enacted into law.

The conference agreement also inserts language proposed by the Senate which authorizes the use of Employment Service funds under the Wagner-Peyser Act to administer the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit. This credit was recently extended in the Tax Reform Act of 1986. These funds are administered by State employment security agencies. The House Resolution contained no similar provision.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 10: Section 101(k) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities at a rate and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5052 as passed the House of Representatives on June 25, 1986. The House version also includes Title II which provides funding for the so-called "Contra Aid" and Central American democracies, The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5002 as passed the Senate on August 13, 1986. The Senate version includes indentical language for Title II as proposed by the House, but also includes Title III which appropriates $300,000,000 for the purpose of transfer to the Central American democracies under Title II.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both House and Senate versions of the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. Allocations set forth in House Report 99-648 and Senate Report 99,368 should be complied with unless specifically addressed in this joint resolution and statement of the managers to the contrary. The Military Construction Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution incorporates the following agreements of the managers.

TITLE I—ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Degree of U.S. Commitment Overseas.—The conferees are agreed that our NATO allies need to assume a greater role in the defense of Europe. In addition the conferees question whether current U.S. deployment levels to NATO countries fit strategic as well as political realities. The conferees therefore direct the Department to present a plan which explores the potential realignment of U.S. force structure in Europe. The increasing mobility of U.S. forces worldwide presents a real opportunity to lessen the number of U.S. forces and assets permanently stationed in NATO countries without lessening the U.S. commitment to the alliance or the defense of Europe. The goal of this study should be to explore specific ways to reduce current manning levels while maintaining our commitments to the NATO alliance. The study should also address the feasibility of closing low priority installations in Europe. This report is to be submitted by February 28, 1987.

NATO Infrastructure Program.—The conferees have agreed to an appropriation of $232,000,000 for this program. The conferees are aware that the expanded six year program may require expenditures greater than the amount provided. The Department should seek necessary additional funds through a supplemental budget request.

It is hoped that the increased size of this program will result in the expansion of NATO eligibility criteria, and thereby reduce the amount of U.S. unilaterally funded construction and eliminate the $200,000,000 in outstanding recoupments owed the U.S. At a minimum the $150,000,000 owed the U.S. for prefinanced aircraft shelters should be programmed for recoupment in the current six year program.

No additional prefinancing should be sought until the Department programs all outstanding prefinancing for recoupment. The conferees expect a report on efforts to expand eligibility criteria and the status of recoupments by February 15, 1987. The conferees also expect that the directives in the House report (House Report 99-648) regarding increased participation of U.S. contractors be followed.

Korea-Accompanied Tours.—The conferees direct the Department to submit a report outlining the current and future plan for accompanied tours in Korea by February 15, 1987. This report should address the costs of increasing accompanied tours.

Packaging of Contracts—Overseas.—The conferees direct that the Army and Air Force package all construction projects in fiscal year 1987 at one installation overseas into one contract. The installations for this packaging are to be chosen from the list in the House report. The conferees will consider alternate locations for this initiative. The Department is to report on all aspects of the implementation of this initiative by February 15, 1987.

Financial Management.—The conferees direct that all the financial management policies adopted last year are to continue in effect in fiscal year 1987. These include:

1. Limitations on cross year split funding authority;

2. Clarifying use of expired funds:

3. Maintaining a threshold of 20 percent or $1,000,000, whichever is less, for purposes of reprogramming on all military construction and family housing construction projects.

The conferees also endorse the clarification on the use of planning and design funds and Supervision, Inspection and Overhead (SIOH) funds as outlined in the House report.

The conferees do not endorse the lumping of all projects less than $2,000,000 into one line item for purposes of execution. The conferees also do not endorse the lumping of all projects at a given installation into one line item for purposes of execution. The conferees direct that the line item integrity as shown in the State list of the fiscal year 1987 program be maintained for purposes of execution in accordance with the established policies on financial management outlined above.

The Department currently has unlimited authority to reprogram funds for projects whose price has grown as a result of foreign currency fluctuation. The conferees are concerned that the current situation with the weakened dollar will cause unacceptable cost growth in the overseas program. There is also some question on the Department's attribution of cost growth in specific projects exclusively to foreign currency fluctuation. A foreign currency fluctuation account has been established this year to enable necessary adjustments in prices due to both gains and losses in foreign currency fluctuation. It is the intent of the conferees that the use of the authority granted by Public Law 96-130, 10 U.S.C. 2779 be minimized. The conferees direct that the Department notify Congress on a bi-annual basis of the use of this authority. These reports should also specify the source of funds used to pay for cost increases. The establishment of a specific account for currency fluctuations should facilitate execution of approved projects. The conferees direct that a bi-annual report on the use of the foreign currency fluctuation account established by Section 121 of the Act be submitted in accordance with the stipulations in the House report.

Medical Program.—The conferees have denied funding for all requested mobilization hospitals overseas. The conferees expect that the plan for these facilities in the European theater be submitted in accordance with the guidelines specified in the House report. Funds approved in fiscal year 1986 for medical mobilization facilities in Europe are also not to be obligated until this report is submitted. The conferees also expect that the Department will not proceed with design of new hospitals in the U.S. until all the possibilities of shared use with the Veterans Administration are fully explored.

Alternate Construction.—The conferees direct the Department to comply with the directives in the House report regarding use of turnkey contracting procedures and packaging of contracts at Shemya AFB, Alaska, and Thule AB, Greenland.

The conferees direct the services to contract exclusively for manufactured/factory built housing on the fiscal year 1987 housing projects at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, NS Long Beach, California and La Junta AFS, Colorado. The conferees direct the use of modular construction on the fiscal year 1987 barracks projects at MCB Twentynine Palms, California and NS San Diego, California.

Minor Construction.—The conferees direct that the existing notification procedures on minor construction projects are to remain in effect. The conferees oppose the request to increase the limitation on minor construction projects from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. The conferees also direct that the line item integrity of projects costing less than $1,000,000 in fiscal year 1987 be maintained.

The conferees direct that $5,000,000 of the $20,000,000 in the Army's unspecified minor construction account be set aside for legitimate exercise-related construction outside CONUS. The conferees expect that these funds will be used to pay for all exercise related construction in fiscal year 1987 including those projects costing less than $200,000. This aspect of this initiative will eliminate all questions and concerns about the costing and grouping of projects and ultimately increase the flexibility of the Department. The Committees are to be notified of the use of this fund 21 days prior to obligation of funds. For the purposes of determining the costs of projects constructed in support of military training exercises, the following shall not be included:

(1) Transportation costs of materials, supplies and Government furnished equipment;

(2) Travel and per diem costs applicable to troop labor; costs of material, supplies, services and fuel furnished by sources outside of the Department of Defense on a non-reimbursable basis. These costs shall be reported to the extent that such costs exceed $50,000 per project. The costs of supplies or services furnished on a non-reimbursable basis should be estimated on a fair market value basis.

For the purposes of determining costs attributable to construction projects from this fund the following costs shall be included:

(1) Costs of all materials, supplies and services applicable to the project, including those furnished on a non-reimbursable basis by other military departments and Defense agencies;

(2) Labor costs, except for U.S. military labor;

(3) Overhead or support costs, which can be identified as representing additional costs which would not have been incurred were it not for the project, except for planning and design costs;

(4) DOD funded costs applicable to the operation of Government-furnished equipment, including fuel and direct maintenance costs.

Costs estimates of non-DOD funded items should be included in the estimate of the project costs, but are not to be derived from the fund.

Child Care Centers.—The conferees concur with the House report which directs the Department to submit a report by January 31, 1987, comparing the operating costs of child care centers with the associated user fees.

Energy.—The conferees agree with House report language that directs the Air Force to fund various energy conservation projects from existing energy conservation program savings. The conferees also endorse the House report which required the Department to report to the Committee by January 30, 1987 on the status of the geothermal project at Naval Air Station, Fallon, Nevada. The conferees also agree with the House report which directed the Department to report, by January 30, 1987, on progress regarding the shared savings contract concept.

Washington Navy Yard.—The conferees agree with the House report which requires the Navy to submit a report by January 30, 1987 on the efficacy of continued conversion at the Washington Navy Yard as an alternative to leased space in the National Capital region.

Strategic Defense Initiative Construction.—The conferees direct the Department to submit a report by January 31, 1987, which details all construction projects funded to date, together with the sources of funding that support the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI). The report should also include a five year plan for all future SDI related construction. The conferees also direct the Department to notify the Committees on Appropriations 30 days prior to the execution of any construction contract for SDIO regardless of the source of funding.

Program, Project and Activity.—For purposes of section 252(a)(b)(D)(i)(II) of Public Law 99-177, the conferees agree to define the term "project, program and activity" as the appropriation accounts in the bill. However, the conferees direct that the Committees be notified 21 days prior to the proposed deferral of any project resulting from a sequestration order. In addition, the Department is to submit a report within three months of a sequestration order showing how the reductions have been applied to affected line items and projects. Reductions to projects will not affect the reprogramming base.

Clarification of Reductions.—The conferees agree with the Senate report which clarifies and establishes the basis for reprogramming requests in connection with projects that are affected by programming reductions.

Third Party Contracting.—The conferees are concerned that new authority has been granted for third party contracting for construction, management and operations of supply, troop housing, transient quarters, logistic and administrative services facilities. The use of this authority with unlimited flexibility has not been justified, nor is it warranted. The conferees direct that the use of this authority in the categories mentioned above be limited to one project per category per Service in fiscal year 1987. The conferees further direct that the Committees be notified 21 days prior to entering into such contracts.

Requests for concurrence on the use of this authority should include an economic analysis from the Secretary of Defense certifying that the use of a third party contract is less expensive than the military construction alternative. These analyses should also incorporate management and operations costs, if applicable.

Renovation of Facilities.—The conferees agreed to the language in the Senate report regarding the renovation of facilities.

Family Housing-New Construction.—The conferees have agreed to fund new family housing projects at the amounts approved by the House. The Services are to strive to maintain the full scope of these projects; however, they may, with prior approval of the Appropriations Committees, reduce the number of units in new housing projects if the bids received on a given project preclude accomplishment of its full scope.

Family Housing Improvements.—The conferees concur with the report and limitation policies specified in the House report. The conferees direct that funds for minor improvements be specifically requested within this account, if necessary.

Family Housing Operations and Maintenance.—The conferees direct that the existing policies on reprogramming thresholds, major repairs, and general and flag officer housing as specified in the House report be in effect for fiscal year 1987. The conferees are agreed that the limitation of $15,000 per unit on certain flag quarters at Norfolk, Virginia is no longer in effect. Expenditures for these units will be in accordance with existing procedures on general and flag officer housing.

Family Housing—Leasing.—The conferees have agreed to allow the Section 801 and 802 leasing programs to continue in fiscal year 1987. However, approval of the new leases under this authority and approval of new foreign leases will not be granted until the Department submits a multi-year plan which addresses how the housing needs of the Services are to be met.

The conferees believe that new housing requirements should be met through a combination of construction and leasing, and that the current plan for meeting housing deficits places too much reliance upon the leasing alternative. With this in mind the multi-year plan should:

(1) Identify the overall requirement for new family housing worldwide;

(2) Specify the amount of new construction and leasing authority to be requested in the next five years both domestically and overseas;

(3) Present uniform criteria establishing when the leasing or construction alternative will be used;

(4) Present alternate methods of meeting housing requirements such as installment purchase, private sector financing or a "Capehart-type" program, and identify the potential extent of use of such authority;

(5) Address the feasibility of a U.S. manufactured/factory built requirement on all new foreign leases.

Approval of new leasing projects in fiscal year 1987 is dependent upon the quality and thoroughness of this plan. This plan is to be submitted by February 15, 1987.

Prior to advertising for any proposals under the Section 801 programs, economic analyses establishing the cost of the military construction alternative and corresponding Section 801 alternative lease ceilings are to be submitted. These analyses are to be compiled using the latest OMB/GAO guidelines, except that lease ceilings for the first and last year of the lease term are to be shown. Anticipated utility costs are also to be shown.

The conferees expect that lease proposals will not be submitted unless savings of at least five percent under the military construction alternative can be shown. The Department will continue to submit final proposals with corresponding economic analyses 21 days prior to the anticipated award date.

The Services are directed to test the Section 802 housing program on government owned land. The conferees recognize the difficulty in financing new construction utilizing the current rules and testing these projects on government owned land would reduce land and development costs substantially and will allow higher quality structures to be built.

The conferees are concerned with the huge growth in the foreign leasing program and with the current methodology used in preparing the economic analyses used to justify the cost effectiveness of new leases. The conferees therefore direct that the economic analyses on all new foreign leases be reviewed and submitted to Congress by the Office of the Secretry of Defense. It is anticipated that all such analyses will not contain the flaws identified in the recent GAO report on this subject.

Rescissions of Prior Year Appropriations.—The conferees have agreed to rescind $86,900,000 in fiscal year 1986 budget authority in conformance with the limitation on prior year authorization contained in the pending fiscal year 1987 Defense Authorization bill. The amounts rescinded are as follows: $36,400,000 from Army, $25,800,000 from Navy and $24,700,000 from Air Force.

Matters Addressed by Only One Committee.—The reports of both House and Senate contain items addressed by only one Committee. Unless otherwise indicated in this conference report, those items are approved by the Conferees.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, ARMY

Appropriates $1,260,110,000 for Military Construction, Army instead of $1,200,070,000 as proposed by the House and $1,262,570,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $36,400,000 of fiscal year 1986 budget authority is rescinded. The conferees have agreed to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Georgia-Fort Benning School of the Americas: Planing and Design.—The conferees agreed with earmarking of $1,000,000 in planning and design funds for design of facilities in connection with the establishment of the United States Army School of the Americas at Fort Benning. The Department, together with the Department of State, is directerd to submit a report by January 30, 1987 outlining plans, schedules and construction costs for the school together with proposed sources of funding for construction and operation of the school.

Kentucky—Fort Campbell: Aircraft Hangar.—The conferees disagree with the authorizing Committees' failure to authorize this project for $16,500,000 and, therefore, direct the Department to submit a reprogramming request immediately for consideration by the Committees.

New York—Fort Drum: 10th Mountain Division Facilities-Phase I.,—The conferees have agreed to funding of $610 million for facilities at Fort Drum, New York which includes an appropriation of $175,000,000 for fiscal year 1987 and advance appropriations in the amount of $221,000,000 and $214,000,000 for fiscal years 1988 and 1989 respectively. The conferees support the concept of constructing the base under a single contract because of the anticipated savings that are expected to occur. The Department is directed to report to the Committees on Appropriations the results of the competitively negotiated bidding process prior to award of the contract. The report should include the results of scope reductions along with the latest current working estimate.

Texas—Fort Bliss: Alter Applied Instruction Buildings.—The conferees agree with the House report language which directs the Army to construct the project for alteration of applied instruction buildings at Fort Bliss using unspecified minor construction funds.

Texas—Fort Bliss: El Paso Intelligence Center.—It is the intent of the conferees that the El Paso Intelligence Center (EPIC) should be relocated at Fort Bliss, Texas in accordance with design prepared by the Army Corps of Engineers for the Drug Enforcement Administration. Further, it is the understanding of the conferees that this include the all-source intelligence center proposed by the National Drug Enforcement Policy Board.

Germany—General Reduction.—The conferees have agreed not to apply a general reduction of $10,000,000 against projects in Germany as recommended in both House and Senate reports. This action is taken because of the dollar devaluation combined with many other project denials that have been made due to lack of authorization. The conferees, however, continue to be concerned with the problem of executing planned and budgeted projects that result in delays or cancellation because of local opposition.

Germany—Wartime Host Nation Support.—The conferees have agreed to defer this item without prejudice. If the Department wishes to continue this initiative, it should obtain an agreement on German prefinancing prior to submitting a budget request.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, NAVY

Appropriates $1,376,715,000 for Military Construction, Navy instead of $1,224,290,000 as proposed by the House and $1,282,985,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $25,800,000 of fiscal year 1986 budget authority is rescinded. The conferees agree to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Alaska—Naval Air Station, Adak: Radar support facilities.—The conferees agree to funding of $24,400,000 for support facilities at Amchitka, Alaska provided that sufficient funding from Research and Development, and Procurement accounts is appropriated for fiscal year 1987 to permit the prototype to be relocated from Virginia to Amchitka, Alaska, as planned. The Department is to certify to the Committees on Appropriations that adequate funding is provided for development and testing of the prototype prior to obligation of funds for military construction.

California—Mare Island Naval Shipyard: Electrical distribution system.—The conferees are aware that the Navy has been directed in the past to fund the third and final increment of the waterfront electrical system at Mare Island Naval Shipyard. Further, the conferees are aware that the Navy has failed to comply with this Congressional directive. Therefore, the conferees reiterate their support for this much needed project and direct the Navy to proceed with this project immediately.

California—Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro: Runway extension.—The conferees have denied funding of $14,400,000 for the runway extension at El Toro, but direct the Department to include this project in the fiscal year 1988 budget submission.

California—Naval Ocean Systems Center, San Diego: Systems Improvements to Physics Laboratory.—The conferees agree with House report language which directs the Navy to initiate design and include construction funding in the fiscal year 1988 budget request for safety improvements to the physics laboratory at Naval Ocean Systems Center, San Diego.

Florida—Naval Technical Training Center Pensacola: Instrumentation Training Facility.—The conferees agree to funding of $1,310,000 for this project and direct the Department to request a reprogramming so that this project can be constructed to full scope as originally proposed.

Georgia—Naval Submarine Base Kings Bay: General Reduction.—The conferees have agreed to a general reduction of $10,000,000 which is to be applied against the fiscal year 1987 budgeted projects at Kings Bay. However, the general reduction shall not be applied against Community Impact Assistance funds.

Gulf Coast Homeporting.—The conferees agree to provide $200,000 from Navy planning and design funds for the purpose of providing community impact assistance funds necessary to support the Gulf Coast Strategic Homeporting Initiative.

Hawaii—Navy Public Works Center, Pearl Harbor: Electrical Distribution System Improvements (Phase I).—The conferees disagree with the authorizing Committees failure to approve $18,200,000 for this important and high priority project at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The conferees, therefore, direct the Department to submit to the Committees as soon as practicable, a reprogramming request for the Electrical Distribution System Improvements project.

Hawaii—Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard: Engineering Facilities.—The conferees agree to direct the Navy to immediately initiate design of the Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard engineering facilities (P-215 and P-237) and that these projects be included in the fiscal year 1988 budget request. The conferees are concerned about the current overcrowded and dilapidated facilities which present a severe safety hazard.

Tennessee—Naval Air Station, Memphis: Entrance roads improvements.—The conferees disagree with the authorizing Committees' failure to approve $1,570,000 for this important project at Naval Air Station, Memphis. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department to submit to the Committees, as soon as practicable, a reprogramming request for the Entrance Roads Improvement project.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, AIR FORCE

Appropriates $1,242,530,000 for Military Construction, Air Force instead of $1,220,130,000 as proposed by the House and $1,250,620,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $24,700,000 of fiscal year 1986 budget authority is rescinded. The conferees agree to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Alaska—Eialson AFB: Loop access road	+$1,000,000
Alaska—Elmendorf AFB: Security police facility	−4,000,000

Arkansas—Blytheville AFB: Gymnasium.—The conferees agree to fund the gymnasium project at this location subject to authorization. The Department is urged to submit a reprogramming request to obtain authorization for this project as soon as possible.

Colorado—Falcon AFS: Land acquisition.—The conferees agree to provide $5,400,000 for the land acquisition and easement. The Air Force is directed to vigorously pursue consummation of this acquisition despite the fact that the full request was not provided. A report on the status of execution of this acquisition should be submitted by February 28, 1987.

Maryland-Andrews AFB: Air Force One maintenance and support complex.—The conferees agree to provide the authorized amount of $25,000,000 for this project despite the fact that it may not be sufficient to provide a complete and useable facility. The Air Force is to strive to obtain a complete and useable facility within the amount provided.

New Mexico—Holloman AFB: Restriction on Funds.—The conferees agree that the restriction on obligation of construction funds for Holloman Air Force Base is removed in conjunction with the agreement reached on July 25, 1986, whereby the Air Force agrees to the following with respect to the Valentine, Texas Military Operations area.

No supersonic activity may be scheduled for the Valentine MOA unless the full capacity of the White Sands Missile Range (WSMR) is utilized. The Air Force will continue the research and development program to provide additional scientific data on the effect of sonic booms on people, domestic animals, and wildlife. The Air Force will meet with State and County officials of the Valentine, Texas MOA to determine the need and scope of on-site monitoring of supersonic flight operations and to gather data on the harmful effects of such activity.

In the event research and monitoring activities produce evidence of any definitive harmful effects on the health of people, the Air Force will immediately reevaluate the conditions of the waiver allowing supersonic flight operations and report to the Committees on any decision. Furthermore, the Air Force should also take into consideration and study any adverse effects such supersonic flight operations have on private property and the environment and report to the Committees whether or not damage results from such activity.

South Dakota—Ellsworth AFB: Impact Assistance.—The conferees have agreed to delete language allowing a transfer of military construction funds to the Douglas School District near Ellsworth AFB, South Dakota. The Air Force may submit a reprogramming request for this purpose, if necessary.

Texas—Goodfellow AFB: Unaccompanied officers housing.—The conferees recognize the importance to Air Force intelligence training of constructing sufficient housing for unaccompanied officers at Goodfellow AFB. This project has been deferred for one year, and Goodfellow AFB already suffers a severe shortage of housing for unaccompanied officers being trained at the base. The conferees believe that further delaying construction of this housing would seriously disrupt the intelligence training mission at Goodfellow AFB.

The absence of an authorization notwithstanding, the conferees recognize the critical need to begin construction of 200 housing spaces for unaccompanied officers at Goodfellow AFB during fiscal year 1987 and have provided the $10,000,000 requested. The Department is urged to submit a reprogramming request to obtain authorization for this project as soon as possible.

Survival Training School.—The conferees agree to delete any reference to the proposed move of the Survival Training School from Fairchild AFB, Washington to Keesler AFB, Mississippi in this report. The bill language earmarking design funds for Keesler AFB and the language in the House report on this issue have been deferred.

Wyoming—F.E. Warren AFB: Access Roads.—The conferees expect the Air Force and the Military Traffic Management command to work with the Wyoming Highway Administration to determine the amount of damage to roads in the State resulting from Peacekeeper related construction. If funds for repair and resurfacing are determined to be necessary, they should be requested through the Defense Access Road program.

Germany—Sembach AB: C-130 facilities.—The conferees agree to provide $4,470,000 for facilities relating to the C-130 beddown at Sembach AB. The conferees also agree that previously appropriated funds for this beddown are released for obligation.

Japan—Yokota AB: Jet fuel storage.—The conferees direct the Air Force to seek funding for the jet fuel storage project through the Japanese facilities improvement program.

Korea—Various locations.—The conferees direct the Air Force to seek Korean funding for the fiscal year 1987 projects at Camp Humphreys and Suwon AB, Korea through the CDIP program.

Korea—Kimhae AB.—The conferees direct the Air Force to submit a long term plan for this base spelling out future missions, manning levels and construction requirements. This plan is to be submitted by February 15, 1987.

Morocco—Petroleum resupply system.—The conferees agree to provide the $25,400,000 requested on the condition that the U.S. not commit itself to funding a railway system between the location of the petroleum storage facilities and the port facilities. It is the conferees view that this railway is not necessary to meet the U.S. operational requirements. The conferees also direct that the contract for this project be let under the terms and conditions spelled out in the American Preference program for the Persian Gulf, and that it be paid in U.S. dollars. The Secretary is to notify the conferees of the meeting of these requirements prior to obligation of these funds.

Philippines-Clark AFB: Various Projects.—The conferees agree to fund a number of requested projects for Clark AFB in the Philippines, subject to authorization. The Department is urged to take the necessary actions to obtain authorization for these projects as soon as possible.

General Reduction.—The conferees approve a general reduction of $41,100,000 to this account. The Air Force is directed to execute this reduction in accordance with the guidelines earlier in this report on preserving the line item integrity of the program.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, DEFENSE AGENCIES

Appropriates $534,170,000 for Military Construction, Defense Agencies, instead of $541,563,000 as proposed by the House and $505,110,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Alabama—Fort McClellan: Elementary school addition	−$2,830,000
California—Edwards AFB: Rocket propulsion brilion facility	+4,140,000
Georgia—Fort Benning: White elementary school modernization/addition	−1,080,000

The conferees agree to fund all other items in conference at the level proposed by the House as shown below:

California—Fort Ord: Hospital addition	$530,000
California—Travis AFB: Composite medical facility phase IV	87,500,000
California—Vandenberg AFB: Add/alter medical center clinic annex	1,900,000

Germany—Wuerzburg: Middle school	7,760,000
Netherlands—Woendrecht: Elementary and high school addition	7,420,000
Worldwide Unspecified—Unspecified minor construction	4,000,000

Mississippi-Keesler AFB: Radiology liner accelerator.—The conferees approve the $3,100,000 requested for this project contingent upon the submission of a plan addressing additional proposed locations for this equipment and facilities.

Texas-Brooke Army Medical Center.—The conferees agree to provide $10,000,000 for site preparation for the new hospital at this location in fiscal year 1987. It is the understanding of the conferees that a 450 bed hospital will be designed with initial construction of a 200 bed facility. The 200 bed hospital shall be designed and sited for efficient expansion to its full 450 bed capacity, in the event expansion is required in the future.

Strategic Defense Initiative Construction.—The conferees agree to provide the $10,300,000 requested for SDI related construction on the condition that the reporting requirements outlined earlier in the report are met. The amount requested for planning and design for SDI related facilities has been reduced to $15,000,000 due to the lack of justification.

Planning and Design.—The conferees provide $83,000,000 for this account. Of the funds requested $22,500,000 requested for the design of the Pentagon Annex has been denied, and $5,000,000 of the $20,000,000 requested for SDI related facility design has been denied. The conferees direct the Department to prepare and submit a plan which specifies how long term savings in lease costs would be achieved through the construction of the Pentagon Annex. The plan should also address how changes to traffic flow patterns and parking requirements would be addressed, if this building were constructed.

Conforming Storage Facilities.—The conferees agree to provide $10,000,000 of the $21,000,000 requested for conforming storage facilities. This amount represents the best estimate of projects that will receive the appropriate permits and be ready for award in fiscal year 1987. The conferees agree not to provide funds for this program on a line item basis, and expect that the projects first to receive permits will be the first to be funded. The conferees direct that a report on the use of the funds approved be provided by April 1, 1987. In addition, the conferees direct that the analysis called for in the House report be submitted within four months of enactment of this Act or by April 1, 1987, whichever is earlier.

General Reduction.—The conferees agree to a general reduction of $11,000,000 for this account. Of this amount, $10,000,000 is to be derived from funds provided for Army medical facilities.

NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION INFRASTRUCTURE

Appropriates $232,000,000 for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Infrastructure as proposed by the Senate instead of $247,000,000 as proposed by the House. The Department should seek additional funds for this program, if necessary, as outlined earlier in this report.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

Appropriates $140,879,000 for Military Construction, Army National Guard instead of $115,724,000 as proposed by the House and $133,271,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Arizona—Chandler: Armory	+810,000
Arizona—Tucson: Armory	+1,576,000
Michigan—Bay City: Armory sewerage connection	0
Mississippi—Camp Shelby: Training Facility, Phase 2	+4,451,000
Tennessee—Dyersburg: Armory	+984,000
Utah—Draper: Military Complex Acquisition	+5,376,000
Wisconsin—Platteville: Armory renovation	+570,000
General Reduction	−8,000,000
Total	+5,767,000

The conferees agree to fund the following line items which were recommended by the House to be funded from existing funds:

Alabama:
Daleville: Armory	$965,000
Fayette: Armory	470,000
Millport: Armory	708,000
Pelham: Armory	686,000
California—Fairfield: Armory	1,784,000
Mississippi—Camp McCain:
Combined support maintenance shop	1,493,000
Armory	1,607,000
Barracks and dining hall	722,000
New Mexico—Santa Fe: Armory	3,410,000
North Carolina—Wadesboro: Armory	681,000
Ohio—Greensburg: Armory	3,254,000
Washington—Camp Murray: Land acquisition	2,170,000
Wisconsin—Chippewa Falls: Armory addition	1,438,000

General Reduction.—The conferees agree to a general reduction of $8,000,000 which is to apply against Armory unit storage buildings. The conferees believe that the additional funds provided in fiscal year 1986 for unit storage buildings were more than adequate.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, AIR NATIONAL GUARD

Appropriates $148,925,000 for Military Construction, Air National Guard as proposed by the Senate instead of $140,000,000 as provided by the House. The conferees agree to the following additions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Pennsylvania—Harrisburg IAP: Operations, training, dining and medical facilities	+$3,600,000
West Virginia:
E WV Regional Apt (Martinsburg): Phase I ramp addition	+2,500,000
Kanawha County Airport (Charleston): Multiple facility additions	+625,000
Wisconsin—Mitchell Field: Composite facility	+2,200,000
Total	+8,925,000

Pennsylvania—Greater Pittsburgh IAP.—The conferees recommend construction of a new off-station main entrance for the Air National Guard activities at Greater Pittsburgh Airport. The project should be accomplished in conjunction with the major Allegheny county public road project to construct a four lane airport access road/highway required to accommodate increased airport vehicular traffic. Portions of the existing Air National Guard access road and connecting intersection will be bypassed to make way for the new airport access road/highway. A new main entrance is essential to insure the safe and efficient continued mission of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard. The conferees recommend funds in the amount of $5,000,000 per year for four years beginning in fiscal year 1988 to be provided and transferred to the Federal Highway Administration of the Department of Transportation, which is responsible for assuring proper execution of the work under Title 23, United States Code, Section 210. The conferees have included language permitting the Secretary of the Air Force to assure that the remaining three increments will be available. This will allow DOT to assure Allegheny County of full funding before the project begins.

Tennessee—Memphis, 164th Airlift Group.—The conferees agree with Senate report language concerning the potential for the Air National Guard component to assume additional strategic airlift missions. The conferees believe a transfer of some strategic airlift assets from the active Air Force to the Guard and Reserve would be a cost-effective and efficient step. The conferees also note the unique capability of the 164th Airlift Group in Memphis, Tennessee, to assume the strategic airlift function. The conferees direct the Air National Guard to program sufficient funds to initiate design of facilities to accommodate at least eight C-5's in Memphis. The conferees have also agreed to lift the hold on the hangar project at Andrews AFB, Maryland requested through reprogramming.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, ARMY RESERVE

Appropriates $86,700,000 for Military Construction Army Reserve as proposed by the Senate instead of $76,417,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees agree to the following additions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

South Carolina—Florence: Land acquisition	+$200,000
Virginia—Fort Lee: Add/alter Army Reserve center	+2,299,000
Puerto Rico—Fort Allen: Army Reserve center maintenance/storage	+7,784,000
Total	+10,283,000

FAMILY HOUSING, ARMY

Appropriates $1,597,657,000 for Family Housing, Army instead of $1,573,991,000 as proposed by the House and $1,667,977,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that $379,680,000 is appropriated for construction, $1,209,914,000 is appropriated for operations and maintenance, and $8,063,000 is appropriated for debt payment. The conferees agree to the following additions and deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Construction Improvements	+$10,000,000
Planning	+2,000,000
Operating Expenses: Furnishings account	−1,185,000
Leasing	+13,851,000
Maintenance of real property	−1,000,000
Total	+23,666,000

The conferees agree to fund all other items in conference at the level proposed by the House, as shown below:

Alaska—Fort Wainwright	0
California—Fort Ord	$30,500,000
Louisiana—Fort Polk	33,900,000
Maryland—Aberdeen Proving Ground	9,100,000
New York:
Fort Drum	86,500,000
Seneca Army Depot	2,650,000
Germany:

Kwajalein: Kwajalein	16,000,000
General Reduction: Construction Account	0
Operating Expenses: Management Account	69,000,000
Utilities Account	259,330,000

Improvements.—The conferees agree to a level of $135,000,000 for this account. The conferees are agreed that the improvement project of the General officer quarters at Walter Reed Army Medical Center is to be limited to $75,000.

Leasing.—The conferees agree to a level of $158,400,000 for this account. The reductions include $10,938,000 from funds requested for annualization of existing leases which are no longer necessary. The amount of $4,907,000 has been reduced from funds requested for annualization of existing leases which are no longer necessary. The amount of $4,907,000 has been reduced from funds requested for new leases in accordance with the policies outlined earlier in this report.

Maintenance.—The conferees have agreed to a level of $569,000,000 for this account to conform to the authorization.

FAMILY HOUSING, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS

Appropriates $708,693,000 for Family Housing, Navy and Marine Corps instead of $712,494,000 as proposed by the House and $713,366,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that $171,392,000 is appropriated for construction, $528,230,000 is appropriated for operations and maintnance, and $9,071,000 is appropriated for debt payment. The conferees agree to the following deletions to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Operating Expenses:
Management Account	−$2,730,000
Utilities Account	−1,071,000
Total	−3,801,000

The conferees agree to fund all other items in conference at the level proposed by the House, as shown below:

California:
Marcor Air-Grnd Comb Ctr Twentynine Palms.	$31,400,000
NAS Moffet Field	10,400,000
Naval Station, Long Beach	21,000,000

Construction Improvements	48,580,000

General Reduction	0
Operating Accounts: Services account	29,847,000
Maintenance of real property	260,000,000

Improvements.—The conferees agree to a level of $48,580,000 for this account. Of this amount the conferees direct that $2,300,000 is to be used to construct replacement housing at MCAS El Toro, California necessary because of the recently approved land exchange.

Maintenance.—The conferees agree to a level of $260,000,000 for this account. The conferees direct that none of the funds requested for Quarters AA, NETC Newport, Rhode Island, and Quarters 6, MCB, Washington, D.C. be obligated until a long term plan for their upgrade has been submitted and approved by the Committees on agree with Appropriations.

FAMILY HOUSING, AIR FORCE

Appropriates $815,420,000 for Family Housing, Air Force Family Housing instead of $807,420,000 as propsoed by the House and $832,935,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that $104,840,000 is appropriated for construction. $703,215,000 is appropriated for operations and maintenance, and $703,215,000 is appropriated for debt payment. The conferees agree to the following addition to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Construction Improvements	+$8,000,000

The conferees agree to fund all other items in conference at the level proposed by the House, as shown below:

Germany:
Bitburg AB	$24,015,000
Hahn AB	10,300,000
General Reduction-Construction Account	0
Operating Expenses:

Maintenance of Real Property	300,000,000

Fort MacArthur, California.—The conferees agree with the Air Force to notify the Committees on Appropriations prior to the obligation of funds appropriated in fiscal year 1985 for new family housing sited at White Point Park. This notification should contain a certification that the City of Los Angeles and the Air Force have come to a final agreement on the use of the site.

Maintenance.—The conferees agree to a level of $300,000,000 for this account. The conferees direct that the Quarters 6776, USAF Academy, Colorado and the Quaraters 418, Langley AFB, Virginia projects be limited to $90,000 each. This limitation applies to funds from both the maintenance and improvement accounts.

FAMILY HOUSING, DEFENSE AGENCIES

Appropriates $16,643,000 for Family Housing, Defense Agencies instead of $16,470,000 as proposed by the House and $17,290,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are agreed that $240,000 is appropriated for construction and $16,403,000 is appropriated for operations and maintenance. The conferees agree to the following addition to the amounts and line items as proposed by the House:

Operating Expenses-Leasing	+$173,000

The conferees agree to fund all other items in conference at the level proposed by the House, as shown below:

NSA Classified Project	$240,000
Operating Expenses: Furnishings Account	1,413,000

HOMEOWNERS ASSISTANCE FUND

Approriates $2,000,000 for the Homeowners Assistance Fund instead of $3,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The Department is to submit a detailed justification on the use of these funds and the future use of this authority.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 110.—The conferees agree to retain the House provison restricting the U.S. from paying real property taxes to any foreign nation.

Section 113.—The conferees agree to retain the House provision restricting the use of funds for the sale, lease, or rental of Fort DeRussy, Hawaii.

Section 115.—The conferees agree to delete the provision in the House bill numbered Section 115 requiring funds appropriated for the F-16 beddown in Misawa, Japan to be additive over the level of funding provided in fiscal year 1986 for the Japanese facilities improvement program.

Section 116.—The conferees agree to the House provision restricting the award of architect and engineer contracts over $500,000 in Japan or any NATO country to U.S. firms or U.S. firms in joint venture with host nation firms, but with a new section number 115.

Section 117.—The conferees agree to retain the House provision providing a 20% premium to U.S. firms in the U.S. territories of the Pacific and on Kwajalein Island on all construction projects over $1,000,000, but with a new section number 116.

Section 118.—Renumbered to Section 117.

Section 119.—Renumbered to Section 118.

Section 120.—Renumbered to Section 119.

Section 121.—Renumbered to Section 120

Section 122.—The conferees agree to retain the provision in both the House and Senate bills establishing an account to eliminate substantial gains and losses caused by fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates, but with a new section number 121. The conferees agree to amend the language of the provision to allow use of some unexpended funds from prior years.

Senate new section 123.—The conferees agree to retain the House provision requiring the Secretary of the Navy to enter into negotiations with certain shipyards to determine if any liability exists for possible damages resulting from facility improvements, but with a new section number 122.

Section 124.—Renumbered to Section 123.

Section 125.—The conferees agree to delete the House provision relating to use of funds for a replacement hospital at Brooke Army Medical Center, Texas.

Senate new section 123.—The conferees agree to language proposed by the Senate reducing the amounts available for consultants and consultant services, but with a new section number 124.

Senate new section 124.—The conferees agree to language proposed by the Senate restricting obligation of funds in any country that the President determines has failed to take adequate measures to prevent the sale of narcotics in the U.S., but with a new section number 125.

Senate new section 125.—The conferees agree to language proposed by the Senate allowing up to $5,000,000 from available DOD funds to be paid for claims arising from property losses by the explosion of Army munitions near Checotah, Oklahoma, but with new section number 126.

Senate new section 126.—The conferees agree to language proposed by the Senate requiring the Secretary of Defense to submit a report detailing specific actions to be taken in fiscal year 1987 to encourage NATO members and Japan to assume a greater share of the common defense burden, but with a new section number 127. The language has been amended to strike the restrictions on obligation of funds.

TITLE III—EMERGENCY RESERVE FOR AFRICAN FAMINE RELIEF

The conferees agree with the Senate language which amends Title II of Public Law 99-10. The amendment appropriates $300,000,000 to the "Emergency Reserve for African Famine Relief."

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATONS ACT

Amendment No. 11: Deletes language proposed by the House and Senate and inserts new language relating to the rate for operations of programs, projects, or activities provided for in the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1987.

The House version of H.J. Res. 738 provides appropriations for activities of the Department of Transportation and related agencies at the rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5205 as passed by the House of Representatives on July 30, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these activities at the rate for operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for H.R. 5205 as passed by the Senate on September 17, 1986. The conference agreement provides for amounts necessary for programs, projects, or activities provided for in H.R. 5205 to the extent and in the manner provided for in the conference report and joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference (House Report 99-976) as filed in the House of Representatives on October 7, 1986, as if enacted into law except as it relates to amendment number 126 (section 331).

In lieu of amendment number 126, the conference agreement includes a statutory requirement that the Federal Aviation Administration satisfy the following criteria by September 30, 1987:

(a) Total air traffic controller workforce level of not less than 15,000;

(b) With respect to the air traffic controller work force, of those individuals eligible to be full performance level controllers, 70 percent shall have achieved full performance level status; and

(c) With respect to staffing at particular air traffic control facilities, of those individuals eligible to be full performance level controllers, at least 60 percent at each en route air traffic control center and each "level 3" or above terminal shall have achieved full performance level status.

Although the conference agreement deletes the language removing the prohibition against rehiring those air traffic controllers who engaged in the 1981 strike, the conferees remain concerned about air traffic controller workforce staffing. According to a recent General Accounting Office report, the Federal Aviation Administration has not met its goals for full performance level controllers at many major facilities and the growth in air traffic activity has so increased workload that controllers are stretched too thin. Therefore, the conference agreement has included three statutory controller workforce requirements. As previously stated, these minimum requirements deal with total controller staffing, system-wide full performance level controllers, and minimum full performance level controller staffing at each center and each major terminal facility.

DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY, POSTAL SERVICE, AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Amendment No. 12: Section 101(m) of House Joint Resolution 738 provides appropriaions for programs, projects, and activities provided for in the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1987. The House version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for programs, projects, and activities at a rate of operations and to the extent and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5294 as passed the House of Representatives on August 6, 1986. The Senate version of the joint resolution provides appropriations for these programs, projects, and activities at the rate and in the manner provided for in H.R. 5294 as reported to the Senate on August 14, 1986, with certain additional provisions and exceptions provided for in the joint resolution.

The conference agreement on House Joint Resolution 738 incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1987, and has the effect of enacting the Act into law. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 99-723 and Senate Report 99-406 should be complied with unless specifically addressed in this joint resolution and statement of the managers to the contrary. The Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1987, put in place by this joint resolution, incorporates the following agreements of the managers.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Continues the salaries and expenses account of the Office of the Secretary and the International Affairs account as separate appropriation accounts as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $52,642,000 for salaries and expenses of the Office of the Secretary as proposed by the House instead of $76,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $22,442,000 for International Affairs as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $29,499,000 for the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center as proposed by the House instead of $23,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The Federal Law Enforcement Training Center is directed to provide such training as may be required to support the Federal drug initiative funded in this continuing resolution.

Appropriates $240,117,000 for the Financial Management Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $251,117,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $193,463,000 for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms as proposed by the Senate instead of $190,463,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees also agree to a Senate provision regarding explosives tagging and for research and development of an explosives identification and detection device.

Appropriates $786,000,000 for salaries and expenses of the U.S. Customs Service instead of $796,000,000 as proposed by the House and $760,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees also agree to several legislative provisions proposed by the House. Of the additional Customs personnel provided for in this joint resolution, the conferees are agreed that the allocation of such personnel should be in accordance with both House and Senate reports on H.R. 5294, including twenty-five additional personnel for the Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport.

Dallas/Fort Worth continues to be an area where growth has outpaced available personnel. Since 1981, DFW passenger clearance has increased approximately 90% without any significant increase in Customs personnel. The rapid rate of growth is expected to continue in both the cargo and passenger areas. Pronounced growth in cargo clearance appears likely to continue with textile and high technology shipments, both of which create labor intensive entries. In the passenger area, continued significant increases in international air routes are expected to occur. In addition, because of facility configurations as they relate to international traffic, a FIS at DFW International Airport Terminal 4E will require Customs staffing beginning in fiscal year 1987, and Customs is directed to staff that facility as soon as practicable. Similarly, the increase in traffic has placed an increased burden on Customs for drug interdiction and other enforcement activities.

The conferees direct the Customs Service to assign four special agents to the 1987 Interagency Drug Task Force Demonstration Program in Philadelphia, PA, to combat drug-related crimes.

The conferees have deleted bill language proposed by the House which would set-aside $300,000 for additional part-time and temporary positions in the Honolulu Customs District. This language is no longer necessary because of an August 11, 1986 letter from the Commissioner of the Customs Service in which he agreed to allocate $300,000 from FY 1987 funds to hire additional part-time employees to help alleviate processing delays during peak periods of activity at Honolulu International Airport. The managers have provided $300,000 to carry out this activity. These funds are meant to enhance and not supplant the current staff levels in the Honolulu Customs District.

The conferees have approved significant increases in the level of personnel available to the Customs Service and have established a hiring floor which is 850 positions over the FY 1986 level of 14,041 positions. It is the intention of the conferees and the Congress that much of these new resources shall go toward the Southwest Border Drug Interdiction Initiative. However, the conferees also intend that the commercial duties of the Customs Service will not be reduced in FY 1987 and furthermore that the commercial duties of the Customs Service shall receive a substantial amount of the new resources. To that end, the conferees direct the Customs Service to report to the Committees on Appropriations within three months of enactment how the new resources have been distributed by position, duty, and location.

Appropriates $77,819,000 for the Operation and Maintenance of the Air Interdiction Program of the U.S. Customs Service instead of $87,819,000 as proposed by the Senate and $67,200,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees direct the Customs Service to allocate $2,500,000 within available funds, for planning, design, and construction of an operations and control facility and hangar at North Island, NAS, California.

Appropriates $42,508,000 for the United States Mint as proposed by the Senate instead of $43,508,000 as proposed by the House.

Deletes a provision providing for the acquisition and renovation of surplus properties related to expansion and improvement of the United States Mint that was proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $198,564,000 for the Bureau of the Public Debt proposed by the House instead of $218,564,000 as proposed by the House.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

Appropriates $95,147,000 for salaries and expenses as proposed by the House instead of $92,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $1,332,902,000 for processing tax returns as proposed by the House instead of $1,215,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $1,623,162,000 for examinations and appeals as proposed by the House instead of $1,530,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $1,196,581,000 for investigation, collection and taxpayer service as proposed by the House instead of $1,098,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Deletes a Senate provision mandating a favorable I.R.S. determination for a certain organization.

The conferees note that the IRS recently published Revenue Ruling 86-20 and Revenue Procedure 86-9 which attempts to bring direct import automobiles under the provisions of the Energy Tax Act. The conferees do not dispute the applicability of the Act to such automobiles. However, the conferees are concerned that the retroactive application of the tax may be unreasonable in view of the failure of IRS and EPA to develop procedures to apply the law to direct import automobiles.

Title 26 U.S.C. 4064(c)(1) states that fuel economy shall be measured in accordance with procedures established by the EPA Administrator, and that the EPA Administrator shall report fuel economy measurements to the IRS. Such procedures were never established by the EPA with respect to direct import automobiles. The conferees therefore believe that it is appropriate for the IRS to reconsider the retroactive application of the Energy Tax Act under Revenue Ruling 86-20 and Revenue Procedure 86-9. The conferees also believe that the IRS should examine the cost-effectiveness of any efforts to collect taxes retroactively in its reconsideration of this matter.

UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE

Appropriates $318,000,000 for salaries and expenses, United States Secret Service, as proposed by the House instead of $316,800,000 as proposed by the Senate; makes available $6,000,000 for continued construction at the James J. Rowley Training Center and $500,000 for research, as proposed by the House.

TITLE II—U.S. POSTAL SERVICE

Appropriates $650,000,000 for payment to the Postal Service Fund as proposed by the Senate instead of $690,049,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees are agreed that the $40,049,000 appropriation requested in the President's Budget for meeting certain liabilities of the former Post Office Department should be deferred until a future year.

The conferees request the Postmaster General to review the requirements for postal services in the area of Pocola, Oklahoma, and report to the Congress concerning the possibility of providing an adequate postal facility for that rapidly growing area.

TITLE III—EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Appropriates $15,700,000 for The Office of Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $16,238,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $24,450,000 for the White House Office as proposed by the Senate instead of $25,179,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $4,700,000 for the Executive Residence at the White House as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,942,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $1,790,000 for Special Assistance to the President as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,849,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $2,275,000 for the Council of Economic Advisors as proposed by the Senate instead of $2,346,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $2,600,000 for the Office of Policy Development as proposed by the Senate instead of $2,665,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $175,000 for the National Critical Materials Council instead of $250,000 as proposed by the House and $100,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $4,550,000 for the National Security Council as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,627,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $37,000,000 for the Office of Management and Budget as proposed by the Senate instead of $34,274,000 as proposed by the House, and continues a provision prohibiting the Office of Management and Budget from reviewing certain transcripts. The conferees agree to delete a prohibition against the use of funds appropriated in this Act to fund activities of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs. (See Title VIII of this amendment.)

Appropriates $1,600,000 for the Office of Federal Procurement Policy as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,660,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $1,000,000 for unanticipated needs as proposed by the House instead of $500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

TITLE IV—INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

Appropriates $1,469,000 for the Administrative Conference of the United States, instead of $1,559,000 as proposed by the House, and $1,369,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $1,750,000 for the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations instead of $1,045,000 as proposed by the House and $1,953,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees concur with the directive outlined in House Report 99-223 which mandates increased state contributions for the operation of the Advisory Commission in Intergovernmental Relations. However, the conferees agree with the Senate position that such a cost sharing program should be implemented over some reasonable period of time. Therefore, to insure the implementation of a federal-state cost sharing plan, the conference agreement provides $1,750,000 in federal funds for the operation of ACIR in fiscal year 1987. This amount is $750,000 above the House passed level and $203,000 less than the amount proposed by the Senate. For the outyears, the conferees direct the ACIR to request not more than $1,390,000 in federal funds for fiscal year 1988 and not to exceed $1,040,000 in federal funds for fiscal year 1989. After this implementation period is completed, the ACIR should request no more than $1,040,000 in federal funds for the operation of the Commission. No funds are provided to the ACIR for preparing or submitting budget requests which exceed the specified amounts for the fiscal years mentioned in this conference report. To augment federal appropriations, the ACIR should aggressively pursue contributions from the several states and increase receipts generated from the sale of Commission publications.

Appropriates $201,000 for the Advisory Committee on Federal Pay as proposed by the Senate instead of $229,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $778,000 for the Committee for Purchase from the Blind and Other Severely Handicapped as proposed by the House instead of $699,000 as proposed by the Senate, and deletes a provision relating to central non-profit agencies proposed by the House and deleted by the Senate. The conferees direct the Committee to study the feasibility of an affirmative action program for the hiring, placement, and advancement of handicapped individuals, and report the results to the Committee on Appropriations.

Appropriates $12,800,000 for the Federal Election Commission as proposed by the Senate instead of $12,000,000 as proposed by the House.

GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

Appropriates $160,944,000 for the Federal Supply Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $170,839,000 as proposed by the House, and inserts a provision increasing the limitation for expenses of transportation audits and contract administration as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $39,108,000 for the Federal Property Resource Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $40,975,000 as proposed by the House and makes available $11,000,000 to be derived by transfer of excess of real property as proposed by the Senate instead of $11,563,000 as proposed by the House and makes available $28,108,000 for transportation, processing, refining, storage, security maintenance, rotation and disposal of certain materials as proposed by the Senate instead of $29,412,000 as proposed by the House.0

Appropriates $5,000,000 for a grant for construction at the University of Massachusetts, at Amherst, as proposed by the House and $5,000,000 for a grant for construction at the University of Nevada at Reno, as proposed by the Senate.

Modifies a provision proposed by the House but deleted by the Senate which makes funds available for evaluating, testing, relocating and upgrading stockpile materials.

The conferees are particularly concerned about the cobalt in the Stockpile. Cobalt is essential to both our defense and civilian economy. The principal alternative supplier is the Soviet Union, which is an obvious concern.

Cobalt is used as a metal primarily because of three unique properties: (1) its ability to impart strength to structural materials at high temperatures (aircraft engines), (2) its magnetic properties (electrical communication equipment), and (3) its ability to act as a binder in cemented carbides (cutting tools, mining drill bits). All of these uses are critically important to national security, especially super alloys for gas turbines and carbides for a wide range of cutting and wear-resistant applications.

The condition of the cobalt in the National Strategic Stockpile has been assessed for use for those requirements essential to the military and key industrial needs of the nation. A major portion of the cobalt in the stockpile is technologically obsolete. In a national emergency, the need for a high-quality cobalt is a necessity. Therefore, GSA is so directed, before any additional materials are purchased for the National Defense Stockpile, to commence upgrading the obsolete cobalt.

Appropriates $120,289,000 for General Management and Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $125,374,000 as proposed by the House, and earmarks $800,000 for certain costs in support of Congressional Offices as proposed by the Senate instead of $900,000 for that support as proposed by the House. The conferees are agreed that the purpose of this earmarking and language is to preclude the necessity for voluminous record-keeping, auditing, and other unnecessary administrative activities. Deletes a provision which would have made available $2,500 for reception and representation expenses which was proposed by the Senate.

The GSA is directed to study the need and availability of existing buildings meeting Federal office building requirements in San Francisco and report with specific recommendations on alternatives as to cost, space, and locations prior to the FY 1988 appropriations hearings.

The conferees are aware that the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Eastern Remote Adjudication Center (RAC) located in St. Albans, Vermont will be expanded this spring. The INS has directed the General Services Administration to locate either new or existing space for expansion in Franklin County, Vermont, GSA began the search this summer and is now looking beyond Franklin County. The conferees are aware that existing space is available in Franklin County. Given that fact and that the county workers at the RAC have proven to be both highly skilled and dedicated employees, the conferees direct GSA to find either new or existing space in Franklin County at the soonest possible date.

Appropriates $29,000,000 for the Information Resources Management Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $30,653,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $21,108,000 for the Office of the Inspector General as proposed by the House instead of $20,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Appropriates $1,171,800 for Allowances and Office Staff for former Presidents as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,176,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $100,321,000 for the National Archives and Records Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $105,321,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees direct the National Archives and Records Administration to consider providing sufficient funds for restoration, preservation, and maintenance of documents and memorabilia relating to President Calvin Coolidge located in the Calvin Coolidge Memorial Room Forbes Library, Northampton, Massachusetts.

Appropriates $99,000,000 for the Office of Personnel Management instead of $96,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $99,846,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees have also inserted a provision which allows the transfer of $60,900,000 for administrative expenses for the retirement and insurance programs to be transferred from the appropriate trust funds of the Office of Personnel Management.

Appropriates $1,459,000,000 for the Government Payment for Annuities, Employees Health Benefits as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,469,357,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees ageee that the amount of funds appropriated for the government's contribution for annuitants in the federal employees health benefits system is sufficient to maintain current service levels. It is the conferees' intent in approving the appropriation of $1,459,000,000 to provide sufficient funds to maintain federal employed health benefits at no less than current levels.

Appropriates $4,557,000,000 for payment to the Civil Service Disability and Retirement Fund as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,619,365,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees are very concerned about any unfunded liabilities that might result from this reduction. The conferees are agreed that all payments to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund That are mandated by law should be included in the budget request and appropriated by the Congress.

Appropriates $5,250,000 for the Federal Retirement Thrift Investment Board instead of $250,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Inserts a provision regarding the Thrift Board. Except for fiscal year 1987, the expenses of the Thrift Board are to be paid for out of earnings by the Thrift Fund. Pub. L. 99-335 authorized appropriations for fiscal year 1987 to enable the Board to start up the agency. The authorizing legislation limits Board expenses in fiscal year 1987 to appropriated funds. The provision permits the Board to utilize Fund earnings in fiscal year 1987 for fiscal year 1987 administrative expenses.

Appropriates $19,140,000 for the Merit Systems Protection Board as proposed by the Senate instead of $20,251,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $4,396,000 for the Office of Special Counsel as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,640,000 as proposed by the House.

Appropriates $16,330,000 for the Federal Labor Relations Authority as proposed by the Senate instead of $17,064,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees direct that of the amount appropriated for the FLRA, $8,572,000 and 145 positions shall be made available for the Office of the General Counsel. Funds for the Office of the General Counsel include its share of GSA space rental, communications and penalty mail costs.

Appropriates $25,538,000 for the United States Tax Court as proposed by the House instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS ACT

Amends a provision proposed by the House and amended by the Senate directing the Secretary of the Army to sell and convey to the state of Hawaii, or the city and county of Honolulu parts or Ft. DeRussy.

Section 509 of the Senate Bill provides permanent authority to the Secretary of the Army to convey and sell, through the General Services Administration, a portion of the lands at Fort DeRussy, Hawaii, subject to certain enumerated conditions. The Conferees have agreed to the Senate version of section 509, with an amendment. This amendment provides that the authority in section 509 shall be available to the Administrator of the General Services Administration and the Secretary of the Army notwithstanding any limitation on the obligation or expenditure of funds for the sale, lease, rental, or excessing of Fort DeRussy, Honolulu, Hawaii. Thus, in addition to providing a general waiver of law as recommended by the Senate, the conference agreement further waiver any limitation contained in any individual fiscal year 1987 appropriations bill, whether incorporated in the continuing resolution for fiscal year 1987 or in a bill making general appropriations for an agency of government.

This additional waiver is designed to ensure that the authority provided in section 509 is not impaired by any limitation on the availability of funds contained in bills making appropriations for the Department of Defense or for Military Construction. The waiver is specifically designed to address limitations on the obligation or expenditure of funds appropriated for the sale, lease, rental, or excessing of Fort DeRussy in a form similar to section 113, of Pub. L. 99-173 and section 101(b) of P.L. 99-190 (Section 8055 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1986).

The conferees direct the General Services Administration to insure that the land is not sold to commercial interests but is sold to the local government to insure that any development of the property will be by that government.

The authority to conduct a sale pursuant to subsection (b) shall be contingent upon the failure to approve an ordinance by initiative for the City and County of Honolulu relating to the primary urban center development plan special provisions, the subject matter of which is an express prohibition on the building of a convention center or hotel on Fort DeRussy, provided such an ordinance by initiative appears on the ballot for voters of the City and County of Honolulu, Hawaii in November, 1986.

Restores a provision proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which prohibits the closing of a General Services Administration office in Sacramento, California.

Amends a provision inserted by the House and stricken by the Senate. The conferees agreed to accept modified language proposed by the House. Effective September 30, 1987, the amount of silver deposited in the National Defense Stockpile shall not exceed 128,000,000 troy ounces. This amount includes any silver on loan to the Department of Defense. The conferees understand that Section 203 of the Liberty Coin Act authorizes the use of silver in the stockpile for the minting of bullion coins. In accordance with the procedures established by the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, the Administrator of General Services is directed to sell on the open market the remaining silver not used for the coinage program.

Amends a provision inserted by the House and stricken by the Senate, the conferees agreed to accept modified language proposed by the House. The modified provision mandates the use of all funds authorized and appropriated before January 1, 1985 from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund to evaluate, test, relocate, upgrade or purchase stockpile goals and specifications. These funds must be expended no later than October 1, 1988.

The modified language does specify the goals in effect on October 1, 1984. However, the General Services Administration has the flexibility to make minor adjustments in the stockpile goals to reflect changing circumstances. The conferees note that one such adjustment includes the purchase of germanium for the stockpile. Aside from these adjustments, the General Services Administration is directed to use the goals in effect on October 1, 1984 to the maximum extent practicable. The provision was also modified to allow for the use of funds to meet current stockpile specifications.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which prohibits, under certain conditions, the procurement of stainless steel flatware not produced in the United States.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate regarding property on which the Phoenix Indian School is located at Phoenix, Arizona.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate regarding lands in the vicinity of Bull Shoals Lake, Arkansas.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which directs the Administrator of the General Services Administration to negotiate a lease of up to 30 years duration with the City of Tacoma, Washington for the purpose of leasing space for the U.S. Courts at the Union Station, in Tacoma, Washington.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which provides that the United States Courthouse located at 223 Park Avenue Southwest in Aiken, South Carolina, shall be known and designated as the "Charles E. Simons, Jr., Federal Courthouse". Any reference in any law, regulation, document, record, map, or other paper of the United States to such courthouse is deemed to be a reference to the "Charles E. Simons, Jr., Federal Courthouse".

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which mandates that the Office of Management and Budget include Harvey County, Kansas in the area designated as the Wichita Metropolitan Statistical Area.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which provides for an annuity of $1,500 per month to Gladys Pile, who served as a Senator from South Dakota from November, 1938 to January, 1939. Ms. Pile is not otherwise eligible to receive an annuity on the basis of her service as Senator.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which provides that Erna Avari Patrick of Columbia, South Carolina, shall be considered to have satisfied the requirement of clause (3) of Section 603 of this Act.

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

DEPARTMENTS, AGENCIES AND CORPORATIONS

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate that provides that when the Administrator of General Services delegates responsibility to protect property to another Federal agency, that the delegated agency may employ guards who shall have the same powers as G.S.A. guards.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate which provides that certain limitations in that section may not apply to any increases in a wage schedule or rate that is required by the terms of a contract entered into before the date of enactment of this Act.

Restores a provision inserted by the House but stricken by the Senate regarding the closing of certain Customs officers.

Restores a provision inserted by the House but stricken by the Senate regarding the eligibility of a certain organization to participate in the 1986 Combined Federal Campaign.

Inserts a provision proposed by the Senate regarding regulations dealing with participation in the Combined Federal Campaign.

Deletes a provision proposed by the House regarding 48 CFR Subpart 19.5 which relates to small business set asides.

Modifies an amendment inserted by the Senate regarding small business set-asides.

Deletes a provision proposed by the House prohibiting the implementation of changes to OMB Circular A21 prior to April 1, 1987.

Deletes a provision proposed by the House imposing a 9.75% across the board reduction to certain appropriations.

Inserts a general provision proposed by the Senate which amends section 202 of Title 3 of the United States Code. The provision deals with security of the Treasury Building and grounds.

Inserts a general provision which establishes a privitization demonstration program to allow electric and telephone borrowers under the Rural Electrification Act to prepay with private capital all their loans guaranteed or otherwise made by and through the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), so long as the borrower agrees to forego any future loan or other financial assistance under the Act. Borrowers electing to participate in the privitization demonstration program will not be assessed any premium as a result of prepaying of their guaranteed loans, and will be allowed to prepay their direct or insured loans at the lesser of the outstanding principal balance or at a discounted rate to be set by the REA Administrator. In selecting a discount rate the Administrator shall use the cost of money to a double a rated utility or a similar financial benchmark, rather than the Federal Treasury rate.

If a borrower elects the prepayment option under Section 311, that borrower must prepay all of their outstanding REA loans within one year after the first loan is prepaid. With respect to prepayment of guaranteed loans, the guarantee shall be 90 percent of the outstanding balance plus accrued interest, but shall not otherwise be limited in its transferability or assignability. There will be no guarantee or other financial assistance associated with prepayment of direct or insured loans. Nothing in Section 311 shall prohibit borrowers who elect to prepay their loans and borrower who remain eligible for and utilize REA financing from participating together in generation and transmission projects or in power purchase or exchange agreements or other arrangements as are traditional in the electric utility industry to promote greater system efficiencies and consumer benefits, so long as the borrowers which has prepaid utilizes private capital. Where a borrower prepaying under Section 311 uses a majority of its generating capacity to serve its retail consumers, other borrowers who purchase power as of September 30, 1986 from the prepaying borrowers shall continue to be eligible under the Act for their service and needs.

"Private Capital" as used in this section includes any form of private financing otherwise available including financing through the Banks for Cooperatives, tax exempt bonds or other sources of capital, but does not include Federal Financing Bank loans. Nothing in Section 311 shall prevent a prepaying borrower from selling power to any party, including REA borrowers, or from purchasing REA-financed facilities with private capital. Short-term power purchases as used in Section 311 mean arrangements of no more than ten years.

TITLE VII—TRANSFER OF ANNUAL LEAVE AND SICK LEAVE

The conferees agree that the Office of Personnel Management is to make a study of the desirability, feasibility, and costs, if any, of permitting employees to donate annual and sick leave for the use of other employees who need such leave for medical, or family emergency or other hardship situations. The Office shall submit a report to Congress, including any legislative recommendations, no later than one year after date of enactment of this Act.

This Title authorizes not to exceed three such demonstration projects which can be conducted throughout the country to test the feasibility of this leave bank concept.

TITLE VIII—THE PAPERWORK REDUCTION REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 1986

The Congress enacted the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, Public Law 96-511, on December 11, 1986. The Act establishes an information management framework for the Government with primary responsibilities centered in the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA) within the Office of Management and Budget. The objectives of the Paperwork Act are to (1) reduce the information burden imposed on the public by requiring the development and implementation of uniform and consistent information policies and practices, (2) increase the availability and accuracy of agency data and information, (3) expand and strengthen Federal information management activities, and (4) decrease the paperwork burden on individuals, businesses, State and local governments, and others.

OIRA's initial authorization expired in October 1983. While the House passed a reauthorization bill, the Paperwork Reduction Act Amendments of 1983 (H.R. 2718, House Report 98-147), the full Senate, despite committee passage, failed to act on its companion piece, S. 2433 (Senate Report 98-576). Since that time, OIRA has been operating without an authorization; it has been funded from OMB's general appropriations on a year-to-year basis. The Paperwork Reduction Reauthorization Act of 1986 provides funding for three additional years (fiscal years 1987-1989) at $5.5 million per year. This year the Senate committee reported S. 2230 containing title 6 with provisions similar to S. 2433 (Senate Report 99-347).

To help ensure that the functions assigned to the Office are carried out, the Reauthorization Act would establish a separate line item account for only those functions contained in the Paperwork Act and assigned to OIRA. The Office may perform other functions provided it obtains separate funding for these activities. The bill requires that all future Administrators be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. It also combines the existing Federal Telecommunications Fund and the Automatic Data Processing Fund into a new Information Technology Fund managed by the General Services Administration (GSA) for the purposes of financing the acquisition of technology for use by Federal agencies.

Further, the bill establishes new goals for paperwork reduction and requires OMB to appoint a qualified chief statistician to develop and oversee statistical policies and programs. A new definition of automatic data processing equipment (ADPE) is provided under Public Law 89-306 (Brooks Act), which recognizes the merging of ADP, telecommunications, and other technical resources used in the management of information. The bill also clarifies the roles and authorities of the OMB Director, the GSA Administrator, and the GSA Board of Contract Appeals. Additionally, it resolves the confusion that has resulted from recent court decisions regarding the application of the Brooks Act.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY FUND

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 recognized the convergence of ADP and telecommunications technologies and the importance of these technologies to the management of information. In keeping with the committee's interest in the efficient and effective acquisition, management, and utilization of information technology and information technology resources, the Reauthorization Act combines the existing Automatic Data Processing Fund and the Telecommunications Fund into a new Information Technology Fund. The establishment of a single fund will accomplish several objectives. It will (1) alleviate what has become an artificial distinction between two merging technologies; (2) create a practical approach to funding communications linked computer systems; (3) provide a more businesslike approach to obligating available resources; (4) provide greater management opportunities and flexibility to take advantage of the most cost effective procurement opportunities; and (5) provide for more streamlined financial management of information technology programs.

The Reauthorization Act also provides authority to ensure that reimbursements to the fund are adequate to provide for the capital requirements of the fund. This is in keeping with the desires of the House Committee on Appropriations, as noted in its Report No. 96-1090 accompanying H.R. 7583 for the fiscal year 1981 budget.

The bill also provides GSA authority to contract for information technology resources for periods not in excess of 5 years, providing that funds are available and adequate for payment of the cost of such contracts for the first fiscal year and any termination costs. This will allow GSA to consider, in addition to lease and purchase, a third procurement alternative, that of multiyear leasing.

The consolidation of the two existing funds and the ability to enter into multiyear leasing contracts will provide substantial benefits to the Government. Rather than having to bear the administrative burden of managing two separate funds with rapidly converging technologies and uses, GSA will now be able to concentrate its efforts on the administration of the Technology Fund. Further, substantial cost savings and other benefits will accrue from a central agency being able to take advantage of quantity purchases and other discounts.

ROLES OF GSA AND OMB UNDER THE BROOKS ACT

Several disputes have recently arisen as to the application of the Brooks Act to specific procurements and the role OMB is to play in the process. While certain forum and agencies have fairly consistently interpreted the Brooks Act in accordance with its intended meaning, others have advanced contrary interpretations that have prevailed in other areas. In order to alleviate the discrepancies and disputes that exist, legislation is necessary.

The present statutory amendments are necessary to clarify the roles placed upon the Administrator of General Services and OMB. Such authority directly impacts on the ability of the Government to be assured that it is awarding contracts involving ADP in the most economically efficient manner, and in its best interests.

The General Services Administration is vested with centralized authority for the Federal Government's use of automatic data processing resources. Through regulations and otherwise, the Administrator is to ensure that all agencies, with few exceptions, procure, lease, and maintain automatic data processing resources in the manner which is in the best interests of the Government.

OMB continues to have a role under the amended statute, although the role is now more circumscribed than previously. OMB may exercise "fiscal and policy control" over the Administrator and the Secretary of Commerce. In conjunction with this authority, agencies may appeal a denial by the Administrator for an agency procurement request (APR) to the Director of OMB.

In exercising its fiscal control. OMB is to formulate approaches for the economic expenditure of funds for ADP equipment, so as to assure that policy principles are realized. OMB is to exercise its policy control by establishing broad principles and approaches that secure an economic and efficient procurement system. Thus, for example, under its "fiscal and policy" authority, OMB may prohibit the procurement of a small number of microcomputers, because it has determined that such small procurements are not economical. It may insist that agencies bundle their similar requirements into a single procurement. OMB should not make determinations as to whether or not a given procurement falls within the scope of the Brooks Act. This is particularly true since the passage of the Competition in Contracting Act (CICA), Public Law 98-369, which placed protest authority in both the General Accounting Office and the General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals. Each of these forums, which are to resolve protests under strict statutory time frames, have the expertise and ability to make such determinations based on the record presented before them.

The ability of OMB to play a role in the procurement process when automatic data processing equipment is involved is specifically limited by this statute. While OMB retains its "fiscal and policy" controls, which apply as noted above, the authority of OMB in its determination of April 9, 1986, and the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit in Electronic Data Systems Federal Corp. v. General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals, 792 F.2d 1569 (Fed. Cir. 1986), is expressly limited, and—in the case of the Federal Circuit's decision—overruled, by the revision of the statute. The Administrator of General Services "shall provide adequate notice to all agencies and other users concerned with respect to each proposed determination whether or not the automatic data processing equipment will be provided by the Administrator or whether or not the authority to lease, purchase, or maintain the equipment will be delegated." 40 U.S.C. 759(e), as amended. OMB's determination authority is limited to the review of each such proposed decision, at the initial stage of the delegation process when an agency submits a written appeal to OMB to overturn the Administrator's denial of an agency procurement request (APR), unless the President otherwise directs. Thus, the authority of OMB is limited to reviewing a decision by the Administrator of General Services regarding whether or not he will provide the automatic data processing at issue, or whether or not he will delegate the authority to lease, purchase, or maintain the automatic data processing equipment. Now it clearly is not, although in fact it never was, within OMB's province to determine whether or not a given procurement is or is not one for automatic data processing equipment. The provisions of section 759, title 40, United States Code, apply of their own accord, so that when the question of the applicability of those provisions is before the General Services Board of Contract Appeals, it is to decide the question.

THE GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION BOARD OF CONTRACT APPEALS

The General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals (Board) has had jurisdiction over protests for nearly 21 months. The Board has been well tested in this interval, with nearly 300 protest actions filed. To date it has lived up to, and surpassed, the expectations expressed when the determination was made to grant it protest jurisdiction:

The conferees recognize that these provisions provide a unique and innovative method of handling protests of a highly technical and complex nature. The conferees believe that the Board is well equipped to provide timely resolution of conflicts between the procuring agencies and the suppliers of computer products and services. To avoid disrupting legitimate procurements, and especially to prevent protest actions taken in bad faith from interrupting contract performance, the Board is authorized to dismiss at any point in the process any protest action that it determines to be frivolous or which, on its face, does not state a valid basis for the protest. (H.R. Conf. Rept. No. 861, 98th Cong., 2d Sess. 1431 (1984).)

The "unique and innovative method of handling protests" involves the Board's de novo standard of review of contracting officer decisions questioned by interested parties alleging a violation of statute, regulation, or delegation of procurement authority. Further, the Board has permitted discovery to the extent necessary to assure that the record before it contains the relevant and pertinent facts necessary to properly decide the issues raised, all while rendering final decisions on initial protest actions on an average of approximately 20 working days, well below the statutory 45-working-day period. With the Board, vendors are far better assured that the Federal procurement system has treated them fairly and honestly, without the agency running slipshod over statutes and regulations, while agencies are better able to reap the benefits of competition.

Despite the soundness of the Board, and the benefits that have resulted from its involvement, additional safeguards are necessary to prevent the undermining of the Board's authority and jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction of the Board has been sharply contested because of determinations made by OMB that support service procurements were not covered by the Brooks Act. The Federal Circuit stated that under the language enacted in CICA, the Board has jurisdiction only over procurements actually conducted under the Brooks Act, not those that should have been, but were not.

In essence, the Federal Circuit has removed from the Board's jurisdiction in those instances where an agency ignores, or fails to act in accordance with, the tenets of the statute. A procurement is conducted under the authority of the Brooks Act by application of the Act, not by actions or inactions of an agency, particularly one which is a party to a protest. The statute has been amended to clarify this point. If a procurement is subject to the Brooks Act, then a bid protest concerning that procurement may be decided by the Board. Further, for purposes of resolving bid protests, the Board is expressly granted the authority to determine whether or not the Brooks Act is applicable to the given procurement. Hence, the Board has the most fundamental of powers, that to determine its own jurisdiction over a protest before it.

The amendments to the statute are also aimed at protecting the timeliness of the Board's protest decisions, while deterring dissatisfied agencies and interested parties from filing interlocutory appeals or actions for review. To this end, proceedings, decisions, and orders of the Board relating to protests are not subject to interlocutory appeal or review.

The importance of the Board's responsibilities continues to grow as the Federal Government enters into more contracts subject to the Board's protest authority. In conjunction with this, it is the intent of Congress that the refinements in the statute reveal that expanded authority has been placed in the Board, whose jurisdiction and functions shall be broadly construed so as to effectuate the purposes underlying the original grant of protest jurisdiction to it. Thus, the Board may issue orders and grant other relief in its decisions as may be necessary to ensure compliance with statutes and regulations that foster and require economy and efficiency, and full and open competition. This encompasses the Board's ability to revise procurement authority to order a contract, in whole or in part, terminated for the convenience of the Government, when the Board determines that such an action is in the best interests of the Government following a violation of statute, regulation, or delegation of procurement authority.

It is the continued intent of Congress that the Board be provided adequate resources to fulfill its important responsibilities.

SECTION BY SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 820 amends section 3520 of title 44 to authorize appropriations for OIRA for fiscal years 1987, 1988, and 1989 at a funding level of $5.5 million per year. The funds appropriated under this section must be used to carry out the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act, as amended, and for no other purpose. It also requires funds to be appropriated under a separate line item account expressly for the Office. Finally, it restricts the use of the funds appropriated under this section to functions that are specifically authorized or required by the Paperwork Reduction Act, as amended. For the purposes of this Act, the review of a rule or regulation by the Office is specifically authorized or required by the Act only to the extent that such review is for the sole purpose of reviewing an information collection request contained in or derived from such rule or regulation.

Section 821(a) amends section 110 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 757) to combine the existing Automatic Data Processing and Federal Telecommunications Funds into a consolidated Information Technology Fund to be administered by the Administrator of General Services. This section also authorizes the Administrator to enter into multiyear contracts for periods of up to 5 years, provided such procurements are fully competitive and that funds are available and adequate for the payments of the costs of such contracts for the first fiscal year. Section 821(b) amends statutes to conform with the consolidated information technology fund.

Section 822 is intended to clarify application of Section 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949. It adds a definition of automatic data processing equipment which provides an operationally effective way of evaluating when such equipment is to be acquired, used, or managed in accordance with the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act. As technology has evolved, the lines between automatic data processing equipment, communications, software, firmware, and other equipment related to the operation of automated systems and subsystems have become blurred. This definition is intended to clarify management and operational responsibilities over the full range of resources used in the creation and operations of automated systems and subsystems. It is important to note that this statutory definition reflects the merging of ADP and communications technologies. Inasmuch as technology continues to evolve rapidly, the statutory definition is intended to establish the automatic data processing resources which are included within the meaning of the section, while preserving for the Administrator of General Services the authority to modify the definition by the issuance of appropriate regulations as technologies further develop. ADP resources of a contractor or vendor of goods and services, including the acquisition, use, or management of such resources, is not covered by this section. Therefore, contractors and vendors are not required under this section to seek authority from GSA before they acquire ADPE goods and services.

Subsection 822(a)(2)(A) defines "automatic data processing equipment" (ADPE) to mean any equipment or interconnected system or subsystems of equipment that are used in the automatic acquisition, storage, manipulation, management, movement, control, display, switching, interchange, transmission, or reception of data or information, including communications. Except as otherwise provided by statute, all procurements of ADPE by Federal agencies are subject to section 111 of the Federal Property Act. Similarly, procurements of ADPE under contract with a Federal agency are also subject to the Act if the contract either requires the use of such equipment or requires the performance of a service or the furnishing of a product that is performed or produced making significant use of ADPE.

Subsection 822(a)(2)(B) specifically includes within the definition of automatic data processing equipment computers; ancillary equipment; software, firmware, and similar procedures; and services (including support services). In modern systems, commercially available software and/or firmware are often alternatives to hardware components. The term "services" includes services that provide support to the operation of such systems, including maintenance services, supplies, and services that create or maintain software or other similar procedures. Also included within the definition of automatic data processing equipment are related resources as defined in regulations to be issued by the Administrator of General Services. The intent of including these elements within the definition of automatic data processing equipment is to encourage Federal agencies to plan for and manage their information systems as entities, rather than separately managing elements of such systems.

Subsection 822(a)(3) specifically excludes from the definition of automatic data processing equipment acquired under a Federal contract that is incidental to the performance of a Federal contract; certain equipment not normally associated with automatic data processing (radar, sonar, radio, or television); certain automatic data processing equipment and services of the Department of Defense as described in 10 U.S.C. 2315; and automatic data processing equipment and services of the Central Intelligence Agency. Under section 111, the Administrator is authorized to issue regulations to establish circumstances where the authority to procure ADPE under this section is delegated automatically to the Departments and agencies. The Administrator has issued such regulations in the past, called the Federal Information Resource Management Regulations. It is intended that these regulations establish such thresholds and circumstances where automatic delegations will be made so as to focus GSA review only on the most important uses of ADPE.

Subsection 822(b) amends Section 111(b) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act to make clear that the Administrator of General Services has the authority to delegate the lease, purchase, or maintenance of automatic data processing equipment to agency senior officials who are designated pursuant to the Paperwork Reduction Act and to encourage him to make such delegations when a Federal agency meets certain requirements. Such delegations may be made where an agency senior official is determined by the Administrator to be sufficiently independent of program responsibility and to have sufficient experience, resources, and ability to carry out procurements in accordance with Section 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act. This will enable the Administrator to grant such authority for all procurements for a period of time rather than on a case-by-case basis. For example, delegation of such authority could be made on an annual basis for a designated organization under an approved acquisition plan. Such delegations would be limited to agencies that demonstrate viable planning and management of their use of automatic data processing equipment. These delegations should be limited principally to fully competitive procurements. Agencies that receive these delegations must remain in full compliance with the rules and regulations promulgated by the Administrator. Furthermore, any delegation would not preclude the Administrator from reviewing individual procurement requests or revoking a delegation entirely or with regard to a specific matter.

Section 825 clarifies the protest jurisdiction, authority, and status of the General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals (Board). It is the intent of this section to eliminate the misunderstandings created by Electronic Data Systems Federal Corp. v. General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals, 792 F.2d 1569 (Fed. Cir. 1986). Thus, with the amended language (1) the Board's protest jurisdiction extends to any procurement which is subject to the Brooks Act (40 U.S.C. 759), which includes those procurements subject to a delegation of procurement authority, (2) the Board expressly receives the authority to determine whether or not a procurement is subject to the Brooks Act (40 U.S.C. 759), and (3) proceedings, decisions, and orders of the Board issued pursuant to this subsection (40 U.S.C. 759(f)) are not subject to interlocutory appeal or review. Additionally, the Board's authority to review regulations to determine their consistency with applicable statutes is clarified. Further, when determining whether or not a protested procurement is subject to the Brooks Act (40 U.S.C. 759), while the Board may seek the comments of OMB or other agencies, including the General Services Administration and its Administrator, such comments are not binding upon the Board.

CURRENT RATE ACTIVITIES—LABOR/HHS/EDUCATION

Amendment No. 13: Deletes House language continuing funding at the current rate for the National Health Service Corps, Family Planning, and Adolescent Family Life programs, as proposed by the Senate. Funding for these programs was included in the conference report on H.R. 5233 (H. Rept. 99-960).

Amendment No. 14: Modifies language proposed by the House but deleted by the Senate relating to the level of funding for refugee programs provided by the resolution. This language clarifies that new funding is available for social services and education assistance in FY 1987 but that targeted assistance programs will be funded through carryover funds from FY 1986.

While new legislation for refugee and entrant assistance activities passed the House in May of 1985 and was reported to the Senate in June of 1985, the programs administered by the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) have been unauthorized since September 30, 1983. The conferees note with great distress that this is the fourth continuing resolution in which ORR has been funded. It is imperative that these programs be reauthorized in the next session of Congress. The conferees wish to make clear, however, that the continuing resolution provides sufficient funds to maintain all activities through September 30, 1987, including special assistance to Dade County schools and Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Previous funding for targeted assistance, including the fiscal year 1986 appropriation, will continue assistance through March, 1988. In view of the large carryover balance and the fiscal year 1987 budget constraints, the conferees have not appropriated any new monies for this activity. The conferees have added bill language which requires that funding available at the current rate for all activities other than education assistance for children and social services be reduced by the amounts of unexpended balances remaining from past appropriations.

The conferees want to make clear that the absence of fiscal year 1987 funding for this program shall not be interpreted as a lack of support or an absence of need for this program. Rather, it is an acknowledgement of the unique situation that exists this year. It is the intent of the conferees to revisit the funding of this activity during consideration of the fiscal year 1988 appropriations bill.

The bill also includes clarifying language to allow for the normal forward funding of the education assistance for children and social services programs.

The conferees continue to support the voluntary agency matching grant program. In view of the success of the matching grant program, it is the intent of the conferees that the size of the caseload participation in the program not be reduced and that the Federal match remain at its existing level of a $1,000 maximum per refugee matched on an equal basis by the private sector.

The conferees believe there is an urgent need to continue to address the problems confronted at the State and community level in carrying out cost-effective refugee resettlement programs. Therefore, of the funds made available to the Office of Refugee Resettlement the conferees urge the ORR to support a follow-on program to the earlier National Training Program for State coordinators in which elected and appointed State and community officials will be brought together at regional seminars to map out in a cooperative and coordinated way their plans for action.

Amendment No. 15: Deletes House language continuing funding at the current rate for Head Start, Dependent Care Block Grant, Native Americans Programs, Community Services Block Grant, Rehabilitation Services, Higher Education Activities, and Educational Research, as proposed by the Senate. Funding for these programs was included in the conference report on H.R. 5233 (H. Rept. 99-960).

The amendment restores House language with regard to activities authorized by the Follow Through Act.

Amendment No. 16: Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate amended to appropriate $9,500,000 to the Economic Development Administration and authorize the construction of a flood control project.

Amendment No. 17: Deletes House language continuing funding at the current rate for the Action agency and the United States Institute of Peace, as proposed by the Senate. Funding for these programs was included in the conference report on H.R. 5233 (H. Rept. 99-960).

Amendment No. 18: Deletes House language concerning the use of funds available to the Department of Defense for further development of planning and research for physical acoustics and related matter. A similar provision is included in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987, as set forth in amendment number 3.

LABOR/HHS/EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

Amendment No. 19: Reported in disagreement.

Amendment No. 20: Deletes House language prohibiting the implementation of a new formula for the feeding program for women, infants, and children (WIC) before October 1, 1987. A similar provision is agreed to and included in amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 21: Deletes House language providing for a one-year moratorium on prepayment of section 515 Farmers Home Administration housing loans unless such loan was made at least 20 years prior to the date of prepayment. A similar provision as agreed to and included as section 634 of amendment number 1. The provision as agreed to limits the moratorium until June 30, 1987, unless such loan was made at least 20 years prior to the date of prepayment or, for loans made before December 21, 1979, the Secretary makes a determination that a supply of adequate, comparable housing is available in the community, or that prepayment of such loans will not result in a substantial increase in rents to tenants in residence upon date of prepayment or displacement of such tenants.

Amendment No. 22: Deletes House language providing up to $600,000 of USDA commodities from inventory to complement Department of Defense support to the 10th International Pan American Games in Indianapolis, Indiana. A similar provision is agreed to and included as section 635 of amendment 1. The amendment was amended to delete the $600,000 limitation. The conferees expect the Department to provide an amount of surplus argriculture commodities as necessary to complement the support provided by the Department of Defense for this international event.

Amendment No. 23: Reported in true disagreement.

Amendment No. 24: Deletes House language providing that for each of the 1987 through 1990 crops, the Secretary may not deny a person status as a separate person solely on the grounds that a family member cosigns for, or makes a loan to, such person and leases, loans, or gives such person equipment, land or labor, if such family members were organized as separate units prior to December 31, 1985. A similar provision is agreed to and included as section 636 of amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 25: Deletes House language providing for a Rural Electrification Administration loan to the Choctaw Electric Cooperative. The conference agreement includes report language addressing the issue as part of amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 26: Deletes House language eliminating a $1,500 per child yearly tuition cap as an eligibility requirement for participation in the child nutrition school lunch program. The same language was agreed to and included in amendment number 120.

Amendment No. 27: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which would have extended the availability of certain EDA Local Public Works funds for New York City until March 31, 1988 if the total amount of such funds is not determined by October 15, 1986. The availability of these funds expires on September 30, 1987. This matter is included in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No. 28: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which would have permitted the SEDA-COG Joint Rail Authority, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania to sell portions of real property acquired in part with an EDA grant, and retain the proceeds so long as the proceeds are used in accordance with EDA criteria and such use is approved by EDA. This matter is included in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No. 29: Deletes House language concerning the establishment of the position of Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and the delineation of the duties of the Under Secretary. This issue is addressed in connection with the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987 as set forth in amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 30: Deletes House language concerning safeguarding of military whistleblowers. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 31: Deletes House language concerning the protection of contractor employees from reprisal for disclosure of certain information. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 32: Deletes House language concerning conflict of interest in defense procurement. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 33: Deletes House language concerning limitations on the use of Department of Defense funds for undefinitized contractual actions. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 34: Deletes House language concerning the establishment of a Defense Acquisition Corps. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 35: Deletes House language concerning a limitation on the use of Department of Defense funds for the overhaul of two nuclear submarines. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 36: Deletes House language concerning the transfer of $1,500,000 from operation and maintenance, defense agencies to the Department of Commerce for export administration activities. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 37: Deletes House language concerning the implementation of a demonstration project for the treatment of alcoholism comparing chemical aversion therapy with other treatments. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 38: Deletes House language appropriating $47,200,000 for the binary chemical program. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 39: Deletes House language preventing the Governors from withholding their consent allowing National Guard members to serve on active duty. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 40: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate relating to leasing facilities at Greers Ferry Lake of Little Red River, Arkansas. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 41: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate relation to the Northfield Mountain Water Supply Project, Massachusetts and the Millers and Tully Rivers Water Supply Project, Massachusetts. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 42: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate authorizing channel improvements at Jackson, Alabama. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 43: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate relating to the recovery of costs of drainage facilities or irrigation water distribution works in the Central Valley Project area. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 44: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate providing not less than $664,000,000 for defense waste and byproducts management. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

INTER-AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

Amendment No. 45: The conferees agree to delete the House provision. Funding for Callable Capital for the Bank is included in Amendment 6.

Amendment No. 46: Deletes language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate which earmarks $225,000 for, and requires the reopening and operation of, the HUD field office in Springfield, Illinois. Language prohibiting the closing of any HUD field office in 1987 and requiring the reopening and operation of any HUD field office closed in the past twelve months has been included in the conference agreement on H.R. 5313, the 1987 HUD-Independent Agencies Appropriations Act.

Amendment No. 47: Restores language proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate extending the cigarette fire safety study by six months, amended to change the section number.

Amendment No. 48: Appropriates no funds for restoration of the Roundhouse at Steamtown as proposed by the Senate instead of $5,000,000 as proposed by the House. Within Amendment No. 8 there is included $8,000,000 for this project.

Amendment No. 49: Deletes bill language proposed by the House which would prohibit changes in eligibility requirements for Part A grants during fiscal year 1987. This language is included in Amendment No. 8.

Amendment No. 50: Appropriates no funds for acquisition and curation of the Duke Ellington Collection as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,000,000 as proposed by the House. Within Amendment No. 8 there is included $500,000 for this purpose.

FEDERAL RETIREMENT SYSTEM COVERAGE FOR CERTAIN FOOD SERVICE WORKERS

Amendment No. 51: Provides retirement system protection for certain House restaurant system food service workers in the event such system is contracted out, as proposed by the House. The amendment to the Senate amendment changes the section number.

ELLSWORTH AFB, SOUTH DAKOTA

Amendment No. 52: Deletes language proposed by the House allowing for transfer of military construction funds to the Douglas School District near Ellsworth AFB, South Dakota. The Air Force may submit a reprogramming for this purpose, if necessary.

NAVIGATION SEASON EXTENSION

Amendment No. 53: Restores the House language amended by inserting a permanent provision requiring the Coast Guard to obtain prior approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations before participating in any demonstration of or other implementation of Great Lakes navigation season extension. For purposes of this section, the current Great Lakes navigation season ends January 8 of any year, plus or minus seven days. This prohibition does not preclude a short-term extension of the navigation season to accommodate emergency navigational problems or other emergency circumstances, such as search and rescue operations. This section also does not preclude necessary navigation assistance provided by the Coast Guard to commercial vessels and ferries in the interlake trade that do not transit the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

The House-passed provision arose, in part, out of concern that the Corps of Engineers was proceeding administratively to implement a proposal that had not been approved by Congress. The decision of the conferees to require the Coast Guard to secure approval of both the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations before it may proceed is designed to assert Congressional control over the implementation of this proposal. It does not represent a conclusion of the Conference Committee that the Corps of Engineers presently has authority to proceed with this project.

AUTOMATIC ALTITUDE REPORTING TRANSPONDERS

Amendment No. 54: Restores language proposed by the House requiring that, within 30 days of enactment, the Federal Aviation Administration shall initiate a rulemaking proceeding to consider the question of requiring the installation and carriage of automatic altitude reporting (Mode C) transponders in all aircraft.

INTESTATE HIGHWAY H-3

Amendment No. 55: Deletes language proposed by the House that allows construction to proceed on interstate highway H-3 in Hawaii.

Amendment No. 56: Inserts language proposed by the Senate that establishes as permanent law a provision allowing construction to proceed on interstate highway H-3 in Hawaii. The amendment to the Senate amendment changes the section number.

The conferees have adopted as a provision of permanent law a section directing construction to proceed to completion on a needed Interstate Highway in Hawaii which is included in the interstate cost estimate. There are no additional funds associated with this provision.

A recent decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals makes approval of this project impossible before the 1986 and 1990 deadlines for interstate construction. In reaching its decision, the court relied on a highly technical reading of Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act, designed to protect publicly owned parkland. In reality, no land from the park involved (Ho'omaluhia Park) has been, nor will be, taken or used by the highway. Indeed, the highway was planned and designed in conjunction with the park, and the park boundary was expanded to make use of the highway as a buffer zone that would forestall urban development around the park. Were it not for the extensive efforts of the State of Hawaii's highway planners, the park would not even exist. Section 4(f) as never intended to block the construction of a highway the design of which was specifically tailored to afford such special protection for parklands.

Additional studies and modifications that have been proposed would not result in any additional protection for the park and may, indeed, prove harmful. Other alternatives available for the highway are not prudent and/or feasible because they are either one or more of the following: (1) unsafe, (2) environmentally damaging, (3) much more expensive, or (4) unduly disruptive and costly to the local communities. Accordingly, the conferees find that there is no feasible and prudent alternative to the Common Boundary alignment for Interstate H-3 identified in the EIS/Section 4(f) statements previously approved by the Secretary of Transportation. In making this finding, the conferees have taken into account, among other factors, the extensive congressional hearings held in late 1985 and early 1986, in which the comprehensive studies and environmental planning conducted by the State of Hawaii were thoroughly considered and made a part of the record. The conferees have also taken into account, and concur with, the Ninth Circuit's findings that the planning for H-3 has complied with the National Environmental Policy Act, the Endangered Species Act, and all provisions of the Department of Transportation Act other than Section 4(f).

The conferees also take note of the fact that H-3 has been the subject of litigation for more than 14 years. During that time, construction costs have escalated substantially, and the people of Hawaii have been deprived of a much needed highway. It is the sense of the conferees that it is now time for litigation to be brought to a close and the highway to be built.

The conferees have also considered the fact that the Secretary of Transportation has required the State to adopt extensive project modifications and other environmental mitigation measures designed specifically to protect Section 4(f) properties. In that connection, the conferees have concluded that further administrative or judicial proceedings under Section 4(f) with respect to the Pali Golf Course would only result in even more unnecessary delay in the completion of this important highway project. The conferees are satisfied that the project modifications and mitigation measures already incorporated by the State of Hawaii into the design of the H-3 project fully comport with Congress' intent in enacting Section 4(f). Similarly, archeological sites, including but not limited to the Luluku Archeological Sites, will be reviewed under Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, where applicable, and the conferees intend that they not be subjected to review under Section 4(f).

This section therefore directs the Secretary of Transportation to approve the construction of the remaining 10.7 mile segment of H-3 in the location currently planned without administrative review pursuant to Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act and further directs that such construction shall proceed to completion.

HIGH OCCUPANCY VEHICLE RESTRICTIONS

The conferees are concerned about the current applications of High Occupancy Vehicles (HOV) restrictions in northern Virginia. For example, the HOV restrictions on Interstate Highway 66 were extended before the impact of Metro service along that corridor could be assessed. Further, the HOV lanes often appear to be underutilized at the beginning or end of the morning and evening rush hours. Therefore, the Secretary of Transportation is directed to study and report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by March 1, 1987, on the effect of the current HOV restrictions including the hours of operation and the number of passengers required for each vehicle. The study is to include both Interstate Highway 66 and Interstate Highway 395, the "Shirley Highway".

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

Amendment No. 57: Deletes language proposed by the House removing the absolute prohibition against a rail carrier acquiring an interest in a water carrier that operates through the Panama Canal.

Amendment No. 58: Deletes a provision proposed by the House regarding Tacoma, Washington. This provision is included as Section 524 of Amendment No. 12.

Amendment No. 59: Reported in disagreement.

Amendment No. 60: Reported in disagreement.

FEDERAL PAY RAISE AUTHORITY

Amendment No. 61: Restores language stricken by the Senate that provides authority for increasing civilian and military pay by three percent in lieu of the President's proposed increase of four percent for military personnel and two percent for civilian workers. This action is consistent with assumptions included in the fiscal year 1987 Congressional Budget Resolution.

Amendment No. 62: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding naming a building in Aiken, South Carolina. This provision is included as Section 525 of Amendment No. 12.

Amendment No. 63: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would provide for the acquisition of lands and development of a mainland tour boat facility for Fort Sumter National Monument, SC. This authorization is contained within Amendment No. 8.

Amendment No. 64: Deletes Senate language prohibiting the Secretary of Defense from contracting with contractor personnel of any functions performed by government personnel at McAlester Army Ammunition Plant and Crane Army Ammunition Activity. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

Amendment No. 65: Deletes language proposed by the Senate regarding the Central Utah Project. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 66: Deletes Senate language which would have made available up to $1,000,000 of the funds appropriated for the State Department's Foreign Buildings program for transfer to the National Bureau of Standards to conduct an analysis of the Moscow embassy office building. In addition the provision would have established certain reporting requirements for the National Bureau of Standards and the State Department and certain restrictions on the use of State Department funds. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is addressed in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No. 67: Deletes Senate language directing the Secretary of the Navy to reimburse Valerie S. Ford for travel and shipping expenses. This issue is addressed in connection with amendment number 3.

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTION CONCERNING ROMANIA

Amendment No. 68: Provides language proposed by the Senate that expresses opposition by the United States to the continued repression of religious, political and cultural freedom by the Government of Romania. The Senate amendment is amended to provide a new section number.

Amendment No. 69: Deletes Senate language requiring the payment by the Defense Department of a $200,000 claim to the City of Frederick, Maryland.

Amendment No. 70: Deletes language proposed by the Senate directing the Secretary of the Army to provide funds for the construction of a storage facility at Dam Site 18 of the Papillion Creek and Tributaries Lakes, Nebraska, project. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 71: Deletes language proposed by the Senate authorizing the construction of flood control structures at the Papillion Creek and Tributaries Lakes, Nebraska, project. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 72: Deletes Senate language concerning the use of funds available to the Department of Defense for further development of planning and research for physical acoustic and related matters and for advanced microelectronics design research. A similar provision is included in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1987, as set forth in amendment number 3.

MEDICARE REGIONAL REFERRAL CENTERS—WAIVERS

Amendment No. 73: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have modified section 1886 of the Society Security Act with respect to qualification of regional referral centers under the Medicare program. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees have deleted Senate language relating to a specific group of hospitals making applications under section 1886(d)(5)(C)(i) of the Social Security Act. These hospitals, located in States whose waivers under section 1886(c) of the Social Security Act or section 402 of the Social Security Amendments of 1967 and terminated on September 30, 1985 or December 31, 1985, are unduly prejudiced by existing regulations from making applications for regional referral centers under the Medicare Prospective Payment System. The conferees believe these hospitals should have every right to a determination with respect to reclassification as regional referral centers. Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary to immediately make determinations with respect to reclassification as regional referral centers based on available data for the period ending September 30, 1986 for the cost reporting period for fiscal year 1987.

AID TO FAMILIES WITH DEPENDENT CHILDREN (AFDC) DEMONSTRATIONS

Amendment No. 74: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have directed the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services to approve a demonstration project for Fresno County, California to promote employment of wage earners in families receiving assistance under the AFDC cash assistance program. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees have deleted Senate language directing the Secretary of Health and Human Services to approve a demonstration project in Fresno County, California. However, the conferees believe the project has merit as a testing ground for a new approach to the welfare problem and urge the Secretary to give Fresno County's application favorable consideration.

Amendment No. 75: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding certain pre-inspection activities. The INS portion of this amendment is addressed in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No. 76: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding the Tax Reform Act.

AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT REIMBURSEMENTS

Amendment No. 77: Deletes language proposed by the Senate permitting airports to expend private funds for development and to receive later reimbursement under certain conditions.

Amendment No. 78: Deletes Senate language which would have amended the Public Safety Officers Death Benefits Act to include coverage for members of public rescue squads or ambulance crews who were responding to a fire, rescue or police emergency. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is addressed in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No. 79: Deletes Senate language providing an increase of $500,000 in the amount for orphan drug product grants and contracts for the Food and Drug Administration and reducing by $500,000 the amount provided for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. A similar increase for orphan drug products is agreed to and is included in Amendment No. 1.

Amendment No. 80: Deletes Senate language allowing the Department of Defense to make payments to a hospital that obtains 12 percent or more of its operating funds from contributions and limits its care to the treatment of heart and lung conditins. This issue is addressed in connection with Amendment No. 3.

Amendment No. 81: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding designated statistical areas. This provision is included as Section 526 of Amendment No. 12.

USE OF SURPLUS CURRENCIES IN POLAND

Amendment No. 82: Provides language proposed by the Senate that stipulates that currencies held by the United States that have been generated by the sale to Poland of U.S. surplus dairy products, may be used for the construction and renovation of projects for the benefit of handicapped and orphaned children. The projects are to be undertaken under the auspices of the Charitable Commission to the Polish Catholic Episcopate.

The amendment to the Senate amendment provides for a change in section number.

Amendment No. 83: Includes a modification to language proposed by the Senate concerning reciprocal use of defense articles. The modified language requires that the reciprocal use of defense articles be for one year, for one country and subject to regular notification procedures.

The amendment also includes a new section number.

Amendment No. 84: Deletes a Senate provision which would have authorized the Small Business Administration to recognize costs incurred before December 16, 1980 by a small business development center at the University of Georgia as allowable costs chargeable to a FY 1981 cooperative agreement, provided such costs were incurred after October 1, 1979 and have not been reimbursed from non-Federal sources. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is included in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No 85: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding an annuity for a former Senator. This provision is included as Section 527 of Amendment No. 12.

Amendment No 86: Deletes the Senate language expressing a sense of Congress that the President at the Iceland summit should seek a resolution with the USSR regarding the USSR's obligation to purchase wheat under the 1983 Long Term Grain Agreement. The conferees support the intention of the amendment, but the Iceland summit has been completed.

Amendment No 87: Deletes Senate language amending the Food Stamp Act to provide that the dependent care deduction used in computing income eligibility for food stamps for households containing an elderly or disabled member be the same as deductions for other households, which is $160 per month. The same provision is agreed to and included as section 638 in amendment number 1.

TOLL DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS

Amendment No 88: Deletes language proposed by the Senate authorizing four projects in the States of Florida and Georgia to demonstrate the feasibility and practicality of construction of toll highways to meet capacity needs in high growth areas.

Amendment No 89: Deletes a Senate provision which would have required the Federal Trade Commission to submit a report to the House and Senate Commerce Committees every six months during FY 1987 containing certain information on predatory pricing. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is addressed in Amendment No. 2.

Amendment No 90: Deletes language proposed by the Senate providing for a transition from control by the Bureau of Indian Affairs to control by a Board of Regents of the Institute of American Indian Arts. This provision is included in Amendment No. 8.

Amendment No. 91: Deletes language proposed by the Senate rescinding and appropriating funds for the Hazardous Substance Response Trust Fund. Language rescinding and appropriating funds for the Superfund program has been included in the conference agreement on H.R. 5313, the 1987 HUD-Independent Agencies Appropriations Act.

Amendment No. 92: Deletes Senate language relieving members of marketing pools for Valencia peanuts from the requirement to contribute any of their pool's profits to the Commodity Credit Corporation to cover any losses on quota peanuts in other pools in other regions of the country. The same provision is agreed to and included as section 639 of amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 93: Deletes a provision proposed by the Senate regarding an amendment of the Internal Revenue Code.

UNMANNED RADAR UNITS

Amendment No. 94: Inserts language proposed by the Senate authorizing the Secretary of Transportation to examine the feasibility of unmanned radar units for safety purposes on the I-75 corridor in Kenton County, Kentucky. The amendment to the Senate amendment changes the section number.

Amendment No. 95: Deletes Senate language amending the Community Economic Development Act of 1981 to allow the transfer of loans made from the Rural Development Loan Fund to a non-profit corporation. The same provision was agreed to and included as section 640 of amendment number 1.

CONDITIONS ON ASSISTANCE TO BOLIVIA

Amendment No. 96: Provides for language proposed by the Senate which provides that conditions on assistance to Bolivia be based on provisions included in the Omnibus Drug Enforcement, Education and Control Act of 1986.

The amendment to the Senate amendment provides for a new section number.

CONNECTICUT HOSPICE WAIVER

Amendment No. 97: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have granted a waiver of certain requirements of the Social Security Act for the Connecticut Hospice. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees have deleted without prejudice Senate language which would have amended the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 to permanently waive the 80/20 home care to inpatient days ratio and impose a new 50/50 ratio for the Connecticut Hospice. This issue is currently being considered by the authorizing committees. Specifically, this provision is included in H.R. 1868, the Medicare Fraud and Abuse Bill, as reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee. It also is currently an issue in conference on H.R. 5300, the Reconciliation Bill.

The conferees agree that this facility is in a unique situation. It is the oldest hospice in the nation and was in existence before the hospice-related Medicare law was enacted. Moreover, it is the only hospice in the country to provide inpatient services for an entire State. The conferees urge the authorizing committees to carefully consider the exceptional status of this facility in the long term resolution of this issue.

Amendment No. 98: Deletes language proposed by the Senate proposing to return control of U.S. Forest Service lands to the Department of Energy. The proposed amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 99: Deletes Senate language amending the Food Security Act of 1985 to extend authorization for the nonprofit national rural development and finance corporation for fiscal year 1987 and providing that $20,000,000 in guaranteed loans for the national rural development and finance program remain available until expended. The same provision was agreed to and included as section 641 of amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 100: Deletes a Senate provision which would have expressed the sense of the Senate concerning unauthorized retransmissions of U.S. TV programming signals in Canada. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

WORK INCENTIVES DEMONSTRATIONS

Amendment No. 101: Inserts language proposed by the Senate with respect to Work Incentives (WIN) demonstration projects and changes section number. This amendment amends the Social Security Act to establish a State application deadline for WIN demonstration projects of June 30, 1987 and to extend the duration of all projects to June 30, 1988. Under current law the projects would cease on June 30, 1987. The House bill contained no similar provision.

Amendment No. 102: Deletes a Senate provision which would have amended 18 U.S.C. 2516(2) to permit wiretapping by state law enforcement officials in certain hostage taking situations. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

Amendment No. 103: Deletes language proposed by the Senate that disapproves uranium enrichment criteria. Action on this amendment has been incorporated into amendment number 5.

Amendment No. 104: Delete language proposed by the Senate extending the period for the commenement of construction under the housing development program. That language has been included in the conference agreement on H.R. 5313, the 1987 HUD-Independent Agencies Appropriations Act.

Amendment No. 105: Deletes a Senate provision which would have amended chapter 11 of title 11 of the Bankruptcy Code to require that retired former employees under a medical or hospital insurance plan established by a debtor prior to filing a bankruptcy petition shall be paid benefits under such plan until May 15, 1987. The provision would have established certain other requirements and would have provided that this section shall not apply during any period in which a case is subject to chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is included in Amendment No. 2.

MEDICAID WAIVER—MEDICAL UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Amendment No. 106: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have amended title XIX of the Social Security Act to require payment of a disputed Medicaid claim related to the Medical University of South Carolina. The House bill contained no similar provision.

While the conference has not adopted statutory language proposed by the Senate, the conferees direct the Administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration to carefully review the University's appeal of this matter in light of the unique nature of this claim. This dispute relates solely to a nine month period of FY 1985 during which all parties appear to have acted in good faith. The conferees believe that this fact should be taken into consideration when the Administrator makes his final decision.

Amendment No. 107: Deletes a Senate provision which would have required all telephones sold, rented or distributed by any other means in the U.S. after July 1, 1987 to be hearing-aid compatible as defined in FCC regulations. The language provided that this requirement would not apply to any telephone manufactured before July 1, 1987 or which is not required to be registered under 47 C.F.R. 68. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

CONGRESSIONAL OFFICE EQUIPMENT

Amendment No. 108: Inserts language proposed by the Senate regarding reimbursement by the Senate to the General Supply Fund for the cost of equipment (including furniture, furnishings, and office equipment) purchased for the Senate, amended to include provision for the House of Representatives, and to change a section number.

Amendment No. 109: Includes Senate language amending the Agricultural Act of 1949 regarding the basis for computation of emergency compensation under the 1986 crop wheat program. No similar provision was contained in the House bill.

Deletes Senate language amending the Conservation Reserve progarm to allow alfalfa and other multi-year grasses and legumes in rotation, as approved by the Secretary, to be considered agricultural commodities. This same amendment is agreed to and included as section 643 in amendment number 1.

Deletes Senate language amending the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act with respect to local administrative areas for ASCS county committees. This same provision is agreed to and included as section 645 in amendment no. 1.

PHILIPPINES

Amendment No. 110: The conferees agree to delete the Senate provision. Funding for the Philippines has been included in Amendment No. 6. The conferees agree in Amendment No. 6 to an earmark of not less than $200 million additional for the Philippines in Economic Support Funds.

Amendment No. 111: Deletes Senate language providing for the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities to the Philippines, certain African countries, India and Bangladesh. An amended version of this provision is included as section 646 of amendment number 1.

Amendment No. 112: Deletes language proposed by the Senate extending the term of certain geothermal leases and providing a protection plan for thermal resources in certain National Parks. The provisions of this amendment are included within Amendment No. 8.

REVIEW OF FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT

Amendment No. 113: Includes a modification to language proposed by the Senate concerning the review of the Foreign Assistance Act. The modified language provides that the President's recommendation concerning the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 is to be forwarded to the Committees on Appropriations, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The amendment also includes a new section number.

Amendment No. 114: Inserts language proposed by the Senate which amends D.C. Code, section 21-502, by requiring that eight of the nine members of the District of Columbia Commission on Mental Health be health care professionals who are psychiatrists or doctoral level psychologists. Existing law requires that eight members be physicians. The amendment to the Senate amendment changes the section number.

Amendment No. 115: Deletes language proposed by the Senate mandating an agreement between EPA and the State of Arkansas to provide an on-site state inspector at the Ensco Incinerator in El Dorado, Arkansas, to ensure compliance with PCB regulations.

Amendment No. 116: Deletes language proposed by the Senate authorizing land acquisition and increased funding for the New River Gorge National River; providing for certain desert land entries; authorizing a memorial to Women in Military Service; and authorizing the establishment of a memorial to Black Revolutionary War Patriots. All of the authorizations except that for desert land entry are included within Amendment No. 8.

Amendment No. 117: Reported in disagreement.

TITLE II—OMNIBUS DRUG SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS ACT OF 1987

Amendment No. 118: House recedes. Deletes proposed supplemental appropriations for drug enforcement. Funds for this are provided by amendment number 119.

Amendment No. 119: The conferees have agreed to provide $1,666,251,000 in new budget authority in lieu of $2,099,741,000 as proposed by the House and $1,549,215,000 as proposed by the Senate. These funds are in addition to the ongoing levels of funding provided in the regular appropriations bills to combat the national crisis of drug abuse.

The widespread use of illegal drugs and the detrimental effect this is having on society was amply documented during the debates on the "Omnibus Drug Enforcement, Education, and Control Act of 1986" (H.R. 5484) in both the House and the Senate.

It is the conferees' firm belief that increased awareness and dollars alone will not be enough to fight the drug battle—we must have a coordinated effort and overall plan within the government.

The conferees call attention to section 107 of Public Law 99-464:

DRUG COORDINATION PLAN

□ SEC. 107. Pending the enactment of the Omnibus Drug Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1987, contained as Title II of the fiscal year 1987 Continuing Appropriations Act of 1987 (H.J. Res. 738), the President or his designee shall, out of the $1,200,000,000 made available for drug abuse prevention programs by House Joint Resolution 738 and continued by this resolution and in the regular appropriations bills for the fiscal year 1987, with the cooperation of those presently engaged in this effort in the executive departments, Members of Congress and others experienced in the field of law enforcement, use $100,000 to develop an overall drug abuse prevention plan that coordinates the government's efforts in combating the widespread use of illegal drugs: Provided, That this plan shall be presented to the Congress no later than January 1, 1987.

The following table shows the amounts that are provided in the conference agreement:

CHAPTER I—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

LEGAL ACTIVITIES

UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $31,000,000 for the United States Attorneys. These resources will provide for additional Assistant United States Attorneys and supporting staff to prosecute the drug law enforcement cases that will be generated as a result of the additional Federal investigative resources provided in this title.

UNITED STATES MARSHALS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $17,000,000 for the United States Marshals. These resources will provide for Deputy United States Marshals and support costs to handle the additional United States prisoners anticipated as a result of the additional Federal investigative and prosecutive resources provided in this title.

SUPPORT OF UNITED STATES PRISONERS

The conference agreement provides $5,000,000 for the support of prisoners in non-Federal institutions to meet the substantial increase in Federal prisoners and detainees anticipated due to the additional Federal investigative and prosecutive resources provided in this title.

ASSETS FORFEITURE FUND

The conference agreement provides such sums as are necessary from the Department of Justice Assets Forfeiture Fund for expenses authorized by 28 U.S.C. 524, as amended by the Comprehensive Forfeiture Act of 1984 and the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1986 as passed the House of Representatives on October 8, 1986 or similar legislation if enacted into law.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $2,000,000 to continue the fieldwide installation of digital voice privacy radios.

DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $60,000,000 for Salaries and Expenses for the Drug Enforcement Administration. These funds are allocated as follows:

$8,000,000 and 218 positions for domestic field staff to combat increased cocaine trafficking;

$9,000,000 and 65 positions for expanding DEA Foreign Cooperative Investigations and enhancing DEA's intelligence gathering capabilities;

$20,000,000 and 241 positions for expanding the Diversion Control Program;

$10,000,000 and 94 positions for expanding DEA State and local task forces; and $13,000,000 for DEA air operations including $6,400,000 for purchasing two turbo prop aircraft, $2,000,000 for purchasing one helicopter for drug eradication efforts in Hawaii and $4,600,000 and 11 positions for support of the DEA airwing.

FEDERAL PRISON SYSTEM

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $28,000,000 for Salaries and Expenses. Of this amount $21,000,000 is for the care and custody costs associated with the increase in the number of inmates in Federal penal institutions and $7,000,000 is for 400 additional correctional officer positions to handle the substantial increase in the number of inmates in Federal prisons expected as a result of the additional investigative and prosecutive resources provided in this title.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conference agreement provides $96,500,000 for the Buildings and Facilities account including $90,000,000 for design and construction of two new Federal prisons to relieve the severe overcrowding that exists in the Federal Prison System.

OFFICE OF JUSTICE PROGRAMS

JUSTICE ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement provides $225,000,000 for grants for State and local drug law enforcement programs as authorized by title I of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended by H.R. 5484 as passed the House of Representatives on October 8, 1986 or similar legislation if enacted into law. Of this amount $2,000,000 is available to carry out a pilot prison capacity program.

THE JUDICIARY

COURTS OF APPEALS, DISTRICT COURTS, AND OTHER JUDICIAL SERVICES

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $12,000,000 for contractual services and expenses relating to the supervision of Federal drug and alcohol dependent offenders, as authorized by the Drug and Alcohol Dependent Offenders Treatment Act of 1986 as passed the House of Representatives on October 8, 1986 or similar legislation if enacted into law. This amount includes the necessary resources to provide treatment for the expected increase in the number of offenders resulting from additional Federal drug law prosecutions.

DEFENDER SERVICES

The conference agreement provides $18,000,000 for the operation of the Federal public defender and community defender organizations and the compensation, reimbursement and expenses of attorneys appointed to represent persons under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, as amended. These resources are provided in anticipation of increased demands which will be placed upon this appropriation as a result of expanded Federal investigative and prosecutive efforts during fiscal year 1987.

FEES OF JURORS AND COMMISSIONERS

The conference agreement provides $7,500,000 for fiscal year 1987 for the compensation of jury commissioners and for the fees and allowances of grand and petit jurors anticipated to be required as a result of the additional Federal investigative and prosecutive resources that are provided in this title.

RELATED AGENCY

UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $2,000,000 for the United States Information Agency for drug education programs abroad.

CHAPTER II—FOREIGN ASSISTANCE

BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

EDUCATION AND HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

The conferees agree to provide $3,000,000 for the Education account to be used for additional activities aimed at increasing awareness of the effects of production and trafficking of illicit narcotics on source and transit countries.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

INTERNATIONAL NARCOTICS CONTROL

The conferees agree to provide an additional $53,000,000 for International Narcotics Control, as proposed by the Senate. The House has proposed an additional $35,000,000.

CHAPTER III—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM

Appropriates $1,000,000 to supplement ongoing efforts to eradicate drug cultivation, sale, distribution, and use within the Park system. The funds will support surveillance, undercover operations, and increased patrols.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

Appropriates an additional $10,000,000 for substance abuse and alcoholism prevention activities. The managers are in agreement on the following allocation of funds:

Education:
Curriculum development and materials	$3,000,000
Additional school counselors	2,400,000
Tribal government services: Judicial training	1,000,000
Law enforcement:
Training	3,000,000
Model Juvenile Code	100,000
Grant to Papago tribe	500,000
Total:	$10,000,000

CONSTRUCTION

Appropriates an additional $12,500,000 for construction. Included is $5,000,000 for planning and design, construction and renovation of emergency shelters of halfway houses to provide emergency care for Indian youth. There is also $7,500,000 for construction or renovation of juvenile detention centers, consistent with the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICES

Funding of $3,000,000 is provided for staffing of regional youth detoxification facilities; $9,000,000 for rehabilitation and follow-up services to Indian youth; $4,000,000 for community education and training; and $200,000 for an alcoholism program for adult Navajo Indians in Gallup, NM.

INDIAN HEALTH FACILITIES

For Indian health facilities, $5,500,000 is provided for the construction of detoxification facilities for Indian youth.

CHAPTER IV—DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

DEPARTMENTAL MANAGEMENT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $3,000,000 for the collection of information and the conduct of research on drugs in the workplace. This shall include information on the incidence of drug abuse and efforts to assist workers, including counseling, rehabilitation and employee assistance programs. The Secretary shall conduct such additional research as is necessary to assess the impact and extent of drug abuse and remediation efforts. The findings of such collection and research are to be submitted to the appropriate committees of Congress no later than September 30, 1988.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE, AND MENTAL HEALTH ADMINISTRATION

ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE AND MENTAL HEALTH

The conference agreement includes $262,000,000 for substance abuse prevention and treatment programs administered by the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration. The House resolution included $281,000,000 for activities administered by this agency and the Senate resolution contained $269,000,000. The conference agreement includes the following amounts:

Grants to States and local governments	$200,000,000
Federal project grants and demonstrations	28,000,000
Drug abuse research	27,000,000
Alcohol research	3,000,000

Information clearinghouse and evaluation studies.....	3,000,000
Insurance coverage study...	1,000,000

The $200,000,000 agreed to for grants to States and local governments will support the development of new or expanded efforts to prevent substance abuse as well as an increased capacity to treat substance abusers. While the agreement appropriates these funds under various existing authorities of the Public Health Service Act, the conferees are aware that authorizing legislation is currently pending before the Congress which would significantly alter these titles. Should these changes become law, the conferees direct that funds be allocated among the States based on the new provisions. In the absence of such statutory authority, however, the conferees direct that the Administrator distribute funds to States and local authorities on a formula basis taking into account the size of the at-risk population, the current need for treatment capacity and relative per capita income.

The conferees have agreed to an additional $27,000,000 for drug abuse research and $3,000,000 for alcohol research. These amounts are in addition to the $80,000,000 for drug research and $66,075,000 for alcohol research included in the regular fiscal year 1987 appropriations bill. Together these programs have been increased by more than $56 million over last year's funding levels. While fully supportive of this increase, the conferees want to stress the importance of maintaining quality standards in these programs. In order to facilitate a more orderly and productive expansion, the conference agreement provides that these funds, as well as other new monies provided in this account, remain available until September 30, 1988.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $200,000,000 to provide Federal assistance to States for programs of drug abuse education and prevention at the State level, in elementary and secondary schools, through community-based organizations, and at institutions of higher education.

States apply to the Secretary of Education for funds. Funds may be used for development, acquisition, dissemination, and implementation of model curricula, for demonstration projects, for training and for technical assistance. States must assure that funds will only be given to local educational agencies that have mandatory drug abuse education and prevention programs.

Funds are made available to local or intermediate educational agencies or consortia. Allowable activities include development and acquisition of curricula, counseling, referral, training, prevention, early intervention programs, and education programs including programs for parents. Children and teachers from non-profit private schools may also participate.

Grants and contracts would be awarded to institutions of higher education (including community and junior colleges) on a competitive basis. The Secretary would be required to give appropriate consideration to colleges and universities which have limited enrollment. Funds would be available to institutions for the purposes of training, summer institutes and workshops, research and development and exemplary programs, and programs for law enforcement officials, community leaders, parents, and government officials.

RELATED AGENCY

ACTIONS

OPERATING EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $3,000,000 for public awareness and education activities with respect to drug abuse. The Action agency will work with religious, business, service and civic groups to increase public awareness about the health consequences of illegal drugs and expand drug prevention activities through the use of volunteers, private sector initiatives, and public/private partnerships. With the Federal sector acting as a catalyst, private sector support for drug use prevention will be strengthened.

Of the $3,000,000 provided, the conferees are agreed that $200,000 may be used for administrative expenses related to drug abuse activities.

CHAPTER V—DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

COAST GUARD

OPERATING EXPENSES

Appropriates $39,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $59,000,000 as proposed by the House.

ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION, AND IMPROVEMENTS

Appropriates $89,000,000 instead of $59,000,000 as proposed by the House and $119,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes the following amounts:

Bahamian docking facility	$5,000,000
Two C-130's.....	38,000,000
Cutters.....	35,000,000
Secure communications.....	11,000,000

RESERVE TRAINING

Deletes appropriation of $9,000,000 proposed by the House. The Seante resolution contained no funds for this program.

FEDERAL HIGWAY ADMINISTRATION

MOTOR CARRIER SAFETY GRANTS

(HIGHWAY TRUST FUND)

Deletes appropriation of $30,000,000 proposed by the Senate. The House resolution contained no funds for this program.

CHAPTER VI—DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY

U.S. CUSTOMS SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees have provided an additional $44,120,000 for salaries and expenses. The conferees direct the Customs Service to us these additional personnel in the manner which most effectively combats the smuggling of illegal drugs into this country.

The conferees believe that the high level of drug abuse and related crime in this country requires a strong law enforcement effort to stem the tide of illicit drugs coming into the United States. The conferees expect this appropriation to have a significant and positive impact on the government's ability to interdict the flow of illegal drugs and other contraband into the country.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, AIR INTERDICTION PROGRAM

The conferees have provided an additional $93,131,000 for the operation and maintenance of the air interdiction program.

The conferees believe strongly that the Customs Service should retain control of the command, control, communications, and intelligence (C-31) centers as discussed in Senate Report 99-406 and have provided sufficient funds to initiate the establishment of at least four such centers in fiscal year 1987. The conferees also believe that the Customs Service needs to enhance the capabilities of its fleet of P-3 aircraft by retrofitting up to two such aircraft with 360-degree radar in fiscal year 1987, especially in view of the serious shortage of surveillance assets on the southwest border. Therefore, the conferees have recommended funding sufficient to accomplish both of these important elements of the Customs drug interdiction program and expect full reports to the Committees on Appropriations regarding the agency's progress in carrying out these directives.

The conferees believe it is absolutely essential to increase and improve the ability of the U.S. Customs Service to conduct comprehensive drug interdiction surveillance along the drug-prone southwest border. To achieve this end, the conferees direct the Navy to transfer to the U.S. Customs Service, the four refurbished E-2C Hawkeye surveillance aircraft, authorized in accordance with the terms and conditions contained in H.R. 5484, as amended by the Senate and passed by the Senate on September 30, 1986.

CUSTOMS FORFEITURE FUND

The conferees have provided an additional $10,000,000 for the Customs Forfeiture Fund.

Public Law 98-473 and Public Law 98-573 authorized Customs to establish a Customs Forfeiture Fund. Seized and forfeited currency and any proceeds beyond the expenses of seizure and forfeiture of merchandise are deposited into this account. Use of these funds is limited to the following: (1) expenses related to seizure; (2) awards to informants; (3) payments of liens related to seizures; (4) equipping forfeited vessels, vehicles, and aircraft; (5) payment of claims of parties of interest to property disposed; (6) purchase of evidence; and (7) destruction of drugs.

U.S. SECRET SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees have provided $5,000,000 for the Secret Service. These funds will be used for more rapid implementation of the voice privacy program. This program insures that the latest technology is used in the Secret Service communications network to prevent the monitoring of Secret Service communications. The House passed bill provided no funds for this program.

PAYMENT TO THE GOVERNMENT OF PUERTO RICO

The conferees have provided $7,800,000 for grants to the Government of Puerto Rico to assist in the interdiction of illegal narcotics into the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

The conferees have provided $3,300,000 for the purchase of two helicopters; $3,500,000 for the purchase of an aircraft and $1,000,000 for the purchase and maintenance of five high speed vessels.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON DRUG ABUSE AND CONTROL

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees have provided $5,000,000 for the Conference. The purposes of this Conference are (1) to increase public awareness of, and to focus attention on, various aspects of the problems of drug abuse and control (including issues of enforcement of controlled substances laws and of prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation of drug abusers); (2) to pool information and experiences in order vigorously and directly to attack drug abuse at all levels—local, State, Federal, and international; and (3) to assist in formulating a national strategy (encompassing international, Federal, State, and local activities) to control trafficking in controlled substances and to prevent and treat drug abuse.

CHAPTER VII—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

For the Defense Department portion of the Omnibus Drug Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1987, the conferees agree to provide an appropriation of $300,000,000.

The conferees agree to provide $300,000,000 to support drug interdiction efforts by the Department of Defense in conjunction with other federal government agencies. The agreement funds procurement and modification of long-range surveillance aircraft equipped with 360 degree radar, and procurement of helicopters and aerostat radar. In addition, funds are available to transfer Air Force helicopters to meet southwestern U.S. drug concerns and to support the Coast Guard Tactical Law Enforcement Teams Program.

All of the equipment funded shall be provided to other federal agencies as determined by the President or his designee in association with the Administration's drug awareness and interdiction program. Equipment provided to civilian agencies shall revert to the Department of Defense in the event of war.

Funding is as follows:

Program	Millions
Procurement and Modification of aircraft	$183.0
Aerostat Radar	71.385
Helicopters	18.0
Helicopter Transfer	12.615
TACLETS	15.0

CIVIL AIR PATROL

The conferees note that the Senate-passed Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1986 included a provision directing the use of $7,000,000 of prior year defense funds to acquire major items of equipment needed by the Civil Air Patrol for drug interdiction surveillance and reporting missions. The conferees support this provision and direct the Air Force to make $7,000,000 available for such purposes.

TITLE III

Amendment No. 120: The conference agreement includes the Senate amendments to the school lunch and child nutrition programs and further amends the language to include the provisions of amendment number 26 which removes the cap on yearly tuition for participation by private schools.

TITLE IV

Amendment No. 121: Deletes a Senate provision which would have authorized the James Madison Fellowship Program and appropriated $20,000,000, to be available on October 1, 1987, to implement it. The House bill contained no provision on this item. This matter is addressed in Amendment No. 2.

TITLE V—AVIATION SAFETY COMMISSION

Amendment No. 122: Appropriates $2,000,000 as proposed by the Senate to establish an Aviation Safety Commission. The conference agreement modifies the Senate language by requiring the Aviation Safety Commission to perform an additional 18-month investigation of Federal Aviation Administration employee and management relationships.

TITLE VI—NATIONAL COMMISSION TO PREVENT INFANT MORTALITY

Amendment No. 123: Deletes title VI proposed by the Senate which would have established a National Commission to Prevent Infant Mortality and authorized an appropriation of $1,000,000. The House bill contained no similar provision.

METROPOLITAN WASHINGTON AIRPORTS

Amendment No. 124: Reported in disagreement.

ACQUIRED IMMUNE DEFICIENCY SYNDROME (AIDS)

Amendment No. 125: Deletes language proposed by the Senate which would have added a new title VIII to the resolution authorizing the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome Service Coordination Act of 1986. The proposed title also would have included a section regarding the District of Columbia which would have voided D.C. Law 6-170 which prohibits health and life insurance companies from denying coverage to persons who test positive for exposure to the AIDS virus. The House bill contained no similar provision.

ACROSS-THE-BOARD-CUT

Amendment No. 126: The conference agreement deletes language proposed by the House that would have offset the FY 1987 cost of the Omnibus Drug Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1987 by an across-the-board cut applied to all new discretionary accounts.

SSI IMPROVEMENT AMENDMENTS OF 1986

Mr. ROSTENKOWSKI. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 5595) to make permanent and improve the provisions of section 1619 of the Social Security Act, which authorizes the continued payment of SSI benefits to individuals who work despite severe medical impairment; to amend such act to require concurrent notification of eligibility for SSI and Medicaid benefits and notification to certain disabled SSI recipients of their potential eligibility for benefits under such section 1619; to provide for a GAO study of the effects of such section's work incentive provisions; and for other purposes with Senate amendments thereto and concur in the Senate amendments with an amendment.

The Clerk read the Senate amendments and the House amendment to the Senate amendments, as follows:

Senate amendments: strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Employment Opportunities for Disabled Americans Act".

SEC. 2. PERMANENT AUTHORIZATION OF PROGRAM OF BENEFITS UNDER SECTION 1619.

Section 201(d) of the Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 1382h note) is amended by striking out ", but shall remain in effect only through June 30, 1987".

SEC. 3. ELIGIBILITY OF CERTAIN DISABLED OR BLIND INDIVIDUALS FOR BENEFITS DURING INITIAL TWO MONTHS IN CERTAIN INSTITUTIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1611(e)(1) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1382(e)(1)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A) by striking out "and (D)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(D), and (E)"; and

(2) in subparagraph (B) by inserting "(subject to subparagraph (E))" after "shall be payable"; and

(3) by adding at the end thereof the following new subparagraphs:

"(E) Notwithstanding subparagraphs (A) and (B), any individual who—

"(i)(I) is an inmate of a public institution, the primary purpose of which is the provision of medical or psychiatric care, throughout any month as described in subparagraph (A), or

"(II) is in a hospital, extended care facility, nursing home, or intermediate care facility throughout any month as described in subparagraph (B),

"(ii) was eligible under section 1619 (a) or (b) for the month preceding such month, and

"(iii) under an agreement of the public institution or the hospital, extended care facility, nursing home, or intermediate care facility is permitted to retain any benefit payable by reason of this subparagraph, may be an eligible individual or eligible spouse for purposes of this title (and entitled to a benefit determined on the basis of the rate applicable under subsection (b)) for the month referred to in subclause (I) or (II) of clause (i) and, if such subclause still applies, for the succeeding month.

"(F) An individual who is an eligible individual or an eligible spouse for a month by reason of subparagraph (E) shall not be treated as being eligible under section 1619 (a) or (b) for such month for purposes of clause (ii) of such subparagraph.".

(b) MEDICAID STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—Section 1902 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396a) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(l) Notwithstanding any provision of subsection (a) to the contrary, a State plan under this title shall provide that any supplemental security income benefits paid by reason of section 1611(e)(1)(E) to an individual who—

"(1) is eligible for medical assistance under the plan, and

"(2) is in a hospital, skilled nursing facility, or intermediate care facility at the time such benefits are paid, will be disregarded for purposes of determining the amount of any post-eligibility contribution by the individual to the cost of the care and services provided by the hospital, skilled nursing facility, or intermediate care facility.".

SEC. 4. IMPROVEMENTS TO SECTION 1619 PROGRAM.

(a) CASH BENEFITS.—Section 1619(a) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1382h(a)) is amended to read as follows:

"(a)(1) Any individual who was determined to be an eligible individual (or eligible spouse) by reason of being under a disability and was eligible to receive benefits under section 1611 (or a federally administered State supplementary payment) for a month and whose earnings in a subsequent month exceed the amount designated by the Secretary ordinarily to represent substantial gainful activity shall qualify for a monthly benefit under this subsection for such subsequent month (which shall be in lieu of any benefit under section 1611) equal to an amount determined under section 1611(b)(1) (or, in the case of an individual who has an eligible spouse, under section 1611(b)(2)), and for purposes of title XIX shall be considered to be receiving supplemental security income benefits under this title, for so long as—

"(A) such individual continues to have the disabling physical or mental impairment on the basis of which such individual was found to be under a disability; and

"(B) the income of such individual, other than income excluded pursuant to section 1612(b), is not equal to or in excess of the amount which would cause him to be ineligible for payments under section 1611 and such individual meets all other non-disability-related requirements for eligibility for benefits under this title.

"(2) The Secretary shall make a determination under paragraph (1)(A) with respect to an individual not later than 12 months after the first month for which the individual qualifies for a benefit under this subsection.".

(b) CONTINUING BENEFITS UNDER TITLE XIX.—Section 1619(b) of such Act is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1) by striking out "continues to meet" and inserting in lieu thereof "meets",

(2) in paragraph (4) by striking out "benefits under this title and title XIX" and inserting in lieu thereof "benefits under this title (including any federally administered State supplementary payments), benefits under title XIX, and publicly funded attendant care services (including personal care assistance),".

(3) by redesignating paragraphs (1) through (4) as subparagraphs (A) through (D), respectively,

(4) by striking out the matter preceding subparagraph (A) (as redesignated by paragraph (3)) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(b)(1) For purposes of title XIX, any individual under age 65 who was determined to be a blind or disabled individual eligible to receive a benefit under section 1611 or any federally administered State supplementary payment for a month and who in a subsequent month is ineligible for benefits under this title (and for any federally administered State supplementary payments) because of his or her income shall, nevertheless, be considered to be receiving supplemental security income benefits for such subsequent month provided that the Secretary determines under regulations that—", and

(5) by adding at the end thereof (after and below subparagraph (D), as so redesignated) the following new paragraphs:

"(2)(A) Determinations made under paragraph (1)(D) shall be based on information and data updated no less frequently than annually.".

"(B) In determining an individual's earnings for purposes of paragraph (1)(D), there shall be excluded from such earnings an amount equal to the sum of any amounts which are or would be excluded under clauses (ii) and (iv) of section 1612(b)(4)(B) (or under clauses (ii) and (iii) of section 1612(b)(4)(A)) in determining his or her income.".

(c) REVIEW PROCESS FOR CERTAIN INDIVIDUALS.—

(1) Section 1631 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1383) is amended—

(A) in subsection (e)(1)(A) by striking out "subparagraph (B)" and inserting in lieu thereof "subparagraph (B) and subsection (j)", and

(B) by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"Application and Review Requirements for Certain Individuals

"(j)(1) Notwithstanding any provision of section 1611 or 1619, any individual who—

"(A) was an eligible individual (or eligible spouse) under section 1611 or was eligible for benefits under or pursuant to section 1619, and

"(B) who, after such eligibility, is ineligible for benefits under or pursuant to both such sections for a period of 12 consecutive months, may not thereafter become eligible for benefits under or pursuant to either such section until the individual has reapplied for benefits under section 1611 and been determined to be eligible for benefits under such section.

"(2)(A) Notwithstanding any provision of section 1611 or section 1619, any individual who was eligible for benefits pursuant to section 1619(b), and who—

"(i)(I) on the basis of the same impairment on which his or her eligibility under such section 1619(b) was based becomes eligible for benefits under section 1611 or 1619(a) for a month that follows a period during which the individual was ineligible for benefits under sections 1611 and 1619(a), and

"(II) has earned income (other than income excluded pursuant to section 1612(b)) for any month in the 12-month period preceding such month that is equal to or in excess of the amount that would cause him or her to be ineligible for payments under section 1611(b) for that month (if he or she were otherwise eligible for such payments); or

"(ii)(I) on the basis of the same impairment on which his or her eligibility under such section 1619(b) was based becomes eligible under section 1619(b) for a month that follows a period during which the individual was ineligible under section 1611 and section 1619, and

"(II) has earned income (other than income excluded pursuant to section 1612(b)) for such month or for any month in the 12-month period preceding such month that is equal to or in excess of the amount that would cause him or her to be ineligible for payments under section 1611(b) for that month (if he or she were otherwise eligible for such payments); shall, upon becoming eligible (as described in clause (i)(I) or (ii)(I)), be subject to a prompt review of the type described in section 1614(a)(5).

"(B) If the Secretary determines pursuant to a review required by subparagraph (A) that the impairment upon which the eligibility of an individual is based has ceased, does not exist, or is not disabling, such individual may not thereafter become eligible for a benefit under or pursuant to section 1611 or section 1619 until the individual has reapplied for benefits under section 1611 and been determined to be eligible for benefits under such section.".

(2) Section 1619 of such Act (as amended by subsections (a) and (b) of this section) is further amended—

(A) in subsection (a) by striking out "Any individual" and inserting in lieu thereof "Except as provided in section 1631(j), any individual", and

(B) in subsection (b) by striking out "For purposes of" and inserting in lieu thereof "Except as provided in section 1631(j), for purposes of".

(3) Section 1611 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1382) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"Application and Review Requirements for Certain Individuals

"(i) For application and review requirements affecting the eligibility of certain individuals, see section 1631(j).".

(d) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 1611(e) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1382(e)) is amended by striking out paragraph (4).

(2) Section 1614(a)(3) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1382c(a)(3)) is amended—

(A) in subparagraph (D) by striking out ", except for purposes of subparagraph (F) or paragraph (4),", and

(B) by striking out subparagraph (F), and by redesignating subparagraphs (G) and (H) as subparagraphs (F) and (G), respectively.

(3)(A) Section 1614(a) of such Act (as amended by paragraph (2)) is further amended by striking out paragraph (4) and by redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraph (4).

(B) Section 1631(j)(2)(A) of such Act (as added by subsection (c)) is amended by striking out "section 1614(a)(5)" and inserting in lieu thereof "section 1614(a)(4)".

SEC. 5. NOTIFICATIONS TO APPLICANTS AND RECIPIENTS.

Section 1631 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1383) (as amended by section 4) is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"Notifications to Applicants and Recipients

"(k) The Secretary shall notify an individual receiving benefits under section 1611 on the basis of disability or blindness of his or her potential eligibility for benefits under or pursuant to section 1619—

"(1) at the time of the initial award of benefits to the individual under section 1611 (if the individual has attained the age of 18 at the time of such initial award), and

"(2) at the earliest time after an initial award of benefits to an individual under section 1611 that the individual's earned income for a month (other than income excluded pursuant to section 1612(b)) is $200 or more, and periodically thereafter so long as such individual has earned income (other than income so excluded) of $200 or more per month.".

SEC. 6. LOSS OF SSI BENEFITS UPON ENTITLEMENT TO CHILD'S INSURANCE BENEFITS BASED ON DISABILITY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1634 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1383c) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(c) If any individual who has attained the age of 18 and is receiving benefits under this title on the basis of blindness or a disability which began before he or she attained the age of 22—

"(1) becomes entitled, on or after the effective date of this subsection, to child's insurance benefits which are payable under section 202(d) on the basis of such disability or to an increase in the amount of the child's insurance benefits which are so payable, and

"(2) ceases to be eligible for benefits under this title because of such child's insurance benefits or because of the increase in such child's insurance benefits, such individual shall be treated for purposes of title XIX as receiving benefits under this title so long as he or she would be eligible for benefits under this title in the absence of such child's insurance benefits or such increase.".

(b) STATE DETERMINATIONS.—Any determination required under section 1634(c) of the Social Security Act with respect to whether an individual would be eligible for benefits under title XVI of such Act in the absence of children's benefits (or an increase thereof) shall be made by the appropriate State agency.

(c) CONFORMING CHANGE.—Section 1920(a)(2) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1396s(a)(2)) is amended—

(1) by inserting "(A)" before "Section", and

(2) by adding after and below subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraph:

"(B) Section 1634 of this Act (relating to individuals who lose eligibility for SSI benefits due to entitlement to child's insurance benefits under section 202(d) of this Act).".

SEC. 7. MEDICAID ELIGIBILITY FOR CERTAIN RECIPIENTS OF CASH BENEFITS UNDER SECTION 1619.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1619(b) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1382h(b)) (as amended by section 4) is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(3) In the case of a State that exercises the option under section 1902(f), any individual who—

"(A)(i) qualifies for a benefit under subsection (a), or

"(ii) meets the requirements of paragraph (1); and

"(B) was eligible for medical assistance under the State plan approved under title XIX in the month immediately preceding the first month in which the individual qualified for a benefit under such subsection or met such requirements, shall remain eligible for medical assistance under such plan for so long as the individual qualifies for a benefit under such subsection or meets such requirements.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1902(f) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1396a(f)) is amended by striking out "subsection (e)" and inserting in lieu thereof "subsection (e) and section 1619(b)(3)".

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATES.

(a) PERMANENT AUTHORIZATION.—The amendment made by section 2 shall become effective on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) PROGRAM MODIFICATIONS.—

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by sections 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 shall become effective on July 1, 1987.

(2) In the case of a State plan for medical assistance under title XIX of the Social Security Act which the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines requires State legislation in order for the plan to meet the requirements imposed by the amendments made by section 3(b) and section 7 of this Act, the State plan shall not be regarded as failing to comply with the requirements of such title solely on the basis of its failure to meet such additional requirements until 60 days after the close of the first regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Amend the title so as to read: "An Act to make permanent and improve the provisions of section 1619 of the Social Security Act, and for other purposes.".

House amendment to Senate amendment: Redesignate section 8 as section 9; and after section 7 insert the following new section:

SEC. 8. PAYMENT OF BENEFITS DUE DECEASED RECIPIENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1631(b)(1) of the Social Security Act is amended—

(1) by inserting "(A)" after "(1)";

(2) by striking out "by recovery from" where it first appears in the first sentence and all that follows down through "The Secretary (A) shall make" and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"by recovery from such individual or his eligible spouse (or from the estate of either) or by payment to such individual or his eligible spouse, or, if such individual is deceased, by payment—

"(i) to any surviving spouse of such individual, whether or not the individual's eligible spouse, if (within the meaning of the first sentence of section 202(i)) such surviving husband or wife was living in the same household with the individual at the time of his death or within the 6 months immediately preceding the month of such death, or

"(ii) if such individual was a disabled or blind child who was living with his parent or parents at the time of his death or within the 6 months immediately preceding the month of such death, to such parent or parents.

"(B) The Secretary (i) shall make";

(3) by striking out "and (B) shall in any event" and inserting in lieu thereof "and (ii) shall in any event";

(4) by striking out "(i) the amount" and "(ii) an amount" and inserting in lieu thereof "(I) the amount" and "(II) an amount", respectively; and

(5) by striking out "clause (B)" and "clause (A)" in the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "clause (ii)" and "clause (i)", respectively.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply with respect to benefits payable for months after May 1986.

Mr. ROSTENKOWSKI (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the amendments be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GRAY of Illinois). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

Mr. FRENZEL. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ROSTENKOWSKI] for an explanation.

Mr. ROSTENKOWSKI. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 5595 passed the House by voice vote on September 30, 1986. Title I of the bill contained 13 separate amendments to the Supplemental Security Income Program [SSI]. Title II of the bill amended and made permanent section 1619 of the Social Security Act, which allows disabled individuals who are able to work to do so without fear of losing SSI and/or Medicaid. Title II of the House bill was identical to a proposal reported to the other body by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Senate has stripped all of the amendments contained in title I of the bill and sent to the House just title II. I am asking to add back one of the House amendments contained in title I. This is the provision that will allow the payment of retroactive SSI benefits to the spouse or parents of a deceased individual who was eligible for SSI. I understand that this one amendment along with title II of the bill will be acceptable to the other body.

I also would point out that the bill as so amended will increase the savings that the bill achieves. As passed by the House the bill would have saved $4 million over 3 years but cost $10 million over 5 years. With this amendment, it will save $6 million over the next 5 years.

Mr. FRENZEL. Further reserving the right to object, Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. FORD].

Mr. FORD of Tennessee. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Chairman ROSTENKOWSKI, Mr. STARK, Mr. ANTHONY, and Mr. BARTLETT for working so hard on this bill.

I did not think the bill was at all controversial when we first passed it. Whatever reservations the other body had will be removed with this amendment and we will be able to go forward with the 1619 Program and the provision championed by Mr. ANTHONY.

This is sound legislation. Mr. Speaker. It will be of great benefit to the working disabled and the families of disabled individuals. I would urge my colleagues to support this legislation

Mr. FRENZEL. Further reserving the right to object, Mr. Speaker, I yield to one of the original sponsors of title II, the gentlemen from Texas [Mr. BARTLETT].

Mr. BARTLETT. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I support the unanimous-consent request. It represents the elimination of a very significant disincentive to employment for disabled persons which has taken about 2 years to get to this point in order to get it passed. I am supportive also of title I and that portion of title I that was included.

I think we owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. FORD, Mr. ROSTENKOWSKI, Mr. DUNCAN, Mr. GRADISON, Mr. STARK, Mr. PEASE, and the other Members who worked so hard on this legislation.

I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. FRENZEL. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, the bill was not controversial when it passed the House; it is still not controversial.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CORRECTING THE ENROLLMENT OF S. 1200, IMMIGRATION REFORM AND CONTROL ACT OF 1985

Mr. RODINO. Mr. Speaker, I send to the desk a concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 412) to make a correction in the enrollment of the bill S. 1200 and ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the concurrent resolution, as follows:

H. CON. RES. 412

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That in the enrollment of the bill (S. 1200) to amend the Immigration and Nationality Act to revise and reform the immigration laws, and for other purposes, the Secretary of the Senate shall insert, at the end of title I, the text of part C of title I contained in the House amendment.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

NATIONAL APPLIANCE ENERGY CONSERVATION ACT OF 1986

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 5465), to amend the Energy Policy and Conservation Act with respect to energy conservation standards for appliances, with Senate amendments thereto, and concur in the Senate amendments.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Clerk read the Senate amendments, as follows:

Page 40, line 11, after "regulation" insert: "effective on or after January 1, 1992".

Page 60, strike out all after line 22 over to and including line 2 on page 61.

SEC. 12. FERC REQUIREMENT.—

(a) Notwithstanding any other applicable provision of law, on November 17, 1986, or within 10 working days thereafter, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission shall, in the case of ANR Pipeline Company, FERC Docket No. RP82-80, filed April 30, 1982, publish a schedule for issuing a final order in such case, which schedule shall provide for such order to be issued not later than February 28, 1987. Such schedule shall include an opportunity for an oral argument prior to issuance of such final order, as requested by one or more of the parties, unless the Commission determines that such argument would not assist the Commission in deciding such case.

(b) Except as expressly provided in subsection (a), nothing in this section shall affect—

(1) any Stipulation and Agreement reached by the parties in such case or any applicable provision to law with respect thereto;

(2) the right of any party to such case to appeal the final order issued in such case in accordance with applicable provisions of law; or

(3) any other applicable provisions of law with regard to any such ruling or order.

(4) Page 61, after line 2, insert:

SEC. 13.—MISCELLANEOUS.

(a) FERC ORDER.—Notwithstanding any petition filed by the Idaho Power Company on November 26, 1984 with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for a declaratory order concerning an Agreement dated October 25, 1984 (Exhibit A, Petition of Idaho Power Company for Declaratory Order, Docket No. EL–85–38–000) relative to the projects of such company specifically referenced in the petition, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is only authorized and directed, in lieu of the petition request, to issue an order within 90 days after enactment of this Act under the Federal Power Act that such Agreement shall not be considered by the Commission in any subsequent proceeding before the Commission during the remaining term of the licenses applicable to such projects, to be (1) inconsistent with the terms and conditions of such licenses concerning project property or the utilization thereof; or (2) imprudent for purposes of section 205 of the Federal Power Act.

(b) SAVINGS PROVISION.—Nothing in this section or in any order issued by the Commission pursuant to this section, shall be construed as affecting any stipulation or other agreement entered into with the State of Idaho or the Idaho Power Company prior to enactment of this section relating to any fish and wildlife matters affected by any such project. Except as expressly provided in subsection (a), nothing in such subsection shall affect the application or requirements of section 10 of the Federal Power Act or any other provision of such Act to any person or project.

Mr. MARKEY (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendments be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I do not intend to object, but instead I wish to state my strong support for H.R. 5465, the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act of 1986.

Mr. Speaker, the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act of 1986 is a bill which is cosponsored by every member of the Subcommittee on Energy Conservation and Power of the Committee on Energy and Commerce. H.R. 5465 addresses a significant problem which has been developing in the area of appliance energy efficiency. The Department of Energy is under a statutory duty to develop appliance energy efficiency standards. The D.C. circuit has ordered DOE to develop these standards by 1988. At the same time, many States, including my own State of California, have adopted their own appliance standards. Many other States are moving to adopt similar standards. Thus, multiple differing State appliance standards are developing at the same time DOE is working on Federal standards.

The establishment of a variety of differing appliance standards is in no one's interest. Multiple differing appliance standards pose significant problems for appliance manufacturers who generally sell their products on a nationwide basis. Such manufacturers cannot target their research so that their product is constantly improved. Instead, their research money must be applied to modifying products so that they meet different standards in different States. Similarly, appliance manufacturers cannot market or distribute their products on a streamlined national basis.

Additionally, multiple State standards will have an adverse effect on consumers as it will increase the cost of appliances and will reduce the number of products available to them. Multiple standards could even lead to manufacturers, especially small and medium-sized companies, ceasing to make particular appliances, thus lessening competition.

Despite this phenomenon of an increasing number of appliance standards, it is clear that the marketplace has worked well with regard to appliance energy efficiency. Consumers have bought and are continuing to buy products with higher and higher efficiencies. In light of these efficiency gains, I applaud the decision of the appliance manufacturers and the Natural Resources Defense Council to sit down and negotiate consensus standards. This decision was a courageous one on the part of the participants in the process and has achieved standards which are not only strong but technically feasible. It is not often that such a result is accomplished by the more commonplace process of an agency rulemaking.

H.R. 5465 is comprised of the consensus standards developed by the appliance manufacturers and the Natural Resources Defense Council. It contains appliance standards for 11 major appliances. When these Federal standards go into effect, then State appliance standards applicable to appliances covered by these Federal standards are preempted. It is important to note that the Federal standards contained in H.R. 5465 are more stringent than any existing State standards, thus achieving the energy conservation goals of those States that have adopted appliance standards.

H.R. 5465 also directs the Department of Energy to engage in a rulemaking to determine the appropriate efficiency standard for gas furnaces with an input of less than 45,000 Btu. The amendment restricts DOE's determination to a range of efficiencies between 71 and 78 AFUE. The rulemaking is to commence in 1989 with the standard to take effect in 1992 and should not result in a preference for one fuel over another.

As introduced, H.R. 5465 did not contain an efficiency standard for the heating side of a heat pump, although it did contain one for the cooling side. This omission has been corrected by imposing a heating season performance factor of 6.8 on split systems and 6.6 on single systems for heat pumps. This standard is comparable to the 78 AFUE standard for large gas furnaces and was selected with reference to the applicable California standard.

As this session of Congress comes to a close, I would like to thank the efforts of my colleague, Mr. MARKEY, and of his staff, particularly Richard Lehfeldt, in moving this important legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. MOORHEAD, Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL], the chairman of the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I want to commend the distinguished gentleman from California for his valuable work on this matter and also the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARKEY].

Mr. Speaker, the House has before it the major piece of eneregy conservation legislation that it will consider this Congress. If we pass this bill, the energy saved as a result of increases in the energy efficiency of appliances will obviate the need for over 20 new electric powerplants by the end of this century. Given spiraling construction costs and inflation, this will save consumers in this country between $50 and $100 billion in powerplant construction costs alone—and even more savings will occur in monthly electric bills.

Chairman MARKEY of the Subcommittee on Energy Conservation and Power, and Congressman MOORHEAD, the ranking minority member of that subcommittee, are to be commended for their work in achieving a consensus on this important legislation. Indeed, the passage of this legislation will cap an extremely productive Congress for this subcommittee. Legislation will have been passed on a wide range of issues vital to the energy future of this country. I would like to take this occasion to congratulate both of these gentlemen, and the subcommittee as a whole, for these accomplishments.

I would also like to comment on an important provision in the bill requiring the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to make a final decision in a case that has been pending for almost 4½ years. Section 12 is intended to require the FERC to issue a final Commission order in Docket No. RP82-80 by February 28, 1987. This would bring this lengthy administrative proceeding to a close. Thus, by February 28, 1987, the FERC shall have completed all of its actions, including issuance of any orders on rehearing, so that the case will be ripe for appellate review by the court of appeals, if necessary.

Section 12 recognizes and preserves the FERC as the proper forum for a decision on the merits of this case. The case, which was filed on April 30, 1982, was the subject of administrative hearings from February 21 through April 20, 1984. Besides the weeks of hearings, during the last 4½ years, the FERC provided four rounds of extensive legal briefs and had an initial decision by an administrative law judge. The lack of a decision makes it virtually impossible for parties to know their long-term rights and responsibilities. This uncertainty inhibits the parties in making adjustments and commitments that are necessary to move successfully into the new era of more competitive markets. The provision is intended to remove that uncertainty by requiring the FERC to complete all action in Docket No. RP-82 by February 28, 1987.

This is, I would note, a more than adequate period of time to protect the rights of all the parties to the litigation. Indeed, the provision, as modified by the other body, specifies that the FERC shall conduct an oral argument within the specified time period for decision, unless the Commission determines that such argument would not assist the Commission in deciding such case. I understand there is currently pending at the Commission a motion for such an oral argument in this matter—a motion which, I understand, would be highly unusual for the Commission to grant in a rate case such as this. The amendment assures nonetheless that the possibilities of an oral argument are fairly considered within the specified timeframe, leaving to the Commission full discretion to decide not to conduct an oral argument if no new issues or evidence is likely to be presented and it would be helpful to the Commission to conduct such a hearing.

I would also note that this section has been amended, again as a result of consultations between the two bodies, to clarify in paragraph 12(b) that nothing in this new provision affects first, any stipulation and agreement reached by the parties in this case or any applicable provisions of law with respect thereto, second, any right of any party to appeal the final order in accordance with applicable law, or third, any other applicable provision of law with regard to such ruling or order. Of course, all of this would apply only to the extent any such provision is not affected by the timetable established in paragraph 12(a). It is this timetable for issuing a final order by February 28, 1987, that takes precedence, and the language specifically so states. Thus, if there were a timetable of procedures established in the stipulation and agreement which is inconsistent with the express provisions of the timetable in paragraph 12(a) that requires the Commission to take final and complete action by February 28, 1987, the Commission should use its authority with respect to that stipulation and agreement to modify these provisions and develop a schedule for action which provides for a final order to be issued by that date. Indeed, the provision in paragraph 12(b) which states that this section does not affect the stipulation and agreement of the parties also expressly preserves the Commission's authority with respect to that stipulation and agreement.

Needless to say, this entire provision has been included so as to provide for an expeditious, but fair, resolution of this case. The deadline is intended to be met.

Mr. Speaker, included in the Senate-passed version of H.R. 5465 is a provision relating to a matter pending at FERC since 1984 relating to an agreement that requires FERC's blessing. The matter is unique because there is no controversy over it, except the controversy existing as a result of FERC's failure to act on a petition concerning the agreement.

In a sense, I do not fault FERC because I believe the request filed by the petitioner is far too broad. A much narrower action is all that is necessary or appropriate. That is what this bill provides for this Idaho Power Co. agreement. It provides authority for FERC to approve the agreement consistent with the Federal Power Act. At the same time it preserves the applicability of the act, particularly section 10, it limits the approval to the remaining term of the existing licenses, and most importantly, it preserves all fish and wildlife requirements and agreements. Finally, it is not a precedent for future agreements with other licensees in other States as indicated in the following letters between Chairman McCLURE and myself:

U.S. SENATE, COMMITTEE ON ENERGY, AND NATURAL RESOURCES,
Washington, DC, October 9, 1986.

Hon. JOHN D. DINGELL,
Chairman, House of Representatives, Committee on Energy and Commerce, Washington, DC.

DEAR JOHN: Thank you for your letter regarding the agreement we have reached regarding projects in Idaho. I, too, enjoyed working with you on the hydroelectric relicensing bill and believe we crafted a very reasonable product.

With respect to the current agreement on the Idaho projects, I agree that the circumstances are so unique that they cannot be considered a precedent for future Congressional action. I would also note, that the agreement which we have reached regarding the ANR Pipeline Company matter is equally unique and not a precedent.

I look forward to working with you in this same spirit of cooperation and friendship.

Sincerely,

JAMES A. McCLURE,
Chairman.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON ENERGY AND COMMERCE,
Washington, DC, October 9, 1986.

Hon. JAMES A. McCLURE,
Chairman, Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, Washington, DC.

DEAR JIM: It was a great privilege to work with you in conference on the hydro relicensing bill and the reconciliation legislation. You are an excellent conference Chairman and a good friend.

I understand that in connection with H.R. 5465, the House-passed appliance legislation, Congressman Stallings and you have suggested a germane Senate amendment seeking to settle, on a one-time basis, a petition pending at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) since 1984 concerning several licensed projects in Idaho. As I understand the proposal, it is unique and not precedent-setting. It relates to an agreement that enjoys broad support in the state and will not affect any existing or future actions relative to fish and wildlife resources of the area. Most importantly, it does not affect the application or requirements of section 10 of the Federal Power Act, including existing section 10(a) and the new section 10(j).

The proposal, as worked out with participation of our Committee staff, appears workable, limited, and acceptable. Most importantly, it is not a precedent for similar amendments in the future which is clearly a concern we both share. For these reasons, I can accept it and support it when the bill is returned to the House. I know that Subcommittee Chairman Markey, who also participated in the development of the proposal, shares my view.

I commend you and Congressman Stallings for your joint efforts in working it out and helping to gain passage of the House bill.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

JOHN D. DINGELL,
Chairman.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, this is important legislation and I urge my colleagues to adopt it.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Further reserving the right to object, Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARKEY].

Mr. MARKEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to again compliment the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] for his work on this major piece of consumer legislation, and I would like to compliment the chairman of our full committee, the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL] who along with his staff has worked long and hard over the past 3 weeks to help us to resolve the differences that existed with the other body and other concerns that Members had with this piece of legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice the very strongest support for H.R. 5465, the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act of 1986. This important piece of consumer legislation has enjoyed a swift and miraculous passage through the legislative process since its simultaneous introduction in the House and Senate on August 15. Since then, it has garnered the support of almost 100 Members of the House, more than a third of the Senate, and an extraordinary coalition of industrialists, environmentalists, and consumer groups. We complete today the last leg of an expedited but lengthy journey, with the hope and trust that the administration will see fit to sign this great bill into law.

The appliance standards bill is the product of a protracted negotiation between the appliance manufacturing industry and key environmental groups, notably the Natural Resources Defense Council. The result of that negotiation is a comprehensive and unprecedented Federal code of home appliance energy conservation standards.

The bill which this coalition has helped to craft restores appliance standards to their rightful place in the energy code. To give a sense of the magnitude of this bill, I want to share with you some of the projected savings. H.R. 5465 will provide consumers with projected net savings of $28 billion, or nearly $300 per household. In addition, this bill will lower residential energy consumption in the United States by 1 quad, or about 6 percent. The energy savings expected over the lifetime of products sold through the year 2000—17 quads—is equivalent to over 2 years of energy imports at America's current import rate. Finally, the standards will lower peak electricity demand in the year 2000 by 22,000 megawatts—equivalent to about 10 percent of the growth in peak power demand during 1986–2000 as forecast by the utility industry, or 22 large central powerplants.

I would like to thank a number of Members for their invaluable input into the appliance standards bill. First and foremost, I would like to give major credit again to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL] the chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, an early and active consponsor of the bill who vigorously championed its objectives and helped to negotiate it through the perilous channels of the past few weeks.

I would also like to thank the gentleman from California, the ranking minority on the Energy Subcommittee Mr. MOORHEAD, who has graciously accepted both the considerable responsibility of leading the minority fight to pass this bill, and the equally great responsibility of his new nickname, "the Refrigerator." Joined at all times by the gentleman from New York, the ranking minority member of the full committee Mr. LENT, the minority has played a key and essential role in shepherding this bill through the process.

I would like to thank the gentleman from Idaho [Mr. STALLINGS] for his able and effective leadership in the resolution of the issues related to the Swan Falls project. This persistence, and that of Governor Evans of Idaho, have made possible the inclusion of the Swan Falls amendment in the bill.

Finally, I want to pay tribute to my colleagues in the Senate, Mr. EVANS, the chief sponsor of the Senate bill, Mr. MCCLURE, the chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, Mr. JOHNSTON, the ranking minority of that committee, Mr. FORD and Mr. CRANSTON for their vigorous effects on behalf of the bill. The coalition which laid the foundation for this bill has engendered an analogous coalition in the Congress, a coalition which spans both Houses and both parties. I hope that the congressional coalition which has spoken today on the subject of appliance standards will sponsor subsequent initiatives in the 100th Congress and beyond in the area of energy conservation and energy policy in general.

Energy conservation is alive and well in the 99th Congress, and this bill is proof that the lessons of 1975 and 1978 have not been lost amid the din of voices claiming that the energy crisis is over. I am proud to have been the chief sponsor of this bill, and I applaud my colleagues for all their efforts on its behalf.

H.R. 5465 includes a provision directing the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to issue an order in the case of the petition filed by the Idaho Power Co. seeking approval of the agreement entered into between the Idaho Power Co. and the State of Idaho. I would like to make clear that this provision does not establish any precedent concerning FERC review of such agreements. There are strong arguments on both sides of the issue of whether FERC has jurisdiction to review such agreements. The provision included in the bill does not resolve this controversy and is not intended as an expression of congressional intent concerning this debate.

H.R. 5465 also contains a definition of "AFUE" which makes certain assumptions about the locations where furnaces and boilers are installed and about the source of the air used by nonweatherized furnaces for combustion and ventilation. These assumptions were made so that the meaning of initial standards for furnaces and boilers prescribed in section 325(f) is clear to manufacturers who must design products to meet the standards. Nothing in the act is intended to limit how furnaces or boilers are vented, or to limit the source of air used for combustion or ventilation.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on the legislation just considered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

PERMITTING REGISTERED PUBLIC UTILITY HOLDING COMPANIES TO OWN CERTAIN INTERESTS IN QUALIFYING COGENERATION FACILITIES

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 5056) to permit registered public utility holding companies to own certain interests in qualifying cogeneration facilities, with a Senate amendment thereto, and concur in the Senate amendment.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Clerk read the Senate amendment, as follows:

Page 2, strike out lines 10 to 13.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, the minority has reviewed this legislation and we find it acceptable. I supported this legislation when it came before the House in September. It will relieve electric utility holding companies from unnecessary restrictions limiting their participation in cogeneration projects. Eliminating these restrictions will promote competition, will reduce our Nation's reliance on imported energy, and will make greater amounts of electricity available at lower cost.

Nonetheless, I would be remiss if I failed to point out that this is the third time this year, and the fourth time this Congress that we have been asked to consider legislation to relieve certain business from the burdensome restrictions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act. I think, by now, it should be clear to everyone that the Public Utility Holding Company Act, or PUHCA as it is known, no longer serves the public interest and should be repealed.

PUHCA inhibits registered electric utility holding companies, especially those which operate interstate, from conducting their business efficiently and competing on an equal basis with other nonregistered utilities. Further, intrastate electric utility holding companies, which are now exempt from Securities and Exchange Commission [SEC] regulation, and therefore, do not face the same restrictions facing registered interstate electric utility holding companies, face the possibility that their exemption might be removed in the future.

Three types of PUHCA restrictions unnecessarily restrict the actitives of registered holding companies. First, management of these companies' financial affairs requires the permission of SEC regulators. All issuances of securities, which are defined so broadly as to include such arrangements as guarantees on leases, require SEC approval. Second, electric utility holding companies' activities are restricted to those that are functionally related to the utility business and thus limits their flexibility to pursue attractive business ventures. Third, PUHCA includes a grab bag of several other restrictions, such as those governing membership on the boards of directors of holding companies.

These restrictions can harm the economically efficient operation of registered electric holding companies and, therefore, harm electricity consumers. For instance, if a company cannot issue a certain type of security, or cannot issue it on a timely basis because of SEC review, it may have to pay more money than it otherwise would in arranging financing. Also, the costs of simply complying with SEC regulation are not inconsiderable.

PUHCA's major economic inefficiencies, however, are due to its inhibitions on mergers. Utilities that might want to merge with other utilities will not do so if they will thereby subject their financial management to SEC oversight and approval and inhibit their ability to pursue attractive business ventures not functionally related to providing their customers with electric power.

This inhibition frustrates mergers of smaller electric utilities into larger interstate units that in many cases may make sound economic sense. Such mergers could lower customer costs in several ways.

First, large utilities reduce their operating and maintenance costs by operating as a large intracompany power pool. Groups of small utilities often do not operate as a power pool. Mergers of small companies into large ones could bring about operating efficiencies and save customers money.

Second, larger utilities take advantage of economies of scale in the construction and operation of plants and in the procurement of goods and services. Larger utilities also tend to build facilities more cheaply than smaller ones, and are able to add capacity in large increments which cost less per unit of capacity. The recent intrastate merger of Toledo Edison and Cleveland Electric Illuminating occurred in large part to give the new company greater ability to manage its existing facilities. Yet interstate mergers that could accomplish the same purpose will in all likelihood not take place because such a merger would subject the new company to registered status under PUHCA.

Third, a large utility formed as the result of a merger of several small ones would have less overhead costs per customer. For example, there would be only one headquarters staff and one strategic planning staff rather than several. As a result, per customer costs would be less and the new utility would be more efficient.

Furthermore, economic efficiency may also suffer because nonutilities are inhibited from taking part in ownership of electric generating facilities. If a nonutility owns more than 5 percent of an electric generator—except those built under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978—it would likely become subject to SEC regulation. And, if it owns more than 10 percent of an electric plant, it becomes in most cases a registered holding company and must divest itself of its nonfunctionally related business. As a result, nonutilities, such as architect/engineers, component manufacturers, and major contractors, are inhibited from taking large equity stakes in new plants.

Mr. Speaker, we need to create incentives for taking risks and building electric generating capacity to meet an uncertain future. We may be entering a new phase in the electric utility industry, one in which the marketplace will determine whether a new plant is built and whether it will make a profit or a loss. If so, efficient construction and operation may become even more important than it is today.

Further, provided it is consistent with reliability in electric supply, and the interests of residential and industrial customers, perhaps such incentives should be extended to private, nonutility investors. Contractors today sign contracts to build new plants. Maybe plants would be built and operated more efficiently if builders could take an equity stake in the plant, with the incentive that the cheaper the plant is built and operated, the greater their profitability. Yet PUHCA strongly inhibits putting such incentives in place.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has supported repeal of PUHCA under several administrations for many years now. The SEC believes that PUHCA's cost upon society are burdensome and unnecessary. State regulation is much stronger now than when PUHCA was passed in the 1930's. If PUHCA was repealed, customers would be adequately protected by State regulation and by the disclosure and reporting requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Surely, we should carefully review the value of PUHCA and its repeal next Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARKEY].

□ 1730

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. Again, I would like to compliment the gentleman and his staff for the work that he has done on this piece of legislation.

This bill clarifies the Public Utility Holding Company Act so as to allow the nine remaining registered electric holding companies to invest in qualified cogeneration facilities outside their service area.

The bill will have no impact on either the regulatory objectives of PUHCA or the qualifying facility ownership restrictions of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978.

I commend to my colleagues the work of Mr. BRYANT of our subcommittee, the gentleman from Texas, and the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] for the leadership that they have given, along with the chairman of our full committee [Mr. DINGELL].

It has been a long process and I think we have come to a point where all parties are satisfied.

Again, the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BRYANT] initiated this piece of legislation. The gentleman is to be complimented and congratulated.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

VACATING PROCEEDINGS OF TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1986, WHEREBY SENATE AMENDMENT TO H.R. 3004 CRIMINAL JUSTICE ACT REVISION OF 1985, WAS CONCURRED IN WITH AN AMENDMENT; THEN CONCURRING IN THE SENATE AMENDMENT WITH A DIFFERENT AMENDMENT

Mr. KASTENMEIER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to vacate the proceeding of yesterday whereby the House concurred in the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 3004) to amend section 3006A of title 18, United States Code, to improve the delivery of legal services in the criminal justice system to those persons financially unable to obtain adequate representation, and for other purposes, with an amendment, and that the House concur in the Senate amendment with an amendment.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the Senate amendment and the proposed House amendment.

The Clerk read the Senate amendment and the House amendment to the Senate amendment, as follows:

Senate amendment: strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That this Act may be cited as the "Criminal Justice Act Revision of 1986".

SEC. 2. (a) Section 3006A of title 18, United States Code, is amended as follows:

(1) Subsection (a) is amended by striking out "(1) who is" and all that follows through "subsection (h)." and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "in accordance with this section. Representation under each plan shall include counsel and investigative, expert, and other services necessary for adequate representation. Each plan shall provide the following:

"(1) Representation shall be provided for any financially eligible person who—

"(A) is charged with a felony or a misdemeanor (other than a petty offense as defined in section 1 of this title);

"(B) is a juvenile alleged to have committed an act of juvenile delinquency as defined in section 5031 of this title;

"(C) is charged with a violation of probation;

"(D) is under arrest, when such representation is required by law;

"(E) is entitled to appointment of counsel in parole proceedings under chapter 311 of this title;

"(F) is subject to a mental condition hearing under chapter 313 of this title;

"(G) is in custody as a material witness;

"(H) is entitled to appointment of counsel under the sixth amendment to the Constitution; or

"(I) faces loss of liberty in a case, and Federal law requires the appointment of counsel.

"(2) Whenever the United States magistrate or the court determines that the interests of justice so require, representation may be provided for any financially eligible person who—

"(A) is charged with a petty offense for which a sentence to confinement is authorized; or

"(B) is seeking relief under section 2241, 2254, or 2255 of title 28.

"(3) Private attorneys shall be appointed in a substantial proportion of the cases. Each plan may include, in addition to the provisions for private attorneys, either of the following or both:

"(A) Attorneys furnished by a bar association or a legal aid agency.

"(B) Attorneys furnished by a defender organization established in accordance with the provisions of subsection (g).".

(2) Subsection (b) is amended—

(A) in the second sentence—

(i) by striking out "In every criminal case" and all that follows through "violation of probation and" and inserting in lieu thereof "In every case in which a person entitled to representation under a plan approved under subsection (a)"; and

(ii) by striking out "defendant" and inserting in lieu thereof "person";

(B) in the third sentence by striking out "defendant" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "person"; and

(C) in the fifth sentence by striking out "defendants" and inserting in lieu thereof "persons".

(3)(A) Subsection (d)(1) is amended by striking "court. Such attorney" and inserting in lieu thereof "court, unless the Judicial Conference determines that a higher rate of not in excess of $75 per hour is justified for a circuit or for particular districts within a circuit, for time expended in court or before a United States magistrate and for time expended out of court. The Judicial Conference shall develop guidelines for determining the maximum hourly rates for each circuit in accordance with the preceding sentence, with variations by district, where appropriate, taking into account such factors as the minimum range of the prevailing hourly rates for qualified attorneys in the district in which the representation is provided and the recommendations of the judicial councils of the circuits. Not less than 3 years after the effective date of the Criminal Justice Act Revision of 1986, the Judicial Conference is authorized to raise the maximum hourly rates specified in this paragraph up to the aggregate of the overall average percentages of the adjustments in the rates of pay under the General Schedule made pursuant to section 5305 of title 5, on or after such effective date. After the rates are raised under the preceding sentence, such maximum hourly rates may be raised at intervals of not less than 1 year each, up to the aggregate of the overall average percentages of such adjustments made since the last raise was made under this paragraph. Attorneys".

(B) Subsection (d)(2) is amended—

(i) in the first sentence—

(I) by striking out "$2,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$3,500"; and

(II) by striking out "$800" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000";

(ii) in the second sentence by striking out "$2,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$2,500", and

(iii) by striking out the third sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "For any other representation required or authorized by this section, the compensation shall not exceed $750 for each attorney in each proceeding.".

(C) Subsection (d)(3) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "The chief judge of the circuit may delegate such approval authority to an active circuit judge.".

(D) Subsection (d)(4) is amended in the first sentence by striking out "represented the defendant" and inserting in lieu thereof "provided representation to the person involved".

(4)(A) Subsection (e)(1) is amended in the first sentence by striking out "an adequate defense" and inserting in lieu thereof "adequate representation".

(B) Subsection (e)(2) is amended to read as follows:

"(2) WITHOUT PRIOR REQUEST.—(A) Counsel appointed under this section may obtain, subject to later review, investigative, expert, and other services without prior authorization if necessary for adequate representation. Except as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the total cost of services obtained without prior authorization may not exceed $300 and expenses reasonably incurred.

"(B) The court, or the United States magistrate, if the services were rendered in a case disposed of entirely before the United States magistrate, may, in the interest of justice, and upon the finding that timely procurement of necessary services could not await prior authorization, approve payment for such services after they have been obtained, even if the cost of such services exceeds $300.".

(C)(i) Subsection (e)(3) is amended by striking out "$300" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000".

(ii) Subsection (e)(3) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "The chief judge of the circuit may delegate such approval authority to an active circuit judge.".

(5)(A)(i) Subsection (h)(2)(A) is amended by striking out "similarly as under title 28, United States Code, section 605, and subject to the conditions of that section" and inserting in lieu thereof "in accordance with section 605 of title 28".

(ii) Subsection (h)(2)(A) is amended by inserting after the fourth sentence the following: "Upon the expiration of his term, a Federal Public Defender may, by a majority vote of the judges of the court of appeals, continue to perform the duties of his office until his successor is appointed, or until one year after the expiration of such Defender's term, whichever is earlier.".

(B) Subsection (h)(2)(B) is amended in the third sentence by striking out "coming" and inserting in lieu thereof "next fiscal".

(C) Subsection (h) is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"(3) MALPRACTICE AND NEGLIGENCE SUITS.—The Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts shall, to the extent the Director considers appropriate, provide representation for and hold harmless, or provide liability insurance for, any person who is an officer or employee of a Federal Public Defender Organization established under this subsection, or a Community Defender Organization established under this subsection which is receiving periodic sustaining grants, for money damages for injury, loss of liberty, loss of property, or personal injury or death arising from malpractice or negligence of any such officer or employee in furnishing representational services under this section while acting within the scope of that person's office or employment.".

(6) Subsection (j) is amended by inserting immediately before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: ", including funds for the continuing education and training of persons providing representational services under this section".

(7) Subsection (l) is amended—

(A) by striking out ", other than subsection (h) of section 1,"; and

(B) by striking out "Act" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "section".

(b)(1) Section 3006A of title 18, United States Code, is further amended by striking out subsection (g) and redesignating subsections (h) through (l) as subsections (g) through (k), respectively.

(2) Subsection (j), as redesignated by paragraph (1), is amended to read as follows:

"(j) DISTRICTS INCLUDED.—As used in this section, the term 'district court' means each district court of the United States created by chapter 5 of title 28, the District Court of the Virgin Islands, the District Court for the Northern Mariana Islands, and the District Court of Guam.".

SEC. 3. Section 223(e) of the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984, title II, Public Law 98-473, 98 Stat. 1837, October 12, 1984, is amended to read as follows:

"(e) Section 3006A(a) is amended—

"(1) in paragraph (1)(A) by deleting 'misdemeanor (other than a petty offense as defined in section 1 of this title)' and inserting in lieu thereof 'Class A misdemeanor';

"(2) in paragraph (1) by deleting subparagraph (E) and redesignating subparagraphs (F) through (I) as subparagraphs (E) through (H), respectively; and

"(3) in paragraph (2)(A) by deleting 'petty offense' and substituting 'Class B or C misdemeanor, or an infraction'.".

SEC. 4. Section 1825 of title 28, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§ 1825. Payment of fees

"(a) In any case in which the United States or an officer or agency of the United States is a party, the United States marshal for the district shall pay all fees of witnesses on the certificate of the United States attorney or assistant United States attorney, and in the proceedings before a United States magistrate, on the certificate of such magistrate, except that any fees of defense witnesses, other than experts, appearing pursuant to subpoenas issued upon approval of the court, shall be paid by the United States marshal for the district—

"(1) on the certificate of a Federal public defender or assistant Federal public defender, in a criminal case in which the defendant is represented by such Federal public defender or assistant Federal public defender, and

"(2) on the certificate of the clerk of the court upon the affidavit of such witnesses' attendance given by other counsel appointed pursuant to section 3006A of title 18, in a criminal case in which a defendant is represented by such other counsel.

"(b) In proceedings in forma pauperis for a writ of habeas corpus, and in proceedings in forma pauperis under section 2255 of this title, the United States marshal for the district shall pay, on the certificate of the district judge, all fees of witnesses for the party authorized to proceed in forma pauperis, except that any fees of witnesses for such party, other than experts, appearing pursuant to subpoenas issued upon approval of the court, shall be paid by the United States marshal for the district—

"(1) on the certificate of a Federal public defender or assistant Federal public defender, in any such proceedings in which a party is represented by such Federal public defender or assistant Federal public defender, and

"(2) on the certificate of the clerk of the court upon the affidavit of such witnesses' attendance given by other counsel appointed pursuant to section 3006A of title 18, in any such proceedings in which a party is represented by such other counsel.

"(c) Fees and mileage need not be tendered to a witness upon service of a subpoena issued on behalf of the United States or an officer or agency of the United States, upon service of a subpoena issued on behalf of a defendant represented by a Federal public defender, assistant Federal public defender, or other attorney appointed pursuant to section 3006A of title 18, or upon service of a subpoena issued on behalf of a party authorized to proceed in forma pauperis, where the payment of such fees and mileage is to be made by the United States marshal under this section.".

SEC. 5. This Act and the amendments made by sections 2, 3, and 4 of this Act shall take effect 120 days after the date of enactment. The maximum hourly rates provided in section 3006A(d)(1) of title 18, United States Code, as amended by section 2(a)(3)(A) of this Act, shall apply only to services performed on or after the effective date of this Act. The maximum allowed for compensation for a case, as provided in section 3006A(d)(2) of title 18, United States Code, as amended by section 2(a)(3)(B) of this Act, shall apply only to compensation claims in which some portion of the claim is for services performed on or after the effective date of this Act. The maximum compensation allowed pursuant to section 3006A(e) of title 18, United States Code, as amended by subparagraphs (B) and (C) of section 2(a)(4) of this Act, shall apply only to services obtained on or after the effective date of this Act.

"(a)(1) A United States bankruptcy judge appointed under chapter 6 of this title, a judge of the United States Claims Court appointed under chapter 7 of this title or a United States magistrate appointed under chapter 43 of this title who has retired under the applicable provisions of title 5 upon attaining the age and years of service requirements established in section 371(c) of this title may agree to be recalled to serve under this section during the next five years, upon certification that substantial service is expected to be performed during such five-year period. With the agreement of the judge or magistrate involved, a certification under this subsection may be renewed for successive five-year periods.

"(2) For purposes of paragraph (1) of this subsection, a certification may be made by—

"(A) The judicial council of the circuit in which the judge's or magistrate's official duty station at the time of retirement was located, in the case of a United States bankruptcy judge or a United States magistrate; and

"(B) The Chief Judge of the United States Claims Court, in the case of a judge of that court.

"(b) A judge or magistrate recalled under this section may exercise all the powers and duties of the office held at the time of retirement, including the ability to serve in any other judicial district to the extent applicable, but may not engage in the practice of law or engage in any other business, occupation, or employment inconsistent with the expeditious, proper, and impartial performance of duties as a judicial officer.

"(c) During the time that a certification under subsection (a) of this section is in effect, the judge or magistrate involved shall receive, in addition to the annuity provided under the applicable provisions of title 5, an amount equal to the difference between that annuity and the current salary of the office to which recalled.

"(d) Nothing in this section shall affect the right of judges and magistrates to whom it applies and who retire under the provisions of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5 to serve as re-employed annuitants in accordance with the provisions of title 5 or any other provision of law.

"(e) For purposes of determining the eligibility for recall under this section, any service as a United States bankruptcy judge, a judge of the United States Claims Court or a United States magistrate, and any prior service as a referee in bankruptcy, a commissioner of the Court of Claims, or a United States commissioner may be credited.

"(f) Except as otherwise specifically provided in this section, a judge or magistrate recalled under this section shall be deemed a reemployed annuitant under chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5.

"(g) The Judicial Conference of the United States may promulgate rules and regulations to implement this section.".

TITLE II—RECALL OF CERTAIN JUDICIAL OFFICERS

SEC. 201. RECALL OF CERTAIN RETIRED JUDICIAL OFFICERS.

(a) MAGISTRATES.—(1) Section 631(d) of title 28, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by striking out "No" and inserting in lieu thereof "Except as otherwise provided in sections 375 and 636(h) of this title, no";

(B) by striking out "the unanimous" and inserting in lieu thereof "a majority"; and

(C) by inserting after "courts," the following: "which is taken upon the magistrate's attaining age seventy and upon each subsequent anniversary thereof,".

(2) Section 636 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) A United States magistrate who has retired may, upon the consent of the chief judge of the district involved, be recalled to serve as a magistrate in any judicial district by the judicial council of the circuit within which such district is located. Upon recall, a magistrate may receive a salary for such service in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Judicial Conference, subject to the restrictions on the payment of an annuity set forth in subchapter III of chapter 83, and chapter 84, of title 5. The requirements set forth in subsections (a), (b)(3), and (d) of section 631, and paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of such section to the extent such paragraph requires membership of the bar of the location in which an individual is to serve as a magistrate, shall not apply to the recall of a retired magistrate under this subsection or section 375 of this title. Any other requirement set forth in section 631(b) shall apply to the recall of a retired magistrate under this subsection or section 375 of this title unless such retired magistrate met such requirement upon appointment or reappointment as a magistrate under section 631.".

(b) ALTERNATIVE RECALL OF CERTAIN JUDGES AND MAGISTRATES.—(1) Chapter 17 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 374 the following new section:

"§ 375. Recall of certain judges and magistrates

"(a)(1) A bankruptcy judge, a judge of the Claims Court, or a United States magistrate appointed under chapter 43 of this title, who has retired under the applicable provisions of title 5 upon attaining the age and years of service requirements established in section 371(c) of this title, may agree to be recalled to serve under this section for a period of five years as a bankruptcy judge, judge of the Claims Court, or magistrate, as the case may be, upon certification that substantial service is expected to be performed by such retired judge or magistrate during such 5-year period. With the agreement of the judge or magistrate involved, a certification under this subsection may be renewed for successive 5-year periods.

"(2) For purposes of paragraph (1) of this subsection, a certification may be made—

"(A) in the case of a bankruptcy judge or a United States magistrate, by the judicial council of the circuit in which the official duty station of the judge or magistrate at the time of retirement was located; and

"(B) in the case of a judge of the Claims Court, by the chief judge of the United States Claims Court.

"(3) For purposes of this section—

"(A) the term 'bankruptcy judge' means a bankruptcy judge appointed under chapter 6 of this title or serving as a bankruptcy judge on March 31, 1984; and

"(B) the term 'judge of the Claims Court' means a judge of the United States Claims Court who is appointed under chapter 7 of this title or who has served under section 167 of the Federal Courts Improvement Act of 1982.

"(b) A judge or magistrate recalled under this section may exercise all of the powers and duties of the office of judge or magistrate held at the time of retirement, including the ability to serve in any other judicial district to the extent applicable, but may not engage in the practice of law or engage in any other business, occupation, or employment inconsistent with the expeditious, proper, and impartial performance of duties as a judicial officer.

"(c) During the 5-year period in which a certification under subsection (a) is in effect, the judge or magistrate involved shall receive, in addition to the annuity provided under the applicable provisions of title 5, an amount equal to the difference between that annuity and the current salary of the office to which the judge or magistrate is recalled.

"(d) A certification under subsection (a) may be terminated in accordance with section 372(c) of this title, and such a certification shall be terminated upon the death of the recalled judge or magistrate involved.

"(e) Except as provided in subsection (b), nothing in this section shall affect the right of judges and magistrates who retire under the provisions of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5 to serve as reemployed annuitants in accordance with the provisions of title 5. A judge or magistrate to whom this section applies may be recalled under section 155, 636(h), or 797 of this title, as the case may be, other than during a 5-year period in which a certification under subsection (a) is in effect with respect to that judge or magistrate.

"(f) For purposes of determining the years of service requirements in order to be eligible for recall under this section, any service as a bankruptcy judge, a judge of the Claims Court, or a United States magistrate, and any prior service as a referee in bankruptcy, a commissioner of the Court of Claims, or a United States commissioner, may be credited.

"(g) Except as provided in subsection (c), a judge or magistrate recalled under this section shall be considered to be a reemployed annuitant under chapter 83 or chapter 84, as the case may be, of title 5.

"(h) The Judicial Conference of the United States may promulgate regulations to implement this section.".

(2) The item relating to section 375 in the table of sections for chapter 17 of title 28, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"375. Recall of certain judges and magistrates.".

SEC. 202. TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.

(a) RECALL OF BANKRUPTCY JUDGES.—Section 155(b) of title 28, United States Code, is amended by inserting ", and chapter 84," after "chapter 83".

(b) OFFICIAL DUTY STATION.—Section 374 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following: "The place where a judge or magistrate recalled under section 155, 375, 636, or 797 of this title maintains the actual abode in which the judge or magistrate customarily lives shall be deemed to be the official station of such judge or magistrate for purposes of section 604(a)(7) of this title.".

(c) RECALL OF CLAIMS COURT JUDGES.—Section 797(a) of title 28, United States Code, is amended by inserting ", or chapter 84," after "chapter 83".

(d) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 633(b) of title 28, United States Code, is amended by striking out "643" and inserting in lieu thereof "634".

SEC. 203. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This title and the amendments made by this title take effect on January 1, 1987.

Mr. KASTENMEIER (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendment and the House amendment to the Senate amendment be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Wisconsin that the proceeding be vacated?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I was trying to determine just what bill it is that we have under consideration.

Mr. KASTENMEIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WALKER. I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. KASTENMEIER. Mr. Speaker, this is the Criminal Justice Act amendments. It does not deal with patents or any other subject. This had passed the House and had passed the Senate. The Senate sent it back to us with a series of amendments, one of which we stripped from the bill. Unfortunately, due to inadvertence, the wrong amendment was at the Speaker's table at the time this was concurred in yesterday, as the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD], a member of the committee well knows.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, we do have a pattern around here of having the minority leadership sign off on the bill. This is a bill that as of yesterday was signed off by the minority leader and we simply have a mistake in basically enrolling? Is that the problem?

Mr. KASTENMEIER. That is correct. The wrong amendment was certified by the bill clerk.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, there was a simple error made yesterday with the documents that were at the desk.

This is a good piece of legislation which I support.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The proceedings of yesterday by which the House concurred in the Senate amendment to H.R. 3004 with an amendment are vacated, and the House concurs in the Senate amendment with an amendment.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

AUTHORIZING CERTAIN TRANSFERS AFFECTING THE PUEBLO OF SANTA ANA, NM

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 4873) to authorize certain transfers affecting the Pueblo of Santa Ana in New Mexico, and for other purposes, with Senate amendments thereto, and concur in the Senate amendments.

The Clerk read the title to the bill.

The Clerk read the Senate amendments, as follows:

Page 2, line 4, strike out before the date of enactment of this Act

Page 3, line 23, strike out Northeast quarter, and insert: Northeast quarter

SEC. 6. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the provisions of this Act, and the amendments made by this Act, shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act.

(b)(1) the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of section 1 shall take effect on the day on which the Secretary of the Interior publishes in the Federal Register notice of a determination made by the Secretary of the Interior that the Pueblo of Santa Ana has consented to private easements of access over lands held by, or on behalf of, the Pueblo of Santa Ana, as recommended by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with the provisions of part 169 of title 25, Code of Federal Regulations, to each person—

(A) who without such an easement has no practical surface ingress or egress to property owned in fee simple by such person, and

(B) who has submitted to the Pueblo of Santa Ana and to the Secretary of the Interior an application for such an easement, in accordance with part 169 of such title, before the date that is 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) The Secretary of the Interior may make a determination under paragraph (1) at any time after the date of enactment of this Act, but the Secretary of the Interior shall make a determination of whether the Pueblo of Santa Ana has consented to easements of access to each person described in paragraph (1) by no later than the date that is 30 days after the date on which the Pueblo of Santa Ana requests the Secretary of the Interior to make such a determination.

Mr. VENTO (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendments be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the initial request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

Mr. STRANG. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I do not necessarily object, but I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. VENTO] for an explanation of this measure.

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 4873 is a bill providing that all interests of the United States in the mineral estate of some 494 acres of land in Sandoval County, NM shall be held in trust by the United States for the Pueblo of Santa Ana. The pueblo already owns the surface estate to these 494 acres.

This bill also implements an out-of-court settlement reached between the pueblo and the University of New Mexico. The agreement calls for a land exchange between the university and the pueblo which cannot be accomplished without the consent of the United States.

This bill already passed the House by voice vote and was sent to the other body where a noncontroversial amendment concerning certain non-Indian easements over Indian land was added.

This bill does not authorize any additional appropriations of Federal funds and enjoys bipartisan support, I urge my colleagues to support the bill and concur in the Senate amendment.

Mr. STRANG. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the legislation just considered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

REVISION OF BOUNDARIES OF OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK AND OLYMPIC NATIONAL FOREST IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate bill (S. 2351) to revise the boundaries of Olympic National Park and Olympic National Forest in the State of Washington, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota so that he might explain the bill.

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, S. 2351 was passed by the other body on October 10, 1986 and would alter the boundaries of the Olympic National Park and the Olympic National Forest so as to provide for improved management of both the park and the forest. Olympic National Park and Olympic National Forest share many common boundaries. Some of the existing boundaries that separate the park and the forest are so drawn as to impair the efficient operations of both agencies. Established earlier in the century, many of the boundaries are drawn on township and section lines which do not always meet logical resource management needs or serve the best interests of the public. The upper portions of some park watersheds lie outside park boundaries thus allowing land uses that could affect recreation and scenic resources downstream. In one area, the existing park boundary effectively blocks access to portions of the forest since logging roads cannot be built through the park.

In addition to boundary changes the bill would make conforming changes in three wilderness areas established on national forest lands pursuant to the Washington Wilderness Act. Those lands transferred from forest wilderness to the park would not be designated wilderness at this time. The modification of the forest wilderness boundaries does not affect timber management in the Northwest since the changes are between wilderness and park management, both of which prohibit timber management.

Subsequent to the other body acting on this bill, some concerns have been raised about the effect it might have on Indian treaty rights. It should be clear that S. 2351 does not affect Indian treaty rights in any way. Section 5 of the Olympic Park organic statute states that nothing therein "shall affect . . . the rights reserved by treaty to the Indians of any tribes." This section fully applies to the areas incorporated into the park boundaries by this bill.

Is should also be understood that the proviso in section 1(A)(3) of the bill, that provides that the lands in the intertidal zone "shall continue to be open to fishing and to the taking of shellfish in conformity with the laws and regulations of the State of Washington," does not enhance the authority of the State of Washington. The key word is continue. The authority of the State of Washington shall continue to be what would be in the absence of legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I understand this bill is supported by the administration as well as by all of the affected groups.

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Washington [Mr. SWIFT].

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, today the House will vote on S. 2351, a bill that will modify the boundary between Olympic National Park and Olympic National Forest to be more along hydrographic lines. S. 2351 was first introduced by Senators GORTON and EVANS 6 months ago, and was identical to H.R. 4704 which I introduced in the House. The bill that we are voting on today has been amended in the other body, and I believe is an overall improvement on the original legislation.

When the park and the forest were first established, early in this century, many of the boundaries were based on township lines. This makes it difficult in many areas for both the park and the forest to manage their lands. S. 2351, which has the support of both Olympic Park and Olympic Forest, will greatly improve the ability of the land managers to fulfill their missions.

The amended bill includes two features that require some elaboration. These new provisions were not in H.R. 4704, but I have worked with Senator GORTON and EVANS to make sure that they have been developed in a balanced fashion.

First, S. 2351 changes the boundary of Olympic National Park along 57 miles of coastline from the mean high tide to the lowest low tide. The title to this intertidal zone is held by the State of Washington, and would remain with the State. The purpose of this boundary adjustment is to enable the Park Service to be more active in protecting the fragile ecosystem of the intertidal zone, particularly the tidal pools that are close to roads and trails located in the park. S. 2351 does not affect the title to the intertidal zone, which remains with the State. Nor does it allow the Park Service to replace the State agencies that have management authority in the area; it simply enables the Park Service to complement the work of those State agencies.

Second, S. 2351 includes the submerged lands of Lake Ozette and Ozette River within Olympic National Park. The park already includes all of the land surrounding the lake and river, but does not currently include the submerged lands. This legislation does not affect title to the submerged lands, nor does it affect the management authority of the State department of natural resources over those lands. Like the inclusion of the intertidal zone, it only makes it possible for the park to complement the Department of Natural Resource's work.

With these understandings of the amended version of S. 2351, I can support the legislation since I believe that it will be in the best interest of all agencies involved. More importantly, I believe that it protects the interests of my constituents who live and work on the Olympic Peninsular. I ask my colleagues to vote for this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I rise in support of S. 2351. As the subcommittee chairman has explained, this legislation provides for a transfer of approximately 12,000 acres between the Olympic National Park and the Olympic National Forest in the State of Washington to order to conform the boundaries to the topographic features and hydrographic divides within the areas. The bill also adds several additional parcels to the boundary of the national park.

Although the Subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation did not specifically review this legislation, the other body did hold committee hearing on S. 2351 and recently approved the bill in full Senate.

I believe this bill improves the the boundaries of both Olympic National Park and Olympic National Forest. In addition, I know of no opposition to this legislation. Therefore, I urge all of my colleagues to support S. 2351.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 2351

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. (a) The boundary of Olympic National Park, Washington, is hereby revised to include within the park—

(1) all submerged lands and waters of Lake Ozette, Washington, and the Ozette River, Washington;

(2) all surveyed and unsurveyed islands lying off the coast of the State of Washington in the Pacific Ocean between latitudes 48 degrees 23 minutes north and 47 degrees 38 minutes north;

(3) those lands between mean high tide and the lowest low tide beginning in section 22, township 24 north, range 13 west Willamette meridian, at the common boundary between the Olympic National Park and the Quinault Indian Reservation, to section 18, township 32 north, range 15 west Willamette meridian, at the common boundary between the Olympic National Park and the Makah Indian Reservation, except those lands directly adjacent to and west of the Hoh, Ozette, and Quillayute Indian Reservations: Provided, That such lands as are identified in this paragraph shall continue to be open to fishing and to the taking of shellfish in conformity with the laws and regulations of the State of Washington; and

(4) approximately nine thousand six hundred and thirty-eight acres, and to exclude from the park approximately three thousand three hundred and fifty-two acres, as generally depicted on the maps entitled "Boundary Modifications, Olympic National Forest and Olympic National Park", numbered 149/60,030A, sheets 1 through 9, and dated September 1986, which shall be on file and available for public inspection in the office of the National Park Service, United States Department of the Interior.

(b) The boundary of Olympic National Forest, Washington, is hereby revised to include in the national forest approximately three thousand three hundred and fifty-two acres and to exclude from the national forest approximately nine thousand three hundred and twenty-four acres, as generally depicted on the maps entitled "Boundary Modifications, Olympic National Forest and Olympic National Park", numbered 149/60,030A, sheet 1 through 10, and dated September 1986, which shall be on file and available for public inspection in the office of the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

(c) Section 3 of the Washington State Wilderness Act of 1984 (Public Law 98-339, Act of July 3, 1984, 98 Stat. 301) is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following new subsection:

"(2) certain lands in the Olympic National Forest, Washington, which comprise approximately forty-four thousand four hundred and seventy-four acres, as generally depicted on a map entitled 'Buckhorn Wilderness—Revised', numbered 98-339-3(2), sheets 1 and 2, and dated September 1986, and which shall be known as the Buckhorn Wilderness;";

(2) by striking subsection (13) and inserting in lieu thereof the following new subsection:

"(13) certain lands in the Olympic National Forest, Washington, which comprise approximately thirteen thousand and fifteen acres, as generally depicted on a map entitled 'Mount Skokomish Wilderness—Revised', numbered 98-339-3(13) and dated September 1986, and which shall be known as the 'Mount Skokomish Wilderness—Revised', dated September 1986, and which shall be known as the Mount Skokomish Wilderness;"; and

(3) by striking subsection (19) and inserting in lieu thereof the following new subsection:

(19) certain lands in the Olympic National Forest, Washington, which comprise approximately sixteen thousand six hundred and eighty-two acres, as generally dipicted on a map entitled 'The Brothers Wilderness—Revised', numbered 98-339-3(19) and dated September 1986, and which shall be known as 'The Brothers Wilderness;'.".

SEC. 2. (a) Federal lands, waters, and interests therein formerly within the boundary of Olympic National Forest which are included within the boundary of Olympic National Park pursuant to section 1 of this Act are, subject to valid existing rights, hereby transferred to the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior for administration as part of the park, and shall be subject to all the laws and regulations applicable to the park: Provided further, That within section 15, township 15 north, range 9 west Willamette meridian, and within an area extending not more than one mile north of such section, nothing herein shall be construed to limit or otherwise modify the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to design and construct a forest logging road east of the park boundary: Provided, however, That the Secretary of Agriculture shall not construct the road as close as practically possible to the park boundary but not more than five hundred feet east of the divide. Following construction, the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized and directed to redescribe and relocate the boundary of the park along the eastern clearing limits of the road.

(b) Federal lands, water, and interests therein formerly within the boundary of Olympic National Park which are excluded therefrom pursuant to section 1 of this Act are, subject to valid existing rights, hereby transferred to the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary of Agriculture for administration as part of Olympic National Forest, and shall be subject to all the laws and regulations applicable to the National Forest System: Provided, That any lands deleted from the park and included within the Buckhorn Wilderness, Mount Skokomish Wilderness, or The Brothers Wilderness pursuant to this Act shall be managed in accordance with the provisions of the Washington State Wilderness Act of 1984 (Public Law 98-339, Act of July 3, 1984, 98 Stat. 301).

SEC. 3. (a) The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to acquire by donation, purchase with donated or appropriated funds, exchange, bequest or otherwise any non-Federal lands, waters, and interests therein included within the boundary of Olympic National Park pursuant to section 1 of this Act: Provided: That any lands, waters, or interests therein owned by the State of Washington or any political subdivision thereof may be acquired only by donation or exchange.

(b) For the purpose of section 7 of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 (78 Stat. 903, as amended; 16 U.S.C. 4601-9), the boundary of the Olympic National Forest, as modified pursuant to section 1 of this Act, shall be treated as if it was the boundary of that national forest on January 1, 1965.

SEC. 4. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act, except that the total amounts authorized to be appropriated for the purpose of acquisition of lands, waters, and interests therein pursuant to this Act shall not exceed $1,000,000.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the legislation just considered and adopted.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

AUTHORIZING ACQUISITION AND DEVELOPMENT OF MAINLAND TOUR BOAT FACILITY FOR FORT SUMTER NATIONAL MONUMENT, SC

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate bill (S. 2534) to authorize the acquisition and development of a mainland tour boat facility for the Fort Sumter National Monument, SC, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. VENTO] to explain what is involved here.

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, S. 2534 would authorize a new location for visitor facilities at Fort Sumter National Monument.

Fort Sumter is located on an island off Charleston, SC. Since the monument was established in 1948, visitors have been ferried to the fort by a concessioner operated tour boat.

For the past decade, the National Park Service has attempted to locate a docking facility in Charleston for a tour boat which transports more than 150,000 people to Fort Sumter each year. The present tour boat facility at the Charleston City Marina on the Ashley River does not offer adequate parking and provides no rest rooms or services. The Park Service has studied several potential boat docking sites in the past 10 years. In 1978, Congress appropriated $5,581,000 for construction of a tour boat facility adjacent to Charleston's Broad Street. However, the city of Charleston persuaded the Park Service that the fleet landing site would be more appropriate-based on a Charleston tourism study. In 1980, Congress authorized the acquisition of the fleet landing site and $368,000 was appropriated in 1982, for this purpose. However, concerns over parking, vehicle access, and the need for dredging at that site caused the Park Service to halt land acquisition negotiations in 1982.

In May 1985, the tour boat concessioner requested National Park Service consideration of a 9-acre site immediately north of dockside condominiums, known as "Dockside II." In June, the city of Charleston requested the Park Service to consider this site as a location for tour boats as well as a marine science museum. In January 1986, the concessioner purchased the site consisting of approximately 9 acres of high and submerged lands.

S. 2534 authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to acquire up to 8.91 acres at the Dockside II site to provide tour boat facilities for visitors to Fort Sumter National Monument. The bill also authorizes the Secretary to convey a leasehold interest in not to exceed 1½ acres to the State of South Carolina or the city of Charleston for development of a marine museum and associated facilities. The legislation also provides authority for the sale of the property to be used for the marine museum to the State or city.

The bill authorizes the Secretary to grant convenants or easements for ingress and egress. Further, it provides that the Secretary may enter into cooperative agreements for the sharing of construction, maintenance, and use of buildings and facilities among the parties to the agreements.

S. 2534 repeals section 117 of Public Law 96-199 which authorized acquisition of the fleet landing site, and makes funds previously appropriated available for the Dockside II project.

Mr. Speaker, a new section 6 will be added to this bill which would require the Secretary of the Interior to consider and act upon an application for a patent on 160 acres of land in the State of Mississippi.

Mr. Speaker, I urge adoption of S. 2534, as amended.

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. LOTT].

Mr. LOTT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee for making this additional unanimous consent. It is noncontroversial, one that we worked on a long time ago, but one that is very deserving, and I just wanted to express my appreciation for the gentleman doing it in this instance.

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I rise in support of S. 2534, to authorize the acquisition and development of a mainland tour boat facility for the Fort Sumter National Monument in South Carolina.

As the subcommittee chairman has explained, a permanent dock is needed in Charleston from which boats can be launched to take visitors to and from the island where the national monument is located. The current launch site will not be available in the very near future due to the proposed construction of an expressway in that area. Congress appropriated the necessary funds for a dock site in 1978, but the site selected was later deemed inappropriate due to projected maintenance costs for dredging the dock area and the creation of congestion in the nearby historic district in Charleston.

A new site was recently selected by the National Park Service in cooperation with the city of Charleston and the Fort Sumter Tours concessionaire, Mr. George Campsen. There is no known opposition to the new boat dock site which appears will be an appropriate welcome center and tour boat facility for the Fort Sumter National Monument. In addition, S. 2534 does not authorize new Federal appropriations, but simply allows for the reprogramming of funds previously appropriated for this purpose. It also authorizes cooperative agreements between the National Park Service and the State of South Carolina, city of Charleston, or other parties for the construction, maintenance, and use of buildings, utilities, and parking facilities for the new boat launch site.

Although the Subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation did not review this measure, the other body held hearings and recently passed the bill. In addition our colleague from South Carolina, Mr. Hartnett, has introduced companion legislation in the House.

Mr. Speaker, I believe this is a good, sound proposal which will solve a major problem at the Fort Sumter National Monument. Furthermore, I know of no opposition to the measure. Therefore, I urge all of my colleagues to support S. 2534.

I also support an amendment which I understand will be attached to the bill.

The amendment is the text of H.R. 5151, a bill by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. LOTT], a simple private relief bill for a Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Wells. The legislation allows them to apply for a patent under the Color of Title Act despite some minor technicalities which would otherwise prevent them from receiving a patent.

The gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. LOTT] should be commended for his determination to assist his constituents. Despite some procedural obstacles, he has not let the press of business deter him. I am hopeful he will be successful and I urge my colleagues to support this highly meritorious legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 2534

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, in order to provide for needed facilities for visitors to Fort Sumter National Monument, including a tour boat dock and associated facilities, and an interpretive and museum facility in cooperation with the State of South Carolina and the city of Charleston, the Secretary of the Interior (in this Act referred to as the "Secretary"), is authorized to acquire by purchase with donated or appropriated funds, donation, or exchange, not to exceed 8.91 acres of lands, including submerged lands, and interests in lands, within the area generally depicted on the map entitled "Dockside II, Proposed Site, Tourboat Facility," which map shall be on file and available for public inspection in the office of the National Park Service. When acquired, lands, including submerged lands and interests in lands, depicted on such map shall be administered by the Secretary as a part of Fort Sumter National Monument, subject to the laws and regulations applicable to such monument, and subject to the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 2. (a) With respect to the lands, including submerged lands, and interests in lands acquired pursuant to the first section of this Act, the Secretary is authorized—

(1) to convey, notwithstanding the provisions of section 5 of Public Law 90-400 (82 Stat. 356) and subject to the provisions of subsection (b), a leasehold interest in not to exceed one and a half acres to the State of South Carolina or the city of Charleston or either of them for development by either of them or their agents or lessees of a marine museum and associated administrative facilities;

(2) to grant convenants or easements for ingress, and egress to the State of South Carolina, the city of Charleston, and to other parties as the Secretary may deem necessary to facilitate public use; and

(3) to enter into cooperative agreements with the State of South Carolina, the city of Charleston, and other parties as the Secretary may deem necessary, pursuant to which construction, maintenance, and use of buildings, utilities, parking facilities, and other improvements may be shared among the parties to the agreement.

(b) Any conveyance made pursuant to subsection (a)(1) and any renewal thereof may be for a period of up to 50 years, and may include the option to purchase the property in fee by the lessee within the first 10 years, upon payment by the lessee of the cost of the property to the United States plus interest based on the average yield of United States Treasury notes with maturities of one year. The Secretary may convey title to the property in fee in the event such option to purchase is exercised, subject to the condition that the property is used for a public marine museum and associated administrative facilities. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any leasehold interest conveyed pursuant to subsection (a)(1) shall be conveyed without monetary consideration. The proceeds from any conveyance of property in fee pursuant to subsection (a)(1) shall be deposited in the Land and Water Conservation Fund in the Treasury of the United States.

SEC. 3. Section 117 of Public Law 96-199 (94 Stat. 71) is hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, sums heretofore appropriated but not, on the date of enactment of this Act, obligated for construction of a tourboat facility at the Broad Street site, and for the acquisition and construction of the Fleet landing site for Fort Sumter National Monument, which was authorized by section 117 of Public Law 96-199 (94 Stat. 71) are hereby made available for obligation for the acquisition of the lands including submerged lands, and interests in lands identified in the first section of this Act and for construction of necessary facilities thereon, and to the extent that sums heretofore appropriated for land acquisition of the Fleet landing site are not sufficient to cover the cost of acquisition of the properties identified in the first section of this Act, sums heretofore appropriated for construction of facilities at the Broad Street site and the Fleet landing site may be obligated for the purposes of acquisition as authorized in the first section of this Act.

(b) In addition to the sums made available under subsection (a), there is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 5. The Secretary of the Interior shall transfer administrative jurisdiction over the Federal property, consisting of approximately 1 acre, known as the Broad Street site, to the Secretary of the Department in which the Coast Guard is operating, who shall transfer to the Secretary of the Interior, subject to such reservations, terms, and conditions as may be necessary for Coast Guard purposes, administrative jurisdiction over the Federal property, consisting of approximately 1 acre located near Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's Island for purposes of maintenance workshop, storage, and seasonal housing in connection with the administration and protection of the Fort Sumter National Monument.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. VENTO

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. VENTO: Add a new section 6 as follows:

SEC. 6. (a) Not later than 45 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall receive, consider, and act on the application of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wells of Waynesboro, Mississippi, for a patent for the land described in subsection (c) of this section under the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to issue patents for lands held under color of title" approved December 22, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 1068 et seq.) notwithstanding the requirement of that Act that a tract of public land be held in good faith and in peaceful, adverse, possession by a claimant, his ancestors or grantors, under claim or color of title for the period commencing not later than January 1, 1901, to the date of application during which time they have paid taxes levied on the land by State and local governmental units.

(b) Any patent issued pursuant to subsection (a) shall be without any mineral reservation to the United States, and all mineral interests of the United States in and to the land described in subsection (c) shall be transferred to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wells without consideration.

(c) The land referred to in this section, comprising approximately 160 acres, is the NW¼ of Section 21, T. 10 N., R. 8 W., St. Stephens Meridian.

Mr. VENTO (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. VENTO].

The amendment was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CONFIRMING A CONVEYANCE OF CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY BY SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRANSPORTATION CO. TO ERNEST PRITCHETT AND DIANNA PRITCHETT

Mr. SEIBERLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs be discharged from further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 386) to confirm a conveyance of certain real property by the Southern Pacific Transportation Co. to Ernest Pritchett and his wife, Dianna Pritchett, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I do not object, I merely wish to rise in support of S. 386, a bill to validate a conveyance made by the Southern Pacific Railroad to Ernest and Dianna Pritchett. The bill also contains an amendment which I understand has been added to validate another similar conveyance, the test of which we have already passed as H.R. 3266.

Both provisions are meritorious and will assist individual homeowners who have been unable to clear title to their property and, as a result, have had difficulties getting home improvement loans or have been unable to sell their property.

It is my understanding that the Bureau of Land Management is not opposed to the legislation and there is no cost involved.

I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Under my reservation, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. SEIBERLING] to explain the bill.

Mr. SEIBERLING. Mr. Speaker, the Senate-passed bill is a noncontroversial measure which would take care of a title-clearing situation in Oregon. It would validate a past conveyance of lands granted to the record owner's predecessor in title for purposes of a railroad right-of-way. It is similar to several other bills that our committee has dealt with in legislation that has now gone to the President for his signature.

It is my intention to offer an amendment. The amendment would add to the Senate-passed bill the text of a similar House-passed bill dealing with a similar situation in California.

I am unaware of any controversy about the House-passed bill, just as I am unaware of any with regard to the Senate-passed measure. By combining them, it is my hope that all these can be expeditiously passed into law.

□ 1740

Mr. LAGOMARSINO. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection

The clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 386

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, subject to section 3, the conveyance described in section 2(a) of this Act involving certain real property in Jackson County, Oregon, forming a part of the right-of-way granted by the United States to the California and Oregon Railroad Company under the Act entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad, in California, to Portland, in Oregon", approved July 25, 1866 (14 Stat. 239), is confirmed in Ernest Pritchett and his wife, Dianna Pritchett, the grantees in such conveyance, and their successors in interest, with respect to all interests of the United States in the rights to the real property described in section 2(b) of this Act.

SEC. 2. (a) The conveyance confirmed by this Act was made by a deed dated July 23, 1982, by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company to Ernest Pritchett and his wife, Dianna Pritchett, and recorded on October 20, 1982, in the official records of Jackson County, Document Numbered 82-15174.

(b) The real property referred to in the first section of this Act is a parcel of land in the northwest quarter of section 26, township 36 south, range 4 west, Willamette meridian, county of Jackson, State of Oregon, more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at the west quarter corner of such section 26; thence south 89 degrees 46 minutes 45 seconds east along the southerly line of such northwest quarter of section 26 a distance of 1082.50 feet to a point in a line parallel with and distant 100 feet northeasterly, measured at right angles, from the original located center line of Southern Pacific Transportation Company's main track (Siskiyou branch), and also the true point of beginning of the parcel to be described;

thence north 65 degrees 2 minutes 35 seconds west along such parallel line 1191.92 feet to the westerly line of such section 26; thence south zero degrees 12 minutes 52 seconds west along such westerly line 55.05 feet to a point in a line parallel with and distant 50 feet northeasterly, measured at right angles, from such center line; thence south 65 degrees 2 minutes 35 seconds east along last such parallel line, as last such parallel line being also the northeasterly line of that certain parcel of land described in deed dated June 23, 1883, from Frederick G. Birdsey to Oregon and California Railroad Company, recorded July 28, 1883, in deed book 10, page 463, records of such county, a distance of 1060.35 feet to such southerly line; thence south 89 degrees 46 minutes 45 seconds east along such southerly line 119.49 feet to the true point of beginning, containing an area of 1.293 acres, more or less.

SEC. 3. (a) Nothing in this Act shall—

(1) diminish the right-of-way referred to in the first section of this Act to a width of less than 50 feet on each side of the center of the main track or tracks established and maintained by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company on the date of enactment of this Act; or

(2) validate or confirm any right or title to, or interest in, the land referred to in the first section of this Act arising out of adverse possession, prescription, or abandonment, and not confirmed by conveyance by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company before the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) There is reserved to the United States all oil, coal, or other minerals in the land referred to in the first section of this Act, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove such oil, coal, or other minerals under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. SEIBERLING

Mr. SEIBERLING. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. SEIBERLING: At the end of the bill, add the following new sections:

SEC. 4. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds that—

(1) the Southern Pacific Transportation Company is the successor grantee of the real property described in section 6;

(2) pursuant to a petition of the Southern Pacific Transportation Company, the Interstate Commerce Commission has exempted the abandonment of the real property described in section 6 from the provisions of 49 U.S.C. 10903 (relating to abandonment and discontinuance of railroad lines and rail transportation);

(3) the Southern Pacific Transportation Company has abandoned all right, title, and interest in and to the real property described in section 6.

SEC. 5. DECLARATION OF ABANDONMENT.

For the purposes of the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the disposition of abandoned portions of rights of way granted to railroad companies", approved March 8, 1922 (43 U.S.C. 912), the Congress hereby declares that the Southern Pacific Transportation Company has abandoned the real property described in section 6.

SEC. 6. LAND DESCRIPTION.

The real property referred to in sections 4 and 5 is certain real property situated in the City of Coalinga, California, which forms part of the right-of-way granted by the United States to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company by the Act entitled "An Act granting Lands to aid in the Construction of a Railroad and Telegraph Line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific Coast", approved July 27, 1866 (16 Stat. 292), and more particularly described as that portion of the right-of-way extending from the section line of Sections 33 and 34 of Township 20 South, Range 15 East, Mount Diablo Base & Meridian to the south city limits of the City of Coalinga.

Mr. SEIBERLING (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. SEIBERLING].

The amendment was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

TITLE AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. SEIBERLING

Mr. SEIBERLING. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment to the title.

The Clerk read as follows:

Title amendment offered by Mr. SEIBERLING: Amend the title so as to read: "To confirm a conveyance of certain real property by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company to Ernest Pritchett and his wife, Diana Pritchett, and for other purposes."

The title amendment was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SEIBERLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on the Senate bill just passed.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON S. 1128, CLEAN WATER ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1985

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 588 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 588

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider the conference report on the bill (S. 1128) to amend the Clean Water Act, all points of order against the conference report and against its consideration are hereby waived, and the conference report shall be considered as having been read when called up for consideration.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. TAYLOR], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 588 is the rule providing for the consideration of the conference report on S. 1128, the Clean Water Act Amendments of 1985.

Mr. Speaker, under the rules of the House, conference reports are considered privileged and are considered in the House under the 1-hour rule, and no amendments will be in order. All points of order against the conference report and against its consideration in the House are waived. In addition, the conference report is to be considered as having been read when called up for consideration.

Mr. Speaker, this conference agreement approves $19 billion in loans and grants from the Federal Government to State and local governments to be used for cleaning the Nation's lakes, rivers, and estuaries. The major provision of the bill would authorize $18 billion for the construction of public sewage treatment plants over the next 8 years.

Ultimately, these plants would treat all domestic waste before it would be allowed to be discharged into the Nation's waterways. The bill also establishes a March 31, 1989, deadline for industries to comply with Federal standards for waste treatment facilities.

Also, Mr. Speaker, there is a provision for $400 million that establishes a national program to control urban and agricultural runoff, more commonly known as nonprofit pollution, this nonprofit pollution accounts for close to one-half of the wastes that are spoiling the Nation's waters.

Mr. Speaker, this bill paves the way for a solution to one of the top environmental issues that this Congress has addressed, by passing this conference report, Congress is in a position to show the American people that we are fully committed to cleaning and perserving our Nation's waterways. I urge adoption of the rule and the passage of the conference report.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 588 waives points of order against the conference report on S. 1128, and against the consideration of the report. The report, which was filed today, revitalizes and strengthens the Nation's primary water pollution control law.

The rule makes the conference report on S. 1128, the Clean Water Act Amendments of 1986 in order, and waives all points of order that would otherwise lie against the report and against its consideration.

In addition the rule provides that the conference report shall be considered as having been read when called up for consideration.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report made in order by this rule is a 5-year reauthorization of the Water Pollution Control Act of 1972, which is often referred to as the Clean Water Act.

The committee of conference agreed to extend the sewer construction program for a total of 8 years by authorizing a total of $18 billion for sewage treatment facilities.

The conference agreement replaces our current Federal grant program for construction of treatment plants at the end 4 years with a loan program. Repayment of the loans would be used to create a permanent revolving fund for making construction loans.

Mr. Speaker, the House passed H.R. 8 in July 1985, and the Members have been waiting for this conference report for over a year. Adoption of this rule will move the House one step closer to a resolution of these longstanding issues, and I urge adoption of the rule.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER].

Mr. WALKER. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, we have heard today a couple of times that the Rules Committee is very reluctant about bringing rules to the floor where they have not had the conference report before them at the time that they wrote the rule. But once again, the third time today, we have got a rule before us that was written before the conference report was available to the Rules Committee.

That reluctance on the part of the Rules Committee is becoming somewhat of a farce when you consider the situation we find ourselves in out here today. Here is a bill once again that when the issue was before the Rules Committee last week, the Rules Committee had not yet seen the conference report and yet they write a rule waiving all points of order against it.

As it turns out, as I understand it, the only point of order that is waived against the bill regards the 3-day rule and we are about 3 days past it anyhow so it does not make very much difference. So it is merely technical.

I would suggest that the pattern that we are seeing here on the floor today is thoroughly unacceptable. We cannot have a Rules Committee considering rules that waive all points of order on measures that they have not even seen. That is just plain wrong. We cannot allow that to go forward day after day and hour after hour on this House floor without paying some terrible consequences. I think the American people deserve to know that when we take up bills waiving the points of order, we at least know what is in the bill. That is precisely what we are violating out here and it seems to me that this rule probably makes in order a pretty good conference report, that because of the 3-day layover thing there is nothing particularly wrong with the rule but the process is just plain wrong.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 588, I call up the conference report on the Senate bill (S. 1128) to amend the Clean Water Act.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to House Resolution 588, the conference report is considered as having been read.

(For conference report and statement, see proceedings of the House of October 14, 1986.)

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HOWARD] will be recognized for 30 minutes, and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. STANGELAND] will be recognized for 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HOWARD].

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of passage of the conference report on S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986, which will extend the Nation's battle against water pollution well into the 1990's.

This bill represents the third major reauthorization of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 or Clean Water Act. It is a significant legislative achievement that has taken 4 years of hard effort.

I would like to compliment my colleague from New Jersey, Mr. ROE, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Water Resources, for his extraordinary work on this bill. I also want to thank the gentleman from Minnesota, Mr. STANGELAND, the subcommittee's ranking minority member, for his work. The subcommittee staff also deserves praise for the long hours they put in on this bill.

This has been a 4-year effort that started in early 1983 to reauthorize the Clean Water Act, to revise several of the central provisions that needed reworking and to develop some new programs to meet the needs of the 1980's and 1990's. The conference report that we have before us today accomplishes all of these goals in a way that will maintain a strong clean water program for the years to come.

The bill authorizes the continued use of Federal resources to support the local construction of sewage treatment plants. The construction program was one of the significant accomplishments of the 1972 act which this bill continues. The bill authorizes $18 billion for the Federal share of treatment plant construction from fiscal year 1986 through fiscal year 1994.

The importance of this program to our clean water effort cannot be overestimated. Sewage is one of the prime sources of pollution that the Clean Water Act is intended to stop. As of 1982, a decade after the passage of the Clean Water Act, 142 million people in this Nation were served by at least secondary treatment, an increase of 57 million people in 10 years. During that period, the number of people being served by lines carrying raw sewage into navigable waters dropped from 5 to 1 million and the number of people requiring but not receiving sewage treatment dropped from 21 to 14 million.

At the same time, however, there are still 23 million people who receive less than secondary treatment. The States estimate that a failure to build sewage treatment plants at the pace that took place during that decade would have resulted in increased discharges of 191 percent of organic pollution.

The deadlines have been set for municipal compliance with the secondary treatment requirements. Unless there are specific waivers issued, compliance is by 1988. If we are going to set those deadlines for local officials, we must also provide them with a reasonable opportunity to obtain the resources to comply. Under previous administrations, the Federal Government supplied a high amount of funding for sewage treatment plants at a 75-percent Federal share. Since 1981, the authorization and subsequent appropriation was reduced by half while the Federal share was reduced to 55 percent.

To meet the sewage treatment needs that we face, this bill not only authorizes construction grants through fiscal year 1990 but it includes $8.4 billion that may be used as loans to local governments beginning in fiscal year 1989.

The loan program is in direct accordance with my belief that all levels of government must develop new and innovative methods of financing to meet our massive infrastructure needs. It is clear that the traditional grant programs will no longer meet multibillion-dollar needs that are evident. The loan funding will be distributed to the States using the same allotment formula as the grant program. To qualify, States must create revolving loan funds and deposit a 20-percent matching share.

A second leg of our pollution battle concerns control of industrial discharges. The conference report requires that for priority toxics, toxics, conventional pollutants, nonconventional pollutants that industry install the best available technology as expeditiously as possible but no later than 3 years after the promulgation of effluent guidelines by the Environmental Protection Agency and in no event later than March 31, 1989. The bill includes specific dates for EPA to promulgate those guidelines.

The conference report also authorizes $85 million for the Clean Lakes Program, including $15 million for acidified lakes.

This conference report will prohibit any waivers of secondary treatment requirements under section 301(h) of the act in the New Jersey-New York area. It contains stringent new requirements for obtaining such waivers from EPA in other areas but it specifically prohibits any waivers in the New York Bight. The section 301(h) waivers are not designed for that area and should not be permitted. Secondary treatment must be the standard in that area.

The third part of the conference report involves the creation of new programs to meet the realities that exist a decade and a half after the passage of the Clean Water Act. The conference report includes several new programs that will meet specific needs.

First, the bill authorizes $450 million over 5 years for the development and implementation of plans by the States for the management of nonpoint pollution. There has been progress made in controlling pollution from point sources since 1972 but it is now time to turn our attention to runoff from urban areas, farm land, and construction sites. It is estimated that 30,000 miles of rivers and streams and 880,000 acres of lakes are severely impacted by this runoff. This first Federal effort at controlling nonpoint pollution is a necessary part of our pollution battle.

The conference report authorizes $48 million over 4 years for the development of plans for the cleanup of the Nation's estuaries. These plans are to be developed through interstate management conferences. These conferences are to develop conservation and management plans recommending priority corrective actions and compliance schedules addressing point and nonpoint pollution. A separate program for cleanup of Chesapeake Bay is authorized.

Another major new program creates procedures for controlling pollution in those water that will not comply with the requirements of the act even after implementation of all the basic controls in the legislation. The program requires that States propose individual control strategies for each of these sites for submission to EPA.

This conference report also contains a provision that is a major victory for the New Jersey shore. After a struggle lasting for years, there is agreement on legislation that will close the site located 12 miles from Sandy Hook to all disposal of sewage sludge. Instead, the nine entities that use the 12-mile site will be required to haul their sludge by the end of 1987 to a site 106 miles offshore. The outer continental shelf site is designated for 5 years only.

The conference report also closes that 106-mile site, to all but the nine entities now using the 12-mile site. That means that the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, which had planned on using the 106-mile site, and any other authority on the east coast that had been hoping to follow the lead of the Massachusetts authority, will be unable to use that site.

I consider this provision to be a major step in our battle to protect the environment. This sludge dumping just a few miles from our beaches has been taking place for more than half a century. The Council on Environmental Quality reports that the 12-mile site "shows extensive signs of environmental degradation including high levels of bacteria that caused the site to be closed for shell fishing, decreased diversity of benthic marine life over a broad area, and high levels of potentially toxic metals and organic compounds, including PCBs, in the sediments." It is estimated that the sludge, along with the dredged material dumped at the 6-mile site, contributes 63 percent of suspended solids found in the waters of the New York Bight.

It is long past time that this operation 12 miles from Sandy Hook was halted. There is no other area, especially one that depends on clean water for its recreation and economy as does the New Jersey Shore, that must face this continual massive pollution of its most valuable resource. It should have been stopped long ago. This conference report will ensure that it is stopped by the end of 1987.

We did not win the battle against the 12-mile site only to find that our beaches were going to be threatened by even more pollutants from outside the New Jersey-New York area. That is what approval of the application filed by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority would have meant. That application must not be approved nor must there be opportunity for any other similar applications. Our policy should be to bring about an end to all ocean disposal of sludge, not to allow new dumping. This conference report will prohibit new dumping.

Passage of this bill will be a major advance for the Nation's clean water effort. It has as its goal the continued cleanup of the environment and the control of all forms of pollution.

I strongly urge approval of the conference report.

Mr. STANGELAND. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am exceedingly peased to rise in support of the conference report on S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986. This legislation is the result of conference discussions spanning half a year and work by House and Senate committees spanning the past 4 years. Weeks of hearings, thousands of pages of testimony, and countless hours of analysis, discussion and debate have led to development of this vitally important environmental legislation.

The chairman of our Public Works Committee, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HOWARD] and the gentlemen from Kentucky, the full committee's ranking Republican member [Mr. SNYDER], are to be complimented on the encouragement and leadership they have shown during this conference. Special recognition is due the chairman of our Subcommittee on Water Resources, who presided over the conference, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ROE]. Chairman ROE has worked tirelessly for the past two Congresses holding hearings, researching the issues, and perfecting the bill's language. He has devoted entire weekends and worked around the clock on more than one occasion in order to bring this conference report to us today. The legislation is a true credit to him and to his counterpart conference chairman in the other body, Senator JOHN CHAFEE.

I also want to congratulate the Senate conferees, particularly Senators CHAFEE, STAFFORD, BENTSEN, MITCHELL, and MOYNIHAN. They deserve our thanks, not only for their incredibly hard work and dedication, but also their patience and willingness to find balanced and acceptable solutions to the water quality problems which we worked with them to resolve.

Mr. Speaker, a week ago very few in this Chamber, or in Washington for that matter, would have been willing to predict that the House and Senate would reach agreement in the Clean Water Act conference. The issues were seen as being too complex, time was too short, and the attentions of the conferees was distracted by the myriad of issues confronting the Congress at the end of the session. Most people felt that the clean water bill would simply be lost in the rush to adjourn. Yet, here we stand with a carefully crafted, well reasoned, bill that has the unanimous support of the conferees. The fact that we have been able to achieve such a level of success is due not only to the dedication of all involved in the conference, but, more importantly, to the commitment of the Congress and the American people to the goals of the Clean Water Act.

Since the major rewrite of the current program in 1972, the Clean Water Act has been extremely effective in cleaning up our most precious natural resources—our lakes, rivers, and streams. In the early seventies, the country's attention was focused on the deplorable condition of our water resources. Fish could not survive in the rivers that ran along our cities. Lake Erie was being destroyed through sewage, industrial contamination, and trash. A waterway in Texas, polluted with chemical and industrial waste, actually caught fire.

The American people knew something had to be done and done soon. If we failed to act, our children would not be able to enjoy the pleasure of boating on our bays and estuaries, the solitude and serenity of fishing on a secluded trout stream, or the pure fun of swimming in an old fashioned swimming hole.

In response, the Congress undertook a major effort to reclaim our water resources. By an overwhelming margin, the Congress passed the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972. The goal of the Act was to reduce and ultimately eliminate, if at all reasonably achievable, all discharges of pollutants from municipal sewage systems, industrial plants, and other sources. To achieve that end, the 1972 act called for a major national commitment to clean water on two fronts. First, the Congress authorized a regulatory program to ensure that discharges into navigable waters employ sophisticated technologies to remove harmful pollutants. Second, the Federal Government promised to assist State and local governments with a greatly expanded grant program to allow construction of primary and secondary treatment of sewage.

While we have not been able to achieve our ultimate goal, we have made considerable progress. We have halted the rapid deterioration of water quality, and in some places, actually restored once fouled water to relative purity. However, in a number of areas water quality is still in decline. The Chesapeake Bay, for example, is losing ground against toxic chemicals and non-point source pollution. Our lakes continue to die from a variety of sources, most prominent of which are high acidity and phosphorus.

Despite the "mid-course corrections" by Congress in 1977 and 1981, the regulatory and grant programs of the Clean Water Act still require some fine tuning and improvement to allow us to better respond to continuing problems.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report accompanying S. 1128 represents a united effort to further refine the underlying act and fashion a stronger, more efficient, more effective approach to ensuring cleaner water for all Americans. The legislation we are recommending continues a number of existing programs of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and also establishes new important authorities which will help meet the goals of the act in a rational, feasible way.

Under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency [EPA] is required to establish water quality criteria, technology-based effluent limitation guidelines, pretreatment standards, new source performance standards and a national permit program to regulate the discharge of pollutants. A grant program for construction of publicly owned treatment works provides the "carrot" for communities to reach the levels of treatment mandated in the law. States are given the responsibility for developing water quality management programs and for setting water quality standards. The act's technology-based limitations prescribe minimum standards of performance for municipal and industrial dischargers without regard to the quality of receiving waters. Water quality standards, by contrast, identify intended uses of particular water bodies and, on the basis of water quality criteria developed by EPA, set forth the biological and chemical conditions necessary to sustain those uses.

Under the act, direct dischargers of pollutants are classified as either point or non-point sources. To deal with point sources, the Clean Water Act provides for the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System [NPDES] which incorporates and applies effluent limitations in individual permits to both municipal and direct industrial dischargers. Under these permits, dischargers are subject to both technology-based treatment requirements and, where necessary to protect a designated use, additional controls based on water quality standards.

Technology-based standards also deal, in part, with pretreatment of industrial wastes from facilities that discharge into municipal sewer systems instead of directly into a particular water body. These facilities are refered to as "indirect dischargers." To prevent insufficiently treated toxic pollutants from passing through a municipal treatment works or from interfering with the operation of the treatment works, technology-based effluent "pretreatment" limitations are applied. Delays in getting this program in place and the potential negative impact on already well-performing local pretreatment programs have been continuing problems.

Technology-based does not mean that the Agency prescribes the technology that must be used. Rather, EPA reviews the various treatment techniques presently in use or available in each industrial sector to determine what limitations are achievable using available methods. Once EPA adopts effluent guidelines for a particular industry, each company or plant can use any method it chooses to achieve the effluent limitations required under the guidelines. In practice, however, this range of choice is limited by the availability of technology and its effectiveness in removing pollutants.

The 1972 amendments to the act directed EPA to establish a minimum level of technology-based standards for publicly owned treatment works [POTWS] based on secondary treatment as defined by the Agency, and to establish best practicable technology currently available [BPT] standards for industrial categories. Both are uniform national standards and had a compliance date of July 1, 1977. Under the 1972 amendments, EPA was also directed to establish a second level of control standards for industrial categories, based on best available technology economically achievable [BAT], to be complied with by July 1, 1983.

The 1972 amendments' control strategy for toxic pollutants required EPA to develop pollutant-specific effluent standards to be applied to all industrial categories regardless of technological or economic achievability. These effluent standards for toxic pollutants were to be based on the nature of the pollutant rather than on the technologies available to treat those pollutants. The 1972 act instructed EPA to, first, identify toxic pollutants, and then to issue effluent standards for those pollutants.

These initial provisions for the development of toxic pollutant standards proved to be cumbersome and time consuming. During the 5-year period immediately following passage of the 1972 amendments, EPA only managed to produce effluent standards for six toxic pollutant standards. The Agency was sued by several citizen groups and, as a result of the suit, a consent decree, commonly referred to as the NRDC consent decree, was entered into in June 1976.

In 1977, Congress passed amendments to Public Law 92-500 in the form of the Clean Water Act Amendments of 1977. The new act codified many of the provisions of the 1976 decree. It classified types of pollutants into conventional pollutants, toxic pollutants, and nonconventional polluants. Conventional pollutants include those traditionally controlled by wastewater treatment systems, including biochemical oxygen demand [BOD], oil and grease, suspended solids, pH and fecal coliform. For industrial control of these traditional pollutants, Congress established separate technology-based control standards referred to as best conventional technology [BCT]. Toxic pollutants include the 65 pollutants and categories of pollutants identified in the NRDC consent decree and section 307(a) of the act. Further subcategories of this number have brought the total to over 120 pollutants. Nonconventional pollutants include pollutants not otherwise designated, such as phosphorus, nitrogen, and ammonia.

New compliance deadlines were also established under the 1977 amendments. BAT for toxic pollutants and BCT for conventional pollutants were required to be achieved by all industrial direct dischargers by July 1, 1984. BAT for nonconventional pollutants was to be acheived no later than July 1, 1987, with the possibility of environmental waivers under certain circumstances.

The Construction Grants Amendments of 1981 significantly modified the program for Federal funding of sewage treatment plants that had been in the act since 1972. In 1981, the annual authorized funding level for the program was reduced from $5 billion per year to $2.4 billion per year. Under the 1981 amendments, what had been 75 percent Federal funding was reduced to 55 percent in October 1984, and certain categories previously eligible for funding, such as collector sewers, became grant eligible only where a State's Governor chose to fund them under a 20-percent discretionary authority.

During this 99th Congress, the bill passed by the House, H.R. 8, built on this background, making changes where needed and reinforcing existing parts of the act in order to more efficiently achieve our real goal; maintenance of the highest practicable instream water quality throughout the Nation to support the many uses of that water by the American people.

Generally, H.R. 8 continued the $2.4 billion annual authorization for construction grants through fiscal year 1990 and authorized a new separate $9 billion Capitalization Grant Program to enable States to create revolving funds to help their communities construct needed sewage treatment plants; $3 billion of the new State revolving fund authorization was provided for fiscal years 1986 through and including 1990. The House bill also extended the complance dates for achieving the best available technology [BAT] and best conventional technology [BCT] requirements to 3½ years after effluent guidelines are promulgated by EPA. These extensions reflect the delays which have occurred in the required promulgation of the effluent guidelines.

In addition to these provisions, the House bill, H.R. 8, provided for, among other things:

A 5-year reauthorization of a number of existing programs; a new non-point source control program; expanded authority for the Governor to elect to use the existing 20-percent discretionary funding under the States' construction grant allotment for nonpoint source projects; new authority for administrative civil penalties; authorization for 10 year National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System [NPDES] permits in narrowly proscribed and appropriate circumstances; partial program delegation to the States; continued eligibility for Combined Sewer Overflows [CSO's] and collector systems; a provision exempting agricultural stormwater discharges from the definition of a point source; specific authorization to issue effluent limitation modifications based on Fundamentally Different Factors [FDF's]; required pass through of section 205(j) grants to substate planning organizations; a study of the effectiveness of the section 307 pretreatment program for industries discharging into publicly owned treatment works; provisions to study and address certain specified ground water problems; and new authority to treat qualifying Indian tribes as States under certain provisions of the Clean Water Act.

The Senate-passed version of this legislation has many similarities to the House-passed bill. It also contains a number of significant differences.

The Senate bill, S. 1128, as originally passed by the Senate, also continued funding of the Construction Grants Program through fiscal year 1990. Authorized funding for the program in fiscal years 1989 and 1990 under the Senate bill, however, dropped from the current level of $2.4 billion to $1.2 billion per year. The Senate also provided authorization for funding State revolving loan fund programs, although at a level that is $600 million less than the level provided for under the House-passed bill. The Senate also extended the compliance dates for BAT and BCT but with an outside date of July 1, 1988. Other key provisions of the Senate bill are:

A 5-year reauthorization of only those programs which have received funding in the past few years; a new nonpoint source program similar to the House bill's program; authority for a State to shift all of its construction grant funds to the new State revolving loan fund program; new authority for administrative civil penalties, similar to that authorized in the House bill; severe limits on EPA's authority to issue fundamentally different factor modifications; more narrowly drawn provisions relating to the treatment of Indian tribes; no provisions authorizing 10-year permits; no new initiatives in the area of ground water contamination; and no exemption for agricultural stormwater discharges.

The conference report we bring to the House today represents a balance of the interests of the House and Senate and, to be perfectly honest, I believe is a better product than either of its two predecessor bills. The result is legislation that ensures full protection of the environment in a way that adequately protects those who bear the cost of the required protective measures.

Under the conference substitute, the Construction Grants Program would continue at the current annual authorization level of $2.4 billion through fiscal year 1988. Thereafter, the program authorization level is reduced to $1.2 billion per year until the program is eliminated, beginning in fiscal year 1991. This adopts the funding level in the Senate bill and represents a responsible approach to a total phaseout of the Construction Grant Program.

Mr. Speaker, we cannot just walk away from communities that have not received grant funding because, quite frankly, they have polluted less. If we did nothing more than discontinue the Construction Grants Program sometime in the future, this improper result would occur. The conferees' solution to this problem was to provide the same type of transition financing mechanism contained in both House and Senate bills. That mechanism, now commonly referred to as State revolving fund capitalization grants, originated in the 98th Congress in the House-passed version of this legislation. After a year-long study by EPA, the counterparts in the Senate included authorization for State revolving fund grants in their bill, improving on some of the original House concepts. The conference report provisions are the end product of this evolutionary process, and the new State revolving fund authorities we bring to you today will hopefully put the States in a position a few years hence to adequately fill the financial assistance void that would otherwise be created by phasing out the Construction Grants Program.

To assist in the phaseout of the Construction Grants Program, we are calling for funding for a new revolving loan program. Revolving loan funds have been tried in a number of States, including my State of Minnesota, and found to be an extremely effective way to spend scarce resources in a way that broadens our ability to achieve the act's purposes. Under this program, the Federal Government will help provide seed money to establish State revolving funds which will be used to help local communities finance needed wastewater treatment facilities. Federal moneys made available for these funds would be subject to certain restrictions on their use, as are moneys provided through the Construction Grant Program. As these moneys are repaid into the fund, the restriction on how the funds can be used would be eliminated, thereby allowing the States greater flexibility and freedom in financing municipal wastewater treatment programs.

Mr. Speaker, one of the other central issues in the conference had less to do with the level of funding for the Construction Grant Program than it did with how the money is to be distributed to individual States—the allotment formula. The House bill continued the existing formula for distributing grant funds. The Senate bill, however, contained a new formula that was totally unacceptable to the House and that would have had States represented by a majority of the Members of the House receiving reduced shares of Construction Grant Program appropriations. My State of Minnesota stood to lose 15 percent of its annual allotment in the first 3 years and 20 percent in the last 2 years of the program under the Senate formula.

I was extremely pleased that the conferees agreed to adopt an allotment formula substantially different from that in the Senate bill, one much closer to the House formula, which is fair to all sides and more reflective of need. Funding for the overwhelming majority of States stays at or near the level of funding under the current law. Where there are changes up or down, they are generally slight. For example, my State of Minnesota will get a slightly lower allotment than under current law, but by only $350,000—a change of less than 1 percent of the State's annual allotment of almost $45 million. I view this as a major victory not only for my home State, which would have lost $9 million per year under the Senate formula, assuming an appropriation of $2.4 billion, but also as a major victory for the position of the House on this issue.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report also calls for a major new program to address the serious problems posed by nonpoint source pollution. This initiative is in recognition of the fact that pollution from nonpoint sources contributes as much as one-half of all pollution affecting our waters. Under the program, States will be called upon to establish nonpoint source programs which identify waters contaminated in whole or in part by nonpoint sources and to develop management plans to deal with such pollution.

Under these management plans, the States would develop best management practices [BMP's] which are intended to be the primary water quality improvement and water quality compliance mechanism. Water quality standards established under section 303 of the act would be used to determine where nonpoint source management programs are necessary and assess the overall effectiveness of the nonpoint source management program, including BMP's, in achieving the goals of the act. Where water quality standards are not achieved, the BMP's may need to be reviewed and updated in the State Water Quality Management Program.

The bill authorizes a total of $400 million to assist States in setting up their nonpoint programs. In addition, 1 percent of a State's allotment under the Construction Grant Program or $100,000, whichever is more, would be set aside to be used for nonpoint source pollution management. Furthermore, States with greater needs in the area of controlling this kind of pollution could use up to 20 percent of the State's construction grant funds for nonpoint source problems. This increased flexibility will allow States to better target Federal funding to where it will do the most good.

Mr. Speaker, under the provisions of the conference report, a strengthened and improved Clean Lakes Program under section 314 is reauthorized at an annual funding level of $30 million. In addition, $15 million is authorized for cleanup of acidified lakes and a $40 million special demonstration program is established for cleanup of seven specified lakes. One of the lakes named in the bill is Sauk Lake at Sauk Centre, MN. Funding under this demonstration program will allow EPA to implement measures to restore this important water body to its once pristine condition, and I am particularly pleased that the conferees were able to agree with me as to the pressing need for this new lake cleanup program.

Another provision which has been of particular interest to me has been the study of pretreatment standards applicable to industries discharging into publicly owned treatment works. I, for one, have had reservations concerning the implementation of mandatory uniform categorical pretreatment requirements under section 307(b) of the act. In my view, communities need the flexibility to develop pretreatment requirements which are tailored to the particular treatment processes employed in their communities and the character of waste discharge into their sewage treatment plants. I believe that, rather than attempting to solve a problem which has countless variations and nuances at the national level, it may be possible to do a better job—both with respect to protecting the environment as well as with respect to avoiding treatment for treatment sake—by allowing the problem to be dealt with through locally developed equivalent alternative pretreatment programs.

Accordingly, I fought for an amendment on the House floor authorizing a demonstration program pertaining to a limited number of locally developed pretreatment systems. Under my amendment, communities which achieve pretreatment at least equivalent to that required under national standards but which employ a method of pretreatment different from the standards mandated under section 307(b) would be exempt from the national standards. The amendment was not approved by the House. However, the House did approve authorizing EPA to conduct a study of this idea and the conference substitute retains this study requirement. The study will examine the adequacy of information on industrial toxic discharges into POTW's, POTW removal efficiency, alternatives to categorical pretreatment, and the adequacy of Federal, State, and local authorities to establish, implement, and enforce alternative approaches. I believe that the results of this study, due in 2 years, will demonstrate that a more flexible approach can be implemented without adverse environmental effects. If not, at least we will have the reasoned information we need to validate our current practices.

Mr. Speaker, another significant issue addressed in the conference report relates to exemptions contained in the House and Senate bills for stormwater discharges. Under current judicial and administrative interpretations of the law, businesses and municipalities that channel ordinary stormwater and discharge it into a navigable water would be required to obtain an NPDES permit for those discharges.

The House and Senate crafted differing exemptions from this requirement to allow EPA and the States to focus their attention on the most serious problems. The conference substitute adopts a new approach, incorporating and building upon the elements of both bills. With respect to municipal separate storm sewers, the bill provides that large systems—those serving populations of over 100,000—would be subject to a permit requirement, phased in over the next few years. The conference report streamlines and phases in the permit requirements in a way that ensures that the largest systems are dealt with first and at a realistic pace. The compromise reflected in the conference-adopted language represents a balanced and targeted approach to dealing with municipal stormwater discharge problems, while at the same time establishing mechanisms that will be useful for purposes of addressing less serious stormwater discharge pollution situations after the highest priority environmental problems are solved. The provision is meant to provide relief where it is appropriate, to cities without serious stormwater pollution problems, while providing EPA and the States with the time and knowledge they need to properly address this major national water quality need.

The conference report does not provide a specific permit exemption for stormwater discharges associated with industrial activity. A discharge is associated with industrial activity if it is directly related to manufacturing, processing or raw materials storage areas at an industrial plant. Discharges which do not meet this definition include those discharges associated with parking lots and administrative and employee buildings.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report also contains a number of other significant improvements in the Clean Water Act. There are initiatives for addressing toxic hot-spot problems and the increasing problem of groundwater contamination. In addition, the existing exemption for return flows from irrigated agriculture is expanded to include agricultural stormwater discharges.

One of the most significant provisions of the conference report combines concepts in both the House and Senate bills limiting the authority of the Administrator to issue fundamentally different factor modifications. The conferees agreed to place certain limitations on EPA's FDF authority in an effort to encourage dischargers to be forthcoming with necessary information when EPA is in the process of establishing applicable effluent guideline regulations. The conferees also devised the restrictions contained in the conference report on this issue in order to expedite decisionmaking with respect to FDF applications that are filed. We took these actions in an effort to narrow the FDF modification opportunity in such a way as to avoid rewarding recalcitrant or otherwise uncooperative FDF applicants.

A few additional points of clarification are necessary on this matter. First, the fear of recalcitrant or uncooperative FDF applicants was more a theoretical than an actual one. No specific example was presented that I can recall of an FDF modification application being used for the sole purpose of avoiding or postponing compliance with properly established effluent guidelines. Second, the conferees recognized the extremely important role over the past 15 years of Clean Water Act regulations that the availability of receiving an FDF modification has played in various courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court's, decisions to uphold effluent guidelines being challenged for constitutional or other reasons. We expect EPA to continue to utilize FDF modifications, where appropriate, to protect the rights of unique or improperly considered dischargers, while not delaying promulgation of needed effluent guidelines. Third, we expect to continue to allow applicants who have not had a reasonable opportunity to submit necessary information to receive FDF modifications. This concept, added to the conference report from the House-passed bill, is meant to protect the rights of responsible applicants to be considered for FDF modifications. Examples might include a discharger who, while knowing of an applicable relevant rulemaking, had no reason to know until the final rule was issued that certain data would be relevant to the specific nature of the final regulations. It might also include a discharger who knew of a pending rulemaking but could not submit needed data showing a fundamental difference because that data could not be generated until after the final rules were promulgated.

Mr. Speaker, as with fundamentally different factor modifications, the conferees agreed to placing new limits on EPA's authority to issue section 301(g) nonconventional pollutant variances. As you know, in addition to conventional and toxic pollutants there exists a large number of pollutants about which there may not be sufficient data to determine their effect on human health and the environment. The 1977 amendments to the Clean Water Act recognized this and established a third category known as nonconventionals—section 301(g) in order to deal with those unknown pollutants. Such substances are to be treated at the BAT level of treatment. However, the provision acts as a safety valve and if, after further investigation it is determined that a lesser level of treatment will not cause the substance to interfere with the water quality the Administrator is authorized to consider such a substance for a waiver from the BAT requirements.

Under the new conference report provision relating to 301(g) variances, when the Administrator is satisified as to the availability of data and test methods regarding such a substance, he should be able to determine if such a substance is toxic, in which case he is required to add it to the 307(a) list, or he may determine that, in certain circumstances or in certain trace amounts, the substance could qualify for consideration for a waiver from the BAT level of treatment as a nonconventional pollutant. In order to grant a section 301(g) variance, however, the Administrator must always follow the new procedural rules set forth in the conference substitute.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would be remiss if I didn't take a moment to thank the dedicated and capable staff that have been instrumental in crafting this legislation. On our side of the aisle, I want to thank John Doyle, Gabe Rozsa, Ben Grumbles, and Kathy Guilfoy for all of their hard work and assistance. I also want to express my appreciation to Errol Tyler, Dave Smallen, Ken Kopocis, Randy Deitz, and Charlotte Miles, staff on the majority side of the aisle. Particular thanks should be given to Dave Mendolsohn and Bob Bergman with the Office of Legislative Counsel. And I also want to take a moment to thank the Senate staff who have helped develop this excellent bill. I want to mention, in particular, Bob Hurley, Ron Outen, Phil Cummings, Jeff Peterson, Jimmy Powell, and Steve Schimberg for their long hours and patient cooperation as we worked together to craft legislation in which we could all take pride. And last, but hardly least, I want to thank all of the people at EPA who were so responsive to our requests for information and so dedicated to helping us work out strong and fair compromises in this conference report.

One other person, Mr. Speaker, deserves special recognition on this special day. A person who, because of his untimely death earlier this year, is not physically with us today but whose presence is, and will continue to be, reflected in all of the better provisions of this conference report. I am referring to Peter Perez to whom this conference report is dedicated by the conferees, for his incredible knowledge of the Nation's Clean Water Program and his tireless commitment to its improvement. Peter was a tremendously valuable asset to those of us in Congress who have responsibility for writing our Nation's water quality laws. Whether Democrat or Republican, liberal or conservative, we felt totally able to seek information and analytical work from Peter. We did this knowing that regardless of what Peter may personally have felt about the specifics of any given issue, he would respond in a way that was as reliable, accurate, thorough, and objective as he was personally capable of responding. The level of trust was such that Peter was often asked to leave his home phone number in case problems requiring his assistance arose after normal working hours at night or over the weekend. Very few public servants earn that kind of professional reputation in the course of their careers. Only the best do, and Peter was one of the very best. There could be no more appropriate tribute to Peter and the work he did so well and cared so much about than for us today to unanimously endorse the legislation which so unmistakably bears his mark.

Mr. Speaker, this is an excellent bill. It is one that continues the commitment made by this country to clean water. It is balanced and fair, responsible and sensitive. It allows us to phase-out the Construction Grants Program in a way that will still allow us to finish the job we began in 1972. It deserves the united and overwhelming support of this body on both sides of the aisle and it deserves the signature of the President of the United States.

Mr. ROE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I'm pleased to bring to the floor the conference report on S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986. This legislation is the culmination of years of effort, including an extensive and detailed examination of the Water Pollution Control Program and of measures to make the program more effective and responsible to budgetary considerations.

This legislation contains many provisions which will greatly improve the Federal Water Pollution Control Program. It continues through fiscal year 1990 authorizations for a number of programs in the Water Pollution Control Act, including research activities, training of personnel, forecasting the supply of and demand for occupational categories needed in the water pollution control field, grants to State and interstate agencies to assist in administering programs for water pollution control, grants to educational institutions for programs to train personnel in the operation of water pollution control facilities, grants under section 208 for developing and operating areawide waste treatment management planning processes, grants for the Rural Clean Water Program and the Clean Lakes Program, and the general administration of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The Construction Grants Program, which provides a 55-percent Federal grant for the construction of sewage treatment facilities, is continued at its present level of $2.4 billion per year through fiscal year 1988, and at $1.2 billion per year for fiscal year 1989 and fiscal year 1990. In addition, a new loan program is authorized which provides funds to the States to establish water pollution control revolving funds. These revolving funds are to be used by the States to make low interest loans, subsidize bonds, and take other similar measures in order to assist communities in the construction of sewage treatment works. The States must contribute 20 percent of their own money to these revolving funds.

The authorized amounts for grants for these revolving funds are $1.2 billion per year for fiscal years 1989 and 1990, $2.4 billion for fiscal year 1991, $1.8 billion for fiscal year 1992, $1.2 billion for fiscal year 1993, and $600 million for fiscal year 1994.

The authorizations for construction grants and revolving fund grants are designed to enable the States to capitalize revolving funds during fiscal years 1989 and 1990 when construction grants are still being made. In 1991, the grants for revolving funds are increased to the prior years' total construction and loan grants level, then gradually decreased over a 3-year period. This is intended to provide a transition period during the funding of sewage treatment plants will move from a Federal Grant Program to a State Revolving Loan Fund Program.

The Environmental Protection Agency estimated, in its 1984 needs survey, that the Federal share, under existing law, for eligible treatment plants through the year 2000 is approximately $35.8 billion. This is twice the amount authorized by S. 1128 for construction grants and revolving fund grants. We are optimistic that the combined Construction Grant and Revolving Fund Grant Programs will enable communities to meet the requirements of the act. This is because the revolving funds will provide a continuing supply of funds for assistance. The committee will, however, monitor very carefully the success of this approach, so that it can determine whether the Nation's needs for publicly owned sewage treatment plants will be met on a timely basis.

The legislation also contains a number of other provisions to improve our efforts to restore and maintain the quality of our Nation's waters.

A program to encourage and assist States in the control of nonpoint sources of water pollution is established. Approximately 50 percent of the pollution entering our Nation's waters comes from nonpoint sources. In order to achieve adequate water quality it is absolutely essential that we begin to address the very serious problem of nonpoint sources of pollution.

A national policy is established that programs for the control of nonpoint sources of pollution be developed and implemented in an expeditious manner so as to enable the goals of the act to be met through the control of both point and nonpoint sources of pollution.

Federal grants of up to 60 percent are authorized over a period of 4 years in a total amount of $400 million. States are required to identify waters which cannot reasonably be expected to attain water quality standards without additional controls of nonpoint source pollution, and to identify management practices for categories, and subcategories of nonpoint sources and particular nonpoint sources which add significant pollution to waters. The States also are required to submit management programs to EPA for approval. Implementation grants are available to States with approved programs. Interstate management conferences are provided for where pollutants in one State are preventing water quality standards from being attained in another State.

The clean lakes provision of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, which establishes a Grant Assistance Program to improve the water quality of lakes, is extended. In addition, new provisions are added to increase the effectiveness of the program. Included is a demonstration program to develop technologies for the control of pollutants to enhance lake water quality, to control nonpoint sources of lake pollution, to demonstrate environmentally preferred technologies for removal and disposal of contaminated lake sediments, to mitigate the adverse effects of acidification of lakes, and construction and evaluation of techniques to prevent the deposit of sediment in lakes.

There is a provision for the development and implementation of individual control strategies to achieve compliance with applicable water quality standards where it is determined that such compliance will not result from the application of best available technology and best conventional technology.

Penalties for violation of the act are increased, and a provision authorizing the assessment of administrative penalties is included. These are designed to substantially increase EPA's enforcement capabilities to ensure compliance with the act.

Another important provision concerns management and control of municipal and industrial storm water discharges. Section 405 of the conference agreement establishes a mechanism to address the major problems associated with discharges from storm sewers through a permitting procedure and the development and implementation of management practices, control technologies, and design and engineering methods.

For industrial and large municipal discharges—storm sewer systems serving a population of 250,000 or more—not later than 2 years after the date of enactment the Administrator must establish regulations setting forth permit application requirements. Applications for permits must be filed within 3 years after the date of enactment and the Administrator or the State, as the case may be, must issue or deny such permits within 4 years of the date of enactment. These permits must provide for compliance as expeditiously as practicable but in no event later than 3 years after the date of issuance of the permit. For discharges from storm sewers serving a population of 100,000 or more, the Administrator must establish permit application requirements within 4 years of the date of enactment. Applications for permits must be filed no later than 5 years after date of enactment, and the Administrator or the State, as the case may be, must issue or deny the permits within 6 years after the date of enactment. The permits must provide for compliance as expeditiously as practicable but in no event later than 3 years after the date the permit is issued.

Permits for other discharges are not required prior to October 1, 1992, except for those which the Administrator or the State determines contribute to a violation of a water quality standard or are a significant contributor of pollutants to waters of the United States.

Permits for discharges from municipal storm sewers may be issued on a system or jurisdictionwide basis and must include the requirement to effectively prohibit non-storm-water discharges into storm sewers. In addition, they must require controls to reduce the discharge of pollutants to the maximum extent practicable, including management practices, control technologies and systems, design and engineering methods, and such other provisions as the Administrator or the State determines appropriate for the control of pollutants.

Section 405 also directs the Administrator, in consultation with the States, to conduct a study to identify storm water discharges for which permits are not required prior to October 1992 to determine the nature and extent of pollutants in the discharges, and to establish procedures and methods to the extent necessary to mitigate impacts on water quality. This study, identifying discharges and determining the nature and extent of pollutants, is to be submitted to Congress by October 1, 1988, and the study and report establishing procedures to control discharges must be submitted to Congress by October 1, 1989.

Finally, not later than October 1, 1992, the Administrator, in consultation with States and local officials, is to issue regulations which designate additional storm water discharges based on the study to be regulated to protect water quality and is to establish a comprehensive program to regulate these additional discharges.

The control of storm water discharges to protect the quality of the Nation's waters is a vast undertaking which, under existing law, would require an estimated 1 million permits. The provision in the conference agreement establishes an orderly procedure which will enable the major contributors of pollutants to be addressed first, and all discharges to be ultimately addressed in a manner which will not completely overwhelm EPA's capabilities.

Section 301(g) of the act allows EPA to grant modifications to effluent limitations for nonconventional pollutants if certain conditions are met. The bill limits the availability of such modifications to five pollutants: Ammonia, chlorine, color, iron, and total phenols. These are substances for which EPA has sufficient data to properly assess a request for a modification of applicable effluent limitation. The provision in the bill provides for additions to the list of these five pollutants, but only if EPA first determines that a pollutant proposed to be added does not meet the criteria for listing as a toxic, and then determines that adequate test methods or sufficient data are available to make the determination required for the granting of a modification. In addition, strict deadlines are placed on the filing of petitions to add a pollutant to the section 301(g) list, applications for a modification, and EPA's approval or denial of these requests.

A strong "antibacksliding" provision is included, which strictly limits the situations in which effluent limitations in BPJ [best professional judgment] permits and water quality based permits may be made less stringent. As a general rule, effluent limitations established in a BPJ permit may not be modified to reflect less stringent requirements in subsequently issued effluent limitations. Exceptions are provided to this general rule, which permits less stringent effluent limitations if material and substantial alterations or additions to the permitted facilities occurred after permit issuance, information is available which was not available at the time of permit issuance, technical mistakes or mistaken interpretation of law were made, there are events over which the permittee has no control, or a permit modification has been granted. The exception for new information or technical mistakes or mistaken interpretations of law do not apply to any revised waste load allocations except where the cumulative effect of these revised allocations results in a decrease in the amount of pollutants discharged and the revised allocations are not the result of a discharger eliminating or substantially reducing its discharge of pollutants in order to comply with the requirements of the act or for reasons unrelated to water quality.

For waters where the water quality standard has not been attained, any effluent limitation based on a total maximun daily load may be revised only if the cumulative effect of all of the revised effluent limitations will assure the attainment of the water quality standard. Where the quality of these waters exceeds or equals levels necessary to protect the designated use, any effluent based on a total maximum daily load or water quality or other standard may be revised only if the revision is subject to and consistent with the antibacksliding policy established under section 303.

Another provision of this legislation concerns the granting of a variance from the requirements of an effluent limitation if the owner or operator of a facility demonstrates that the facility is fundamentally different with respect to the factors considered by EPA in establishing the effluent limitation. The bill narrows and strictly defines the circumstances under which a fundamentally different factors [FDF] variance may be granted. The application for a variance must be based solely on information and supporting data submitted to EPA during the rulemaking or establishment of the effluent limitation, or based on information the applicant did not have a reasonable opportunity to submit during the rulemaking. An application for a variance must be submitted within 180 days after establishment of the effluent limitation, and EPA must approve or deny the application within 180 days after the application is filed.

Another significant provision of the conference agreement is that establishing a National Estuary Program. This provision provides for management conferences to develop comprehensive management plans for estuaries where EPA determines, on its own initiative or upon nomination by a State, that the attainment or maintenance of water quality in the estuary requires the control of point and nonpoint sources of pollution to supplement existing controls of pollution in more than one State. The purposes of such a management conference are to assess trends in water quality and uses of the estuary, collect and assess data on toxics, nutrients, and natural resources in estuarine zones to identify causes of environmental problems, develop a comprehensive conservation and management plan to restore and maintain the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the estuary, develop implementation plans to be carried out by the States, and monitor the effectiveness of actions taken pursuant to the plan.

The conference agreement on S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986, represents a major step forward in our efforts to improve and preserve the quality of our Nation's waters. In the area of municipal treatment of wastes, the phasing out of the Construction Grants Program, together with the capitalization grants for State revolving loan funds will provide a foundation for the continuation of efforts at the State level to achieve compliance with the requirements of the act with respect to municipal treatment. The program for the regulation and control of storm water discharges will provide an orderly means of bringing these sources of pollution under control. Necessary flexibility will be provided in the establishment and implementation of effluent limitations to address unique situations without sacrificing improvements in water quality. This legislation is a sound and reasonable approach to the Nation's need to improve and maintain that water quality which is essential to fish and wildlife resources and the public health and well-being of that Nation. I urge my colleagues to approve this conference agreement.

Mr. STANGELAND. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. HAMMERSCHMIDT].

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986.

We have before us a compromise bill which, in reality, reflects the years of hard work on not only H.R. 8 and S. 1128, but those clean water reauthorization measures drafted in the past.

Today's agreement is due in no small measure to the tireless efforts and strong leadership provided by our Public Works and Transportation Committee Chairman JIM HOWARD; our ranking Republican of the full committee GENE SNYDER; BOB ROE, chairman of the Water Resources Subcommittee; and ARLAN STANGELAND, the subcommittee's ranking minority member. This is truly a landmark bill and one that is both environmentally strong and fiscally responsible. This bill is a strong, efficient and balanced approach to our goal of ensuring cleaner water for all Americans.

The bill provides 5-year extensions for a number of important existing programs and includes several new initiatives to address those funding needs for State and local governments as they seek to reduce or eliminate the discharge of pollutants into our Nation's waters. I would like to bring a couple of those initiatives to the attention of our colleagues.

The grant program for sewage treatment plant construction will be continued and gradually phased out. Through fiscal year 1988 that program's funding would continue at $2.4 billion annually. After that, the program would be reduced to $1.2 billion annually until the program is eliminated, starting in fiscal year 1991.

Although the construction grant program is being phased out, the bill authorizes a new grant program to help States set up revolving funds to assist local communities in financing needed wastewater treatment facilities. The funds can be used for loans, guarantees, interest subsidies, and other nongrant purposes.

Under the new program, States will be granted greater flexibility in financing needed municipal wastewater treatment programs. This new program insures that those communities heretofore too far down on a State's priority list will still be able to get help in meeting their requirements under the act.

In another important new initiative, the bill creates a major new grant assistance program to help States control nonpoint source pollution.

This is an extremely important new initiative, given current information that nonpoint sources are contributing up to 50 percent of the water pollution in some States.

For a very modest amount—$400 million over 4 years—this new program will give States an added incentive to develop and implement nonpoint source management programs to reduce the several billion dollar cost we now pay after the damage has been done.

A study by the conservation foundation several years ago indicated that the total economic costs of sediment and pollutants associated with erosion are over $3 billion per year. Some of these costs, according to the foundation, include $100 million for increased water treatment, $70 million for damages to inland commercial fisheries, and $120 million in damage to recreational opportunities.

But the costs are spread farther than this. The Corps of Engineers spends over $300 million each year to dredge harbors and shipping channels, removing sediment that might never have entered the water if nonpoint source controls had been in place. Sediment also fills in our reservoirs, robbing us of drinking water supply and flood control capacity.

Granted, with $400 million we aren't going to control all erosion. We are going to give the States the incentive to begin to manage nonpoint source pollution from all sources, including eroding streambanks and sheet runoff from fields.

Another new initiative actually builds upon an existing program in the act. Section 314 of the act authorizes assistance to States in restoring water quality in the Nation's lakes. The conference report includes a new demonstration program to expand on the existing clean lakes effort by demonstrating techniques to achieve lake water quality improvement. One of the lakes identified is Beaver Lake in Arkansas. The approaches that will be used at Beaver Lake will be able to be used elsewhere, thereby benefiting the country as a whole.

The bill will also remove current obstacles to the use of funding provided by Farmers Home Administration for Clean Water Act construction grant projects. Many rural communities would not be able to finance the substantial cost of meeting the act's requirements without use of FmHA funds.

Another important issue which the bill addresses is the problem of insuring that our ground-water resources are adequately protected. Communities around the country face problems caused by pollution of the Nation's aquifers. Accordingly, the bill before us today calls upon EPA to undertake a study of the measures needed to adequately protect water resources at seven specified aquifers, including the sparta aquifer in Arkansas. Because of the growing threat to ground water posed by point sources and nonpoint sources, it is appropriate that we dedicate our efforts to examining how we can best protect this important supply of water for millions of Americans.

Another provision of this bill with which I am particularly pleased is an increase in the rural set-aside program. Under the current law a Governor may set aside 4 percent of the State's construction grant funds to address water pollution problems in rural areas. This is an important provision which insures that our rural communities are not forgotten under the clean water program. The conference report expands the rural set-aside program by requiring that at least 4 percent and not less than 7½ percent of a State's allotment shall be made available for rural problems.

The conference report also contains a number of other important improvements in the Clean Water Act, including initiatives to address the problem of toxic hot spots and the ever-growing problem of contaminated ground water. The bill also revises some of the act's technology compliance deadlines and provides authority for administrative penalties.

Mr. Speaker, this is a strong bill that insures a continued commitment by this Congress and the Federal Government to clean water. I urge my colleagues to give this strong effort by our House and Senate conferees overwhelming support so that the legislation can be enacted at the earliest possible date.

Mr. ROE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California [Mr. MINETA].

Mr. MINETA. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this conference report on the Clean Water Act.

There are several items in this conference report that I want to briefly mention, but I must begin by expressing my enormous gratitude and admiration to the two gentlemen from New Jersey, Mr. HOWARD and Mr. ROE.

Their leadership and guidance in bringing this bill to the floor stands as a great accomplishment. Countless obstacles stood in their way, yet they kept at it. To them, the ranking minority members, Mr. SNYDER and Mr. STANGELAND, and their hardworking staffs, I say thank you.

Several aspects of this bill deserve at least a brief mention.

The formula for apportioning the sewage construction grant and loan program funds was a major item in this conference, and I am pleased to say that I think we achieved a compromise that is fair and reasonable to all States.

The question of municipal storm runoff also confronted the conference, but here again I believe the compromise was reasonable and equitable.

And, Mr. Speaker, as the author of the provision to include San Francisco Bay in the National Estuary Program. I am truly delighted to note that this important and fragile national natural resource has been designated a priority item for the estuary program.

Mr. Speaker, this is a fine bill. I will not take the time now to discuss its many other provisions. Let me again congratulate our committee's leadership, and urge my colleagues to support this bill.

□ 1800

Mr. STANGELAND. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. SNYDER], the ranking member of the full committee.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise in support of S. 1128, the Water Quality Act of 1986.

This legislation is the product of many years of effort by the House and Senate Public Works Committees. Over the years we have reviewed every aspect of the Clean Water Act's provisions, regulatory programs, and administration at Federal, State and local levels. Both the House and the Senate have passed strong reauthorization bills in the past. The conference report before you today is a worthy synthesis of not only H.R. 8 and S. 1128, but also H.R. 3282 and other previous clean water reauthorization bills. It represents a truly workable compromise that will add needed reforms to our Nation's Clean Water Program.

Let me first congratulate the many people who made such valuable contributions throughout this lengthy and arduous process. I want to thank the gentleman from New Jersey, Mr. HOWARD, who serves so ably as the chairman of the Committee on Public Works and Transportation, for his leadership and good judgment on this bill. I also want to congratulate the chairman and ranking minority member of the Water Resources Subcommittee from New Jersey, Mr. ROE, and the gentleman from Minnesota, Mr. STANGELAND, for their tireless efforts, their spirit of cooperation and especially for their comprehensive understanding of the issues. And of course, I would be remiss if I did not thank the able leadership of the Environment and Public Works Committee in the other body for its guidance and cooperation.

By working together, we have forged a truly landmark piece of legislation that deserves the support of Congress and the administration. S. 1128 makes far-reaching changes to the Clean Water Act's Regulatory Program. It also makes some "fine-tuning" adjustments to reflect years of testimony from the administrative agencies, the regulated community, and citizens groups. Perhaps most importantly, the bill addresses essential funding needs of State and local governments, but does so in a fiscally responsible manner. In short, Mr. Speaker, S. 1128 greatly increases the protection of the environment and public health, while balancing the need to recognize other important goals.

Last Congress' Clean Water Reauthorization Bill, H.R. 3282, and this year's bill, H.R. 8, passed overwhelmingly. S. 1128, as amended in conference, incorporates much of H.R. 8 and H.R. 3282. I believe the resulting compromise is the strongest, most workable clean water legislation yet. The conference report's authorization levels are significantly lower than those provided for in previous House bills. Despite these reductions, S. 1128 will not result in any significant cutbacks for communities. The conference report will continue funding of Clean Water Act programs which are not less than the current funding.

S. 1128 will also establish new initiatives in a number of areas to assist the Nation in achieving the act's goals of reducing or eliminating the discharge of pollutants into our Nation's rivers, lakes and streams. Specifically, the bill establishes a new, expanded program for control of nonpoint source pollution and a new grant program to assist States in setting up revolving funds to finance future capital improvements by municipalities. This latter initiative will provide a more flexible system of funding and will ultimately replace the Construction Grant Program. State revolving funds will be available for use by localities to help pay for improvements needed to achieve water quality objectives without the myriad of Federal procedures and requirements applicable under the Construction Grant Program.

Mr. Speaker, allow me to highlight some of the regulatory amendments and construction grant amendments of the bill.

REGULATORY AMENDMENTS

One of S. 1128's most valuable contributions is its new and comprehensive nonpoint source pollution control program. The Clean Water Act, as written in 1972 and amended in 1977 and 1981, focused on point source discharges of pollution. Over the years, however, new information has indicated that nonpoint sources contribute up to 50 percent of the water pollution in some States. Thus, the conferees establish a new national policy to develop and implement programs for controlling nonpoint sources or pollution. New section 319 of the Clean Water Act will provide for State assessment reports, management programs, optional interstate management conferences, and needed Federal funding. With this new emphasis on nonpoint sources of pollution, we should be able to wage a more comprehensive and complete assault on water pollution throughout the Nation.

A related issue involves stormwater discharge permits. The conference report retains important provisions of the House bill on agricultural discharges and expands upon municipal stormwater provisions addressed inadequately by the House- and Senate-passed bills. The conferees retained section 37 of the House bill, specifically excluding agricultural stormwater discharges from the definition of point source. In addition, the conferees have extensively revised the stormwater permit provisions for municipalities, recognizing the disasterous consequences that could result if provisions in the House- and Senate-passed bills remained unchanged. The new language will properly reduce the universe of permits required for stormwater from millions to thousands without reducing the protection of the environment. We have established a mechanism that will require permits only where necessary—rather than in every instance. Without these changes, local, State, and Federal officials would be inundated with an enormous permitting workload even though most of the discharges would not have significant environmental impacts.

In the same section of the bill, the conferees have addressed the permitting requirements for industrial stormwater runoff. It is important, however, to clarify that a discharge is "associated with industrial activity" if it is directly related to manufacturing, processing or raw materials storage areas at an industrial plant. Discharge which do not meet this definition include those discharges associated with parking lots and administrative and employee buildings.

The conference report also contains an important provision clarifying the regulatory treatment of stormwater runoff from oil, gas, and mining operations. Section 402 of the Clean Water Act is amended to prohibit the administrator from requiring permits for stormwater runoff from mining operations or oil and gas exploration, production, processing, or treatment opertions or transmission facilities except when the runoff is contaminated by contact with the overburden, raw material, or various waste products. With this limitation on the permitting requirements for such stormwater runoff, important oil, gas, and mining operations will be able to continue without unnecessary paperwork restrictions, while protection of the environment remains at a premium.

S. 1128 also addresses criminal, civil, and administrative penalties for violations under the act. EPA may pursue a violation of the specified statutory provisions by assessing a class I penalty, assessing a class II penalty, or filing an action in court and requesting that the court assess a penalty under section 309(d). In class I actions, EPA may assess a penalty of no more than $10,000 per violation, up to a maximum penalty of $25,000. An informal hearing must be provided upon request of the discharger. In class II actions, EPA may assess a penalty of no more than $10,000 per day for each day during which the violation continues, up to a maximum penalty of $125,000. The discharger has the right to a formal, Administrative Procedure Act hearing.

Under these penalty provisions, multiple violations which stem from a single cause should be considered as one violation for penalty assessment purposes.

The conference report includes important provisions on clean lakes, research and management of pollution in the Great Lakes, and estuary management conferences. In amending the act's section 314 clean lakes authority, S. 1128 provides for increased environmental protection with the addition of a new demonstration program. I am particularly pleased to see that, through ARLAN STANGELAND'S able leadership, Sauk Lake in Minnesota is included as one of the projects in this important $40 million demonstration program. The bill also authorizes EPA to conduct demonstration projects related to restoring the biological integrity of acidified lakes and watersheds through liming. In addition, S. 1128 establishes a Great Lakes program office in EPA and a Great Lakes research office in NOAA to develop and implement environmental programs with special emphasis on the control of toxic pollutants. The bill also authorizes EPA to convene estuary management conferences to solve water pollution problems in estuaries throughout the country.

S. 1128 makes numerous changes to improve dramatically the removal and control of toxic pollutants. Toxics present one of the greatest dangers to this Nation's health and welfare. The conference report addresses this increasing concern in numerous areas. For example, EPA is directed to identify toxic pollutants which may be present in sewage sludge and to promulgate regulations and impose conditions in section 402 permits to protect public health and the environment. S. 1128 also contains important provisions relating to water pollution control levels to be achieved after the act's technology-based BPT/BCT/BAT standards have been met. States must submit to EPA lists of navigable waters for which applicable water quality standards are not expected to be achieved after implementation of the best available technology and after pretreatment requirements and new source performance standards are met. States must also propose individual control strategies to reduce the discharge of toxic pollutants. In addition, EPA must develop methods for establishing and measuring water quality criteria for toxic pollutants.

The conference report allows case-by-case modifications of BAT limits for preexisting discharge from coal remining areas. This is consistent with the concern of the administration and the needs of the coal mining industries. In addition, the amendment ensures careful analysis of environmental concerns by requiring an applicant to demonstrate that the coal remining operation would result in the potential for improved water quality. The conferees specifically agreed to retain the phase "potential for" so that applicants would not face the unreasonable burden of showing actual improvement in every instance.

Another important regulatory issue involves EPA's variance for fundamentally different factors [FDF's]. Under current law, a discharger can apply for and receive modifications from otherwise applicable effluent guidelines upon demonstrating that his plant is fundamentally different from the plants upon which EPA based its effluent guidelines. The Supreme Court recently ratified the FDF variance process in Chemical Manufacturers Association versus National Resources Defense Council, Inc., — U.S. — (1985). Today, Congress gives its full support for this administrative created FDF mechanism and provides further direction to EPA.

While it limits the availability of the FDF modification in some instances, the conference report also recognizes the tremendous importance of the variance process to the Clean Water Act's Regulatory Program. For years, Federal courts have articulated many reasons for retaining FDF variances. By establishing variance from nationally applicable effluent limitations guidelines and standards, the FDF modification provides necessary flexibility to nationwide standards and allows necessary challenges to regulations in a nonrulemaking forum. Courts around the country upheld nationally applicable effluent limits specifically because of EPA's FDF variance, which provided a needed "safety valve." See for example American Frozen Food Institute v. Train (539 F. 2d 107 (D.C. Cir., 976)) and Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. v. EPA (537 F. 2d 642 (2d Cir., 1976)).

In NRDC against EPA, the Court held that the establishment of an FDF variance was a valid exercise of EPA's rulemaking authority pursuant to section 501(A) of the act. The court stated that, in the context of the Clean Water Act, the variance was particularly appropriate:

The sheer number of point soures potentially subject to regulation and the rapidly approaching statutory deadlines required the EPA to restrict itself in the regulation promulgation process to a representative sampling of plants. It is entirely possible that the resulting regulations will prove ill-suited to some of the unsampled individual plants to which they will be applied in the permit process. Unless the variance clause is established, there is no guarantee that such a defect could be effectively remedied if it occurred. Review of the regulations pursuant to section 509 of the act is not an acceptable substitute. Since the act authorizes informal rulemaking, review of the regulations will tend to be narrowly confined. The petitioner's recommendation that the rulemaking procedure be re-opened at the permit-granting stage is unnecessarily cumbersome. (537 F. 2d at 647.)

Finally, the court warned:

[N]ot all of the thousands of plants in operation could be expected to fit into prefabricated molds or templates. By specifying a permit procedure, Congress implicitly conferred on the permit-grantor the privilege of continuing the broader regulations in light of the specific type of plant applying for the permit. Without variance flexibility, the program might well founder on the rocks of illegality. (357 F. 2d at 647.)

Recognizing the importance of an FDF variance, the conferees are refusing to limit severely its usefulness or applicability. Thus, the conferees have agreed to many of the provisions in the House bill rather than those in the Senate bill. Under new section 301(n), EPA may issue fundamentally different factors (FDF) variances from national effluent limitations guidelines or categorical pretreatment standards. The FDF application must be based on information which the applicant submitted, or did not have a reasonable opportunity to submit, during the relevant rulemaking. An applicant could satisfy the "did not have a reasonable opportunity to submit" test in the following situations:

First. The discharger knew of the rulemaking, but had no reason to know until the final rule was issued that certain data would be relevant to the specific nature of the final rules as they apply to his facility.

Second. The discharger knew of the rulemaking, but could not submit certain data showing fundmental differences because those data could not be generated until the final rules were issued and tests could be run to assess the expected performance of the facility in complying with the final numerical limits.

Third. The discharger did not know of the rulemaking, due to lack of actual or constructive notice.

I do have some concerns about other regulatory provisions in title I. In certain respects, S. 1128 fails to impose realistic deadlines and requirements or to provide the necessary amount of discretion and flexibility to EPA. As legislators, we must always strive to write laws that are workable and achievable. I am afraid that we have not done this consistently throughout S. 1128.

My greatest concern is over the bill's compliance dates. The Senate-passed bill extended compliance deadlines for priority, conventional, and nonconventional pollutants to "as expeditiously as practicable" but not more than 3 years after the promulgation of effluent guidelines, with an outside date of July 1, 1988. The conference report adopted the Senate provisions, but modified the outside compliance date to March 31, 1989.

This is not a satisfactory—or sensible—resolution. Subsequent information and comments from EPA indicate that the deadline is unrealistic. It does not allow enough time to achieve compliance. Industrial direct dischargers find themselves in an uncompromising situation, since EPA has not yet promulgated final effluent guidelines for various pollutants. Industrial facilities still waiting for guidance from EPA will have very little time to install necessary water treatment facilities. By retaining the March 31, 1989, deadline, I am afraid we are legislating fiction and defying common sense.

I am concerned that the bill's legally enforceable requirements, coupled with the act's citizen suit provisions may ultimately harm the program. The cumulative load of deadlines throughout the bill may set up EPA, States, municipalities, and industries for failure which will, in turn, breed endless litigation and disrespect for the law. We must avoid imposing unrealistic requirements that result in courts—rather than expert agencies—running the Clean Water Act Program. I hope, Mr. Speaker, this new bill will not establish an unhealthy spiral of missed deadlines, lawsuits, congressional distrust, more deadlines, more missed deadlines, more lawsuits to infinity. If it does, then Congress should expect to revisit the whole issue again soon.

The conferees agreed on a new compliance date for achievement of effluent limitations guidelines: As expeditiously as practicable, but no later than 3 years after promulgation of the guidelines, but in no event later than March 31, 1989. During the discussion of this issue in the conference, it was noted that this deadline could pose a significant problem for some plants in the organic chemicals, plastics and synthetic fibers [OCPSF] industry. Our hearings clearly demonstrate that at least 3 years from promulgation is needed for most plants to comply. The guidelines for the OCPSF industry are currently required, by court order, to be issued by December 1986. If the guidelines are issued in December, OCPSF plants would have only 2 years and 3 months to obtain permits and design, construct, install, and operate the equipment necessary to meet the applicable limitations. It therefore appears that some OCPSF plants may fail to comply with their guidelines by the time required, not through any fault of their own, but simply because their guidelines were not issued early enough. Congress and EPA are both aware of their problem. Delay in promulgation of guidelines may make it impossible for some plants and industries to comply with the March 31, 1989, deadline. We agreed to address this problem in the conference report.

EPA told us that if presented with a compliance problem due to delay in guidelines promulgation, they would issue an administrative order to establish a reasonable compliance date for the discharger beyond March 31, 1989. The order would not assess a penalty for the discharger's failure to meet the statutory compliance date. EPA stated that it currently issues such orders to dischargers who are unable, because of delays in guidelines promulgation or permit issuance, to meet the July 1, 1984, deadline in existing law. EPA's statement that it would continue to issue these orders was the major reason for our not seeking to reopen and extend the March 31, 1989, outside compliance date. Issuance of such orders by EPA provides a useful method for remedying inequities suffered by specific plants as a result of the delay in guidelines promulgation. When a plant is issued this type of order, the plant should not thereafter be subject to suit—by EPA, a State, or a citizen—on the basis of its failure to adhere to the statutory compliance date. It is our intent that noncompliance which is not the fault of the plant should not be penalized in any way, whether administratively, legally, or in the eyes of the public.

On another issue, the antibacksliding provision included in the conference report, while designed to ensure that reasonable further progress is made in meeting the goals of the act, is not designed to prohibit industrial growth, nor to penalize those who have production-based permits.

Technology-based limits are often based on the level of production at a facility—pounds per ton. Permittees will continue to be able to increase their production or add to or change their manufacturing processes. They would, of course, still be required to maintain the effluent limitation guidelines—pounds per ton—issued by EPA for the appropriate industrial categories or subcategories as well as meet all applicable water quality standards.

CONSTRUCTION GRANT AMENDMENTS

The funding levels in S. 1128 are both environmentally responsive and fiscally responsible. There is no unwarranted drain on the Federal Treasury in this bill. The level of $18 billion over 9 years for the current Sewer Grant Program and the new State revolving loan fund represents a reasonable compromise and a worthy investment. The wastewater treatment needs of this Nation are steadily increasing. The creative financing in S. 1128 will address these needs, but at the same time initiate the final phase of the transition to State and local self-sufficiency as soon as reasonably possible. Mr. Speaker, this bill signals a movement from the current level of Federal financial involvement to a program focused on increased State and local self-sufficiency; it does not, however, abandon the crucial Federal-State-local partnership that has developed over the years.

One of S. 1128's most innovative proposals is its Revolving Fund Program through which a State will be able to provide financing assistance to its political subdivisions and, upon repayment, be able to use that money again to construct needed pollution control facilities. These funds can be used for loans, guarantees, interest subsidies, and other nongrant purposes. Under this new authority, many more communities will receive funding for construction of needed wastewater treatment facilities. Countless communities have waited in vain for Federal funding, because they were too low on State priority lists. This new Revolving Fund Program will help those communities meet their requirements under the act.

The conference report also authorizes critically needed projects for improving publicly owned treatment facilities throughout the Nation. For example, the Administrator is directed to grant $250,000 from funds allotted under the act to Taylor Mill, KY, for the repair and reconstruction of its publicly owned treatment works. This is an extremely important project, so I am particularly delighted to see it receive proper attention from Congress. S. 1128 similarly provides necessary funding for water quality improvement projects at other municipalities. In addition, the conference report increases the mandatory set-aside for rural States by establishing a floor of 4 percent—with a ceiling of 7½ percent. With all of these provisions, the entire Nation will stand to benefit.

Mr. Speaker, S. 1128 provides vital funding to States and municipalities and makes farsighted changes to the Clean Water Act's regulatory program. It coordinates governmental and private actions in pursuit of one common goal: making our waters fishable and swimmable. The conference report addresses the needs of municipalities and State governments, but at the same time recognizes the importance of increasing non-Federal self-sufficiency and decreasing Federal expenditures. In spite of today's budgetary constraints, S. 1128 represents a worthy investment in our Nation's water quality. This bill embodies an approach to environmental protection which is both sensible and environmentally sensitive. S. 1128 is one of the most important environmental laws of the 99th Congress and perhaps of this decade. I urge my colleagues and the administration to support it fully.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would be remiss if I did not take this opportunity to thank all of the staff who worked so tirelessly over the years toward passage of clean water legislation. In particular, I would like to thank—and congratulate—John Doyle, Gabe Rozsa, Ben Grumbles, Kathy Guilfoy, Errol Tyler, Ken Kopocis, Randy Deitz, and Charlotte Miles of the Water Resources Subcommittee and Dave Mendelsohn and Bob Bergman of legislative counsel. I would also like to thank the Senate staff, including Bob Hurley, Phil Cummings, Jeff Peterson, Jimmy Powell, Ron Outen, and Steve Shimberg. All of these people worked practically nonstop for months, dedicating countless nights and weekends to make this moment happen. Some individuals endured this lengthy process for over 4 years. Because of their efforts, we have a bill that everyone can be proud of.

Mr. ROE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. RAHALL].

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I join in the overwhelming support for this bill, the Clean Water Act, and urge my colleagues to accept this conference report. I begin by joining in the commendation for the distinguished chairman of the full committee, my committee chairman, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. HOWARD], the ranking minority member, the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. SNYDER], my subcommittee chairman, whose tenacity has made it possible for this legislation to come to the floor today, and the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ROE], and to the ranking minority member of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. STANGELAND], I commend for his diligent efforts on this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, after several years of intensive effort, it gives me great pleasure to rise in support of the conference report on S. 1128, legislation to reauthorize the Clean Water Act. Among the many provisons of this bill is one which seeks to provide an incentive to the coal industry to remine abandoned coal mine lands.

It is rare we are able to enact legislation such as this provision which so clearly dovetails efforts to develop our coal resources with those aimed at mitigating environmental damage. Throughout the Appalachian Region abandoned coal mine lands exist which, due to erosion and acidic discharges, pose a serious threat to water quality.

While the 1977 surface mining law created an abandoned mine reclamation program to address this situation, the funds raised from industry to implement reclamation projects will never be sufficient to address more than 10 to 20 percent of the Nation's abandoned coal mine sites. Because many of these abandoned coal lands till contain valuable coal deposits, industry has made an effort to remine them, and as such, reclaim the sites.

However, in many instances, coal remining is not economically and technically feasible because industry becomes liable for treating the preexisting water discharges under stringent national effluent guidelines. This coal remining provision will enable industry to enter abandoned coal mine sites and engage in mining under modified water quality standards established on a case-by-case basis. The end result of this effort will be the reclamation of the site and as such, an improvement in water quality over that which existed at the site prior to remining.

As the author of this coal remining provision, I would note that a rather detailed legislative history has been established to assist in its implementation. In this regard, interested parties should refer to the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of July 23, 1985, at which time I provided a full explanation of the provision during the debate on H.R. 8, the House-passed version of S. 1128, as well as to the colloquy between the chairman of the committee with jurisdiction over the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, MORRIS UDALL, and myself conducted during the last Congress, which can be found in the RECORD of June 26, 1984, when a similar version of this provision passed the House as part of H.R. 3282.

This coal remining provision is the product of lengthy negotiations between members of the environmental community and the coal industry and serves to show that agreements on matters pertaining to surface coal mining can be reached when all parties approach the issue in good faith. In this regard, I would like to extend my appreciation to Hope Babcock of the Audubon Society and Tom Galloway of Galloway & Greenberg for this work on this provison on behalf of the environmentalists, and to Al Whitehouse of Buffalo Coal Co. and Tom Altmeyer of the Mining and Reclamation Council of America who provided the coal industry's input into the formulation of this language.

The support I received for this provision from my chairman on the subcommittee on Water Resources, BOB ROE, and his tenacity in gaining its acceptance by the other body is also deeply appreciated as well as that of MO UDALL, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, who provided the insights into the relationship between this provision and the Federal surface mining law that were crucial to our negotiations. The gentleman from Pennsylvania and a member of the Committee on Public Works and Transportation, BILL CLINGER, was also very supportive of this effort.

Mr. STANGELAND. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from New Jersey [Mrs. ROUKEMA].

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker—I wish to commend my colleagues on the conference committee, and especially Chairman BOB ROE of the House Public Works Subcommittee, for their work on this important legislation and specifically on behalf of the people of Wanaque, N.J.

Especially important for my constituents is a provision of this bill which provides $2.1 million in funding for the Wanaque Valley Regional Sewerage Authority in Wanaque, NJ. This funding will help to rectify an inequitable situation arising from the construction of a water treatment facility in northern New Jersey. Residents of Wanaque have been facing astronomical increases in their sewerage fees because two of the three towns comprising the Wanaque Valley Sewerage Authority have withdrawn from agreements that would have spread the cost of this facility more equitably, This, coupled with decreases in Federal cost-sharing levels since the original planning of the project, would have increased Wanaque residents' sewerage fees by $160 to $200 per household annually—to between $500 and $1,000 per household. Without this legislation the people of Wanaque would suffer financial penalties through no fault of their own.

The provision included in today's bill, the Water Quality Renewal Act, boosts the Federal funding level for construction of the new Wanaque plant to 75 percent. In addition, new Federal funds will be made available for expansion of the facility, at a 75-percent Federal funding level. These combined actions will add $2.1 million to the total Federal funds available for the Wanaque project.

I wish to thank Chairman ROE for his efforts on behalf of my constituents. Since I first approached him on this matter many months ago, he has taken an active interest in rectifying this inequitable situation.

I urge, once again, that my colleagues support this important legislation.

Mr. STANGELAND. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLINGER], a member of the Subcommittee on Water Resources.

Mr. CLINGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference report accompanying S. 1128 and I urge all Members to vote for this legislation.

Chairman JIM HOWARD, subcommittee chairman BOB ROE, and ranking Republicans GENE SNYDER and ARLAN STANGELAND have done an outstanding job balancing the complex and sensitive issues incorporated in this bill, and representing the interests of this body with their counterparts from the other Chamber. I commend them and their staffs for the long hours of negotiation that makes it possible for us to consider the conference agreement we have before us today.

S. 1128 amends the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 and authorizes funding for a number of programs devoted to cleaning our rivers, lakes, and streams.

As Members may recall, the goal of the act is to clean our waters so they are swimmable and fishable. This bill helps take us toward that objective.

Mr. Speaker, I would just comment also on the matter referred to by the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. RAHALL]. I think this is a very important provision in this conference report. There are literally hundreds of thousands of abandoned mines around this country, 40 to 45 percent of which have coal reserves which can be extracted, but nobody is willing to extract them because of the liabilities they will assume under present law if they go in and attempt to remove that coal. They would become responsible for cleaning up the entire pollution problem. The amendment that the gentleman from West Virginia has worked so diligently on and which I was pleased to work with him on will remove that impediment. It will allow a producer to go into an abandoned mine site to re-mine that coal and not assume the crushing liability for cleaning up the whole site. It will not result in any degradation of water quality, however, and it will have to provide for the potential for improving the water quality of that site. I think it is a very, very helpful development for the coal industry and it is going to result not only in our ability to re-mine areas that presently are not being touched, but also will result I think in substantial improvement of water quality in a vast number of these abandoned sites.

It wasn't too long ago we were reading press accounts about filthy, toxic conditions prevalent in many of our major rivers and lakes. Think back for a moment when the Hudson, Monongahela, and Ohio Rivers were void of native wildlife. Lake Erie was considered practically dead. And then look at them today. All are enjoying a renaissance; fish are returning in larger numbers; certain species are beginning to reestablish spawning grounds in areas once considered chemical cesspools; and many related forms of native wildlife are beginning to flourish again.

We were able to achieve these gains through aggressive Federal funding for constructing wastewater treatment plants, and through the aggressive regulation of toxic discharges. The bill before us today seeks to improve upon these achievements by imposing more stringent standards on the amounts and types of pollutants discharged into our waters.

At the same time, this legislation recognizes the budgetary realities now facing the Federal Government. It does not attempt to increase funding for the Wastewater Treatment Construction Grants Program; rather, it phases out the grant program and instead establishes a modest revolving loan fund to be administered by the States.

Some administration officials have already gone on record in sharp disagreement with this legislation, arguing that the construction grants funding is too high. In the bill, we've authorized $18 billion through 1990. I'd like to remind Members that a needs assessment survey undertaken in 1984 by the EPA estimated a total investment of $101.7 billion was required of Federal, State and local governments, and private investment, through the year 2000 to meet current and projected demands. In light of this assessment, I don't believe you can characterize S. 1128 as a budget-buster.

You must pay a price to clean up discharges, and I believe the bill before us meets this test responsibly.

Mr. Speaker, this bill tightens a number of regulatory guidelines; it authorizes a Federal grant program to clean up lakes; it establishes a stormwater discharge program designed to address a major source of pollution; and it stiffens fines and penalties for polluters.

We need this legislation. It is necessary as well as responsible and I urge all Members to support it.

Mr. ROE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Georgia [Mr. ROWLAND].

Mr. ROWLAND of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference agreement on clean water and also to pay tribute to the leadership of the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ROE], chairman of the Water Resources Subcommittee.

I have served on the Subcommittee on Water Resources since joining the Congress in 1983 and witnessed the delicate balance the chairman has struck with its members over the years. I was keenly aware of his leadership ability, and especially the gentleman is truly to be commended for his fight to retain much of the House language during negotiations, particularly the House allocation formula for distribution of construction grants funds.

I also want to commend the chairman of the full committee, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ROE], and the ranking minority member of the full committee, the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. SNYDER], and especially the ranking minority member of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. STANGELAND], for the hard work that they did, and also to commend the staff on both sides.
